Course overview

Introduction

Our aim with American English File Third Edition has been to make every lesson better and to make the package more student- and teacher-friendly. As well as the main A and B Student Book lessons, there is a range of material that you can use according to your students' needs, and the time and resources you have available. Don't forget:

- Colloquial English and Review and Check pages with video
- Quick Tests and File tests for every File, as well as Progress Tests, an End-of-course Test, and an Entry Test, which you can use at the beginning of the course
- photocopiable Grammar and Communicative activities for every A and B lesson, and a Vocabulary activity for every Vocabulary Bank

Online Practice and the Workbook provide review, support, and practice for students outside the class.

The Teacher's Guide suggests different ways of exploiting the Student Book depending on the level of your class. We very much hope you enjoy using American English File Third Edition.

What do Advanced students need?

When students reach an advanced level of English, they are, by definition, successful learners and they typically feel positive about the language and their classes. However, it can be hard to make them feel they are actually making progress and improving.

It is important to challenge students with material that they feel is relevant to their needs and for which they can see a purpose. They want to see and hear material from the real world, which respects their intelligence, but also need support to help them use what they know to overcome new challenges and to set realistic and positive expectations of what they can achieve.

Grammar

- a wide range of structures to express different concepts
- fluency using more sophisticated grammar structures
- awareness of the register of different structures

At this level, students will have already studied most of the common grammatical structures. However, students will still need to work with more complex areas such as past modals and they will also meet several new structures, such as inversion and ellipsis. Grammar is often presented functionally, e.g., the structures to use for distancing, or for adding emphasis, which allows students to revise and extend certain structures without feeling that they are retracing their steps. Students can look again at the grammar presented in the lesson on Online Practice. The Workbook provides a variety of practice exercises and the opportunity for students to use the new grammar to express their own ideas.

Vocabulary

- systematic expansion of their vocabulary
- a focus on idioms, synonyms, phrasal verbs, and collocation
- a focus on register and appropriacy

At this level, expanding students' vocabulary is the most visible and motivating measure of their progress. Every lesson in American English File 5 has a clear lexical aim. Many lessons are linked to the Vocabulary Banks which help present and practice high-frequency, topic-based vocabulary in class and provide a clear reference bank designed to aid memorization. All reading activities and many listening exercises include Lexis in Context, a section that focuses on useful words and expressions that come up in the text or listening script.

Pronunciation

- "fine-tuning" of pronunciation of difficult sounds
 - the ability to use rhythm and intonation
 - continue to develop their instinct for rules and patterns
- Every lesson has a pronunciation focus, which often prepares students for a speaking activity, or by analyzing features of authentic speech helps them both to understand and pronounce better. The pronunciation focus is linked to the Sound Bank, the American English File system of learning the phonetic symbols through "sound pictures" which illustrate an example word for each sound. Online Practice contains the Sound Bank videos which show students the mouth positions to make English vowels and consonants.

Speaking

- to learn to adapt their spoken English to a variety of situations and registers.
- practice in recognizing and using discourse markers in speech
- to improve accuracy as well as further developing their fluency

We believe that a good topic or text is very important in motivating students to speak in class. Every lesson has a speaking activity which enables students to contribute their own knowledge, opinions, or experience.

Listening

- motivating, integrated listening material
- achievable tasks but with an increasing level of challenge
- exposure to longer listenings and a wide variety of accents
- exposure to authentic and colloquial spoken language

For many students, listening is still the hardest skill. American English File 5 has motivating listening texts and tasks, which are challenging but hopefully always achievable and which expose students to a wide variety of accents, both native and non-native. Most of the listenings in American English File 5 are unscripted, and there is often a focus on features of natural speech such as hesitation, or saying the same thing in different ways. The Colloquial English lessons give students further practice in listening to unscripted authentic speech. For students who have time to do further practice, there are extra listening activities available in Online Skills.

Reading

- engaging topics and stimulating material
- exposure to a wide variety of authentic text types
- challenging tasks which help them read more skillfully

Many students need to read in English for their work or academic studies, or may want to read about their personal interests on English websites. Reading also plays an important part in helping to extend students' vocabulary and to consolidate grammar. In American English File 5 reading texts are taken from a variety of real sources (newspapers, magazines, the Internet) and have been chosen for their intrinsic interest, which we hope will stimulate students to want to read them and will help spark classroom discussion. For students who have time to do further practice, there are extra reading activities available in Online Skills. The opinions expressed in these texts do not necessarily reflect the view of the American English File authors or of Oxford University Press.

Writing

- practice in planning, organizing, writing, and checking
- an awareness of register, structure, and fixed phrases
- a focus on 'micro' writing skills

It is often difficult to motivate students to write at this level. In American English File 5 each guided writing activity flows out of a main lesson to ensure that students have plenty of ideas to start with and focuses on key areas of language, style, and organization to help break the writing process down into a series of achievable tasks. Students can use Online Practice to develop their writing skills further. The Discussion board also provides opportunities for informal written interaction.

Colloquial English

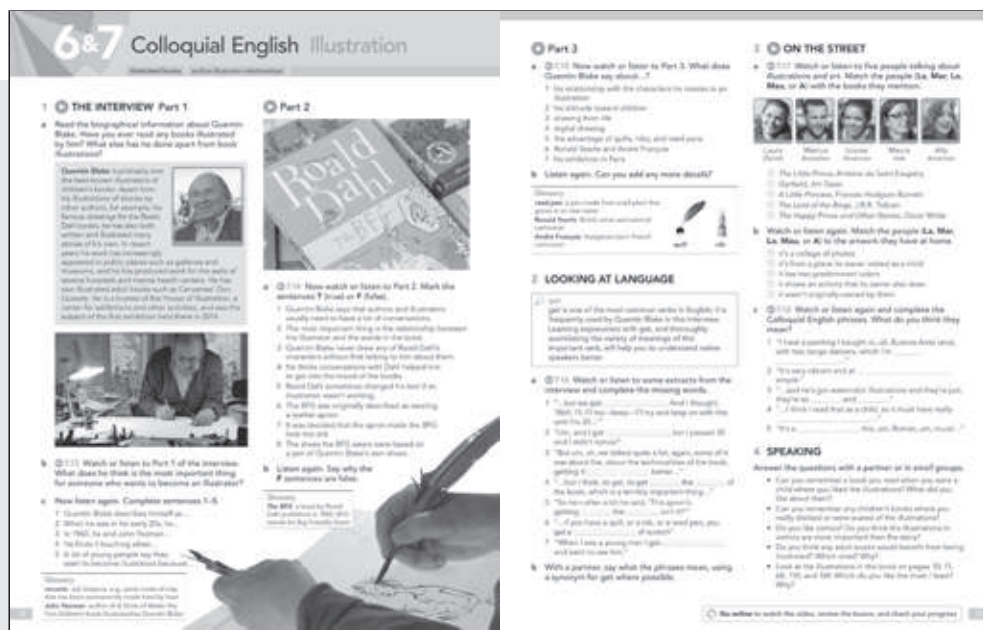

- further exposure to authentic colloquial speech
- ability to deal with different speeds and accents
- exposure to high frequency colloquial phrases and idioms

In the five Colloquial English lessons students listen to unscripted and authentic English. The lessons consist first of an interview with a person who is an expert in his / her field (one of the File topics). In the second part of the lesson students hear street interviews where people answer questions related to the lesson topic. There is also a focus on "Useful phrases" where students listen again and complete high-frequency expressions used in spoken English. On Online Practice, students can use the interactive video to record themselves and hear their own voice in the complete conversation. They can also listen and record the Social English phrases. The Workbook provides practice of all the language from the Colloquial English lessons.

Review

- regular review
- motivating reference and practice material
- to feel a sense of progress

The higher the level, the harder it is to see your progress. Advanced students need to feel that they are increasing their knowledge, improving their skills, and using English more fluently and effectively. At the end of every even File there is a Review & Check section, which reviews the grammar and vocabulary of each File. These pages are designed to be used flexibly according to the needs of your students. The photocopiable Grammar, Communicative, and Vocabulary activities also provide many opportunities for recycling. On Online Practice, for each File, there are three Check your progress activities. The first is a multiple-choice activity for students to test themselves on the Grammar and Vocabulary from the File. The second is a dictation related to the topic and the language of the File for students to practise the new language in context. Finally, there is a Challenge activity, which involves a mini-research project based on a topic from the File. The Workbook provides a cumulative review of language students have covered in the Student Book.

Course overview

For students

Student Book

The Student Book has 10 Files. Each File is organized like this:

A and B lessons

Each File contains two four-page lessons which present and practice Grammar, Vocabulary, and Pronunciation with a balance of reading and listening activities, and lots of opportunities for speaking. All lessons have clear references to the Grammar Bank, Vocabulary Bank, and where relevant, to the Sound Bank at the back of the book.

Colloquial English

Every two Files (starting from File 1) there is a two-page lesson where students develop their ability to listen to authentic English and look at elements of natural language. Integrated into every Colloquial English lesson is an interview with an expert in his / her field, a conversation, as well as on the street interview videos which give students exposure to real-life English.

Review & Check

After every even-numbered File, there is a two-page section reviewing Grammar and Vocabulary of each File and providing Reading and Video Listening challenges to show students what they can achieve.

The back of the Student Book

The lessons contain references to these sections: Communication, Writing, Listening, Grammar Bank, Vocabulary Bank, and Sound Bank.

- Look again: students can review the language from every lesson.
- Practice: students can develop their skills with extra Reading, Writing, Listening, and Speaking practice.

Lesson plan

In the first File the grammar has a strong review element, but it groups and presents key structures again in a challenging way. Each lesson has a substantial input of new vocabulary, which reflects the importance of vocabulary at this level.

This lesson has two main contexts. In the first half of the lesson the focus is family. The context is the story behind a Frida Kahlo painting of her family tree. Sts listen to an audio guide to find out about Frida Kahlo and her family. This leads to Sts talking about aspects of their own family and then discussing family-related issues in general, where they are encouraged to use more sophisticated expressions for agreeing and disagreeing. This is followed by a grammar focus on different uses of have as a main and auxiliary verb.

In the second half of the lesson Sts review previously learned words and phrases to describe personality and learn some new ones. This is followed by a pronunciation focus on using a dictionary to check pronunciation, so it would be helpful to make sure Sts have paper or online dictionaries with them. In Reading Sts focus on how to look up phrasal verbs and idioms and then they read and answer a quiz assessing personality based on the well-known Myers-Briggs test.

OPTIONAL LEAD-IN—THE QUOTE

Write the quote at the top of p.6 on the board (books closed) and the name of the person who said it, or get Sts to open their books and read it.

- Point out that Douglas Coupland (1961–) is a Canadian writer and artist. His most famous work is probably Generation X: Tales for an Accelerated Culture.
- Make sure Sts understand the meaning of pretty here.
- Ask Sts whether they identify with Coupland's opinion or disagree, and say why.

1 LISTENING

EXTRA IDEA Before beginning this exercise you may want to focus on the lesson title and elicit that a self-portrait is a work of art that shows the artist himself / herself.

- a Frida Kahlo (1907–1954) was a Mexican painter who has achieved great international popularity. She painted using vibrant colors. Many of her works are self-portraits that symbolically express her own pain and struggles. She started painting this work in 1949, and never completely finished it. She never gave it a title, but it is sometimes referred to as Family tree or My family. The painting can be seen in the Frida Kahlo House in Mexico City.

Focus on the painting and the task. Give Sts, in pairs, time to discuss the questions. Make sure Sts understand blank in question 5.

Elicit some opinions, but don't tell Sts if they are right or not.

EXTRA IDEA If you are using an interactive whiteboard, you could show Sts the painting and zoom in on the people as you focus on them.

EXTRA SUPPORT Before playing the audio in b, you could briefly review family vocabulary, making sure you include the following: niece, nephew, maternal, paternal, and great as in great-granddaughter.

- b  1.2 Tell Sts that they should imagine that they are at the Frida Kahlo House looking at the painting and listening on headphones to the audio guide, in English, giving information about the painting.

Play the audio once the whole way through for Sts to check their answers to a.

Get Sts to compare with a partner and then check answers.

EXTRA SUPPORT You could pause the audio after each person is mentioned to give Sts a little more time to assimilate the information they are hearing.

- Frida Kahlo is the third woman from the left in the bottom row.
- It is unfinished because you can see some bare canvas at the back and some of the faces are blank or have been painted over.
- The people are her father's parents, her mother's parents, her parents, her sisters, her niece and nephew. They are arranged like a family tree.
Sts' own answers
- The unborn child might represent Frida.
- Two of the blank faces represent her sister Cristina and Cristina's son Antonio. The last blank face is unclear.

Now play the audio again if necessary for Sts, in pairs, to match the people and numbers. Point out that the first one has been done for them.

Check answers.

- 2 her maternal grandparents Antonio and Isabel
- 3 her parents Matilde and Guillermo
- 4 her sister Matilde
- 5 her sister Adriana
- 6 Frida
- 7 her niece Isolda
- 8 her sister Cristina
- 9 her nephew Antonio

1.2

(script in the Student Book on p.128)

Frida Kahlo is Latin America's best-known 20th-century painter, and a key figure in Mexican art. She has also become a kind of cultural legend. She was born in Mexico in 1907, the third of four daughters, and when she was six, she caught polio, a disease which left her with one leg shorter than the other. Her second tragedy came when she was 18: she was riding in a bus when it collided with a tram. She suffered serious injuries, which affected her ability to have children. Although she recovered, she was in pain for much of her life and had three miscarriages. But it was this accident and the long periods of recuperation that changed Frida's career plans: she had wanted to study medicine, but instead she started to paint. This work is an unfinished one—you can see patches of bare canvas behind the row of women at the bottom of the picture and some of the faces have been painted over, suggesting she may have wanted to repaint them. Frida started it in 1949, five years before the end of her short life—she died in 1954 at the age of 47. She actually carried on trying to finish it on her deathbed, which suggests that it had a strong meaning for her.

As with many of her other works, the image contains at least one self-portrait: she is the third woman from the left in the bottom row, but the unborn child next to her may also be a representation of her—it is placed below her father, to whom she was very close. The painting is a kind of visual family tree: at the top are both sets of grandparents. On the left are her father's parents, whose ancestors were German–Hungarian. On the right are her maternal grandparents: her grandfather Antonio had American Indian origins, while her grandmother Isabel was the great-granddaughter of a Spanish general. Her parents Matilde and Guillermo, who were dead by the time this picture was painted, are in the middle of the picture. Their portraits are based on photographs and it is interesting that they are shown turning away from each other—their marriage was an unhappy one. They appear with their dead parents in a kind of cloud above their four daughters. From left to right the daughters are Matilde, the eldest, then Adriana, followed by Frida herself (with her niece Isolda) and then, with a blanked-out face, her sister, Cristina. Frida was very close to Cristina, but also jealous of her, especially because she had an affair with Frida's husband, the painter Diego Rivera. The next figure is Cristina's son Antonio, but it is not clear who the last, unfinished face in the very bottom right-hand corner might be.

c 1.3 Sts now listen again to the first half of the audio guide to focus on details of Frida's life. Go through the instructions and give Sts time to read Frida's biography.

Play the audio once the whole way through.

Get Sts to compare with a partner, then check answers.

See the first half of script 1.2

d 1.4 Sts now listen again to the second half of the audio guide for more details. Focus on the task and give Sts time to read the five questions.

Play the audio once the whole way through for Sts to listen and answer the questions.

Get Sts to compare with a partner and then check answers.

- 1 The unborn child is below her father, to whom she was very close.
- 2 Her father's family was from Germany and Hungary.
- 3 Her mother's family was from Spain and her grandfather had American Indian origins.
- 4 It was unhappy.
- 5 They were very close, but Frida was jealous of Cristina.

See the second half of script 1.2

EXTRA SUPPORT If there's time, get Sts to listen again with script 1.2 on p.128, focusing on any new vocabulary that Sts didn't understand.

e Focus on the task and then give Sts time to think of their answers to 1 and 2. For 3 they should draw a simple sketch or family tree.

Put Sts in pairs to discuss the questions and then take turns showing the diagram to their partner and talk about who each person is, saying a little bit about them.

If there's time, you could get a few individual Sts to draw their sketch or family tree on the board and tell the class about it.

2 SPEAKING

a Put Sts in small groups of three or four and focus on the task. Make sure they understand ancestors in the first set of questions. You could explain / elicit the difference between ancestors (= a person in your family who lived a long time ago) and descendants (= a person's children, their children's children, and all the people who live after them who are related to them). Highlight the pronunciation of close /kloʊs/ as an adjective in the second set of questions and compare with the pronunciation of close /kloʊz/ as a verb. A close family / friend suggests intimacy and trust as well as enjoyment in each other's company.

Give Sts time to choose which set of questions they want to talk about and think about their answers.

Monitor and help with any words or phrases Sts need.

Get some feedback for each question.

b Focus on the statements and make sure Sts understand them. Remind Sts of the meaning of an only child (= a child who has no brothers or sisters) and raise (= to care for a child and teach him / her how to behave). Compare with educate (= teach somebody at school, university, etc.).

Give Sts time to mark each one with either A, HA, or D depending on their opinion. They should also think of reasons and examples to support their opinion. Don't start the discussion yet—this will be stage d.

c 1.5 Focus on the Expressions for agreeing and disagreeing box. Point out the three categories, and the information on the way American people tend to disagree.

Play the audio once the whole way through for Sts to underline the words that carry extra emphasis.

Check answers.

- 1 I totally agree.
- 2 That's what I think, too.
- 3 Absolutely!
- 4 I see your point, but...
- 5 I see what you mean, but...
- 6 I agree up to a point, but...
- 7 I completely disagree.
- 8 I don't agree at all.
- 9 I don't think you're right.

See the expressions in the Student Book on p.7

Now play the audio again, pausing after each expression for Sts to repeat, copying the rhythm and intonation.

Finally, you could repeat the activity eliciting responses from individual Sts.

d Focus on the task. Sts should work in the same groups as they were in for a. You might want to set a time limit for each discussion, e.g., three minutes. Sts take turns in their groups talking about the topics in b. The student starting the discussion should give their opinion on the topic and try to give clear reasons and examples to justify their point of view. Then the rest of the group gives their opinion and discusses the statement. If you are timing the discussions, say Next! when the time limit is up, and another student starts the next discussion in their group, etc. Remind Sts before they start to try to use the expressions for agreeing, half-agreeing, and disagreeing in c during the discussions. Monitor and help with any words or phrases Sts need. Get some feedback from various groups. If there's time, you could choose one topic and do it as an open-class activity.

3 GRAMMAR have: auxiliary or main verb?

a Focus on the task and highlight that groups 1–4 all contain sentences with different uses of have. Make sure Sts understand that they need to look at all the sentences in groups 1–4 and answer the three bulleted questions for each group. Elicit / explain the meaning of register (= the level of formality or informality of a word in a piece of writing or speech).

Put Sts in pairs and give them time to discuss the questions.

Check answers.

- 1 Yes, both options are possible.
There is no difference in meaning or register between haven't got and don't have, but in "haven't got" have = auxiliary and in "don't have" have = main verb.
The use of haven't on its own without got is possible but not very common except in a few fixed expressions like I haven't time and I haven't a clue.
- 2 Yes, both options are possible.
There is a difference in meaning. I've been making emphasizes the duration of the action, and it may not be completed, i.e., there may still be food being made. I've made emphasizes that the action is completed.
In both cases 've = auxiliary verb
- 3 Yes, both options are possible. There is no difference in meaning; however, have we got to is less common in American English.
Have we got to is more informal.
Have we got to = auxiliary verb;
Do we have to = main verb
- 4 Yes, both options are possible. There is a difference in meaning:
I've had a portrait painted = an artist has done it for me
I've painted a portrait = I've painted it myself
In "I've had...painted" I've = auxiliary and had = main verb and in "I've painted" have is an auxiliary verb.

b Tell Sts to go to Grammar Bank 1A on p.142. If your Sts have not used the American English File series before, explain that all the grammar rules and exercises are in this part of the book. Also point out that Sts can listen to the example sentences on the Online Practice.

Go through each example and its corresponding rule with the class, or give Sts time to read the examples and rules on their own, and answer any queries.

Additional grammar notes

The verb have, because of its different meanings and uses, often causes problems even for advanced Sts. Here the uses and meanings are pulled together and reviewed.

- When explaining that have in its meaning of possess is a stative verb, you may want to go into the concept of stative and dynamic verbs in more detail. Stative verbs refer to states or conditions that continue over a period of time, not actions, and are not normally used in continuous tenses (e.g., we have a new car NOT we are having a new car). Dynamic verbs refer to actions and are commonly used in continuous tenses.
- Have to and must for obligation are gone into in more detail in 7A, and get as an alternative to have in have something done is studied in 3A.

Focus on the exercises and get Sts to do them individually or in pairs. If they do them individually, get them to compare answers with a partner.

Check answers after each exercise, getting Sts to read the full sentences.

 - 2 ✓
 - 3 ✗ Does your husband have to...
 - 4 ✓
 - 5 ✗ How long have you had...
 - 6 ✓
 - 7 ✗ ...had a lot of problems...
 - 8 ✗ I haven't had a vacation...
 - 9 ✓
- b
- 1 ...doesn't have / hasn't got any brothers or sisters.
 - 2 ...to have a family photograph taken every year.
 - 3 ...drivers have to buy car insurance.
 - 4 ...hasn't seen his father since 2017.
 - 5 ...doesn't have / hasn't got the right qualifications for this job.
 - 6 ...don't have to do it now. / ...haven't got to do it now.
 - 7 ...had a good time.
 - 8 ...have you been having problems
 - 9 ...to have the heater fixed.

Tell Sts to go back to the main lesson 1A.

EXTRA SUPPORT If you think Sts need more practice, you may want to give them the Grammar photocopiable activity at this point or leave it for later as consolidation or review.

c This is an oral grammar activation exercise. Demonstrate the activity by telling Sts if the first sentence is true for you and why (not).

Now put Sts in pairs and get them to go through each statement one by one and take turns saying if they are true for them or not and why.

Monitor and help.

Get some feedback by asking some Sts whether a sentence was true for them or not.

4 VOCABULARY personality

a Put Sts in pairs and focus on the task. Tell them to decide if they think the adjectives describe positive or negative qualities and to give reasons. Set a time limit.

Check answers by eliciting the meaning and pronunciation of the adjectives one by one, and whether the class think they are usually positive or negative qualities.

- affectionate /ə'fɛkʃənət/ = showing caring feelings and love for somebody. Positive.
- assertive = expressing opinions or desires strongly and with confidence, so that people take notice. Usually positive, though can sometimes imply bossy.
- bossy = always telling people what to do. Usually negative.
- curious /'kyʊəriəs/ = having a strong desire to know about things and people, interested in things. Usually positive. Compare with nosy = being too interested in other people's affairs.
- easygoing = relaxed and happy to accept things without getting angry or worried. Usually positive, though can sometimes imply lazy.

loyal = remaining faithful to somebody or to a company or cause and supporting them / it. Positive.

moody = having moods that change quickly and often. Usually negative.

outgoing = liking to meet other people, enjoying their company and being friendly towards them. Positive.

rebellious = unwilling to obey rules or accept normal standards of behavior, dress, etc. Usually negative, but can be positive, e.g., Many people think teenagers should be a bit rebellious.

reliable = that can be trusted to do something well; that you can rely on. Usually positive, though can sometimes imply boring.

sensible = able to make good judgements based on reason and experience rather than emotion; practical. Usually positive.

sensitive = aware of and able to understand other people's feelings or easily offended or hurt. The first meaning is positive, but the second is negative.

stubborn /'stʌbərən/ = determined not to change your opinion or attitude. Usually negative.

Now get Sts to tell each other if they would use any of the adjectives to describe themselves.

If there's time, get individual Sts to tell the class which adjectives, if any, they would use to describe themselves.

b Tell Sts to go to Vocabulary Bank Personality on p.162.

Focus on 1 Adjectives and get Sts to do a individually or in pairs.

1.6 Now focus on b. Play the audio for Sts to listen and check. Then use the audio to model and drill the pronunciation, especially of any words that are tricky for your Sts.

See script 1.6

1.6 Personality Adjectives

- | | |
|-------------------|--------------------|
| 1 thorough | 7 sympathetic |
| 2 resourceful | 8 conscientious |
| 3 self-sufficient | 9 gentle |
| 4 steady | 10 straightforward |
| 5 determined | 11 spontaneous |
| 6 bright | 12 sarcastic |

Now focus on the False friends box and go through it with the class. You may want to ask Sts if they know any other adjectives of personality that are false friends, e.g., sensible for Spanish and French speakers.

Focus on 2 Phrases and give Sts time to complete each phrase in a with a verb from the list in the right form.

1.7 Now focus on b. Play the audio for Sts to listen and check.

Check answers. You could get Sts to read the full sentence and explain the meaning of the phrase. You may want to model and drill the pronunciation of some of these words, e.g., surface.

See the verbs in bold in script 1.7

Phrases

- 1 My father tends to avoid conflict. He never argues with my mother—he just leaves the room.
- 2 I don't really like taking risks, especially with money.
- 3 She makes life hard for herself because she refuses to compromise. Everything has to be perfect.
- 4 She's quite stubborn. She rarely changes her mind even when she knows she's probably wrong.
- 5 I worry about my grandmother. She's so trusting that it would be easy for people to take advantage of her.
- 6 On the surface he seems self-confident, but deep down he's really insecure.

Now focus on 3 Idioms and make sure Sts know what an idiom is (= a group of words whose meaning is different from the meanings of the individual words).

Look at a and give Sts time to match idioms 1–6 to meanings A–F. Point out that the first one has been done for them.

1.8 Now focus on b. Play the audio for Sts to listen and check.

Check answers and make sure Sts are clear about the meaning of the idioms. You may want to model and drill the pronunciation of some of these idioms.

See script 1.8

Idioms

- 1 F My brother-in-law is very down to earth. He's very sensible and practical.
- 2 B My mom has a heart of gold. She's incredibly kind to everyone she meets.
- 3 A My boss is kind of a cold fish. He's unfriendly and he never shows his emotions.
- 4 C My brother's a real pain in the neck. He's so annoying—he's always taking my things.
- 5 D Dad's a soft touch. I can always persuade him to lend me his car on the weekend.
- 6 E My uncle has a very short temper. He gets angry very easily.

Now focus on the Being negative about people box and go through it with the class.

Finally, focus on Activation and give Sts time to think of their answers.

Put Sts in pairs and get them to tell their partner about the people they have thought about for each section.

If there's time, you could get some feedback from the class.

Tell Sts to go back to the main lesson 1A.

EXTRA SUPPORT If you think Sts need more practice, you may want to give them the Vocabulary photocopyable activity at this point or leave it for later as consolidation or review.

5 PRONUNCIATION using a dictionary

Pronunciation notes

- At this level Sts usually have a well-developed ability to predict the pronunciation of new words from their spelling, and it is important to encourage them to do this every time they learn a new word. However, it is also important for Sts to be able to use a dictionary to check pronunciation in the case of words that have a very irregular sound–spelling relationship. Even if Sts are using an online dictionary or app and can hear the pronunciation, the phonetics will help them to distinguish between individual sounds.
- Sts who have previously used American English File will be familiar with the “sound pictures” used throughout the course to provide them with a clear model of all the sounds of English and to familiarize them with the phonetic symbol for that sound. If your Sts have not used American English File before, this would be a good moment to introduce them to the Sound Bank on pp.174–175, which provides common sound–spelling rules. Highlight that this resource will help them to check the pronunciation of new words in the dictionary by using the phonetic transcription and will also help them to predict pronunciation from spelling. It will also help them to “fine-tune” their own pronunciation. There is also an interactive Sounds chart on the Teacher Resource Center and on the American English File Student website.

- a Focus on the task and point out how the six adjectives have been divided into syllables.
Give Sts time to underline the stressed syllable in each adjective. Don't check answers at this stage.
- b Now tell Sts to look at the pink letters in the adjectives in a and match them to the sounds.
Get Sts to compare answers to both exercises a and b with a partner.
- c 1.9 Play the audio for Sts to listen and check their answers to a and b.
Check answers by eliciting the pronunciation of the adjectives one by one and making sure Sts remember what they mean.

1 conscientious /f/	4 easygoing /z/
2 determined /ɪ/	5 steady /ɛ/
3 thorough /oʊ/	6 spontaneous /eɪ/

See the words in the Student Book on p.8

d Focus on the task and the Checking pronunciation in a dictionary box and go through it with the class.

Put Sts in pairs and get them to complete the task.

Check answers and model and drill pronunciation. You could remind Sts of the adjectives curious and outgoing, which they saw in 4a, as they are similar to nosy and sociable.

- 1 anxious = feeling worried or nervous
- 2 lively = full of life and energy
- 3 nosy = too interested in things that do not concern you, especially other people's affairs
- 4 sociable = enjoying spending time with other people
- 5 stingy = not generous, especially with money

e Do this as an open-class activity.

6 READING

a You could do this as an open-class activity or put Sts in pairs or small groups.

If Sts worked in pairs or small groups, get some feedback for each way of predicting personality types. You could also ask Sts if they know any other ways of predicting personality types.

b Focus on the task and make sure Sts understand what they have to do. You could ask Sts if they know the artist and elicit / tell Sts that it is Salvador Dalí (1904–1989)—a surrealist painter.

Give Sts exactly 30 seconds to make notes.

LEXIS IN CONTEXT

c This is the first of a regular exercise type focusing on useful lexical items that occur in reading and listening texts. Focus on the instructions.

Put Sts in pairs and get them to read the What's your personality? questionnaire. As they go through it, they should try to work out the meaning of the highlighted phrasal verbs and idioms.

Make sure Sts don't actually do the questionnaire (i.e., answer the questions) or use dictionaries.

d Focus on the Looking up phrasal verbs and idioms in a dictionary box and go through it with the class.

Phrasal verbs are always shown after the main verb, e.g., get off and get over would be under get. The rule of thumb regarding looking up idioms in the dictionary is to look under the first "full" word (e.g., verb, noun, adverb, adjective, etc.) and if it isn't there, then try under the other word(s). Phrasal verbs and idioms are not listed under prepositions and articles in a dictionary.

Highlight that if it is an idiom involving a very common verb, e.g., get, then you will need to look under the next "full" word, e.g., get into trouble would be under trouble. However, a phrasal verb like get on with somebody would be under get.

Highlight also that when Sts look up an idiom, it is a good idea to copy down, as well as the definition, a clear example if one is given.

This would be a good moment to make sure that your Sts have a good monolingual Advanced dictionary such as the Oxford Advanced Learner's Dictionary, as well as a good bilingual dictionary.

Now give Sts time to look up the highlighted phrasal verbs and idioms, and check whether they worked them out correctly in c.

Check answers.

put things off = delays things until a later time or date to the letter = paying attention to every detail get stuck = be unable to continue put together = to make or prepare something by fitting or collecting parts or information together catches your eye = attracts your attention go around = follow a route head on = in a direct way your gut feeling = your natural feelings that make you react in a particular way

a white lie = a harmless or small lie, especially one that you tell to avoid hurting somebody

Help with any other vocabulary problems that arose when Sts were reading the personality test.

e Now get Sts to do the personality test individually.

EXTRA IDEA You could get Sts to compare answers and give reasons or examples to support their choices.

f Focus on the task and the eight types (planner, spontaneous, etc.).

Now give Sts time to work out which type they are for each section of the questionnaire.

g Tell Sts to go to Communication What's your personality? on p. 106. Here they follow the instructions to identify their overall personality (Realist, Supervisor, etc.). Finally, they read the description of their personality.

Get Sts to ask their partner for his / her personality and read their description, too. Sts then tell each other how accurate they think the description is.

Get some feedback from the class. With a show of hands you could find out how many Sts think their description is accurate.

EXTRA IDEA As a final light-hearted activity, tell Sts they are going to do a psychological test. Tell them to close their books. Then tell them to write down the first three adjectives of personality that come to their minds.

Then tell them that the first adjective they have written is how they see themselves, the second is how others see them, and the third is how they really are.

V Work

P The rhythm of spoken English

The topic of this lesson is work.

In the first half of the lesson Sts read three articles taken from a weekly series in the Guardian newspaper, where ordinary people write a short paragraph showing how they really feel about their jobs. The context provides an opportunity for Sts to discuss how they would feel about doing all the different jobs mentioned. Sts then expand their vocabulary related to the world of work.

In the second half of the lesson the focus moves to what motivates people to feel happy at work and Sts look at the criteria used in the annual Sunday Times survey to look for the 100 best companies to work for. They then listen to an interview with a woman who works for Skyscanner, a global travel comparison website, whose main office is in Edinburgh, and whose employees are among the happiest according to a recent survey. Examples from the listening provide a lead-in to the grammar focus, which is on linkers expressing reason, result, purpose, and contrast. Pronunciation focuses on the rhythm of spoken English. Sts then write a job application. The lesson ends with a writing assignment to write a cover email to apply for a job.

OPTIONAL LEAD-IN—THE QUOTE

- Write the quote at the top of p.10 on the board (books closed) and the name of the person who said it, or get Sts to open their books and read it.
- Point out that Theodore Roosevelt (1858–1919) was the President of the United States from 1901 to 1909. He is often ranked among the top five US Presidents, and many people consider him to have established America's place in the modern world.
- Get Sts to discuss with a partner whether they agree with the quote or not and why.
- Open the discussion to the whole class and elicit ideas and opinions.

1 READING & SPEAKING

- a Focus on the task and put Sts in pairs or small groups to discuss the questions.

Get feedback from individual Sts.

EXTRA IDEA You could do this as an open-class activity, especially if you have a small group.

- b Focus on the three articles and point out that this is a regular feature in the Guardian newspaper (a well-known daily paper in the UK). Point out to Sts that these articles are written by members of the public and not journalists. Make sure Sts know the three jobs—a female boxing coach, a university lecturer, and an emergency operator (someone who answers emergency calls for ambulance, police, and fire services).

Focus on the three quotes and make sure Sts understand them.

Put Sts in pairs to discuss who they think said what.

Elicit some ideas, but don't tell Sts if they are right or not.

- c Focus on the task and the expression reading between the lines. Elicit / explain that in some texts there are things that are implied rather than directly stated. To understand them you need to “read between the lines,” that is, look for clues to help you to understand what is really being said.

EXTRA IDEA You may want to tell Sts that the expression “reading between the lines” probably comes from the world of spying, when secret messages were written in invisible ink between the lines of a text.

Give Sts time to read the articles to check their answers to b.

Put Sts in pairs and get them to discuss how they think the people feel about their jobs.

Check answers to b and elicit opinions about whether they like or dislike their jobs.

- 1 C (the emergency operator)
- 2 A (the female boxing coach)
- 3 B (the university lecturer)

Possible opinions

The female boxing coach on the whole seems to like her job, but recognizes she could get injured.

The university lecturer on the whole probably likes his / her job though he does also complain about students' indifference.

The emergency operator seems on the whole to like his / her job, but sometimes finds it very stressful and upsetting.

- d Focus on the task and the nine questions. Make sure Sts understand empathize in the last question (= to understand another person's feelings and experiences, especially because you have been in a similar situation). Give Sts time to read the articles again and answer the questions.
Check answers.

1 A	4 C	7 B
2 B	5 B	8 A
3 A	6 C	9 C

LEXIS IN CONTEXT

- e Focus of the task, emphasizing the importance of trying to guess the meaning of words and phrases from the context.

Get Sts, in pairs, to look at each highlighted phrasal verb and idiom in turn and try to guess its meaning. Set a time limit for this.

When the time limit is up, focus on the second part of the exercise where Sts write their guesses by matching the highlighted phrasal verbs and idioms to definitions 1–7.

Give Sts time to complete the exercise and compare in pairs before checking answers.

1 hold my own	5 missed the point
2 breaks my heart	6 life or death
3 keep up with	7 go blank
4 fair enough

You may want to point out / elicit that:

– fair enough is an informal expression.

– keep up (with somebody / something) has many meanings and the one here is “to move, make progress or increase at the same rate as something.”

Remind Sts that they saw the adjective blank in Lesson 1A (blank faces).

Finally, help with any other vocabulary problems that arose from the articles.

- f Focus on the instructions and make sure Sts understand what they have to do. Before Sts start, you might want to check they know the meaning of all the jobs.

Give Sts time to match the jobs to the extracts.

When Sts have finished, put them in pairs, get them to compare their answers and discuss with their partner what each extract implies about how the speaker feels about his / her job.

Check answers.

dentist	1: They know that they are hurting the patient, but they have to do it. They don't enjoy inflicting pain.
taxi driver	2: Sometimes they hear too many personal stories.
driving instructor	3: They prefer teaching women how to drive.
pizza delivery person	4: They don't like it when people ignore them or slow them down.
IT support worker	5: Some people ask for help before trying to work things out themselves.
beauty counter manager	6: She dislikes her job because she is lying to women.

- g Put Sts in pairs or small groups and get them to discuss the questions.

Get some feedback for each question from the class.

EXTRA SUPPORT Demonstrate the activity by answering the questions yourself first.

2 VOCABULARY work

- a Focus on the task and give Sts time to complete each sentence.

Check answers and elicit the meaning of the words.

1 challenge
2 authoritative
3 quit

- b Tell Sts to go to Vocabulary Bank Work on p.163.

Focus on 1 Adjectives describing a job and get Sts to do a individually or in pairs.

1.10 Now focus on b. Play the audio for Sts to listen and check.

Check answers and make sure Sts understand the explanations in A–F. You may want to model and drill the pronunciation of some of these words, e.g., rewarding.

Work

Adjectives describing a job

- C My boss has a deep, authoritative voice. When he speaks, we all stop what we're doing and listen to him carefully.
- A I'm a cashier at a supermarket. I really enjoy my job, but it can be a bit monotonous and repetitive. I have to do exactly the same thing every day.
- B I'm an elementary school teacher. I find working with young children very rewarding. It makes me happy because it's useful and important.
- F I work in a small graphic design company and my job's really motivating. The kind of work I do and the people I work with make me want to work harder.
- D Being a surgeon is very demanding. It's very high pressure and you have to work long hours.
- E I work at an accounting firm. My job is incredibly tedious. It's really boring and it makes me feel impatient all the time.

Highlight:

- the difference between a challenging job, which tests your abilities and energies in a positive way, and a demanding job, which has more negative connotations.
- that rewarding is a synonym of satisfying, but with an even more positive meaning. It suggests the work is hard, but worth it. Point out that the adjective comes from the noun reward (= something you are given for doing something good, working hard, etc.).
- that monotonous and repetitive are very similar in meaning, but monotonous stresses that a job is both repetitive and boring.
- that tedious and boring have the same meaning.

Focus on Activation and give Sts time to think of their answers.

Put Sts in pairs and get them to tell their partner the jobs they have thought of for each adjective.

Elicit a few jobs for each adjective.

EXTRA SUPPORT Do the Activation exercise as an open-class activity.

Focus on 2 Collocations and remind Sts that collocations are words that often go together. You could remind them of the collocation rough itinerary, which they saw in the personality quiz in the previous lesson. Explain that these two words combine to provide natural sounding speech and writing—we wouldn't say approximate itinerary.

Look at a and tell Sts that all the collocations in this section are work-related. Look at the title, The intern, and elicit / explain what it is (a student or new graduate who is getting practical experience in a job). Get Sts to do the exercise individually or in pairs.

1.11 Now focus on b. Play the audio for Sts to listen and check.

Check answers by getting Sts to read the full sentences. You may want to model and drill the pronunciation of some of these phrases.

2 qualifications	8 full
3 experience	9 challenge
4 career	10 clocking
5 management	11 positions
6 permanent	12 for 7 job

1.11

Collocations

What I'm really thinking—the intern

I've just started my third internship. At the end of it, I will have been an unpaid worker for over a year. It feels as though I'm not in control of my own life, that I'm helpless. Academic qualifications and work experience are almost irrelevant when you're competing against people who have years of experience, many of whom are taking a step down the career ladder. I'm not picky—I've spent time in a children's charity, events management, a press office—but they haven't gotten me a permanent job. It's demoralizing. And exhausting—job-hunting is a full-time occupation. I challenge anyone who disagrees with me about this. After clocking out, most people can be free for the night. For the intern, it's time to go home and look for work. I have no idea how many positions I've applied for since graduating, but it's more than a hundred.

Highlight that:

- career refers to the series of jobs that a person has in a particular area of work, usually involving more responsibility as time passes, e.g., a career in journalism. It can also refer to the period of your life that you spend working, e.g., He had a long career as a tennis player. A career ladder is a series of stages by which you can make progress in your career. Other collocations with ladder include social ladder and property ladder.
- clock out means to record the time at which you leave work, especially by putting a card into a machine.
- position is normally used when talking about having or applying for a specific job in a large organization.
- some collocations have dependent prepositions, e.g., apply for a job, etc.

Tell Sts that noticing and recording words that go together will improve the accuracy and fluency of their speaking and writing.

Focus on the instructions for c and get Sts to do it individually or in pairs.

Check answers and elicit the meaning of each collocation.

1 leave	2 job
---------	-------

Highlight the meaning of:

- maternity leave (= period of time when a woman temporarily leaves her job to have a baby—paternity leave is for a father).
- sick leave (= time that you are allowed to be away from work because you are sick for more than a couple of days).
- freelance (= earning money by selling your work or services to several different organizations rather than being employed by one particular organization).
- a temporary job (= a job you may do only for a few months) and a part-time job (= a job where you only work some hours a day, or some days a week).
- fixed-term (= a fixed-term job is one that only lasts for an agreed period of time).

Focus on 3 The same or different? and get Sts to do a individually or in pairs.

1.12 Now focus on b. Play the audio for Sts to listen and check.

Check answers and get Sts to explain the ones that are different. You may want to model and drill the pronunciation of some of these words, e.g., resign.

- 1 Colleagues and co-workers mean the same thing, but co-workers is American English.
- 2 Quit and resign mean the same thing, but quit is more informal.
- 3 Staff and workforce mean the same thing.
- 4 Be laid off and be downsized mean the same thing, but be laid off can be temporary and be downsized can't.

- 5 Be out of work and be on leave are different. Be out of work means you don't have a job or have lost the one you had and be on leave means a temporary absence because of a medical problem or if you are having a baby.
- 6 Be fired and be sacked mean the same thing but be sacked is more common in British English.
- 7 Get promoted and get a raise are different. Get promoted means get a better job in the same company. Get a raise means get an increase in salary.
- 8 Skills and qualifications are different. Skills are particular abilities, qualifications are exams you have passed or studies you have completed.
- 9 Hire somebody and employ somebody mean the same thing.
- 10 Perks and benefits mean the same thing, but perks is more informal.

The same or different?

- 1 "Colleagues" and "co-workers" mean the same thing.
- 2 "Quit" and "resign" mean the same thing.
- 3 "Staff" and "workforce" mean the same thing.
- 4 "Be laid off" and "be downsized" mean the same thing.
- 5 "Be out of work" and "be on leave" are different. "Be out of work" means be unemployed. "Be on leave" means be away from work because of illness or another reason.
- 6 "Be fired" and "be sacked" mean the same thing.
- 7 "Get promoted" and "get a raise" are different. "Get promoted" means get a better job in the same company. "Get a raise" means get an increase in salary.
- 8 "Skills" and "qualifications" are different. "Skills" are particular abilities, for example, IT skills. "Qualifications" are exams you have passed or studies you have completed.
- 9 "Hire somebody" and "employ somebody" mean the same thing.
- 10 "Perks" and "benefits" mean the same thing.

Highlight that although some words have the same meaning, their register is different:

– quit is more informal than resign.

– be sacked is more common in British English.

– perks is more informal than benefits. You might also want to point out that perks is generally used in the plural.

Tell Sts when they read a formal text they will find words and phrases that the dictionary will list as formal. When they record them, they should make a note of the neutral / informal alternative, e.g., resign (neutral), quit (informal).

Finally, focus on Activation and give Sts time to think of their answers.

Put Sts in pairs and get them to tell their partner what they can remember.

Tell Sts to go back to the main lesson 1B.

EXTRA SUPPORT If you think Sts need more practice, you may want to give them the Vocabulary photocopiable activity at this point or leave it for later as consolidation or review.

- c This is a quick review exercise on the vocabulary Sts have just studied in the Vocabulary Bank. Give Sts time to complete sentences 1–5 with the words in the list.

Check answers.

- | | | |
|-------------|---------------|----------|
| 1 clock out | 3 be laid off | 5 unpaid |
| 2 rewarding | 4 skills | |

Now get Sts to write five sentences of their own with the remaining words.

Monitor and help, making sure Sts are leaving blanks in their own sentences for their partner to guess the words.

Put Sts in pairs and get them to exchange the five fill-in-the-blank sentences they wrote with the remaining words or phrases. Monitor and help.

Get Sts to check their answers with their partner.

Get some Sts to read their new sentences to the class.

3 SPEAKING & LISTENING

- a Focus on the task and make sure Sts know what annual survey and criteria mean.

Then go through the eight headings making sure Sts understand the vocabulary, especially fair deal, personal growth, and well-being.

Set a time limit for Sts in pairs to complete the seven criteria.

- | | |
|-------------------------|--------------|
| 2 Well-being | 6 Leadership |
| 3 Giving something back | 7 My team |
| 4 Personal growth | 8 Fair deal |
| 5 My manager | |

- b Give Sts a few minutes to decide which three criteria in a are the most important when deciding where to work.

Put Sts in pairs or small groups and get them to discuss their ideas.

Then get some feedback from pairs / groups and see if there is any kind of consensus.

EXTRA IDEA If you have a class where some Sts work (or have worked) and others are studying, you could divide the class into these two groups before sub-dividing into pairs or small groups. Then you could later contrast the possibly different perspectives of the two groups.

- c Focus on the instructions and make sure Sts know what a travel comparison website is (= a website where you can find the cheapest flights, hotels, etc. from a wide variety).

Give Sts time to look at the photos and read about Skyscanner.

Ask the class whether or not they would like to work for Skyscanner, and why (not).

Help with any vocabulary problems that might have arisen in the text.

- d 1.13 Focus on the instructions.

Play the audio once the whole way through for Sts to listen for the employee's position at Skyscanner and how she feels about the company and her job.

Check answers, getting Sts to justify their answers.

She is the PR Manager for the Danish, Swedish, and Turkish markets.

How she feels about the company: 5

How she feels about her job: 5

1.13

(script in the Student Book on p.128)

I = Interviewer, PR = PR Manager

- I Well, today I'm very pleased to be visiting the Edinburgh offices of Skyscanner, a company which did extremely well in this year's Sunday Times Best Companies to Work For awards, coming sixth overall and winning outright in the categories for most exciting future and best personal growth. So today we're speaking to a PR Manager at Skyscanner. Could you start by telling us a bit about what you do?
- PR So I am the PR Manager for the Danish, Swedish, and Turkish markets, I look after the, our PR agencies there and what that really means is that I work with them to get Skyscanner messages and stories into the media, so that could be anything from a big report on trends, on the future of travel, to smaller stories about where the Turkish people are going on summer holidays.
- I And how long have you worked at Skyscanner?
- PR I have just celebrated my year anniversary.
- I Oh, well, congratulations!
- PR Lots has changed in a year, but all good changes.
- I And what was it that attracted you to apply for a job here?
- PR I had always want, wanted to work somewhere that was kind of travel-focused. My previous job was in a very dry environment, so much so that I decided I would go traveling and then the day before I flew to South America for a few months, I had an interview here and found out when I was in the Bolivian Salt Flats that I got the job, so really nice, yeah.
- I Skyscanner did very well in this year's Sunday Times survey of Best Companies to Work For. Do you agree that it's a good place to work?
- PR Yeah, absolutely it's, it's a very funny thing, actually, because it very quickly becomes the norm for someone who works here, all these amazing benefits we have, so when you talk to someone else, you know, in another company, you suddenly think, "Wow, we're so lucky," so, you know, anything from flexible working to the small things like free fruit, to people being able to work from their home country, they are all massive benefits that you quite quickly get used to, but I think everyone really does appreciate it.
- I So I guess it would be difficult to go anywhere else after this?
- PR Yes, very much, maybe that's the plan, maybe that's the ploy that they've gone with!
- I Is there one thing that you'd identify for you as a particularly significant benefit?
- PR I have to admit what I really love is the flexible working policy, it's a quite casual thing, there is no formal procedure, but it, it very much places the trust with the, the employees, so, you know, if I want to leave early on a Friday, there is kind of this, relaxed understanding, "Do you know what? You'll make up the time when you can, you're in charge, you're the one who knows your workload and your own role," which is really nice, it's quite refreshing because it's quite unusual, especially within quite a large corporate—you know, organization—and so I particularly like that.
- I Is there anything that you might change about, about the company or about its, the way it treats its employees?
- PR I think, so we're growing at quite a, kind of rapid pace and I think because we have six different offices—you know, Beijing, Miami—I think as we grow it will probably be something that we need to tackle in terms of how we all work together across different time zones, so I think at some point that will be something that becomes more of an issue, it's not at the moment, but I'm pretty confident that Skyscanner will be able to tackle that, and tackle that in good time.
- I Wonderful. OK, well, thank you very much indeed. Thanks for your time.
- PR Thank you.

- e Focus on the instructions and give Sts time to read the questions.
- Play the audio again for Sts to listen and answer the questions. You could pause the audio each time she answers one of the questions to give Sts time to write. Play again as necessary.
- Get Sts to compare with a partner and then check answers.

- 1 exactly one year
- 2 She wanted to work somewhere that focused on travel.
- 3 She went to South America.
- 4 flexible working; free fruit; being able to work from your home country
- 5 She values the flexible working policy most highly because it gives her freedom and is based on trust.
- 6 They have offices in different parts of the world and they need to work together across time zones.

EXTRA SUPPORT If there's time, get Sts to listen again with the script on p.128, focusing on any new vocabulary that they didn't understand.

LEXIS IN CONTEXT

- f 1.14 Tell Sts that they will hear five short extracts that contain phrases 1–5. Play the audio, pausing after each extract and get Sts to discuss what the highlighted words mean.
- Elicit answers.

- 1 that is related to travel
- 2 becomes usual or expected
- 3 action that is carefully planned to get an advantage over somebody else
- 4 the amount of work that has to be done by a particular person
- 5 problem / worry; deal with

- 1 I had always want, wanted to work somewhere that was kind of travel-focused...
- 2 ...it's a very funny thing, actually, because it very quickly becomes the norm for someone who works here...
- 3 I So I guess it would be difficult to go anywhere else?
L Yes, very much, maybe that's the plan, maybe that's the ploy that they've gone with!
- 4 I have to admit what I really love is, um, the flexible working policy, it's quite a casual thing, there is no formal procedure, but it, it very much places the trust with the, the employees, so, you know, if I want to leave early on a Friday, there is a kind of this, relaxed understanding, "Do you know what? You'll make up the time when you can, you're in charge, you're the one who knows your workload..."
- 5 I think, so, we're growing at quite a, kind of rapid pace and I think because we have six different offices—you know, Beijing, Miami—I think as we grow it will probably be something that we need to tackle in terms of how we all work together across different time zones, so I think at some point that will be something that becomes more of an issue, it's not at the moment, but I'm pretty confident that Skyscanner will be able to tackle that.

Help with any vocabulary problems that arose.

- g Do this as an open-class activity and try to elicit some different opinions.

4 GRAMMAR discourse markers (1): linkers

- a Focus on the extract from the listening, and elicit that so is the missing word, and is is used to introduce a result clause.
- b Focus on the task, the headings in the four columns, and the examples.

Put Sts in pairs and get them to add two more linkers to each column.

Check answers.

a result	consequently, therefore a reason	as, due to a purpose	in order to, so as to a contrast	despite, even though

EXTRA SUPPORT Before Sts do b, elicit that the most common linkers to introduce a reason, a purpose, and a contrast are because, to, and but. You could then do b as an open-class activity, eliciting the linkers from the class.

- c Tell Sts to go to Grammar Bank 1B on p.143.

Focus on the term discourse markers. Explain to Sts that discourse markers are words and expressions, often linkers, adverbs or adverbial expressions, that help you to understand:

- the connection between what a speaker is saying and what has already been said.
- the connection between what a speaker has said and what he / she is now going to say.
- what the speaker thinks about what he / she is saying.

Tell Sts that here they are focusing on discourse markers that express connections (those that give information about a speaker's attitude are focused on in 3B).

Additional grammar notes

- In this lesson Sts review discourse markers in these four areas (result, reason, purpose, and contrast), and learn some more sophisticated expressions, e.g., due to / owing to, yet, etc. There is also a strong focus on register to enable Sts to use these markers appropriately. Highlight that using a variety of discourse markers will make their English sound more advanced.

Focus on the exercises and get Sts to do them individually or in pairs. If they do them individually, get them to compare answers with a partner. Check answers after each exercise, getting Sts to read the full sentences.

When checking answers to b, ask Sts which sentences are formal.

- a
- 1 as
 - 2 so that
 - 3 in spite of
 - 4 Nevertheless (formal)
 - 5 though
- b
- 1 because of
 - 2 consequently (formal)
 - 3 Nevertheless (formal)
 - 4 to
 - 5 though
 - 6 due to (formal)

- c
- 1 ...enjoyed the play in spite of our seats being a long way from the stage. / in spite of the fact that our seats were a long way from the stage.
 - 2 ...took us a long time to get there because of the heavy traffic.
 - 3 ...took the price off the bag so that Becky wouldn't know how much it had cost.
 - 4 ...the receipt for the sweater in case your dad doesn't like it.
 - 5 ...isn't at all spoiled even though she's an only child.
 - 6 ...have risen due to increased production costs / the increase in production costs / the fact that production costs have increased.

Tell Sts to go back to the main lesson 1B.

EXTRA SUPPORT If you think Sts need more practice, you may want to give them the Grammar photocopiable activity at this point or leave it for later as consolidation or review.

5 PRONUNCIATION the rhythm of spoken English

Pronunciation notes

- Encouraging Sts to improve their control of stress, both of syllables in individual words and of words in sentences, is still important at this level. Misplaced stress in an individual word can cause a breakdown in communication and stressing the right words in a sentence will help Sts speak English with a good rhythm and make them sound more fluent.

- a  1.15 Focus on the Fine-tuning your pronunciation: the rhythm of English box and explain / elicit the meaning of fine-tuning. Now go through it with the class. Play the audio once the whole way through for Sts just to listen.

See the sentences in the Student Book on p.13

Now play the audio again, pausing after each sentence for Sts to listen and repeat. Encourage them to copy the rhythm as much as possible.

Finally, you could repeat the activity, eliciting responses from individual Sts.

- b  1.16 Focus on the instructions and make sure Sts understand what they have to do. Play the audio sentence by sentence, pausing after each one to give Sts time to write what they heard.

Get Sts to compare with a partner and play again as necessary.
Elicit the beginning of each sentence onto the board.

See script 1.16

- 1 I want to find a job closer to home so that I don't...
- 2 I didn't tell my boss how bad I thought his idea was, so as not to...
- 3 Being a doctor is very demanding, partly because of...
- 4 Even though I was offered a good salary, I...
- 5 House prices in San Francisco have gone up dramatically and as a result young people...
- 6 Staff will be given a bonus payment in December due to the...
- 7 I wasn't offered the job in spite of having...
- 8 The company has not been able to find a buyer, therefore it will...

Now put Sts in pairs and get them to decide how each sentence might end.

Elicit some ideas, but don't tell Sts if they are right or not.

- c 1.17 Tell Sts they will now hear the whole sentences and they need to write the endings. Play the audio sentence by sentence, pausing after each one to give Sts time to write.

Get Sts to compare with a partner and play again as necessary.

Elicit the ending of each sentence onto the board.
Find out if any Sts guessed exactly how the sentences would end.

See the words in bold in script 1.17

- 1 I want to find a job closer to home so that I don't have to spend so much time commuting.
- 2 I didn't tell my boss how bad I thought his idea was, so as not to lose my job.
- 3 Being a doctor is very demanding, partly because of the long hours.
- 4 Even though I was offered a good salary, I decided not to accept the job.
- 5 House prices in San Francisco have gone up dramatically and as a result young people can't afford to live there.
- 6 Staff will be given a bonus payment in December due to the rise in annual profits.
- 7 I wasn't offered the job in spite of having all the necessary qualifications.
- 8 The company has not been able to find a buyer, therefore it will be closing in two months.

Finally, put Sts in pairs and tell them to practice saying the sentences as naturally as possible.

6 WRITING a job application

This is the first of seven Writing tasks. In today's world of email communication, being able to write in English is an important skill for many Sts, and at this level many Sts are also preparing to take formal exams, which include a writing paper. We suggest that you go through the analyzing and planning stages in class, but assign the actual writing (the last stage) for homework.

In this lesson the focus is on writing a job application. The writing skills focus is on error correction, using appropriate register, and including relevant information.

Tell Sts to go to Writing A job application on p.114.

ANALYZING A MODEL TEXT

- a Focus on the text type (a job application) and tell Sts that if you apply for a job in the US, you normally send a résumé and a cover letter or email, which explains briefly what position you are applying for, who you are, and why you think you are suitable for the job. The same is true if you are applying for a grant or scholarship.

Focus on the Key success factors and go through them with the class.

Now focus on the job advertisement, and give Sts time to read it. Then ask Sts if they would be interested in applying and elicit opinions.

- b Focus on the instructions and the email. You might want to point out to Sts that the email has mistakes in it, but they shouldn't worry about it at this stage. Tell Sts to read it quickly, and elicit the contents of the three main paragraphs.

- 1 Information about qualifications and skills (her studies and level of English)
- 2 Information about her work experience
- 3 Why she thinks she would be suitable for the job

- c Focus on the Improving your first draft box and go through it with the class.

Now read 1 and then focus on Dear Miss Foster in the email, which has been crossed out and elicit that Azra doesn't know Irena Foster at Skyscanner, so she doesn't know if she is married or not. Ms. is appropriate for both married and unmarried women. (These days, most women prefer to use this title.) Then elicit why My name is Azra Osman has been crossed out and elicit that it is inappropriate, as you give your name at the end. To include it here as well is unnecessary and repetitive.

Tell Sts to find the other three irrelevant or inappropriate sentences.

Get them to compare with a partner, and then check answers and elicit whether they are irrelevant or inappropriate.

- I made many American friends during this period... (irrelevant)
He is, in fact, my uncle. (irrelevant)
I would definitely not panic when things got busy! (inappropriate, too informal)

Now focus on 2 and set a time limit for Sts to find the ten mistakes.

Get Sts to compare with a partner and then check answers.

advertised on your website a high level of spoken English in the United States for six months an exchange programme marketing assistant and administrator
The director of the company enthusiastic about travel apart from my work experience calm and conscientious
(any) further information

d Ask the question to the class and elicit opinions. (In fact, she probably would be given an interview as, despite some mistakes, the email is well organized and gives all the necessary information.)

USEFUL LANGUAGE

e Focus on the task and on the example. Elicit that although they both mean the same thing, the slightly more formal / professional sounding style in I am writing to apply... is more appropriate. Take this opportunity also to remind Sts that in this kind of letter they should not use contractions. Then get Sts to continue individually or in pairs. Check answers.

EXTRA SUPPORT If you think your Sts will have problems remembering the expressions, get them to quickly re-read the text first.

- 2 I have recently graduated from university, where I completed a degree in business studies.
- 3 I have a high level of spoken English.
- 4 I have some relevant experience.
- 5 My tasks have included dealing with clients by phone.
- 6 I would welcome the chance to be part of such a high-profile company.
- 7 I attach a full résumé.
- 8 If you require any further information, I would be happy to provide it.
- 9 I look forward to hearing from you.

Highlight that these phrases would be appropriate, with the relevant adjustments, in most letters of application (e.g., for a grant or course of study).

EXTRA IDEA Test Sts on the phrases by saying the informal phrase and getting them to say the more formal one.

PLANNING WHAT TO WRITE

- a Focus on the task. Set a time limit for Sts to read the advertisement and make notes.
- b Put Sts in pairs and get them to compare their notes. Then get feedback from individual Sts. Finally, go through the Tips with the class.

EXTRA SUPPORT If you think your Sts may have forgotten how to begin and end letters, elicit the rules from them and write them on the board.

- 1 If you know the name of the person you're writing to, begin Dear + title + surname. If not, begin Dear Sir or Dear Madam.
- 2 Finish your letter with Yours sincerely or Best wishes.
- 3 If you are writing a letter rather than an email, print your name underneath your signature.

WRITING

Go through the instructions and assign the writing for homework.

The Colloquial English lessons

This is the first of five Colloquial English lessons featuring interviews commissioned and filmed specially for American English File. The interviews are related to one of the topics in the preceding Files—for example, in the first interview Eliza Carthy talks about her family and her work, both topics covered in File 1. The interviewees (Eliza Carthy, Mary Beard, Jordan Friedman, Quentin Blake, and George McGavin) are all leading figures in their field and offer interesting perspectives on what they do, as well as giving Sts an opportunity to interact with authentic, unscripted speech. The second part of each Colloquial English lesson features short street interviews in which members of the public talk about aspects of the same topic. The lesson ends with a Speaking activity where Sts talk about their opinions and experiences.

At the end of each section of the interview, we suggest that Sts listen a final time while reading the scripts. This will let them see what they did / didn't understand, and help them to further develop their awareness of features of spoken English such as elision, false starts, discourse markers, hesitation devices, etc.

Lesson plan

In this lesson the person interviewed is Eliza Carthy, an English folk musician known for both singing and playing the violin. In this three-part interview she talks about her musical family and ancestors, her life as a musician, and the effect it has on her own children. This is followed by a language focus on discourse markers that Eliza Carthy uses. It both reviews some that Sts should already know, and previews some that they will learn in 3B.

In the ON THE STREET section people are asked about their family tree and if there's anyone in their family they'd like to know more about.

The lesson ends with a speaking activity based on the topic of the lesson, families and work. These lessons can be used with Class DVD, Teacher Resource Center, or Class Audio (audio only). Sts can find all the video content on Online Practice.

OPTIONAL LEAD-IN (BOOKS CLOSED)

- Write the following questions on the board and get Sts to discuss them in small groups.
 - 1 What styles of folk music or traditional music are there in your country?
 - 2 Are they popular? Who with?
 - 3 Where would you go to see them live?
 - 4 Do they have a future or are they dying out?
 - 5 Are they being reinvented by modern musicians?
- Get some feedback from various groups.
- Then tell Sts they are going to watch / listen to an interview with a well-known English folk musician.
- If you have internet access in your classroom or Sts have it on their phones, give them a few minutes to Google Eliza Carthy and find out a bit about her.

1 THE INTERVIEW Part 1

- a Books open. Focus on the photos and the biographical information about Eliza Carthy. Give Sts time to read it. Do the question as an open-class activity.

Sts' own answers

- b  1.18 Focus on the task and go through the Glossary with the class. Play the video or audio (Part 1) once the whole way through for Sts to do the task. Give Sts time to tell each other what they understood. Check the answer.

Eliza's overwhelming memory of her childhood is of being with her family on the farm surrounded by traveling musicians, listening to music, singing, and playing.

I = interviewer, E = Eliza Carthy

Interview with a folk musician—Part 1

- I Eliza Carthy, could you tell us a bit about your family background, your parents and grandparents?
- E Um, I come from a musical family; my parents are folk singers, my father is a guitarist who is known for playing the guitar, um, and inventing a particular style of English folk guitar. Um, he started playing when he was 17, back in the 50s, and, um, really was, was quite instrumental in his youth in sort of building the the 60s folk club scene in London. He was a friend of Bob Dylan and Paul Simon many, many years ago, and um is known for reconstructing old traditional ballads, traditional English ballads. My mother comes from a folk-singing family called The Watsons, and they were from the north of England, they're from Hull, which is in the north of England, and they were also instrumental in the beginning of the 60s folk revival, the formation of the folk clubs, and the, the beginning of, basically, the professional music scene that I work on now.

- I And were your parents both from musical families?
- E Um, really both sides of my family are musical: my mother's side of the family were all travelers and gypsies, my, uh, her grandmother, she was brought up by her grandmother, both of her parents died when she was very young. She had an uncle that played the trumpet, you know, her father played the banjo, he used to listen to American radio during the Second World War and he used to learn the songs off the radio like that. Her grandmother was very into the sort of old romantic ballads like The Spinning Wheel and things like that, and she used to, she used to sing when they were little; the whole family sang, the whole family danced. And I was brought up in that kind of a family: my mother and her, her brother and her sister were in a singing group, my dad joined that singing group, and then, when I was old enough, I joined the family as well.
- I So you had a very musical upbringing?
- E My upbringing was, I suppose some people might think it was quite a hippy upbringing. I was brought up on a farm, um, that had three houses in a row, with me and my mum and dad in the end house, my uncle—my mum's brother—and his wife and their four children in the middle house, and then my mum's sister and her husband and their two children on the other end house. And we grew up basically self-sufficient, we had animals and we had chickens and goats and pigs and horses and things like that, and we, we grew up singing together and living together in that environment in North Yorkshire in the 1970s. Because my parents were professional musicians and touring musicians, we had a lot of touring musician friends who would come and stay at the farm and they would sing and play all the time and there was music all around when I was a child, and that really formed the basis of, of how I live now.

c Focus on the questions and give Sts time, in pairs, to see if they can remember any of the information.

EXTRA SUPPORT When you play the video or audio the second time, pause after each point has been mentioned and get Sts to compare what they have understood.

- 1 He started playing the guitar in the 50s. In the 60s he helped to create the folk music scene in London. He was friends with Bob Dylan and Paul Simon.
- 2 The Watersons are a folk group from her mother's side of the family. They are from Hull. They were important in the 60s folk revival and in the development of folk clubs in the north of England.
- 3 Her mother's grandmother brought her mother up as her parents had died.
- 4 Her mother's uncle played the trumpet. Her mother's father played the banjo. He used to listen to music on the radio and learn the songs he heard.
- 5 Her grandmother used to sing The Spinning Wheel when Eliza was young.
- 6 The farm had three houses in a row—one for Eliza and her parents, one for her mother's brother and his family, and one for her mother's sister and her family. They kept a lot of animals. There was always singing and music being played at the farm.
- 7 Her parents' friends were touring musicians who often stayed on the farm.

EXTRA SUPPORT If there's time, you could play the video or audio again while Sts read the script on p.128, so they can see what they understood / didn't understand. Translate / explain any new words or phrases.

Play the video or audio (Part 2) once the whole way through for Sts to do the task.

Give Sts time to discuss the questions and what they understood.

Suggested answers

Eliza Carthy was probably quite an independent and confident child.

As a mother she focuses on her children and organizes her work around them.

(script in the Student Book on p.128)

Interview with a folk musician—Part 2

- I Do you think it was inevitable that you'd become a professional musician?
- E Well, if you were ever to ask any of us, were it—we would definitely have all said no. I wanted to be, I wanted to be a writer; my mum certainly didn't want me to go on the road. My mum retired in 1966 ...65...66 from professional touring to raise me—I mean the road is a difficult place, whether you're traveling with your family or with a band or on your own, and she certainly didn't want that for me. My dad also probably never thought that I would do it, but I ended up following, exactly following his footsteps and quitting school when I was 17 and going on the road, and I've been on the road ever since.
- I Can you tell us about your first public performance?
- E My dad says that my first public performance was at the Fylde Folk Music Festival in Fleetwood in Lancashire when I was six, and we were at the Marine Hall and they were singing, The Watersons, the family, the family group were singing, and I asked if I could, I asked if I could go up on stage with them, and I was six. And Dad said, "Well, you know, you probably don't know everything, so just stand next to me on stage and we'll start singing and if you, if you know the song, just pull on my leg and I'll lift you up to the microphone and you can, you can join in." God, I must have been awful! But yes, apparently I just...the first song they started up singing, I tugged on his leg, and he picked me up and he held me to the microphone and I sang that, and he was like, "Did you enjoy that?" "Yes, I did!" Put me down again and they started singing the next one, tugged on his leg, same thing! And he just ended up doing the whole concert with me sitting on his hip! Which er... now I have a six-year-old and I know how heavy she is and it must have been quite difficult, God bless him!
- I Has having children yourself changed your approach to your career?
- E Uh, yes, in a way. Yes, in a way it has. I've just reordered my working year because my eldest daughter has just started school, so I, you know, I'm, I'm not free to to take the children with me on the road anymore and and I'm now bound by the school terms. So I try to work only on the weekends and in school holidays now and I try to to be Mummy from Monday to Friday, taking them to school, bringing them back again. I'm not getting a great deal of sleep, but then I don't know many mothers of six- and four-year-olds that are getting a great deal of sleep!

b Focus on the task. Now give Sts time, in pairs, to see if they can remember any of the information.

Play the video or audio again the whole way through.

Get Sts to compare with their partner and then check answers.

EXTRA SUPPORT When you play the video or audio the second time, pause after each question has been answered and get Sts to compare what they have understood.

- 1 No, she wanted to be a writer.
- 2 To bring Eliza up, and because she didn't want her to grow up touring and traveling.
- 3 Six
- 4 She sang all the songs.
- 5 She now tries to only work on weekends and during school holidays / vacations, so that she can take care of her children during the week.
- 6 Sleep

Interview with a folk musician—Part 3

- I You do a lot of collaborations with other musicians. What is it that appeals to you about working like that?
- E I like working with other—I don't like working alone. I don't know if that's because I don't trust myself or I just don't like being alone; I like being surrounded by a big crowd of people. I suppose that's that's partly to do with my upbringing, there was always so many people around, that um, I I'm at my best, I'm at my best in a, in a large event where loads of people are running around doing things and we're all sort of collaborating with each other and there's lots of ideas and everyone's having, you know, a creative time, and that's how I feel—yeah, that's how I feel I, I work best, and that's why at the moment I have a 13-piece band and it's just heaven for me being with so many people and just feeling like a part of a big machine, I love that.
- I Is there a difference between playing with your family and playing with other people?
- E Um, yes, very much so. I'm not sure if I could tell you how different or why it's different. My dad is very eloquent on how and why it's different and he he knows that uniquely because he joined The Watersons, and The Watersons was a brother and two sisters, and he joined that, and of course he was married to my mum, but he wasn't related to her. And there is this thing within family groups, this blood harmony thing, this intuition, you have similar sounding voices, you know where a relative is going to go, and that may be because you know each other so well, but it also may be whatever it is that binds a family together anyway.
- I Would you like your children to follow in your footsteps?
- E I get very, very excited when the children, um when the children love music, I get very excited. My daughter Florence is very, very sharp, she listens and she can already—she plays Twinkle-Twinkle on the violin, plucking like that, and on the guitar as well, and she's—yeah, she has a very, very good sense of rhythm. And she loves foreign languages as well, there's a real, um there's a real sort of correlation there between between language and singing, she has great pitch, she is able to learn songs and things very, very quickly, and I love that. And Isabella, my youngest as well, she's really, she's really showing interest in it—I love it when they do that. As to whether or not I'd want them to be touring musicians, I think I'm probably of the same opinion as my mother, which is, "No, not really!" But you know, I I think the—I think the world is changing anyway, I don't know how many touring musicians there are going to be in the world in 20 years when they're ready, I don't know.

(script in the Student Book on p. 129)

I = Interviewer, S = Sarah, K = Kent, A = Alison, M = Marylin, H = Hannah

Sarah

- I How much do you know about your family tree?
 S Uh, I actually know quite a bit about my family tree on my dad's side. I don't know very much about my mom's side.
 I Have you ever researched it?
 S Yeah, um, my dad actually has done a lot of research, uh, and he can trace us all the way back to The Mayflower.
 I Is there anyone in your family that you'd like to know more about?
 S I would like to know more about my mom's side. Her father was adopted, so we don't, there's a lot we don't know.

Kent

- I How much do you know about your family tree?
 K I know a fair amount—amount about my family tree. Um, I know we come back from ancestors in Sweden and, uh, England, and I know we've traced it back I think to, to the 1500s for some of the lines.
 I Have you ever researched it?
 K Um, you know, I haven't personally done a lot of research about my ancestors. I know we have the books and we have the stories and the journals and it's all there, so I guess I, I, I'd be interested to know a little bit about, uh, what my my ancestors did, er, before they came to America. Um, 'cause I think they were farmers, I'm not entirely sure.

Alison

- I How much do you know about your family tree?
 A Um, I know a little bit because, um, my dad's done some research into his side of the family. Um, we know that my father's side stretches back to the 1700s in Cornwall. Um, my great-great-grandfather went down on the Titanic. Interesting piece of family history. Um, and we've got some family artefacts for that.

- I Is there anyone in your family that you'd like to know more about?
 A Um, probably the wife of the man who went down with the Titanic. I think she had quite an interesting and quite difficult life. Um, she had a baby, uh, brought it up by herself, so sounds like a, an amazing woman.

Marylin

- I How much do you know about your family tree?
 M Um, I know quite a lot because a relative of my father's, um, did some research on our family tree, oh about 20 years ago. So, well, I know that my father's family, um, is from Luxembourg and in fact when I worked there I tried to get in touch with some distant relatives, but they weren't interested.
 I Is there anyone in your family that you'd like to know more about?
 M Um, well, guess what, it's precisely those relatives who are still living in Luxembourg. But what can I do, if they didn't want to meet me, oh well, I guess it's just destiny.

Hannah

- I How much do you know about your family tree?
 H You know, I, I know a little bit about my family tree because I was lucky enough to grow up with having great-grandparents in my life until about, like, ninth grade, so I know a lot from them and they told me a lot of stories about their parents and grandparents, but it doesn't go much further than that and that's only on my dad's side. I know about, um, immigration from Russia but that's all I know and then my mom's side I really don't know a lot about, but it's something that I'm interested in looking into.
 I Have you ever researched it?
 H I've tried to research it a little bit, uh, like doing the ancestry dot com thing, but um I haven't really gotten much further than that.
 I Is there anyone in your family that you'd like to know more about?
 H I'd love to know more about my great-grandmother's grandmother. So I guess that would be my great, great, great-grandmother.

- b Focus on the task and give Sts time to read the questions.
Play the video or audio once the whole way through, pausing after each speaker to give Sts time to do the task.
Play again as necessary.
Check answers.

Alison has an ancestor who died in a famous disaster.
Sarah has a family member who was adopted.
Marylin has tried unsuccessfully to contact some distant relatives.
Hannah has used ancestry.com to research their family tree.
Kent thinks their ancestors worked on the land.

 - 4 Um, well, guess what, it's precisely those relatives...

EXTRA SUPPORT Tell Sts to go to p.129 and to look at the script for ON THE STREET. Play the video or audio again and tell Sts to read and listen at the same time.

Help with any vocabulary problems and get feedback from Sts on what parts they found hard to understand and why, e.g., speed of speech, pronunciation, etc.

4 SPEAKING

Put Sts in pairs or small groups and get them to ask and answer the five questions, giving as much information as possible.

Monitor and help with vocabulary. Help with any general language problems at the end of the activity.

Get some feedback.

- G pronouns
V learning languages
P sound–spelling relationships; understanding accents

The main topic of the lesson is the English language.

The first half of the lesson begins with a spelling test, followed by a review of Spell it Out by David Crystal. The review looks at the origins of English spelling, and leads to a discussion about how important (or not) spelling is in English as well as in other languages. This is followed by a pronunciation focus on common sound–spelling relationships in English. The grammar focus is on pronouns, reviewing what Sts should already know and introducing advanced points such as the use of they to refer to a singular subject when the gender of the person is not specified or known.

The second half starts with a vocabulary focus on terminology used to describe aspects of language, e.g., collocation, phrasal verbs, synonyms, register, and idioms – terms that will be used throughout the course – and this is consolidated through a language quiz, where Sts learn words and phrases under these headings related to language learning. There is then a second pronunciation focus on understanding different native English-speakers' accents, an interesting challenge for advanced Sts. The lesson ends with an interview with a non-native speaker of English, who has lived for many years in the US, talking about her experiences of learning, speaking, and understanding English.

OPTIONAL LEAD-IN – THE QUOTE

- Write the quote at the top of p.16 on the board (books closed) and the name of the person who said it, or get Sts to open their books and read it.
- Point out that Dave Barry (1947–) is an American writer and humorist. He won a Pulitzer Prize in 1988.
- Ask Sts what they think he meant by this quote and whether they think it's fair.

1 SPELLING

- a 2.1 Focus on the instructions and make sure Sts understand the task.

Give Sts time to read sentences 1–10.

Play the audio, pausing after each sentence to give Sts time to write.

Elicit the words onto the board, either getting individual Sts to write up the words or getting Sts to spell them for you.

See the words in bold in script 2.1

- 1 He always referred to his father as “my old man.”
- 2 I like all vegetables except broccoli.
- 3 The food was acceptable, but no more than that.
- 4 I think taking the dog with us is an unnecessary complication.
- 5 There was a consensus of opinion that the article should not be published.
- 6 It was a very strange occurrence.
- 7 Please don't embarrass me by wearing that hat!
- 8 During your driver's test you will be asked to perform some standard maneuvers.
- 9 We'll definitely be there by seven.
- 10 They married in 2010, but separated two years later.

Find out with a show of hands how many words Sts spelt correctly.

Ask the class what they think makes the words difficult to spell.

A lot of the words have double consonants or vowels that are difficult to remember.

- b 2.2 Focus on the instructions and the poem.
- Before playing the audio, you could check that Sts know what a PC is (= personal computer).
- Play the audio the whole way through for Sts to listen and read at the same time.
- Give Sts time to read the poem again and find nine spelling mistakes.
- Get Sts to compare with a partner and then check answers, by writing the words on the board. You might want to elicit / explain the meaning of revue (= a show in a theater, with songs, dances, jokes, short plays, etc., often about recent events) and tolled (= to make a bell ring slowly and repeatedly).

revue review, sea see, threw through, your you're, no know, it's its, weigh way, tolled told, sew so

See the poem in the Student Book on p.16

Ask the class what the message of the poem is.

The message is that many words that are pronounced the same can be spelled in different ways (homophones) and that you can't trust a computer to check their spelling, as it depends on the context.

EXTRA IDEA Get Sts to test each other on English words that are difficult to spell. Ask Sts to write down five words each that they think are hard to spell (they should use a dictionary to make sure they're spelling them correctly). Then, in pairs, they read the words for their partner to spell. Finally, they compare with the correct spellings and see who got most words right.

2 READING & SPEAKING

a Focus on the instructions and the words.

Put Sts in pairs to decide how to pronounce the words and what they mean.

Check answers, by eliciting the pronunciation and meaning of each word.

ghost /gəʊst/, gnome /nəʊm/, know /nəʊ/, moon /mʊn/, blood /blʌd/, mice /maɪs/, debt /det/, movable /'mʊvəbl/, rhubarb /'rʊbɑːb/

EXTRA SUPPORT You could do this as an open-class activity.

b Tell Sts they are going to read a review of Spell it out, a book written by the famous British linguist David Crystal. They must read the review and find out what it says about the words in a. You could go through the Glossary as a class before Sts start reading.

Give Sts time to read the review.

Check answers.

With some words, e.g., ghost, the spelling is related to the spelling of the word in another language. However, with words like gnome, the spelling often reflects the original pronunciation of the words. The pronunciation has changed, but the spelling hasn't.

LEXIS IN CONTEXT

c Focus on the Making sense of whole phrases box and go through it with the class.

Tell Sts to read the review again and look at the six phrases or sentences in context.

Put Sts in pairs and get them to discuss what they think the reviewer is saying.

Check answers.

- 1 He was surprised at how much English spelling varied.
- 2 Fashion and snobbery have always been important in English life, and they are important for spelling, too.
- 3 Writers looked at Latin spelling to help them.
- 4 For a long time it was acceptable to spell words in different ways.
- 5 Even today, some words can be spelled in different ways.
- 6 On the internet everyone has a "vote" on how words should be spelled.

d Put Sts in small groups to discuss questions 1–4.

Monitor and help.

Get some feedback from the class. You could do question 4 as an open-class activity and tell Sts what you think.

- 1 The reviewer feels sorry for students of English because English spelling is so hard to learn.
- 2 She gives the example of Dan Quayle, a US vice-president, who misspelled potato and was never taken seriously again.
- 3–4 Sts' own answers

3 PRONUNCIATION sound–spelling relationships

Pronunciation notes

- According to research, when a non-native speaker is talking to another person in English, the main reason for a breakdown in communication is incorrect pronunciation, often the mispronunciation of individual sounds.
- Exercises a and b help remind Sts of common sound–spelling “rules” in English and, in some cases, exceptions to those rules.

a Focus on the Learning spelling rules or patterns box and go through it with the class, highlighting that English pronunciation is a lot less irregular than many people may think.

Focus on the task and give Sts, in pairs, time to say the words in each group. If there is an odd one out according to the sound of the pink letters, they should circle it.

EXTRA SUPPORT You may want to elicit the sound picture words for each phonetic symbol, e.g., house, phone, bike, witch, jazz, chess, snake, box, horse, and bird (see Sound Bank p.174).

b  2.3 Play the audio, pausing after each group of words for Sts to check their answers, playing the recording again as necessary.

Check answers, eliciting the pronunciation rule in each case and any more exceptions that Sts can think of.

- 1 dishonest /dɪs'ænəst/
Rule: the letter h is nearly always pronounced /h/. Common exceptions: heir, honest, honor, hour, exhausted.
- 2 power /'paʊə/
Rule: the letters ow are often pronounced /aʊ/ as in blow, window, below, but are also often pronounced /aʊ/ as in frown, towel, now. Occasionally, the same letters have different pronunciations according to the meaning, e.g., row /raʊ/ (= argument) but row /rəʊ/ (= a line of seats). These are called homographs.
- 3 river /'rɪvə/
Rule: the letter i + consonant + e is usually /aɪ/. Common exceptions: river, give, live (the verb), since.
- 4 whose /huːz/
Rule: the letters wh are nearly always /w/, but occasionally /h/, e.g., whose, who, whole.
- 5 All the same pronunciation
Rule: the letter j is always pronounced /dʒ/.
- 6 chorus /'kɔːrəs/
Rule: the letters ch are usually pronounced /tʃ/, but occasionally /ʃ/, e.g., machine, chef, cliché, when the words are of French origin, or /k/, e.g., chemist, architect, when the word comes from Greek.

- 7 sure /ʃʊr/
Rule: the letter s at the beginning of a word is nearly always /s/.
The only two exceptions are sugar and sure, where the s is pronounced /ʃ/.
- 8 All the same pronunciation
Rule: the letters aw are always /ɔ/ when they come at the end of a word, or when aw is followed by another consonant.
- 9 work /wɜ:k/
Rule: the letters or are usually pronounced /ɔr/, but are usually /ər/ after a w, e.g., work, word, world.
- 10 All the same pronunciation
Rule: the letters ir are always /ər/ when they are followed by a consonant, but are pronounced /aɪər/ when followed by an e, e.g., require.

See the words in the Student Book on p.17

- c This exercise shows how Sts can use their instinct to predict pronunciation from spelling. Focus on the task and encourage Sts, in pairs, to work out the pronunciation of the words.
Check answers, eliciting how to pronounce each word. Model and drill.

chime /tʃaɪm/: verb, (of a bell or clock) to ring howl /haʊl/: verb, (of a dog, wolf, etc.) to make a long, loud cry jaw /dʒɔ:/ noun, either of the two bones at the bottom of the face that contain the teeth whirl /wɜ:l/: verb, to move around quickly in a circle worm /wɜ:m/: noun, a long, thin creature with no bones or legs, which lives in soil

4 GRAMMAR pronouns

- a 2.4 Do this as an open-class activity. Elicit the pronunciation from the class and then play the audio for Sts to listen and check.
Check the answer.

there, there

- b This exercise focuses on why spell checkers never correct the word there.
Focus on 1–3 and tell Sts to think of three different spellings for /ðeə/ and to fill in the blanks.
Check answers.

1 they're 2 there 3 their

- c Tell Sts to go to Grammar Bank 2A on p.144.
Go through each example and its corresponding rule with the class, or give Sts time to read the examples and rules on their own, and answer any queries.

Additional grammar notes

- Advanced Sts may be familiar with most of these uses of pronouns; however, the majority have never been overtly focused on, e.g., one, one another, the use of they / their to mean he and she, and the emphatic use of reflexive pronouns.
- You may want to point out that these days in restaurants and other places, waiters often simply say Enjoy! when they give you your food. This is short for Enjoy it / Enjoy your meal.

Focus on the exercises and get Sts to do them individually or in pairs. If they do them individually, get them to compare answers with a partner.

Check answers after each exercise, getting Sts to read the full sentences.

1 ✓	4 himself	7 They
2 you	5 their
3 ✓	6 them
b
1 their, they	4 each other / one another	7 You, you
2 herself	5 themselves
3 they	6 yourselves
c
1 It, There	3 it	5 There
2 There, It	4 It, It	6 It, There

Tell Sts to go back to the main lesson 2A.

EXTRA SUPPORT If you think Sts need more practice, you may want to give them the Grammar photocopiable activity at this point or leave it for later as consolidation or review.

5 VOCABULARY learning languages

- a This exercise recycles language terminology from the first two lessons of the Student Book. Set a time limit and get Sts, in pairs, to say what the four headings mean.
Check answers.

- Collocations = combinations of words in a language that happen very often and more frequently than would happen by chance
- Phrasal verbs = a verb combined with an adverb or a preposition, or sometimes both, to give a new meaning
- Synonyms = a word or expression that has the same or nearly the same meaning as another
Register = the level and style of a piece of writing or speech, that is appropriate to the situation that it is used in (formal or informal)
- Idioms = a group of words whose meaning is different from the meanings of the individual words

EXTRA SUPPORT You could do this as an open-class activity.

- b Now give Sts time to complete all four sections.
Get Sts to compare with a partner and then check answers.

6 PRONUNCIATION understanding accents

Pronunciation notes

- A General American accent is the pronunciation most Sts of American English will be familiar with, probably due to the fact that they are likely to have heard it frequently in coursebook audio or in the media. However, if Sts are going to be able to communicate successfully with native speakers, it is essential that they are frequently exposed to different accents, even though this may be harder for them. Sts at this level should be able to recognize UK accents, but may well have problems identifying the others. It is probably worth pointing out that many native speakers also sometimes confuse different accents, especially regional ones they are not familiar with.

- a 2.5 Focus on the Received Pronunciation and General American English box and go through it with the class.

Now focus on the instructions and make sure Sts understand that each speaker is a native English-speaker from one of the countries in the list. Sts need to match the speakers with their country of origin. We have “beeped out” the names of their hometowns and countries in audio 2.5, but Sts hear them in audio 2.6.

Play the audio once the whole way through.

Get Sts to tell a partner which speaker they think was from the US and had an American accent.

Now play the audio again for Sts to match all the speakers to countries.

See script 2.6

- b 2.6 Play the audio for Sts to listen and check.

Check answers. Then ask Sts which accents they are familiar with and why.

1 Mairi	Scotland	4 Andrea	Australia
2 Justin	Canada	5 Lily	the US
3 Jerry	England	6 Paul	South Africa

1 Mairi

I'm from a small village on the southeast coast of Scotland, it's a very small place, not very many people live there. I liked growing up there, but I think it's a better place to visit than it is to actually live because there isn't very much for young people to do there. The people are quite nice and friendly, but most people have spent their whole lives there and their families have been there for several generations, so sometimes it can seem a bit insular.

2 Justin

I'm from Vancouver, which is on the western coast of Canada, in the province of British Columbia. It's a great place to raise a family, uh, it has a good mix of city things and outdoor activities to do. Vancouver has a population of around 632,000, so it's quite a big city, but it's not so big that you feel overwhelmed. I'd say the people there are friendly and quite welcoming.

3 Jerry

I'm from Oxford in the southeast of England, I, I was born here and I've, I've lived here my whole life. Difficult to say what the people are like because it's, in a way it's a city of two halves, famous for its university, but also, which obviously has people from all over the world, but also it's a city in its own right, it has a very large BMW factory where they make Minis, so, but it's a nice place, I like it, I've lived here my whole life pretty much so, so there we are.

4 Andrea

So I'm from Melbourne which is on the southeast coast of Australia, just in, in the state of Victoria, this is a really cultural city, very European, you've got everything from beaches to art galleries, lots of shopping, and bars and restaurants, so it's a fantastic city to be in. The people are really laid-back and and quite friendly there. We've got a very big mixture of cultures there, so a very multicultural city. So it's quite diverse and a really interesting place to be.

5 Lily

I'm from New Jersey and it's a nice mix between rural and city life because it, it has a lot of nature and nice kind of mountain landscapes where you can go hiking or walking, but it also has nice access to the city and lots of nice little shops and restaurants as well.

6 Paul

OK, I was born in Johannesburg in the late 50s. I moved to Cape Town when I went to university and of course it's a very beautiful old colonial center, with lovely buildings, and the aspect of Table Bay with the beautiful backdrop of Table Mountain, and wonderful vegetation and a wonderful friendly community of people. It's very vibrant and exciting, people like bright colors in the strong sunlight, it's a very creative environment.

EXTRA IDEA You may want to highlight some aspects of the different accents, e.g., Scottish – She pronounces uh and um as /ɛr/ and /ɛm/ rather than /ə/ and /əm/.

US – She pronounces some ts like ds, e.g., she says /sɪdi/ for city. South African – He often makes an /ɪ/ sound where English would make an /e/ sound, e.g., /wɪnt/, /frɪnli/.

7 LISTENING

- a Focus on the instructions and then have students read the glossary.
- b Put Sts in pairs and give time for students to answer the questions in b with a partner.
Elicit some opinions.
- c 2.7 Focus on the instructions.
Play the audio once the whole way through for Sts to listen to Cristina and answer the questions.
Get Sts to compare with a partner, then check answers.

- 1 She is used to both native and non-native speakers of English. However, she sometimes has trouble understanding people from the South (of the US). She also finds it more difficult to understand people on the telephone than face-to-face.
- 2 She says that people don't often correct her, but she doesn't mind when they do. Sometimes she corrects her own mistakes.

(script in the Student Book on p.129)

I = interviewer, C = Cristina

- I Do you find it easier to understand native or non-native speakers of English?
- C Well, I've been in the United States for seven years now, and I've been exposed to a lot of different accents, not only people from the United States, but from different parts of the world, so I'm used to it. In terms of regional accents in the US, I still sometimes have trouble with Southern accents...they're a little more challenging for me, because I don't live in the South. The most stressful thing, I think, is talking on the phone, because you don't have the face-to-face interaction, so it can be tricky.
- I How do you feel about having your English corrected?
- C Well, it hasn't happened much lately, but I don't mind, because that's how we learn, you know, we learn from our own mistakes. Sometimes when I'm tired, I might make a mistake with the third-person form, you know, but usually people are quite tolerant. And sometimes I catch my own mistakes, so I'm able to correct myself.

Now ask Sts if Cristina's accent was easy to understand.

- d Focus on the task and then play the audio again for Sts to listen and answer the questions.
Get Sts to compare with a partner, then check answers.

regional US accents: She still sometimes has trouble with Southern accents.
talking on the phone: She finds talking on the phone to be the most stressful thing because you don't have the face-to-face interaction.
what happens when she's tired: She might make a mistake with the third-person form.

- e Focus on the task and then get Sts, in pairs, to discuss questions 3–4.
Elicit some opinions.
- f 2.8 Now play the second part of the interview for Sts to listen to Cristina's answers.
Get Sts to compare with a partner then check answers.

- 3 She tried to organize an evening out with some friends and she misunderstood the name of the bar.
- 4 She finds that certain idioms related to sports don't come easily to her.

2.8

(script in the Student Book on p.129–130)

- I Do you have any funny or embarrassing stories related to misunderstanding someone?
- C Yes, this happened a few years ago. I was trying to organize an evening out with some friends, and one of my friends picked a place for all of us to meet, and he said, "Let's all meet at Hideout." He meant H-I-D-E-O-U-T, you know, like a hiding place, which was the name of a bar. But I completely misunderstood him and thought he said "high doubt," two words, like H-I-G-H D-O-U-B-T. So, this caused a lot of confusion because I passed on the information to a bunch of other people and everybody got extremely confused and we couldn't find the place. We had to call him to find out where it was, and then we all figured out that I had misunderstood and gotten the name of the place wrong. Yeah, it took us a while, but in the end we all got together and had a good laugh. So, it all worked out.
- I Is there anything you still find difficult about English?
- C I find that certain idioms related to sports don't come easily to me because I don't know anything about baseball or basketball or American football, and there's quite a few idioms in American English that come from those sports, like "hit it out of the park" or "slam dunk." So even though I do understand them in context, I don't use them, because I don't always see the connection...Oh, and spelling. Romanian is a phonetic language, so spelling isn't necessarily as important as it is in English. Sometimes I have to write words out in English, maybe because I'm a visual learner. I have to visualize the letters in my head before I can spell the word.

- g Focus on the task and get Sts to tell their partner if they can remember any of the information.
Now play each answer again and pause the audio to give Sts time to answer the questions.
Check answers.

the word hideout: To Cristina, it sounded like "high doubt." baseball, basketball, and American football: There are quite a few idioms in American English that come from these sports. the difference between Romanian spelling and English spelling: Romanian is a phonetic language, so spelling isn't as important as it is in English.

EXTRA SUPPORT If there's time, get Sts to listen again with the scripts on p.129–130, focusing on any new vocabulary that Sts didn't understand.

- h Put Sts in pairs, small groups, or do this as an open-class activity.
If Sts worked in pairs or groups, get some feedback.

- G the past: habitual events and specific incidents
V word building: abstract nouns
P word stress with suffixes

The topic of the lesson is childhood memories.

The theme is explored first through an extract from Boy, Roald Dahl's autobiography, where he explains how an experience at school inspired him to write Charlie and the Chocolate Factory. The grammar focus here is on past forms. Sts review narrative tenses (simple past and continuous, and past perfect and continuous) for describing specific incidents in the past. They also review used to to describe situations and repeated past actions and learn an alternative form, would + infinitive. The first half of the lesson ends with speaking and writing activities about childhood, where Sts put into practice what they have just learned.

In the second half of the lesson there is a lexical and pronunciation focus on abstract nouns, e.g., childhood, boredom, fear, etc., and word stress with suffixes. Sts also study common collocations using abstract nouns. This is followed by a listening task. Sts first hear three people talking about childhood memories, and then listen to an interview about a book that talks about research that has been done into our earliest memories (what age we have them and what they usually consist of). Sts then talk about their own early memories.

OPTIONAL LEAD-IN – THE QUOTE

- Write the quote at the top of p.20 on the board (books closed) and the name of the person who said it, or get Sts to open their books and read it.
- Point out that Oscar Wilde (1854–1900) was an Irish writer and poet. He is best known for his novel The Picture of Dorian Gray and his play The Importance of Being Earnest – both of which have been made into movies.
- Ask Sts if they agree with the quote.

1 READING

- a Focus on the task and make sure Sts know the meaning of an incident (= something that happens, especially something unusual or memorable) and do not confuse it with accident.

Either elicit answers from the whole class or get Sts to answer the questions with a partner and then get feedback.

- b  2.9 Focus on the task and find out if Sts have heard of the author Roald Dahl (1916–1990). You could tell them that he was a British novelist, short story writer, poet, fighter pilot, and screenwriter. Some of his best-loved children's stories include Charlie and the Chocolate Factory, Matilda, James and the Giant Peach, The Witches, Fantastic Mr. Fox, and The BFG – a lot of these and others have been made into movies and animations.

Focus on questions 1–5 and make sure Sts understand all the vocabulary, especially sampling the products in question 5.

Before playing the audio, focus on the Glossary and go through it with the class. You could also tell Sts that the Milk Flake and Lemon Marshmallow were two Cadbury products and that the Flake is still very popular in the UK. Now play the audio once the whole way through for Sts to listen and read at the same time.

EXTRA CHALLENGE If you have a strong class, you could play the audio once with books closed and ask Sts as a class to summarize what they heard.

Check answers.

- The chocolate bars had numbers on them because the boys had to be able to identify them when they tasted each one and judged it.
- The control bar was to check or “control” that the boys were writing sensible comments.
- The boys had to taste each chocolate bar, give it a score out of ten, and write a comment about it.
- It was clever because the boys were chocolate experts with valuable opinions (and were judging the chocolate for free).
- They were very enthusiastic and took it very seriously.

See Part 1 in the Student Book on p.20

c 2.10 Focus on questions 1–4.

Before playing Part 2, focus on the Glossary and go through it with the class.

Now play the audio once the whole way through for Sts to listen and read at the same time.

Check answers.

- 1 He imagined it to be like a laboratory – long and white – with pots of chocolate cooking on stoves and men and women in white lab coats walking between the pots, tasting, mixing, and inventing.
- 2 He sometimes imagined himself creating the most delicious chocolate ever in one of these laboratories.
- 3 He imagined Mr. Cadbury tasting the chocolate and then jumping for joy as the best chocolate in the world had just been invented. He also imagined Mr. Cadbury congratulating him and doubling his salary.
- 4 It gave Dahl the idea for his novel Charlie and the Chocolate Factory.

See Part 2 in the Student Book on p.21

LEXIS IN CONTEXT

d Focus on the Understanding dramatic language box and go through it with the class.

Get Sts to read Part 2 again and find synonyms for 1–7.

Get Sts to compare with a partner and then check answers.

2 GRAMMAR

 the past: habitual events and specific incidents

a Focus on the task and give Sts a couple of minutes to answer the questions with a partner or do it as an open-class activity.

If Sts worked in pairs, check answers.

- 1 I was looking for, I remembered, I began
- 2 I used to picture, I used to imagine

b Focus on the question and do it as an open-class activity.

- 1 the past perfect and the past perfect continuous
- 2 would + base form and simple past + adverb of frequency

If Sts don't know, tell them they will now look at this in the Grammar Bank.

c Tell Sts to go to Grammar Bank 2B on p.145.

Go through each example and its corresponding rule with the class, or give Sts time to read the examples and rules on their own, and answer any questions.

Additional grammar notes

- Sts should be very familiar with narrative tenses, though they may still have problems with differentiating between past perfect and continuous and with using a variety of tenses in spoken English. They should also be very familiar with used to for past habitual or repeated actions or states. The structure that may be new to them is the use of would + base form for habitual past actions (but not states). It is important to stress to Sts that simple past, used to, and would are alternative structures to use when describing repeated past actions, and that varying structures will make their language sound more fluent and advanced.

Focus on the exercises and get Sts to do them individually or in pairs. If they do them individually, get them to compare answers with a partner.

Check answers after each exercise, getting Sts to read the full sentences.

- a
- 1 was sitting, had been crying
 - 2 ✓
 - 3 used to live, bought
 - 4 didn't use to look
 - 5 ✓, ✓
 - 6 had crashed, was pouring
- b

 - 2 had died
 - 3 would cook / used to cook / cooked
 - 4 would take / used to take / took
 - 5 was invited / had been invited
 - 6 went
 - 7 tried
 - 8 got up
 - 9 decided
 - 10 was sleeping
 - 11 wanted
 - 12 had been told
 - 13 climbed
 - 14 saw
 - 15 had been asking
 - 16 refused / had refused
 - 17 heard
 - 18 realized
 - 19 had gotten up
 - 20 was coming
 - 21 opened
 - 22 had caught
 - 23 had forbidden

Tell Sts to go back to the main lesson 2B.

EXTRA SUPPORT If you think Sts need more practice, you may want to give them the Grammar photocopyable activity at this point or leave it for later as consolidation or review.

3 SPEAKING & WRITING

a 2.11 Focus on the task and play the first extract and elicit the phrase the speaker uses to refer to her age (From the age of about seven till I was 16...).

Then play the rest of the audio for Sts to write down the rest of the phrases, playing the recording again as necessary.

Check answers and highlight that:

- you can say When I was small... instead of When I was little...
- kid is more informal than child.
- you can also say As a child... instead of When I was a child.

- 1 From the age of about seven till I was 16...
- 2 When I was little...
- 3 When I was a young child...
- 4 From the age of about nine...
- 5 When I was in elementary school...
- 6 When I was a kid...

2.11

- 1 From the age of about seven till I was 16, I went to an all-girls school in Connecticut...
- 2 When I was little, and actually still now, I was absolutely terrified of spiders...
- 3 When I was a young child, I used to have a lot of nightmares...
- 4 From the age of about nine I was sick and I had, I had an overactive thyroid gland...
- 5 When I was in elementary school, I used to hate school meals...
- 6 When I was a kid, we always used to go on vacation to the mountains...

b Focus on the task and the example. Make it clear to Sts that they have to talk about habitual actions and feelings. Demonstrate the activity by talking about some of the topics yourself. Then get Sts in pairs to take turns talking about two of the topics. Highlight that they should be using past forms / used to and would + base form to describe their experiences.

Monitor and help.

c Focus on the instructions and highlight that this time they should use narrative tenses to describe a specific incident they can remember from their childhood.

Give Sts some thinking time to choose a topic and think of an incident.

Sts exchange anecdotes.

Monitor and support, helping Sts with vocabulary and correcting any wrong use of tenses. Fast finishers could choose another heading and describe another incident from their childhood.

d Tell Sts to go to Writing An article on p.116. The writing skills focus is on choosing a good title, paragraphing and discourse markers, and on making your writing more interesting by using synonyms and a richer range of vocabulary.

ANALYZING A MODEL TEXT

a Focus on the text type (an article) and tell Sts that they may want to write an article for an English language magazine or website, or they may be required to do this for an exam such as the TOEFL. There are tips and strategies that Sts will learn in this lesson, which will help them to write good articles.

Focus on the Key success factors and go through them with the class.

Focus on the task, and get Sts in pairs to discuss what information they might include if they were writing about their country, e.g., the way schools have changed.

Get feedback and write their ideas on the board.

b Set a time limit for Sts to read the article to see what ideas were included and also to choose a title.

Put Sts in pairs and get them to discuss the three titles.

Get feedback about which title they prefer and why.

The best title is How childhood has changed. Children of the past doesn't work because a lot of the article is about today's children. My childhood is not appropriate, as the article is about childhood in general.

c Get Sts to read the article again and answer the questions with a partner.

Check answers. When checking answers to 4, elicit that the discourse markers used are either to introduce the main ideas (First, etc.) or to express cause and result (As a result, due to, etc.).

- 1 The direct question engages the reader and tells him / her exactly what the article will be about. The question is answered in the conclusion.
- 2 Paragraph 1 focuses on the writer's memories of his / her childhood, and gives examples of how he / she spent his / her free time, e.g., playing board games with his / her brothers and sisters, playing in the street, etc.
- 3 Families are smaller and there are more only children, because parents both work nowadays, or don't have time to bring up a big family. As a result, children spend a lot of time alone. Children don't play outside anymore, because parents think playing outside is dangerous.
- 4 Sts should have underlined: First, As a result, Another major change, This is due... to the fact, so, Finally.

USEFUL LANGUAGE

d Focus on the Using synonyms box and go through it with the class. Stress that it isn't that you can't repeat a word or phrase (children is used six times), but that also using youngsters, boys and girls, etc. makes the vocabulary more varied. You may want to suggest that Sts could use a thesaurus, e.g., The Oxford Learner's Thesaurus.

Now give Sts time to find the synonyms in the article.

Get Sts to compare with a partner and then check answers.

- 1 these days, today
- 2 boys and girls, youngsters, young people
- 3 by themselves, on their own

e Focus on the Using richer vocabulary box and go through it with the class.

Focus on the task and get Sts to try to do it without looking back at the article.

Check answers.

- 1 enormously
- 2 neighborhood children
- 3 racing
- 4 hardly ever
- 5 hazardous
- 6 common for both parents to
- 7 idyllic

EXTRA CHALLENGE You could elicit other synonyms that the writer could have used, e.g., 1 hugely, 2 local children, 3 dashing / rushing, 4 scarcely, etc.

PLANNING WHAT TO WRITE

a Focus on the task and article topics, and give Sts time to choose a topic to brainstorm in pairs.

Get brief feedback from different pairs for the three different topics.

Then tell them to individually choose which topic they want to write about and which two or three changes they will focus on in their article.

Get feedback asking Sts why they have chosen these changes.

b Finally, get Sts to individually think of titles for their article, and compare / discuss them with a partner.

Get feedback and help Sts to improve their titles where appropriate.

Finally, go through the Tips with the class.

WRITING

Go through the instructions and assign the writing for homework.

Tell Sts to go back to the main lesson 2B.

4 VOCABULARY & PRONUNCIATION

word building: abstract nouns; word stress with suffixes

a Focus on the Abstract nouns box and go through it with the class.

Focus on the task and do the first two words, achieve and adult, with the whole class as examples (achievement, adulthood).

In pairs, give Sts time to complete the task.

b  2.12 Play the audio for Sts to listen and check. Check answers. Highlight the vowel change from wise /waɪz/ to wisdom /'wɪzdəm/.

See script 2.12

2.12

- 1 adulthood, neighborhood
- 2 friendship, membership, partnership, relationship
- 3 boredom, freedom, wisdom
- 4 curiosity, generosity, possibility
- 5 awareness, happiness, kindness, sadness, sickness
- 6 celebration, frustration, imagination, temptation
- 7 achievement, amazement, disappointment, excitement, improvement

c  2.13 Focus on the task and tell Sts to use their instinct to underline the stressed syllables in the words.

Then play the audio for them to listen and check.

Check answers and elicit which suffix ending(s) often cause the stress to change.

- 1 adult – adulthood
- 2 celebrate – celebration
- 3 curious – curiosity
- 4 disappoint – disappointment
- 5 free – freedom
- 6 happy – happiness
- 7 relation – relationship

The endings -hood, -ship, -dom, -ment, and -ness never affect the stress of the word they are added to.

Multi-syllable nouns ending in -tion and -ity are always stressed on the syllable before the ending. This sometimes causes the stress to shift, e.g., celebrate – celebration, inform – information, curious – curiosity, possible – possibility.

See the words in the Student Book on p.22

Now get Sts to go back to the chart in a and practice saying the words correctly.

d Focus on the task and the two sections, 1–4 and 5–8.

Give Sts time to complete the adjective and verb columns. Tell Sts the adjective or verb will be a different word.

e  2.14 Play the audio for Sts to listen and check.

Check answers. There are sometimes other possible adjectives or verbs that you might want to mention: 2 shameful, 3 deadly, 4 endangered, 8 memorize.

See script 1.38

2.14

1 anger	angry
2 shame	ashamed
3 death	dead
4 danger	dangerous
5 belief	believe
6 hatred	hate
7 loss	lose
8 memory	remember

EXTRA SUPPORT Get Sts to test themselves or a partner. In a, Sts can cover the chart, look at the words in the list and try to remember the abstract nouns. In c and d, they can cover the left-hand or right-hand column and remember the words.

f Focus on the Collocations box and go through it with the class to remind them of the meaning.

Now focus on the task and make sure Sts know they must use abstract nouns from a and d.

Check answers.

1 loss	5 danger
2 amazement	6 disappointment
3 relationship	7 belief
4 possibility	8 imagination

5 LISTENING

a 2.15 Focus on the task and the three questions. Point out that not all the speakers say exactly how old they were. Before playing the audio, tell Sts that nana (used by Speaker 2) means grandmother.

Play the audio once the whole way through for Sts to listen and answer the questions. You could pause between each extract to give Sts more time.

Play the audio again as necessary.

Get Sts to compare with a partner and then check answers.

Speaker 1	Age: About three Memory: letting go of a balloon he had just been given at a county fair Emotion(s): sadness
Speaker 2	Age: three or four Memory: her uncle pretending to read a book to her, but making it all up Emotion(s): annoyance
Speaker 3	Age: nearly three Memory: moving into a new apartment, where the electricity wasn't working Emotion(s): excitement, then disappointment

2.15

1

My, my earliest memory, I must have been about three, I guess, maybe two, was when we'd been to, to a county fair and I would have gone with my brother, who's a little older than me, and my parents, and I'd been bought, a, a helium balloon, and for some reason the balloon had a snowman inside it, it was only September; I don't why there was a snowman, but, but there was, and I took it out into the back garden and because it was full of helium, obviously, it was pulling on the string, it wanted to, to fly away, and I let go, I didn't let go by accident, I remember letting go on purpose, to see what would happen, and of course what happened was the balloon flew up into the sky over the neighbors' trees and disappeared, and I was absolutely devastated, heartbroken by the loss of the balloon, and stood there crying and crying, and my dad had to go back to the county fair and get me another identical balloon, which did nothing to console me, I kept crying and crying and crying and that's my my earliest memory, not a very happy one!

My earliest memory is probably from when I was about three or four years old and it was Christmas and I was at my nana's house with all my family and my uncle was reading to me, he was reading The Little Mermaid except that he was making it up, he wasn't actually reading the words in the book, he was just saying things like "Ariel went to buy some peanut butter and jelly" and things like that, and that made me really mad because I was at an age where I couldn't really read myself, but I knew that he was reading it wrong. So I got really annoyed at him and told him to read it the right way, but yeah, that's my earliest memory.

My earliest memory is from when, I must have been about three and we were moving to a new house, we moved to an apartment building and I remember arriving and it was, it was dark and we'd had a very long trip and we arrived and we went in the door and we turned the lights on and nothing happened, and the whole apartment was completely black and dark, no power, no electricity, no lights, and I thought this was terrific, and we had a flashlight and I was just running around, running around the, the hall and the rooms, finding all these new rooms all with a flashlight and I imagined that it was always going to be like that, that we'd, we'd arrived in an apartment that wasn't going to have lights, so I was always going to have to use a flashlight. And I thought that was going to be amazing. My mother was in tears, obviously she, she was very stressed out from the trip and arriving somewhere and having no power. But I, I was really, really excited by it, and the next day when the power came on I was really disappointed.

EXTRA SUPPORT If there's time, get Sts to listen again with the script on p.130, focusing on any new vocabulary that Sts didn't understand.

b Put Sts in pairs and get them to tell their partner about their earliest memory, using questions 1–3 in a to help them.

Monitor and help.

Get some feedback from individual Sts.

c Tell Sts that they are going to hear an interview in which someone will talk about a book about memory called How Memory Shapes our Past by Douwe Draaisma, a Dutch professor and expert on memory.

Get Sts, in pairs, to discuss questions 1–5, all of which will be answered in the interview. Make sure they know the meaning of unreliable in question 5.

Get some feedback from the class, but don't check answers at this stage.

d  2.16 Play the audio for Sts to compare their answers to the questions. Play the recording again as necessary.

Check answers.

Then find out if Sts were surprised by anything they heard in the interview.

Finally, ask if, as a result of what they have heard, they think that their first memory may not be a true memory.

EXTRA SUPPORT Pause the audio where indicated in the script (see spaces) to give Sts time to note their answers.

- 1 back to the age of two to four
- 2 Because we don't have a clear sense of ourselves as individuals and because we usually can't use the past tense yet.
- 3 a) strong feelings, e.g., happiness, unhappiness, pain, surprise, fear
b) the birth of a baby brother or sister, a death, or a family visit. Festive celebrations.
- 4 Mostly visual
- 5 Because they might not be real memories but something someone has told us or we have seen in a photo.

(script in the Student Book on p. 130)

H = host, J = John Fisher

H Are our first memories reliable, or are they always based on something people have told us? What age do most people's first memories come from? John Fisher has been reading a fascinating new book about memory by Professor Draaisma called How Memory Shapes our Past, and he's going to answer these questions for us and more. Hello, John.

J Hello.

H Let's start at the beginning, then. At what age do first memories generally occur?

J Well, according to both past and present research, 80% of our first memories are of things which happened to us between the ages of two and four. It's very unusual to remember anything that happened before that age.

H Why is that?

J There seem to be two main reasons, according to Professor Draaisma. The first reason is that before the age of two, children don't have a clear sense of themselves as individuals – they can't usually identify themselves in a photo. And you know how a very small child enjoys seeing himself in a mirror, but he doesn't actually realize that the person he can see is him. Children of this age also have problems with the pronouns I and you. And a memory without I is impossible. That's to say, we can't begin to have memories until we have an awareness of self.

H And the second reason?

J The second reason is related to language. According to the research, first memories coincide with the development of linguistic skills, with a child learning to talk. And as far as autobiographical memory is concerned, it's essential for a child to be able to use the past tense, so that he or she can talk about something that happened in the past, and then remember it.

H I see. What are first memories usually about? I mean, is it possible to generalize at all?

J Early memories seem to be related to strong emotions, such as happiness, unhappiness, pain, and surprise. Recent research suggests that three quarters of first memories are related to fear, to frightening experiences like being left alone, or a large dog, or having an accident – things like falling off a swing in a park. And of course this makes sense, and bears out the evolutionary theory that the human memory is linked to self-preservation. You remember these things in order to be prepared if they happen again, so that you can protect yourself.

H Are first memories only related to emotions or are there any specific events that tend to become first memories?

J The events that are most often remembered, and these are always related to one of the emotions I mentioned before, are the birth of a baby brother or sister, a death, or a family visit. Festive celebrations with bright lights were also mentioned quite frequently, much more frequently than events we might have expected to be significant, like a child's first day at school.

Another interesting aspect is that first memories tend to be very visual. They're almost invariably described as pictures, not smells or sounds.

H First memories are often considered unreliable, in that perhaps sometimes they're not real memories, just things other people have told us about ourselves or that we have seen in photos. Is that true, according to Professor Draaisma?

J Absolutely! He cites the famous case of the Swiss psychologist, Jean Piaget...

e  2.17 This exercise gives Sts practice in understanding a short narrative by focusing on the key "content" words in the story (i.e., the words that the speaker will tend to stress more strongly). Listening for "key" words is an important aspect of understanding native speakers and especially understanding rapid speech.

Tell Sts that they are going to hear a short anecdote about the first memory of the famous Swiss psychologist, Jean Piaget. Focus on the photo and elicit the words nanny and stroller. Then tell Sts that the first time they listen they should just write down any important words they hear.

Play the audio once the whole way through for Sts to listen and write key words.

Now play the audio again for Sts to try and fill in the rest of the story.

Get Sts to compare with a partner and see if they can retell the story together.

Finally, elicit the story from the class and write it on the board.

Suggested key words in bold

He was sitting in his stroller as a one-year-old baby. A man tried to kidnap him. He remembered his nanny fighting to save him. His parents gave her a reward (a watch). Years later when he was 15 the nanny wrote his parents a letter and returned the watch. She confessed that she had made up the whole story.

- H First memories are often considered unreliable, in that perhaps sometimes they're not real memories, just things other people have told us about ourselves or that we have seen in photos. Is that true, according to Professor Draaisma?
- J Absolutely! He cites the famous case of the Swiss psychologist, Jean Piaget. Piaget had always thought that his first memory was of sitting in his stroller as a one-year-old baby when a man tried to kidnap him. He remembered his nanny fighting the kidnapper to save him. The nanny was then given a watch as a reward by Jean's parents. But many years later, I think when Jean was 15, the parents received a letter from the nanny in which she returned the watch to them. The nanny, who was by now an old woman, confessed in the letter that she'd made up the whole story, and that was why she was returning the watch. Of course, Jean had heard the story told so many times that he was convinced that he'd remembered the whole incident.

EXTRA SUPPORT If there's time, get Sts to listen again with the script on p.130, focusing on any new vocabulary that Sts didn't understand.

6 SPEAKING

- a Focus on the task and go through the talking points, making sure Sts know the meaning of roughly.
Give Sts time to think about one of the feelings and one of the events, where they have a clear memory and are happy to recount it.
- b Focus on the Talking about memories box and go through it with the class.
If you have a good early memory story to tell, contribute it at this point.
Put Sts in small groups of three or four. Tell them to take turns talking about their memories.
If you have time, you could find out whether anyone has a funny / surprising / dramatic memory to retell to the whole class.

1&2 Review and Check

There are two pages of review and consolidation after every two Files.

The first section reviews the grammar, vocabulary, and pronunciation of the two Files. These exercises can be done individually or in pairs, in class or at home, depending on the needs of your Sts and the class time available. The second section presents Sts with a series of skills-based challenges. First, there is a reading text, which revisits one of the topics from the two Files. Then Sts can watch a short documentary film available on the Class DVD and the Teacher Resource Center on a subject related to one of the topics of the Files. This is aimed at giving Sts enjoyable extra listening practice and showing them how much they are now able to understand. Sts can find all the video content and activities on Online Practice.

The history of English

Hello I'm Chris and welcome to London. But before we move from Big Ben to the London eye, I need to send a tweet.

Only a few years ago "tweet" was something only birds did, now everybody's "tweeting"...often using "textspeak" or "emojicons." But the inventiveness of the English language is nothing new. It has been evolving for over 1600 years.

In AD 43 the Romans invaded Britain, conquering the indigenous Celts and taking over most of the country. In AD 409 they left and around 50 years later several tribes from around northern Germany – including the Angles, the Saxons, and the Jutes, better known as the Anglo-Saxons – started to move in. They settled in the east, but unlike the Romans, the Anglo-Saxons didn't set out to conquer. They shared many things with the Celts – including language.

Unlike Latin – which had never really caught on with the locals – people started using Anglo-Saxon terms for lots of everyday things, like "man," "woman," and "friend."

But then Latin made a comeback! This time it didn't arrive with Roman soldiers, it arrived with Christian monks. Christianity became very popular with the locals, and introduced a whole new alphabet and religious vocabulary.

Then the Vikings arrived in around 800 AD. Their warrior spirit was reflected in their language. They "raced" through the country "ransacking" towns and villages armed with "knives" and "clubs." They "took" land, goods and slaves, but they "gave" English around 2,000 words.

The Vikings and the Anglo-Saxons battled for almost 300 years until the English King Harold won the Battle of Stamford Bridge. But only three weeks later the unlucky Harold was killed by William the Conqueror – a Norman from France – at the Battle of Hastings. William became the King of England and started building castles all over the country. French became the language of the wealthy elite. It was the native tongue of all "princes," "dukes," "barons," and "dames." But English remained the language of the peasants. Farmers herded "cows" and "sheep," which were Anglo-Saxon words...but the nobility ate "beef" and "mutton," which were French words.

Over the next 300 years the two languages mixed until English eventually won out, albeit with 10,000 new words from the French. This richer language was the perfect plaything for poets and playwrights, and one literary genius contributed more than most. William Shakespeare wrote 38 plays and 150 poems. He also coined around 2,000 new words and his turn of phrase transformed the entire language.

The 16th century was also the Age of Discovery and for Britain this meant the birth of an Empire that stretched across the globe. The British colonialists often used native words and soon words like "safari" from the African language Swahili, "pajamas" from the Urdu language in India and "boomerang" from the native Australian language Dharuk, had entered the language. But the country that had the most impact on English was America. The newly independent America needed a new type of English – American English. American English kept many of the old English words, so today English "curtains" are still American "drapes," English "wardrobes" are American "closets," and English "trousers" are American "pants." But the language changed a lot, too. The father of American English was Noah Webster. He created a new dictionary that simplified the spelling of lots of complicated English words. He also introduced uniquely American words like "squash," "chowder," and "skunk." By the twentieth century there were two main types of English – British English and American English. But throughout the twentieth century both continued to change and borrow from one another, especially with the invention of "computers" and the "internet." Suddenly we needed new words to describe our "blogs," "posts," and, of course, "tweets."

Today English is truly global. There are around 375 million native speakers, and about 1.5 billion people learn it as a foreign language. But it is always changing and shifting to suit our needs. Today the English vocabulary has over 170,000 words... and counting. We are inventing new words every day and if we don't know them we just "Google" them on our "smartphones" or... send a "tweet."

Lesson plan

This lesson deals with the topic of relationships.

First, Sts discuss a light-hearted list of “best break-up lines” before reading the true story of how Sophie Calle, a French artist, got back at a boyfriend who left her. Then in Pronunciation they look at French words and expressions (e.g., rendezvous), which are commonly used in English, but pronounced in a way that is close to their French pronunciation. There is then a vocabulary focus on verbs and idioms related to the verb get, probably the most versatile verb in English.

In the second half of the lesson Sts look at a regular feature in the Guardian newspaper called “Blind Date.” Then they listen to a radio show about dos and don'ts on first dates. The grammar focus is also on different uses of get and the lesson ends with a questionnaire that recycles both lexical and grammatical examples of this verb.

OPTIONAL LEAD-IN – THE QUOTE

- Write the quote at the top of p.26 on the board (books closed) and the name of the person who said it, or get Sts to open their books and read it.
- Point out that Homer Simpson is a fictional character in the animated television show The Simpsons, which was first broadcast in 1989. There have been hundreds of episodes since and Homer has been voted the greatest TV character of all time.
- Ask Sts if they have watched The Simpsons, and what they think of Homer. Then ask what they think he meant in this quote.

1 READING & SPEAKING

EXTRA IDEA Before beginning this exercise you may want to focus on the lesson title. Ask Sts what they think the quote means – that you shouldn't get angry (mad), you should take revenge (get even).

- a Focus on the task and make sure Sts know what a breakup and to break up mean.

In pairs, Sts decide which one is the least hurtful.

Get feedback from the class.

EXTRA CHALLENGE Alternatively, you could start the lesson with books closed and ask Sts for their own ideas of the best break-up lines. Write these up on the board before opening books and comparing Sts' ideas with the ones in 1a.

- b Focus on the title of the article, Getting through a breakup, and elicit that it means to recover from a breakup.

Focus on the gist reading task and make sure Sts understand all the vocabulary in the four possible motivations.

Set a time limit for Sts to read the article. Tell them not to worry about the meaning of every word or try to guess the missing words, but just to find out why the woman took revenge.

Check the answer.

- 3 She wanted to help herself get over the breakup.

- c Focus on the task and give Sts time to complete it. Get Sts to compare with a partner and then check answers. Where useful, elicit the meanings of some of the wrong options.

- | | |
|-------------------------|----------------------|
| 1 a turned out | 6 c ridiculed |
| 2 b pain | 7 c avoided |
| 3 a getting | 8 b get over |
| 4 a included | 9 c replaced |
| 5 b according to | 10 a Though |

Help with any other vocabulary problems that arose. You may want to highlight that the verb dump somebody is an informal way of saying break up with somebody.

- d Focus on the task and questions 1–5.

Get Sts to read the article again and think about their answers to the questions.

Get Sts to discuss the questions in small groups.

Elicit opinions.

Sts' own answers

2 PRONUNCIATION words and phrases of French origin

Pronunciation notes

- Throughout the centuries, a feature of English has been that it has always borrowed words from other languages (called "loan words"), typically where there is not an English word available to describe, e.g., a custom, type of food, a technology that has been imported from another country. Common examples of loan words are sauna (from Finnish), pasta (from Italian), and robot (from Czech). The pronunciation of these words is usually anglicized. However, there is quite a large group of French loan words and phrases, most of which are pronounced in a similar way to the way a French person would say them, e.g., nouveau riche /,nuvov 'riʃ/ (an expression to describe a person who has recently become rich and likes to show it off in a very obvious way). An advanced dictionary will give these words and phrases and their pronunciation.

- a 3.1 Do this as an open-class activity. If you haven't already explained the meaning of the adjective in bold, explain / elicit what it means (= new and very modern, sometimes surprising or shocking).
Elicit the pronunciation and then play the audio for Sts to listen and check.

See the sentence in the Student Book on p.27

- b Focus on the Fine-tuning your pronunciation: French words used in English box and go through it with the class.

Give Sts time to underline a French word or expression in each sentence.

Put Sts in pairs and get them to discuss the meaning of the words and expressions they underlined.

Check answers. At this stage don't worry about pronunciation.

- faux pas* /,fou 'pa/ = an action or remark that causes embarrassment because it is not socially correct
- déjà vu* /,deɪʒa 'vu/ = the feeling that you have previously experienced something that is happening to you now
- rendezvous* /'randeɪvu/ = an arrangement to meet somebody at a particular time and place
- entrepreneur* /,ɑntɹəprə'nɔ:/ = a person who makes money by starting and running businesses, especially if this involves taking financial risks
- cliché* /'kliʃeɪ/ = a phrase that has been used so often it loses its meaning and interest
- bouquet* /bu'keɪ/ = a bunch of flowers arranged in an attractive way
- fiancé* /'fian'seɪ/ = the man that a woman is engaged to (fiancée for a woman)
- fait accompli* /,feɪt ə'kɑmpli/ = something that has already happened or been done and that you cannot change

Find out if any of the words or expressions are used in your Sts' L1.

- c 3.2 Play the audio once all the way through for Sts to listen to how the French expressions are pronounced.

3.2

See the sentences in the Student Book on p.27

Now play the audio again sentence by sentence for Sts to repeat the French word or expression.

Then get individual Sts to say the sentences.

Finally, put Sts in pairs and get them to practice saying the sentences.

EXTRA CHALLENGE You could write on the board all or some of the following French words / phrases used in English and ask Sts to tell you what they mean and how they are pronounced: aperitif, art nouveau, au pair, bourgeois, chauffeur, connoisseur, croissant, cuisine, decor, denouement, genre, Grand Prix, raconteur, sabotage, etc.

Get some Sts to read their sentences to the class.

Focus on 3 Phrasal verbs with *get and get Sts to do a individually or in pairs.

! Remind Sts that phrasal verbs with get will be found in the dictionary under get.

Focus on Activation and make sure Sts understand all the vocabulary, e.g., extended family, make up for it, etc.

Put Sts in pairs and get them to ask and answer the questions.

Get some feedback.

EXTRA SUPPORT If you think Sts need more practice, you may want to give them the Vocabulary photocopyable activity at this point or leave it for later as consolidation or review.

4 SPEAKING & LISTENING

a Focus on the question and make sure Sts know what a blind date is.

Put Sts in pairs, small groups or do this as an open-class activity.

If Sts worked in pairs or small groups, get some feedback from the class about their experiences.

b Focus on the photos and the task. Give Sts a minute to read the introduction.

Then focus on the three sentences and explain that the categories (First impressions, Table manners, and Best thing about them) were ones that both people had to answer.

Give Sts time to decide who they think said what.

Elicit opinions, but don't tell Sts if they are right or not.

c Put Sts in pairs, A and B, and tell them to go to Communication Blind date, A on p.107, B on p.111.

When Sts have told each other about Stef and Graham, you could ask the whole class how they think the relationship developed. Then tell them to turn to p.113. You could tell Sts that the wedding photo appeared in an article in the Guardian called What happened after the dates? In fact, Stef and Graham have just had their first child.

Tell Sts to go back to the main lesson 3A.

Check answers to b.

- 1 Graham about Stef
- 2 Stef about Graham
- 3 Stef about Graham

d Focus on the task and point out the two sections (Dos and Don'ts).

Tell Sts that each blank in tips 1–6 should be completed with one word only and give them time to guess what the missing words are. Tell them not to write anything yet.

Elicit some ideas, but don't tell Sts if they are right or not.

EXTRA IDEA Get Sts to close their books before they look at d. Put Sts in pairs and get them to think of six tips for someone going on a first date. Elicit ideas from the class.

e  3.6 Play the audio for Sts to listen and check.

Check answers and make sure Sts understand the tips.

Find out whether Sts agree with the tips and whether they had guessed any of the answers.

3.6

H = Host, J = Jenny

H A first date is loaded with expectation. Will I like them, and will they like me? Is this person going to be “the one” or will I want to run for the door before the appetizer? Will we have anything to talk about and if not, how will we get through the evening? Here’s relationship expert Jenny with some suggestions on how to make sure that your first date is the best it can be – even if it turns out to be your only date.

J Hello there. My first tip is “Choose the venue carefully,” that is, the place where you’re going to meet. Try to avoid very noisy places where you can’t hear each other, or places where you can’t talk, like movie theaters. So a good place to meet might be a quiet coffee shop for some locally roasted coffee, for example, or lunch in a little local place you know. The advantage of keeping the first date short and sweet, meeting for coffee or for lunch rather than dinner, is that if you don’t like each other, you don’t have to make it through a seven-course meal together. And of course if you do like each other, you can either extend the date, or plan a longer one for next time.

Tip number two is “Make an effort with your appearance.”

Obviously you don’t want to make so much of an effort that your date wouldn’t recognize you if they saw you in the street the next day. But getting your hair done, say, or wearing something you know you look good in, those kinds of things show that you care – and that you want to make a good impression. I mean, if you turn up with unwashed hair, wearing yesterday’s clothes, you aren’t likely to win anyone over.

The third tip, and it’s an important one, is “Be kind,” even if you think the date is going nowhere. It doesn’t cost anything, and it’ll make a big difference to how much the other person enjoys themselves. Of course, being kind also means not lying or giving your date false hope. Don’t tell someone that you’ll call and that you can’t wait to see them again if you have absolutely no intention of following through!

Tip number four, which is sort of related to number three, is “Don’t forget your manners.” Make sure you turn up on time, and if you’re going to be late for whatever reason, let your date know. Try not to yawn even if you’re getting a little tired. Turn off your phone, and if the other person is footing the bill, do remember to say “thank you.” And one last thing while we’re on the subject of manners – you can tell a lot about a person by how they treat waiters and waitresses. So don’t just be polite to your date, be polite to the other people too.

Number five is “Don’t pretend to be anything you’re not.” It can be very tempting to exaggerate, or to dress up the truth, or just to plain lie to try to get your date interested. Of course, you may get away with it if you don’t see the person again after the first date, but if the relationship does last any longer, you may find yourself in a tricky situation further down the line. So, for example, if you’re separated, don’t say that you’re divorced. If you hate baseball, don’t say that you can’t think of a better way to spend a Saturday afternoon than cheering for the Chicago Cubs. And if you work part-time in a call center, don’t say you’re something big in communications.

Finally, and this is my last tip, “Don’t make an instant judgement.” Many of us make up our minds whether we like someone in the first few seconds or minutes of meeting them. But you know, first impressions can be misleading, so try not to rule someone out right away. It’s much better to spend a bit of time getting to know them, and if you’re not sure about someone, it may take two or three dates before you can really decide. If you make a snap decision, you may risk missing out on the love of your life.

H Jenny, thank you very much for the advice. And now we turn to the next...

f Tell Sts they are going to listen again and this time they need to answer questions 1–6 in pairs.

Play the audio again, pausing after each tip for Sts to discuss their answers.

Play again as necessary.

Check answers.

- 1 The best place for a first date is a quiet coffee shop or a little local place.
- 2 Looking good shows you care and makes a good impression.
- 3 Don’t lie or give the other person false hope.
- 4 Be polite to your date and the people around you.
- 5 Don’t exaggerate because if the relationship lasts, you will have to live with your lie.
- 6 First impressions can be wrong, so don’t make up your mind immediately.

g Open out the discussion to the whole class and elicit different opinions.

LEXIS IN CONTEXT

h 3.7 Focus on the instructions and give Sts time to read the extracts.

Play the audio for Sts to listen and complete the phrasal verbs and idioms.

Put Sts in pairs to compare answers and discuss the meaning of each phrasal verb or idiom.

Check answers, eliciting whether each expression is a phrasal verb or an idiom and its meaning.

- 1 short and sweet (idm; informal) = pleasant, but not lasting a long time
- 2 win (anyone) over (phr verb) = to get somebody’s support or approval by persuading them that you are right
- 3 following through (phr verb) = to finish something that you have started
- 4 footing (the) bill (idm; informal) = paying for something
- 5 dress up (phr verb) = to present something in a way that makes it seem better or different
- 6 make up (our) minds (idm) = to decide something
- 7 rule (someone) out (phr verb) = to decide that something is not possible or that somebody / something is not suitable
- 8 missing out (phr verb) = to fail to benefit from something useful or enjoyable by not taking part in it

5 GRAMMAR get a Focus on the task and give Sts, in pairs, time to answer the questions.

Check answers.

1 C 2 B 3 A

b Tell Sts to go to Grammar Bank 3A on p.146.

Go through each example and its corresponding rule with the class, or give Sts time to read the examples and rules on their own, and answer any questions.

Additional grammar notes

- Apart from the many phrases and idioms involving get, get is also frequently used as a main verb, often as a more informal alternative to another verb, e.g., obtain, receive, understand. In spoken English, get is also often used in certain grammatical structures, e.g., as an alternative to be in the passive, or instead of have in the structure get something done. Here all these different uses are pulled together.

Focus on the exercises and get Sts to do them individually or in pairs. If Sts do them individually, get them to compare with a partner.

Check answers after each exercise, getting Sts to read the full sentences. Remind Sts that if we substitute make for get in 3 and 10 in a, we need to cut to.

- | | |
|---------------|----------------|
| 1 is becoming | 6 catch / take |
| 2 buy | 7 arrive / be |
| 3 persuade | 8 bring |
| 4 have | 9 be |
| 5 received | 10 persuade |

- b
- 1 got my passport renewed
 - 2 get used to driving
 - 3 almost got killed
 - 4 get my sister to babysit
 - 5 get all the locks changed
 - 6 got stopped
 - 7 get my eyes tested
 - 8 got bitten

Tell Sts to go back to the main lesson 3A.

EXTRA SUPPORT If you think Sts need more practice, you may want to give them the Grammar photocopiable activity at this point or leave it for later as consolidation or review.

- c This exercise activates both the lexical and grammatical uses of get in the lesson.

Put Sts in pairs. Then get them to read the questionnaire and check eight questions they would like to ask their partner.

Sts take turns asking each other their questions.

Get feedback from different pairs.

EXTRA IDEA Finally, you could tell Sts to cover the questionnaire and get them to ask you some of the questions from memory.

- G discourse markers (2): adverbs and adverbial expressions
V conflict and warfare
P stress in word families

Lesson plan

In this lesson the topic is history, as seen in historical movies and TV shows.

The lesson begins by introducing the vocabulary of conflict and warfare through three texts describing memorable scenes from historical movies. The pronunciation focus is on shifting word stress in some of the word “families” Sts have just learned. They go on to describe memorable scenes of their own to each other and they then write a paragraph describing the movie or show and the scene. You may want to ask Sts to research a movie or TV show in advance.

In the second part of the lesson the topic shifts to historical accuracy in movies. Sts read an extract from a movie blog and then listen to an interview with a scriptwriter. Finally, the discourse markers, which Sts have been exposed to throughout the lesson, are focused on and the lesson ends with the grammar put into practice through a communication activity Guess the sentence.

OPTIONAL LEAD-IN – THE QUOTE

- Write the quote at the top of p.30 on the board (books closed) and the name of the person who said it, or get Sts to open their books and read it.
- Point out that Michael Crichton (1942–2008) was an American writer and filmmaker, best known as the author of Jurassic Park and the creator of ER.
- Get Sts to discuss what they think the quote means and whether they agree with him about the importance of history.

1 READING & VOCABULARY conflict and warfare

EXTRA IDEA Before beginning this exercise you may want to focus on the lesson title and explain that it is an idiom that means “doing something extremely significant that will be of historic importance.”

- a Focus on the heading. You might want to explain / elicit the meaning of conflict (= a situation in which people, groups, or countries are involved in a serious disagreement or argument) and warfare (= the activity of fighting a war or competing in an aggressive way with another group, company, etc.).

Now focus on the three photos from the movies and ask Sts if they have seen any of them and remember any memorable scenes. If Sts remember them, ask them to describe what happens in each scene.

- b Focus on the task and set a time limit for Sts to read the descriptions.

Get Sts to compare with a partner and then check answers.

1 A, C	5 A, B, C
2 C	6 A, B, C
3 A, B, C	7 C
4 A, B, C	8 A, B, C

- c Put Sts in pairs or do this as an open-class activity.

Get some feedback if Sts worked in pairs.

LEXIS IN CONTEXT

- d Give Sts time to go through the highlighted words with a partner and check they know what they mean.

Check answers. Model and drill pronunciation.

helmet /'hɛlmət/ = a type of hard hat that protects the head commander /kə'mændər/ = a person who is in charge of something, especially an officer in charge of a particular group of soldiers or a military operation prisoner-of-war camp /'prɪzənər əv wɔːr kæmp/ = a guarded camp where prisoners of war or political prisoners are kept civil war /'sɪvl wɔːr/ = a war between groups of people in the same country hanged /hæŋd/ = killed by tying a rope around somebody's neck and allowing them to drop

You might want to highlight that:

- shot is the simple past and past participle of shoot.
- the verb hang has two different past / participle forms: hung / hung for things (e.g., She hung her coat behind the door) and hanged / hanged for killing with a rope.

Help with any other vocabulary problems that arose from the texts.

e Tell Sts to go to Vocabulary Bank Conflict and warfare on p.165.

Focus on 1 Weapons and get Sts to do a individually or in pairs.

🔊 3.8 Now focus on b. Play the audio for Sts to listen and check.

Check answers. Then use the audio to model and drill the pronunciation, especially of any words that are tricky for your Sts.

See script 3.8

🔊 3.8 Conflict and warfare Weapons

3 arrow	6 shield
2 bow	5 spear
1 cannon	7 sword
4 helmet

Now focus on 2 People & events and get Sts to do a and b individually or in pairs.

🔊 3.9 Now focus on c. Play the audio for Sts to listen and check a and b.

Check answers. Then use the audio to model and drill the pronunciation, especially of any words that are tricky for your Sts.

See script 3.9

🔊 3.9 People & events

a
1 casualties	6 the wounded
2 refugees	7 civilians
3 forces	8 snipers
4 troops	9 survivors
5 commander	10 ally
b
1 rebellion	5 civil war
2 coup	6 siege
3 revolution	7 treaty
4 ceasefire

Highlight that wounded is also an adjective (He couldn't fight because he was wounded.) and that (the) wounded can only be used for deaths / injuries caused in wartime. For accidents in daily life use injured (adj.) or the injured (The injured were taken to hospital.).

Highlight the collocations in the definitions, e.g., heavy casualties, armed forces, etc., and the use of the in the wounded (the + adjective to refer to a group of people).

Remind Sts that the p is silent in coup /ku/ because it is a French word.

EXTRA CHALLENGE You may want to teach some collocations for People & events, e.g., suffer heavy casualties, evacuate the wounded, sign a peace treaty.

Now focus on 3 Verbs and get Sts to do a individually or in pairs.

🔊 3.10 Now focus on b. Play the audio for Sts to listen and check.

Check answers. You may want to model and drill the pronunciation of some of these words, e.g., declare war.

See the verbs in bold in script 3.10

🔊 3.10 Verbs

- 1 The rebels overthrew the government.
- 2 Fighting broke out between the rebels and the army.
- 3 The army shelled the rebel positions.
- 4 The rebels retreated.
- 5 Some of the rebels surrendered.
- 6 The rebels blew up the airport runway.
- 7 The government declared war on the rebels.
- 8 Some rebels looted the city.
- 9 The army captured over 300 rebels.
- 10 They finally defeated the rebels.
- 11 The army released most of the rebel prisoners.
- 12 They executed the rebel leader.

EXTRA IDEA You may want to point out to Sts that the verbs capture, defeat, loot, overthrow, retreat, shell, and surrender can also be used as nouns. This may be a sensitive topic for your Sts, so use your judgement about whether to do this, and for how long.

Finally, focus on Activation and give Sts time to think of their answers.

Put Sts in pairs and get them to tell their partner about any current stories related to conflict or warfare, or do this as an open-class activity.

Tell Sts to go back to the main lesson 3B.

EXTRA SUPPORT If you think Sts need more practice, you may want to give them the Vocabulary photocopyable activity at this point or leave it for later as consolidation or review.

2 PRONUNCIATION stress in word families

Pronunciation notes

- Sts sometimes make mistakes with shifting word stress in word “families” (e.g., history, historical) because they tend to stress the same syllable as in the base word. It is important to point out that in many such “families” the stress changes and Sts need to check and underline the stress when they come across these words.

a Focus on the Fine-tuning your pronunciation: changing stress in word families box and go through it with the class.

Then focus on the chart. Give Sts a few minutes to complete it individually or in pairs, and to underline the stressed syllable on all multi-syllable words.

EXTRA SUPPORT Elicit the answers from the class and write them on the board.

- b  3.11 Play the audio once or twice for Sts to check they have the correct syllables underlined.
Check answers and elicit that the “families” where the stress changes are execution, history, rebellion, revolution and victory.

See script 2.12

 3.11

capture, captive / captor, captive, capture command, commander, commanding, command execution, executioner, execute history, historian, historic / historical looting, looter, loot rebellion, rebel, rebellious, rebel revolution, revolutionary, revolutionary, revolt siege, besieged, besiege survival, survivor, surviving, survive victory, victor, victorious

Elicit / explain the difference between:

- captive (= person who has been captured) and captor (= person who captures somebody).
- historical (= connected with the past, e.g., historical documents) and historic (= important in history, e.g., a historic occasion).

- c Focus on the six sentences and get Sts to practice saying them in pairs.
Get individual Sts to say the sentences.

EXTRA SUPPORT Read each sentence first and get Sts to repeat it after you.

3 SPEAKING & WRITING

- a Focus on the Describing a scene from a movie or a book box and go through it with the class.

Focus on the instructions. Remind Sts that a historical movie or show is one set in a historical period or based on a real event, so the term covers a wide range of movies. Try to have the titles of a few well-known historical movies or shows to suggest for Sts who are having problems thinking of one.

Give Sts time to look back at the prompts in 1b and make notes. Monitor and help with any vocabulary they may need.

- b Put Sts in groups of three or four and tell them to describe their movies or TV show and the scene to see if the others in the group agree. They should then all say how that description makes them feel.

Monitor and help.

Get a few Sts to tell the class about a memorable scene.

EXTRA CHALLENGE Tell Sts not to mention the title of the film or name the characters but to refer to them as, e.g., a man, a woman, a soldier, a slave, etc., and see if the others in the group can name the title of the movie.

- c Set a time limit, e.g., 20 minutes, for Sts to write their paragraphs, or assign this for homework. Tell them to use the three descriptions in 1 as models.

4 SPEAKING

- a Tell Sts they are now going to discuss historical accuracy in movies and make sure they understand what it means. Focus on the two images from the movie Braveheart and the question. Give Sts a few minutes to discuss it in pairs, or do this as an open-class activity.
If Sts worked in pairs, get some ideas from various pairs.

One image shows Mel Gibson as William Wallace wearing a kilt, but kilts weren't commonly worn till the 16th or 17th century, and Braveheart is set in the 13th century. The other shows Princess Isabella of France as a grown woman – in the movie she has an affair with Wallace – but in reality, she was only three years old at the time and was living in France.

- b Focus on the four questions and go through them with Sts.

Put Sts in pairs and give them time to discuss the questions.

Get feedback, eliciting opinions from different pairs.

- c Focus on the task and the movie blog. Give Sts time to read the blog and answer the questions in pairs.
Get some feedback from the class.

5 LISTENING

- a  3.12 Focus on the photo of Adrian Hodges and the instructions.

Now focus on the task and give Sts time to read the three possible options. Make sure they know the meaning of the expression as long as.

Focus on the Glossary and go through it with the class.

Play the audio once the whole way through for Sts to listen and choose the best option.

Check the answer.

 3.12

(script in the Student Book on pp.130–131)

I = interviewer, A = Adrian Hodges

Part 1

- I How important is historical accuracy in a historical movie?
A The notion of accuracy in history is a really difficult one in drama because you know, it's like saying, well, “Was Macbeth accurate?, Was– is Shakespearean drama accurate?” The iro– the thing is, it's not about historical accuracy, it's about whether you can make a drama work from history that means something to an audience now. So I tend to take the view that, in a way, accuracy isn't the issue when it comes to the drama, if you're writing a drama you, you have the right as a writer to create the drama that works for you, so you can certainly change details. The truth is nobody really knows how people spoke in Rome or how people spoke in the courts of Charles II or William the Conqueror or Victoria, or whoever, you have an idea from writing, from books, and plays, and so on. We know when certain things happened, what sort of dates happened. I think it's really a question of judgement, if you make history ridiculous, if you change detail to the point where history is an absurdity, then obviously things become more difficult. The truth is, the, the more recent history is, the more difficult it is not to be authentic to it. In a way, it's much easier to play fast and loose with the details of what happened in Rome than it is to play fast and loose with the details of what happened in the Iraq War, say, you know. So it, it, it's all a matter of perspective in some ways. It, it, it's something that you have to be aware of and which you try to be faithful to, but you can't ultimately say a drama has to be bound by the rules of history, because that's not what drama is.

- I Do you think that the writer has a responsibility to represent any kind of historical truth?
- A Not unless that's his intention. If it's your intention to be truthful to history and you, and you put a piece out saying "This is the true story of, say, the murder of Julius Caesar exactly as the historical record has it," then of course, you do have an obligation, because if you then deliberately tell lies about it, you are, you know, you're deceiving your audience. If, however, you say you're writing a drama about the assassination of Julius Caesar purely from your own perspective and entirely in a fictional context, then you have the right to tell the story however you like. I don't think you have any obligation except to the story that you are telling. What you can't be is deliberately dishonest, you can't say "This is true," when you know full well it isn't.

- b Focus on the task and give Sts time to read points 1–8. Play the audio again all the way through. Get Sts to compare with a partner and then check answers.

Sts should have checked: 1, 2, 4, and 7

EXTRA SUPPORT If there's time, get Sts to listen again with the script on p.130–131, focusing on any new vocabulary that Sts didn't understand.

- c  3.13 Focus on the photos and captions, and find out if any Sts have seen the movies. If they have, find out what they thought of them. Don't worry if they haven't. Focus on the task and play the audio once the whole way through for Sts to listen and answer the question. Check the answer.

Adrian is positive.

3.13

(script in the Student Book on p.131)

Part 2

- I Can you think of any examples where you feel the facts have been twisted too far?
- A Well, I think the notion of whether a film, a historical film has gone too far in presenting a dramatized fictional version of the truth, is really a matter of personal taste. The danger is with any historical film that if that becomes the only thing that the audience sees on that subject, if it becomes the received version of the truth, as it were, because people don't always make the distinction between movies and reality and history, then obviously if that film is grossly irresponsible or grossly fantastic in its, in its presentation of the truth, that could, I suppose, become controversial. I mean if you, you know, I think that the only thing anybody is ever likely to know about Spartacus, for example, the movie, is Kirk Douglas and all his friends standing up and saying 'I am Spartacus, I am Spartacus', which is a wonderful moment and it stands for the notion of freedom of individual choice and so on. So Spartacus the film, made in 1962, I think, if memory serves, has become, I think, for nearly everybody who knows anything about Spartacus, the only version of the truth. Now in fact we don't know if any of that is true really. There are some accounts of the historical Spartacus, but very very few and what, virtually the only thing that's known about is that there was a man called Spartacus and there was a rebellion and many people were, you know, were crucified at the end of it, as in the film. Whether that's irresponsible I don't know, I, I can't say that I think it is, I think in a way it's, it's, it's a, Spartacus is a film that had a resonance in the modern era.

There are other examples, you know, a lot of people felt that the version of William Wallace that was presented in Braveheart was really pushing the limits of what history could stand, the whole, in effect, his whole career was invented in the film, or at least built on to such a degree that some people felt that perhaps it was more about the notion of Scotland as an independent country than it was about history as an authentic spectacle. But you know, again, these things are a matter of purely personal taste, I mean, I enjoyed Braveheart immensely.

- d Put Sts in pairs and get them to explain the six phrases to each other. Check answers.

- 1 It becomes what everyone believes to be true.
- 2 extremely irresponsible
- 3 the idea that people have the right to choose
- 4 a significance / meaning in today's time
- 5 being so inaccurate that it wasn't really history anymore
- 6 a question of individual judgement

- e Before Sts listen again, focus on questions 1–4. Play the audio once the whole way through. Get Sts to compare answers and play again as necessary. Check answers.

- 1 The most famous scene is when Kirk Douglas and all his friends stand up and say "I am Spartacus, I am Spartacus."
- 2 Because there are very few accounts of the real Spartacus.
- 3 His whole career was invented in the movie.
- 4 Some people thought Braveheart was about the idea of Scotland as an independent country.

EXTRA SUPPORT If there's time, get Sts to listen again with the script on p.131, focusing on any new vocabulary that Sts didn't understand.

- f Put Sts in pairs or small groups to discuss the two questions. Elicit opinions and ideas.

EXTRA SUPPORT Do this as an open-class activity and elicit opinions from the class.

6 GRAMMAR discourse markers (2): adverbs and adverbial expressions

- a Focus on the instructions, sentences 1–4, and uses A–D. Give Sts time to complete the task. Get Sts to compare with a partner and then check answers.

1 C 2 A 3 D 4 B

- b Tell Sts to go to Grammar Bank 3B on p.147.

Go through each example and its corresponding rule with the class, or give Sts time to read the examples and rules on their own, and answer any questions.

Additional grammar notes

- Recognizing discourse markers is an essential part of understanding both written and spoken English. Using them correctly is also an important aspect of communication that enables the reader or listener to follow your ideas.
- Sts have already worked on discourse markers (commonly called linkers) that introduce a result, a purpose, a contrast, and a reason in 1B. Here they focus on a more diverse group. Sts should now be familiar with the term discourse marker, so when others come up refer to them that way for Sts to add to their knowledge.

Focus on the exercises and get Sts to do them individually or in pairs. If Sts do them individually, get them to compare with a partner.

Check answers after each exercise, getting Sts to read the full sentences.

| 1 Basically | 6 All in all |
| 2 In any case | 7 By the way |

- Speaking of
- By the way / Incidentally
- Speaking of
- at least / on the other hand

- in other words
- All in all
- otherwise
- On the one hand, on the other hand

EXTRA SUPPORT If you think Sts need more practice, you may want to give them the Grammar photocopiable activity at this point or leave it for later as consolidation or review.

- c Put Sts in pairs, A and B, and tell them to go to Communication Guess the sentence, A on p.107, B on p.111.

If your Sts are not familiar with this type of activity, you may want to demonstrate it. Write the following sentence on a piece of paper: I didn't win the race, but at least I didn't come in last.

Don't show the sentence to Sts. Then write on the board: I didn't win the race, but at least I _____. (–)

Tell Sts that you have this sentence completed on a piece of paper and they have to guess what you wrote. Elicit possible completions with a negative verb. If Sts say something different from what's on your paper, e.g., I wasn't the last one, say "Almost. Try again" or give a clue until someone says the phrase didn't come in last.

Now go through the instructions. Emphasize that Sts should write their ideas next to the sentence, but not in the blank, and only fill in the blank when they have guessed the sentence correctly.

Sts continue in pairs.

Monitor and help.

Lesson plan

In the first part of this lesson the person interviewed is Mary Beard, a professor of Classics at the University of Cambridge, who frequently appears on TV and in the media talking about history. In this three-part interview she talks about how to get people interested in ancient history and what we can learn from it, about the importance of considering ordinary people's lives when studying history, and her view on historical movies. The interview is followed by a language focus on typical collocations that Mary Beard uses in the interview.

In the ON THE STREET section people are asked which historical period they'd like to go back to, and whether there's a person from history that they particularly admire.

OPTIONAL LEAD-IN (BOOKS CLOSED)

- Write on the board Ancient History and elicit the pronunciation of ancient /'eɪn.jənt/.
- Ask Sts what nationalities they associate with the expression, and elicit, e.g., the Greeks, the Romans, the Egyptians, the Persians, etc.
- Then ask Sts if they studied any of these in school, and what they remember about them.
- Finally, tell Sts they are going to watch / listen to an interview with a well-known historian.
- If you have internet access in your classroom or Sts have it on their phones, give them a few minutes to Google Mary Beard and find out a bit about her.

1 THE INTERVIEW Part 1

- a Books open. Focus on the photos and the biographical information about Mary Beard. Give Sts time to read it. Do the question as an open-class activity.

Classics refers to the study of ancient Greek and Roman culture, especially their languages and literature. A classicist is an expert in ancient Greek and Roman language, literature, art, architecture, or culture.

- b 3.14 Focus on the task and go through the Glossary with the class.

Play the video or audio (Part 1) once the whole way through for Sts to do the task.

Give Sts time to tell each other what they understood.

Check answers.

Professor Beard thinks the right way is to ask people questions about their contemporary culture and geography. The wrong way is to look at obscure and complicated ancient literature. She thinks we can learn how to deal with a lot of political issues we have these days.

3.14

(script in the Student Book on p.131)

I = Interviewer, M = Mary Beard

Interview with a professor of Classics – Part 1

- I Professor Beard, what's the secret to getting people interested in the Romans, in ancient history?
- M Well, you have to go about it in the right way, really. Um, you know, and I think perhaps starting from rather arcane and difficult bits of literature isn't the right way. But, you know, one thing that you see in Britain, you know, one thing that we know is that an awful lot of our culture and our geography and our place names and so on are actually formed by the Romans, you know. You ask somebody, um, "Why do you think so many English place names end in -chester or -caster, you know, Manchester or Doncaster?" And they'll often say, "I don't know." And then you say, "That's because that bit – -caster – is from the Latin for 'military camp', and every place that ends -caster or -chester once had a Roman fort on it." And I've got a pretty 99% success record with getting people interested after that, because suddenly it is a question, not of these, um, uh, remote people who wrote some literature that you probably suspect would be boring; it's the people who formed the geography of our country and much of Europe. Why is London the capital of, of Britain? It's because the Romans made it so.

- I What do you think we can learn from Roman history?
- M In political terms many of the issues and questions and dilemmas that we face now, uh, were faced by the Romans. And in many ways we're still thinking about and using their answers. I mean, one classic example of that is a famous incident in Roman history in 63 BC where there's a terrorist plot in, in the City of Rome to, to assassinate the political leaders, to torch the city, um, and to take over – revolution. Um, and that plot is discovered by, uh, one of the most famous Romans of all, Marcus Tullius Cicero, you know, the great orator and wit of Roman culture. And he discovers the plot. He lays it before the Senate. He then decides to execute the leading conspirators without trial, summary execution. Um, and a couple of years later he's exiled. Now, in many ways that's the kind of problem we're still facing, uh, with modern responses to terrorism. I mean, what... how far does, how far should homeland security be more important than civil rights, you know? Uh, you know, what about those people in Guantanamo Bay without trial? Um, you know, where, where does the boundary come between the safety of the state and the liberty of the citizen? Now, the Romans were debating that in the 60s BC. And in many ways we're debating it, uh, along the same terms. And in part we've learned from how they debated those rights and wrongs.

- c Focus on the task and give Sts time, in pairs, to see if they can complete any of the sentences.
Play the video or audio again the whole way through.
Get Sts to compare with their partner and then check answers.

EXTRA SUPPORT When you play the video or audio the second time, pause after each point has been mentioned and get Sts to compare what they have understood.

- 1 ...once had a Roman fort or military camp there.
- 2 ...the Romans made it the capital.
- 3 ...assassinate leaders and take over.
- 4 ...tell the Senate about it and then execute the leading conspirators without trial.
- 5 ...responses to modern-day terrorism.

EXTRA SUPPORT If there's time, you could play the video or audio again while Sts read the script on p.131, so they can see what they understood / didn't understand. Translate / explain any new words or phrases.

▶ Part 2

- a 3.15 Focus on the task and the Glossary and go through it with the class.

Give Sts time to read sentences 1–7. Tell them the first time they listen they just need to mark each sentence T or F.

Play the video or audio (Part 2) once the whole way through for Sts to do the task.

Get Sts to compare with a partner.

EXTRA SUPPORT You could check answers now, so when Sts are listening again in b, they only need to correct the F sentences.

3.15

(script in the Student Book on p.131)

Interview with a professor of Classics – Part 2

- I If you could go back in time, is there one particular historical period that you'd like to go back to?
- M I think it would be a terrible kind of, uh, punishment to be made to go back in history, particularly if you're a woman, you know. There's, um, you know, there is not a single historical period in world history where women had halfway as decent a time as they do now. So, deciding to go back there, uh, you know, that would, that would be a self-inflicted punishment. I think I'd rather go in the future. Um, and there's also, I mean, even for men there's considerable disadvantages about the past, you know, like, you know, no antibiotics and no aspirin.
- I Today, we live in a celebrity culture, but in Meet the Romans you focus on the lives of the ordinary people in Rome. Was that a conscious decision, to try to get people away from celebrity culture?
- M I was rather pleased that people did actually find, you know, the non-celebrity, um, version of the Romans interesting. Um, and in some ways if it, if it was a small antidote to modern celebrity culture, I'm extremely pleased. Um, I think that that wasn't quite what was driving me, though, because, uh, I think the celebrities of the ancient world are so remote from us in some ways. Um, and one of the things that puts people off ancient history is that, you know, you know, the big narrative books, the kind of the history of "the big men," you know, never seem to answer all those questions that we know we all want to know about the ancient world, you know, or any period in the past, you know: where did they go to the loo, you know. Um, and actually I think people are often short-changed, uh, about, um, the...in, in terms of providing an answer to questions which are really good ones, you know. Um, you know, in the end most of us, most women – don't know about men – most women, you know, do really want to know what having a baby was like, um, uh, before the advent of modern obstetrics, you know. That's a big question. It's not, you know, it's not, simply because it's, uh, intimate and female doesn't mean it's a less important question than why Julius Caesar was assassinated. And actually world history contains a lot more people like me and my family and women and slaves and people who, you know, want to do many of the things that we want to do, you know. But they can't clean their teeth because there's no such thing as an ancient toothbrush, you know. Now, how does that feel? And I'm not saying in that I guess that those big blokeish issues aren't important, you know. The assassination of Julius Caesar, you know, is an event in world history that has formed how we look at every other assassination since, you know. When Kennedy's assassinated we see that partly in relationship to that, that formative defining bit of political assassination in Rome. But it's not the only way that Rome is important.

- b Tell Sts that they will listen again and that this time they need to correct the false sentences.

3.16

(script in the Student Book on p.131)

Interview with a professor of Classics – Part 3

I As a historian, how important do you think it is that historical movies should be accurate?

M I'm not sure quite how keen I am on accuracy above everything else. The most important thing, if I was going to make a historical movie, I'd really want to get people interested. And I think that, that, um, film and television, um, program makers can be a bit, can be a bit sort of nerdy about accuracy.

I remember a friend of mine once told me that, uh, he'd acted as advisor for some Roman film and the, the crew were always ringing up when they were on location, um, saying things like, "Now, what kind of dog should we have?" You know, "Should it, you know, if we're going to have a dog in the film, should it be an Alsatian or, you know, a Dachshund or whatever?" And to start with he said he'd go to the library and he'd kind of look up and he'd find a breed. And eventually after question after question he'd think, look, these guys are getting the whole of Roman history in, in the big picture utterly wrong, and yet there they are worrying about the damned dogs, you know.

I Can you think of any historical movies that you've really enjoyed?

M I absolutely loved Gladiator. Um, you know, never mind its horribly schmaltzy plot, you know; I thought in all kinds of ways it was just a wonderful, uh, brilliant, and I don't know if it was accurate, but a justifiable recreation of ancient Rome. Um, the, the beginning scenes of Gladiator which show, you know, Roman combat, um, just in a sense punctured the kind of slightly sanitized version of, you know, legionaries standing, you know, with their, all their shields, you know, face to-, you know, facing the enemy, um, you know, all looking ever so kind of neat and tidy. I mean, it was messy and it was bloody and it was horrible. And it was such a different kind of image of, uh, Roman combat that I remember we set it in Cambridge as an exam question, you know, um, you know: how, how would, how would students judge that kind of representation of Roman warfare.

I It's very interesting that there seem to be more and more historical movies recently, and many have won Oscars. Is that because history has all the best stories?

M Yes, there's no such good story as a true story – and that's what history's got going for it, you know, actually. Um, you know, non-fiction in a, in a kind of way is always a better yarn than fiction is. Um, and I think it's, you know... I feel very pleased because, uh, I think, you know, for one thing it gets, it gets some of the best stories from history into the popular, into popular attention, popular consciousness. But I think also, I mean, it shows that you don't always have to be deadly serious about history. I mean, you know, history, like classics, you know, is often treated as something which is good for you; but isn't actually going to be much fun, you know. You'll be improved by knowing about it but it probably will be a bit tedious in the process. And I think that, you know, showing that history can be larky, it can be funny, it can be surprising, um, it can be something that you can sit down and have a good two and a half hours at the cinema enjoying, is really all to the good.

b Focus on the task and give Sts time to read sentences 1–6.

Put Sts in pairs and get them to try and work out what the highlighted words and phrases mean.

Now play the video or audio again the whole way through.

Get Sts to compare with a partner and then check answers.

EXTRA SUPPORT When you play the video or audio the second time, pause after each sentence has been mentioned and get Sts to compare what they have understood.

- 2 or something of a similar type
- 3 people
- 4 too sentimental
- 5 its advantage or strength
- 6 a long story, especially one that is exaggerated or invented

EXTRA SUPPORT If there's time, you could play the video or audio again while Sts read the script on p.131, so they can see what they understood / didn't understand. Translate / explain any new words or phrases.

(script in the Student Book on p.132)

I = Interviewer, D = Daisy, He = Heather, Ha = Harry,

Ad = Adam, An = Andrew

Daisy

- I Is there a period of history that you would like to go back to?
- D I'd really like to go back to Tudor England, sixteenth-century England.
- I Why that period?
- D Well I'm doing a PhD in the music of that period and I just think it's such a fascinating time because there was so much change happening and the way people lived their lives, their religion, the way the politics of the country was working. It must have been a really exciting time to live.
- I Is there a person from history that you admire or find especially fascinating?
- D There was a lady called Bess of Hardwick, um, who owned a lot of property in Derbyshire. She was a real social climber, and she lived through Henry VIII, Edward VI, Mary I, and Elizabeth I and into a bit of James I as well. Um, so she had a really long life, a really exciting life and she started from absolutely nothing and worked her way right to the top. I think she must have been a really amazing lady to know.

Heather

- I Is there a period of history that you would like to go back to?
- He I think I would have loved to be around in California in the sixties. I think it, it sounds like it was a really exciting time. I think, er, there was a lot of frightening things happening, in Vietnam, and, but it– but people were excited and, um, excited about the potential, I think of, of something new and really exploring their freedom, I guess.
- I Is there a person from history that you admire or find especially fascinating?
- He I think I most admire Nelson Mandela. I'm South African. So, uh, he's the first person that comes to mind. I think he was, um, an incredible person and an amazing leader. So, um, yeah, I would have loved to have met him.

Harry

- I Is there a period of history that you'd like to go back to?
- Ha Um, ooh, that's a really, that's a weird one. I don't know. Um, history was pretty brutal, life was really quite hard. Um, I mean, there are some parts, some aspects of it that I'd like, where time was slower, life was defined by the seasons and daylight, um, and you didn't have the same sort of pressures as you do now. So, I'd like aspects of it, but I'm not sure I'd really like to go back to the actual way of life.
- I Is there a person from history that you admire or find especially fascinating?
- Ha Um, probably, uh, probably Queen Elizabeth I, because she, she managed to be the queen in a society where women weren't expected to have or hold or command any power and respect and that they were meant to do the bidding of men and their families and she actually stood up and was a person to be counted.

Adam

- I Is there a period of history that you would like to go back to?
- A Yes, there's a period I'd like to go back to, absolutely! I love ancient Greece. I love, uh, ancient Athens. I think it would be so amazing to spend time there and see what it was like being in the Agora with, you know, uh, Plato and Aristotle and talking. And, uh, that entire world would be very, very interesting to me.
- I Is there a person from history that you admire or find especially fascinating?
- A Hmm. A person from history that I find, ah, that I admire. There are a lot of people, I study a lot of ancient history, so I would love to meet Julius Caesar or someone like that who really transformed the entire world with his actions and you know he has a very unique personality, he was a very cocky person and it'd be fun to, uh, just see what he was like in person and see how he was able to kind of take over the entire Roman Empire by himself.

Andrew

- I Is there a period of history that you would like to go back to?
- A I think I'd like to go back to, um, the Renaissance, like, the fourteenth and fifteenth century. Maybe in Italy.
- I Is there a person from history that you admire or find especially fascinating?
- A I've read a lot about, uh, Filippo Brunelleschi who was in Florence, in Italy, during the Renaissance and helped build the Duomo, the dome in Italy.

b Focus on the task and give Sts time to go through the sentences.

Play the video or audio once the whole way through, pausing after each speaker to give Sts time to do the task. Play again as necessary.

Harry doesn't mention a specific time they would like to go back to.

Adam would like to listen to some philosophers talking.

Daisy is studying the period they would like to go back to.

Andrew has read a lot about a specific person.

Heather would like to go back to the most recent historical period.

c  3.19 This exercise focuses on some colloquial expressions that were used by the speakers. Focus on the phrases and give Sts time to read them.

Help with any vocabulary problems and get feedback from Sts on what parts they found hard to understand and why, e.g., speed of speech, pronunciation, etc.

4 SPEAKING

Put Sts in pairs or small groups and get them to ask and answer the six questions, giving as much information as possible.

Monitor and help with vocabulary. Help with any general language problems at the end of the activity.

Get some feedback.

- G speculation and deduction
V sounds and the human voice
P consonant clusters

Lesson plan

This lesson has two main contexts, noise and silence.

The first half of the lesson focuses on sounds. It starts with a vocabulary focus on verbs and nouns to describe sounds and the human voice, and there is a pronunciation focus on consonant clusters that occur in many of these words, e.g., screech, splash, etc. Sts then read an article about a woman who has a phobia of sound in her daily life. They then listen to five people talking about noises they don't like. The first half of the lesson ends with Sts talking about noises they hate and sounds they love.

In the second half of the lesson the focus is on "breaking the silence," i.e., the silence that exists between people in cities. Sts speculate about a photo of Peggy Gruner, a grandma, which leads to the grammar focus on speculation and deduction. Sts then listen to an interview with a co-founder of the organization "Talk to me London," which looks for different ways to encourage strangers to talk to each other – their vision is to build a friendlier city through small conversations between strangers. There is a short listening based on real people's experiences of starting conversations in cities. Finally, Sts talk about how friendly people are in places they know.

OPTIONAL LEAD-IN – THE QUOTE

- Write the quote at the top of p.36 on the board (books closed) and the name of the person who said it, or get Sts to open their books and read it.
- Point out that Publilius Syrus (1st century BC) was a writer who went to Rome as a slave from Syria. His wit and talent won the favor of his master, who freed and educated him.
- Get Sts to discuss what they think the quote means and whether they agree with it or not and why.
- Open the discussion to the whole class and elicit ideas and opinions.

1 VOCABULARY & WRITING sounds and the human voice

- a Focus on the task and then get the class to sit for one minute in silence.

Get Sts to compare their lists with a partner.

Elicit what noises Sts heard in their classroom, e.g., traffic noise, noise from adjoining classrooms, etc., and find out which noises, if any, affect their concentration. If some of your Sts work, ask them what noises annoy or distract them in their workplace.

You may want to elicit from Sts the difference in meaning between a sound and a noise. Although they are similar in meaning, there is a clear difference (a sound is something you can hear and has a neutral or positive meaning, e.g., I love the sound of the sea. A noise is a sound that is often loud or unpleasant, e.g., the noise of the traffic was deafening).

- b Tell Sts to go to Vocabulary Bank Sounds and the human voice on p.166.

Focus on Activation and make sure Sts understand what they have to do.

Put Sts in pairs and get them to make the sounds for their partner to guess.

Get some feedback.

Tell Sts to go back to the main lesson 4A.

EXTRA SUPPORT If you think Sts need more practice, you may want to give them the Vocabulary photocopyable activity at this point or leave it for later as consolidation or review.

c 4.4 Focus on the task and play the first sequence of sounds. Elicit them from the class and write them on the board. Then elicit a sequence of events from the class using the five sounds and write the paragraph on the board, e.g., It was 12:30 at night and Mike had just fallen asleep. He was snoring loudly. Suddenly he woke up. He could hear the buzz of a mosquito, which had just bitten him. He got up and killed it with his hand.

Now repeat the process for the second sequence of sounds, and then the third. You could get Sts to write their paragraphs in pairs or do this as a whole-class activity eliciting sentences and writing the paragraphs on the board.

[sound effects]

clock ticking man snoring mosquito buzzing man groans "Oh no" bang (of man killing mosquito)

car driving off cars honking car crash

wind whistling owl hooting man and woman whispering something opening creaking door woman screams

2 PRONUNCIATION consonant clusters

Pronunciation notes

- Consonant clusters are groups of consonants with no vowel in between, e.g., spring. Pronouncing them may be a problem for Sts depending on their first language. The typical error is to insert a vowel sound before, after, or in the middle of the cluster.

a 4.5 Focus on the Fine-tuning your pronunciation: consonant clusters box and go through it with the class.

Play the audio once the whole way through for Sts just to listen.

4.5

See the words in the Student Book on p.36

Now get Sts to practice saying them.

EXTRA SUPPORT If these sounds are a problem for your Sts, play the words one by one and pause, getting Sts to repeat them.

b 4.6 Play the audio for Sts to listen and repeat the sentences one by one.

See the sentences in the Student Book on p.36

Get Sts to practice saying them quietly to themselves.

Finally, get individual Sts to say the sentences out loud.

c Give Sts time to invent their sentences while you monitor and help.

Get Sts to exchange sentences and say them.

You could get some Sts to say their sentences to the class.

3 READING

a Focus on the title of the article and get Sts to read the introduction and look at the photo. Ask Sts how they think she feels. Ask them, in pairs, to discuss how they think the four parts of Vicky's life might have been affected by her phobia.

Elicit some opinions.

b Tell Sts to read the rest of the article to find out the answers to a. Point out the Glossary.

Check answers.

college studies	She didn't do as well on exams as she could have done because of sounds breaking her concentration.
relationships	She hasn't had any long-term relationships because she often feels the need to be alone, away from the sounds her partner is making.
work	She has had many jobs, looking for the quietest office possible.
where she lives	She has moved a couple of times in search of peace and quiet.

c In pairs, Sts match the paragraphs with summaries A–H. Point out that there is one summary that they do not need.

Check answers.

1 B 2 H 3 D 4 A 5 C 6 E 7 G

LEXIS IN CONTEXT

d Give Sts time to go through the highlighted phrases with a partner and check they know what they mean.

Check answers. Model and drill pronunciation.

seemingly = in a way that appears to be true, but may in fact not be abruptly = sudden and unexpected, often in an unpleasant way incessantly = never stopping continually = repeated many times in a way that is annoying strangely = in an unusual or surprising way with ease = without any difficulty in proximity = near e Do this as an open-class activity and encourage Sts to give their opinion of Vicky's phobia, and to share stories of anyone they know with a phobia.

4 LISTENING & SPEAKING

a 4.7 Focus on the task and the two questions.

Play the audio once the whole way through for Sts to answer the two questions. You could pause the audio after each speaker to give Sts time to write.

Check answers and Sts' opinions on how much the noises affect the speakers' lives.

Speaker 1	dogs barking
Speaker 2	cell phone ringtones such as songs or TV theme tunes
Speaker 3	car horns
Speaker 4	a mosquito buzzing in the bedroom at night
Speaker 5	the sound of a colleague eating noisy snacks

4.7

1

Sounds or noises that particularly annoy me, I would say dogs barking, very irritating, they just don't stop, especially the small yappy dogs, they just go on and on and on and just keep yapping at you and I just find that extremely irritating because there isn't any real way to shut them up like a child, or something – you can tell them to shut up, but a dog, no, they'll just keep going.

2

Any noises that annoy me? I suppose I'm annoyed by excessively creative cell phone ringers, that can be of overly popular songs or themes from television series that people obviously think are really cute, but I probably don't think they are as cute.

3

So, the one sound that I really hate is car horns, which you hear an awful lot of in cities. And the reason I hate them is because in my mind, at least, a car horn is meant as a warning, but of course nobody uses them for warnings any more, they use them because they're angry and impatient, and it seems to me that it's like shouting at somebody, and I don't like hearing that expression of anger all around me from dozens of cars.

4

For me, the most annoying sound is the buzzing noise of a mosquito. When you're just falling asleep in your bedroom at night and you hear that sound, and it's just terrible, I actually can't sleep until I've stopped the sound by killing the mosquito. So what I tend to do is, I tend to leave the light off actually, and just follow the sound, and just search the room for the sound for as long as I can until I can track it down and kill it, 'cause otherwise I, I can't sleep knowing that I will wake up in the morning covered in bite marks.

I work in an office, and the person who sits next to me, Julie, she crunches on rice cakes every lunchtime, and it's really annoying, and I don't know what to say to her, or how to put it, and if I do tell her now, she'll know I've been annoyed for the last four years, but I think she's leaving soon, so maybe I'll just have to deal with it for the next few weeks, or months.

b Focus on the task and give Sts time to read questions 1–5.

Play the audio again once the whole way through.

Check answers.

1	Speaker 3	4	Speaker 4
2	Speaker 5	5	Speaker 2
3	Speaker 1

EXTRA SUPPORT If there's time, get Sts to listen again with the script on p.132, focusing on any new vocabulary that Sts didn't understand.

c Focus on the task and make sure Sts know the idiom to be put on hold in the third bullet point.

Put Sts in pairs and get them to ask and answer the questions, giving as much information as possible.

Get some feedback from the class.

5 GRAMMAR speculation and deduction

- a Do this as an open-class activity and elicit ideas.
- b Tell Sts to go to Communication Masks for Manggao on p.108.

Tell Sts to read the article to find out what really happened.

Check answers.

- 1 The photo was taken in the Guangxi Zhuang Autonomous Region in South China.
- 2 They were wearing costumes to celebrate the Manggao Festival.
- 3 They had just finished dancing.
- 4 They must have been feeling happy / proud / hot.

- c Tell Sts to go to Grammar Bank 4A on p.148.
- Go through each example and its corresponding rule with the class, or give Sts time to read the examples and rules on their own, and answer any questions.

Additional grammar notes

- Sts should be familiar with the use of modal verbs may / might, must, and can't for speculation; however, it is a structure that most Sts do not use with any fluency until advanced level. Here the structure is reviewed, and other expressions for speculation or deduction using adjectives or adverbs are also presented and practiced.

Focus on the exercises and get Sts to do them individually or in pairs. If Sts do them individually, get them to compare with a partner.

Check answers after each exercise, getting Sts to read the full sentences.

- a
- 1 Someone must have moved them.
 - 2 ✓
 - 3 I think it might / may be
 - 4 ✓
 - 5 She definitely won't like
 - 6 Julian is bound to be late.

- 1 He probably won't have time to stop by and see us.
 - 2 She may never get over the breakup.
 - 3 They ought to have heard the news by now.
 - 4 I can't have left my credit card in the restaurant.
 - 5 Your sister is bound to like the scarf.
 - 6 The company director is unlikely to resign, ...
 - 7 He must have been in love with her, ...
 - 8 Did you definitely lock the back door?
 - 9 ..., it's likely that the couple will get divorced soon.

Tell Sts to go back to the main lesson 4A.

EXTRA SUPPORT If you think Sts need more practice, you may want to give them the Grammar photocopiable activity at this point or leave it for later as consolidation or review.

- d Put Sts in pairs and get them to make speculations and deductions about the photos.
- Elicit some ideas from the class. Then tell them what had really happened.

The man in the Spider-Man costume was taking part in a stunt to promote Fathers 4 Justice. This organization campaigns for fathers' rights (for example, for access to children after a divorce), mainly using stunts and protests, which are often conducted in costume.

The blue car was a marketing stunt to launch the Chevrolet Orlando. It was made of 1.5 tonnes of Play-Doh™, took eight modelers two weeks to make, and is the world's biggest Play-Doh model.

The polar bear was a publicity stunt to promote a new TV series called Fortitude, a thriller set in a Norwegian town on the Arctic Circle. The bear took eight weeks to build, and has two people inside, who practiced for five days to make their movements seem exactly like a real polar bear's.

EXTRA SUPPORT Do this as an open-class activity.

6 LISTENING

- a Focus on the questions and give Sts a few minutes to think of their answers.
- Get some feedback from individual Sts who have recently had an interesting conversation with a stranger.
- b Focus on the task and give Sts time to read the information and answer the two questions.
- Check answers to the first question and elicit opinions for the second.

Talk to me London wants strangers in London to talk to each other, have conversations, and create a friendlier city.
Sts' own answers

EXTRA IDEA Before Sts read about Talk to me London, write the name of the organization on the board and elicit what Sts think this organization does.

- c 4.8 Focus on the Note-taking box and go through it with the class.
- Now focus on the task and the five headings, making sure Sts know what a pin is.
- Play the audio once the whole way through for Sts to listen and take notes.

4.8

(script in the Student Book on p.132)

I = Interviewer, P = Polly

- I London, as well as other big cities, has often been accused of being an unfriendly place, but is it really, and if it is, does it matter and what could or should we do about it? Today I'm talking to Polly Akhurst, one of the co-founders of Talk to me London, an organization whose goal is to get people talking to each other. Hello, Polly.
- P Hello.
- I Could you start by telling us about Talk to me London?
- P Sure. Talk to me London is all about finding ways for people to talk to other people they don't know. And we do this through fun activities including a badge or pin, which says Talk to me London on it and shows that you are open to conversation, as well as through regular events that, that get people talking, and we are also organizing a "Talk to me London" day at the end of August.
- I And how did you get the idea for it, I mean, do you personally find London unfriendly?
- P Well, I personally talk to a lot of people I don't know, and I think that is where the idea came from, I found that the conversations that I have with people just kind of randomly, have been hugely, kind of, beneficial, really, so I've made, I might have made new friends, new business connections, sometimes they just kind of just cheer up my day. So Talk to me London comes from this idea of, you know, what happens if we do start talking to each other more and you kind of, you know, are able to see more opportunities and possibilities there.
- I Have you ever been anywhere either in the UK, the US, or maybe abroad, a, a large city, which you thought really was a friendly place, which made you think you wish London was like that?
- P There are definitely places that I've found friendlier than London, but I think that we all kind of change a bit when we travel and we're out of our normal circumstances, we feel like, you know, more free to, to do things and perhaps talking to people is one of them. There is a tendency for, people say that Mediterranean countries are friendlier, however, or Latino countries even, but there was a similar initiative to this which was set up in Madrid a couple of years ago which I think indicates that, that they're facing the same problem as us, and perhaps, you know, points to the fact that this is a phenomenon in all large cities.
- I So you wouldn't say it was a uniquely London problem?
- P No, I wouldn't, no.
- I You've had some quite high profile support of 'Talk to me London', on your website I think there is a quote from Boris Johnson (the former mayor of London) saying what a wonderful idea it sounds like. But on the other hand there's, there's been some quite negative media coverage which must have been discouraging for you?
- P I mean, I don't think so, I think that this idea is quite controversial in some ways because we're trying to encourage people to think about the way that they act and to reflect on that and to possibly change that, so, it hasn't really been surprising for us that we've had the negative coverage.
- I And what would you say to people, and there are plenty of them I think, people who would say, "I'm sitting on the bus, I'm sitting on the train, I really don't want to talk to anybody, I really don't want anyone to talk to me, I just want to read my book or listen to my music, or whatever ..." What would you say to those people?
- P I would say that it's not about everyone talking to everyone else, it's about enabling those people who want to talk to do so basically, so that's why all the things that we do are opt in, so the pin, for example you wear it if you want to talk, if you don't want to talk, you don't have to wear it, so you know, this, this isn't something for everyone, but we want to give people the choice between talking or not talking and currently there doesn't really seem to be that choice.
- I Well, I wish you all the best with the project, I hope it's extremely successful and thank you very much for talking to us.
- P Thanks a lot.

- d Put Sts in pairs and get them to compare their notes.

Play the audio again for Sts to listen and add more information to their notes if necessary.

Check answers.

The "Talk to me London" pin

It is a pin you wear to say you are happy to talk to anyone.

How Polly has benefited from talking to strangers

She has made new friends and new business connections.

Mediterranean countries and Madrid

Mediterranean countries are friendlier. However, Madrid suffers from the same problem as London, so a similar organization was set up a couple of years ago.

Her reaction to negative media coverage

She wasn't surprised because she was expecting it.

What she would say to people who don't want to talk

That's OK. If you don't want to talk, you don't have to.

EXTRA SUPPORT If there's time, get Sts to listen again with the script on p.132, focusing on any new vocabulary that Sts didn't understand.

- e 4.9 Focus on the task and make sure Sts understand the question.

Play the audio once the whole way through for Sts to listen.

Check answers.

Started a conversation: James, Anneka

Was approached: Philippa, Alise

4.9

(script in the Student Book on pp.132–133)

James's story

I was heading home at rush hour a few weeks ago. I was tired and bored, and there was this guy standing beside me reading a book. So I started reading it over his shoulder – it was all about the history of popular social movements. I couldn't see the title, so I asked him what it was called. Surprisingly, he reacted positively and told me the name. He told me that he commuted for two hours each day and that he always tried to read something enlightening because it made him feel a bit better about his life and being productive by the time he got home! It was such a nice unexpected conversation – and it got me thinking about my own reading habits!

Anneka's story

I was getting the last train back home one evening, and I had to wait a long time on the platform, so I started talking to the girl sitting next to me. She was Czech and had just come to the UK with her boyfriend for work. She was a science graduate in the Czech Republic, but was working at a sandwich shop. I suppose in many ways it was a pretty typical story, but she was so upbeat and positive about London and living in the UK. At the end of the journey she emphasized how good it was to talk, and pulled out a sandwich from her bag and gave it to me. I was both shocked and grateful! Maybe my stomach had been rumbling too loudly...

Philippa's story

I was on the train home today and this young man asked me how my day had been. We talked about the area and iPads and TV and that kind of thing. Then I mentioned the concept of "Talk to me London" and encouraged him not to stop talking to people. An older lady in the meantime had sat down by us and thought the fact that we were talking was nice! And then I bumped into an old neighbor from ten years ago, and we caught up. When he got off the train, the guy opposite me mentioned how nice it was to see us catching up, and then we got talking too. It was exciting. It was contagious. I had a smile on my face for the rest of the day.

Alise's story

I was standing on a bus, and I would have thought I'd looked unapproachable, but instead a man sitting close by saw I was carrying a guitar. He gave me a big smile and asked if I'd play him a song! Before long we were chatting about traveling and living in different countries and cities around the world, and about music. He was leaving the next day for a few months of travel around South America. Because the man was a small distance away from where I was standing, quite a few people nearby were able to hear us talk, and many of them also joined in. It felt a little surreal, stepping off the bus later, smiling and saying goodbye to a bunch of strangers as though they were long-time friends.

- g Do this as an open-class activity.
You could also tell Sts whether or not you would wear the pin.

7 SPEAKING

- a Focus on the task and the question.
Give Sts time to read the three comments and answer the question.
Check the answers.

Alex feels fairly positive – he had conversations with strangers when living in London, and hates Los Angeles, where nobody talks to you.
Mark feels very negative and would never want to talk to strangers.
Bella also feels negative, but only because she thinks "Talk to me London" isn't needed.

EXTRA IDEA Ask Sts if they have ever been to London and to those who have, ask them if they agree or not with any of the comments and why.

Put Sts in small groups to discuss the questions.

- G adding emphasis (1): inversion
V describing books and movies
P sounds and spelling /ɔ/

Lesson plan

The two main contexts of this lesson are books and translation. However, the angles also apply to movies and TV shows, so if your Sts don't read, open the topic out to include them.

The first half of the lesson begins with an article about spoilers and whether knowing how a book or movie ends really affects our enjoyment. Sts then discuss the topic. This leads to a vocabulary focus on adjectives commonly used to describe books or movies, and a pronunciation focus on the /ɔ/ sound. Sts then talk about their reading habits past and present, which provides a good opportunity for you to find out how much Sts read in English and for Sts themselves to exchange information and advice about suitable books / authors to read. The grammar focus is on inversion for dramatic effect after adverbs or adverbial phrases. The first half ends with writing a review, which includes a focus on using participle clauses.

In the second half of the lesson the topic shifts to the role of the translator. Sts read a blog about translating a novel from Portuguese into English, study the changes the translator makes as he refines his translation, and consider how his approach could help them with their writing in English. Sts then listen to an interview with another translator talking about the pros and cons and some of the trickier aspects of the job.

OPTIONAL LEAD-IN – THE QUOTE

- Write the quote at the top of p.40 on the board (books closed) and the name of the person who said it, or get Sts to open their books and read it.
- Point out that Boris Pasternak (1890–1960) was a Russian writer and poet. Outside Russia, Pasternak is best known as the author of Doctor Zhivago. In 1958 he won the Nobel Prize in Literature.
- Ask Sts whether they share Pasternak's opinion and find out how many Sts in the class are regular readers of novels a) in their own language and b) in English.

1 READING & SPEAKING

EXTRA IDEA Before beginning this exercise you may want to focus on the lesson title and ask Sts what they think "to read something from cover to cover" means (to read it all the way through).

- a Focus on the task. You could tell Sts that Barnes & Noble is the largest retail bookseller in the United States. Give Sts time to read the extract and answer the questions. Check the answer to the first question and elicit answers for the second one.

A spoiler is information that you are given about what is going to happen in a book, movie, television show, sporting event, etc., before you have read or seen it.

Sts' own answers

Help with any vocabulary problems that arose, e.g., left speechless (= so surprised that you do not know what to say) and whodunnit (inf) (= a story, play, etc. about a murder in which you do not know who did the murder until the end).

If your Sts want to know how And Then There Were None ends, tell them that the murderer was Judge Wargrave, who kills his victims one by one as punishment for the terrible things they've done, and that they thought they'd gotten away with.

- b Focus on the task and the article Time to rename the spoiler. Then either put Sts in pairs to discuss the question or do it as an open-class activity.

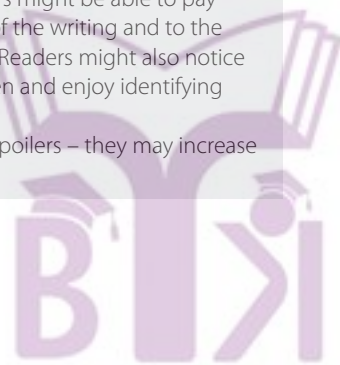

If Sts worked in pairs, elicit some answers.

Now set a time limit for Sts to read the article and check their ideas.

Get some feedback, asking Sts if they agree with the author and have changed their minds about spoilers.

- c Now tell Sts to read questions 1–3 and then read the article again. Put Sts in pairs to answer the questions. Check answers and ask if Sts agree with the conclusion in question 3.

- 1 Over 800 students read one of three types of short story. For each story, there was a spoiler paragraph. The students read the stories either with or without the spoiler. They then had to rate the stories. The stories with spoilers were rated as more enjoyable. Knowing the ending made the process of reading more, not less, pleasurable.
- 2 The writer suggests that readers might be able to pay more attention to the quality of the writing and to the details of the story as a whole. Readers might also notice clues about what might happen and enjoy identifying them.
- 3 We don't really need to avoid spoilers – they may increase our enjoyment.

- d Put Sts in pairs and get them to ask and answer the questions, giving as much information as possible. Monitor and help.
- Get some feedback. Find out with a show of hands how many Sts would read the last page of a book before starting it from the beginning.

2 VOCABULARY & PRONUNCIATION

describing books and movies; /ɔ/

- a Focus on the task and highlight that the comments about the books and movies explain the meaning of the adjectives.

Give Sts time in pairs to complete the sentences, telling them to try to guess the meaning of adjectives they haven't seen before.

- b 4.11 Play the audio for Sts to listen and check. Check answers and get Sts to tell you which syllable is stressed.

See script 4.11

4.11

- | | |
|-----------------------------|-----------------------|
| 1 moving | 6 intriguing |
| 2 thought-prov oking | 7 implausi ble |
| 3 slow -paced | 8 fast-mov ing |
| 4 grip ping | 9 depress ing |
| 5 entertai ning | 10 haun ting |

You might want to highlight:

- the literal meaning of grip = to hold sth strongly.
 - haunt = literally, what a ghost does. Figuratively, it means to keep coming into your mind.
 - implausible = not seeming likely to be true.
 - slow-paced = difficult to follow or understand and so becoming tiring / boring.
 - intriguing = interesting because it's unusual and with an element of mystery.
- c Sts work in pairs. Highlight that the same book or movie can be used for more than one adjective. Get some feedback from the class.

Pronunciation notes

- The /ɔ/ sound is one that can be spelled in many different ways. The most common spellings are aw (e.g., awful), al (e.g., walk), ough or ough especially before t (e.g., thought, taught), and less commonly au (e.g., launch).

- d 4.12 Focus on the task and the /ɔ/ sound. Play the audio, pausing after each sentence to give Sts time to write. Then play the audio again. Get Sts to compare with a partner. Check answers by getting Sts to write the six sentences on the board.

See script 4.12

4.12

- 1 The author's talk was very long.
- 2 He thought that the plot was implausible.
- 3 I always feel I ought to read more.
- 4 I caught him yawning as he read a book in bed.
- 5 The audience was haunted by the story about war.
- 6 We all thought the ending was awful.

Put Sts in pairs and get them to find the different spellings for the /ɔ/ sound.

Check answers and give Sts the information in the Pronunciation notes.

The different spellings for the /ɔ/ sound: a(l), au, ough, aw, o, ough.

EXTRA SUPPORT Do this last part as an open-class activity, reading each sentence out loud and circling all the /ɔ/ sounds on the board.

- e Put Sts in pairs and get them to practice saying the sentences. Get individual Sts to say each sentence.

3 SPEAKING

Focus on the task and the talking points. You could demonstrate the activity by talking about your own books, before getting Sts to continue in pairs.

When they have finished, get some feedback from the class.

EXTRA IDEA This would be a good moment, if you have not done so already, to find out what your Sts are reading in English. Sts can share their own experiences with the class and make recommendations. Even at this level, Sts may struggle with unadapted books, so remind them that they may get more pleasure from reading advanced graded readers, for example Oxford Bookworms Stage 6 (B2 / C1).

4 GRAMMAR adding emphasis (1): inversion

- a Focus on the task and highlight that two of the sentences are taken from novels, one from a fairy tale, one from an autobiography, and one from a newspaper review. Find out if Sts know any of the authors and the artist Matisse. Give Sts time to complete the task. Get Sts to compare with a partner and then check answers.

1 B 2 C 3 E 4 A 5 D

- b Focus on the questions and elicit answers.

The normal order of subject and (auxiliary) verb has been inverted and the verbs are in the interrogative (question) form.

Putting a negative adverbial phrase at the beginning makes the sentence more dramatic.

Highlight that this is a formal device not usually used in informal conversation although it might be appropriate in a speech or lecture.

Finally, ask the class to tell you the normal form for each phrase:

- 1 As soon as we had sat down at the kitchen table...
- 2 She had just put the comb in her hair when...
- 3 I didn't understand until later...
- 4 I have never seen so many people...
- 5 Silas had not only killed the only four people who knew where the keystone was hidden, he had also killed...

c Tell Sts to go to Grammar Bank 4B on p.149.

Go through each example and its corresponding rule with the class, or give Sts time to read the examples and rules on their own, and answer any questions.

Additional grammar notes

- Inverting the subject and verb after some (mainly negative) adverbial expressions is commonly used for dramatic effect in written English. Sts should be encouraged to use inversions where appropriate, but not to overuse them as this would make their English sound unnatural.
- Highlight that after No sooner... we use than, but after Hardly / Scarcely we use when or before.

Focus on the exercise and get Sts to do it individually or in pairs. If Sts do it individually, get them to compare with a partner.

Check answers, getting Sts to read the full sentences.

- 1 Not until years later did I realize my mistake.
- 2 Never had we seen such magnificent scenery.
- 3 Not only did they dislike her, but they also hated her family.
- 4 Only when we read his autobiography did we understand what he had really suffered.
- 5 Hardly had we started to eat when we heard someone knocking at the door.
- 6 Rarely have I read such a badly written novel.
- 7 Not until you've tried to write a novel yourself do you realize how hard it is.
- 8 Not only was the hotel room depressing, (but) it was cold as well.
- 9 Only when it is unusually cold do we light the fire.
- 10 No sooner had he gone to sleep than the phone rang.
- 11 Only then did I realize the full scale of the disaster.
- 12 Never has he regretted the decision he made on that day.
- 13 Only when I spoke to the manager was the problem taken seriously.
- 14 Scarcely had he had time to destroy the evidence before / when the police arrived.

Tell Sts to go back to the main lesson 4B.

EXTRA SUPPORT If you think Sts need more practice, you may want to give them the Grammar photocopiable activity at this point or leave it for later as consolidation or review.

- d Focus on the task and give Sts time to think of sentences. They could do this in pairs or individually and then compare with a partner.
- Go around monitoring and correcting.
- Elicit sentences from the class, writing some good ones on the board.

5 WRITING a review

In this lesson the focus is on writing a review. The model text is a book review, but all the information could equally apply to writing a review of a movie, play, or even a concert. The writing skills focus is using participle clauses and using a variety of adverbs of degree.

Tell Sts to go to Writing A review on p.118.

a Focus on the text type and highlight that these days many people write reviews of books, movies, etc., and post them on the internet. Sts may also be asked to write a review in an international or final year school exam. The structure of reviews tends to be broadly similar, and you would normally include factual information, your opinion, and a recommendation.

Focus on the Key success factors and go through them with the class.

Focus on the task, and get Sts in pairs to discuss what factors influence them to choose a book to read, or do this as an open-class activity.

b Focus on the task and the book review, and find out if any Sts have read the book or seen the movie. You might want to explain / elicit the meaning of appeal to in the last point.

Set a time limit for Sts to read the review and do the task individually.

Get them to compare with a partner and then check answers. Also elicit whether Sts now want to read the book.

The strong points of the book	3
The basic outline of the plot	2
What happens in the end	DS
Where and when the story is set	1
The weakness(es) of the book	3
Whether the reviewer recommends the book or not	4
Who the author is	1
Who the main characters are	2
How much the book costs	DS
Who the book will appeal to	4

EXTRA IDEA Ask Sts what else would be included if this were a movie review, e.g., who the actors were in paragraph 2, what their performances were like in paragraph 3, and maybe some mention of the soundtrack or the special effects.

Elicit that despite what they have just read about spoilers, reviews normally never give away what happens in the end in case this turns some people off of reading the book.

Tell Sts that when writing a book or movie review, they should give the reader a brief idea of the plot. Now tell them that they are now going to look at a specific way of making the description of a plot more concise.

- c Focus on the task and get Sts to read the extract and the Participle clauses box. Check answers.

Which is, who are, and which was have been left out.

Highlight that participle clauses are very common in written English, but very rarely used in spoken English.

- d Focus on the task and give Sts time to rewrite the phrases. Check answers.

- 1 Believing him to be the murderer...
- 2 Armelle, forced to marry a man she did not love, ...
- 3 Simon, realizing (that) the police...
- 4 First published in 1903, it has been...
- 5 Hearing the shot, ...
- 6 Based on his wartime journals, it...

USEFUL LANGUAGE

- e Focus on the task and do it as an open-class activity.

totally increases the strength of the adjective and slightly reduces the strength of the verb.

- f Get Sts to do the exercise in pairs. Explain / elicit the meaning of denouement (= the end of a book, in which everything is explained or settled). Check answers.

- 1 ✓
- 2 very should be crossed out. It can't be used with strong adjectives like fascinating, amazing, etc. which already mean "very interesting," "very surprising," etc.
- 3 ✓
- 4 incredibly and extremely should be crossed out. Like very, they can't be used with strong adjectives. They are used with "normal" adjectives as stronger intensifiers than very.

PLANNING WHAT TO WRITE

- a Focus on the task. Tell Sts to choose either a book or a movie they have read or seen recently, or one that they have read or seen several times and know well. Tell them not to worry if they can't remember, e.g., the names of actors or characters, as they can research this on the internet when they come to write their full review. Set a time limit of about ten minutes for Sts to write their list, using paragraph 2 in the review for ideas. Monitor and help with vocabulary.

EXTRA SUPPORT Get Sts in pairs to choose a book or movie that they have both read or seen and do the task together.

- b Get Sts to exchange lists with other Sts and identify each other's books / movies. Finally, go through the Tips with Sts.

WRITING

Go through the instructions and assign the writing for homework.

Tell Sts to go back to the main lesson 4B.

6 READING

- a Ask the questions to the whole class and elicit responses.
- b Focus on the task and make sure Sts only read the introduction. Elicit the answer.

Possible answer

It's simple because he needs to produce "the same book" (he doesn't need to change the style, the plot, the characters, etc.). But it's impossible because he has to keep the book "identical" while changing all the words in it.

- c Focus on the task and set a time limit for Sts to read Part 1 and answer the questions. Check answers and help with any vocabulary problems that arose.

Sts' own answers

- d Focus on the task and set a time limit for Sts to read Parts 2–6 and complete the task. Get Sts to compare answers. Check answers. Elicit whether Sts think the final version in Part 6 is better than the version in Part 1 and help with any vocabulary problems that arose.

Version 2: implore becomes beg, merely becomes just, immobile becomes unmoving

Version 3: two "l"s are removed from first sentence, rucksack becomes backpack

Version 4: didn't beg you to stay becomes didn't beg you not to go

Version 5: dressed becomes got dressed, went away becomes left

Version 6: mute becomes silent, took becomes picked up

- e Focus on the task and give Sts time to match Parts 2–6 with reasons A–E. Get Sts to compare with a partner and then check answers.

Part 2 D Part 4 C Part 6 B
Part 3 A Part 5 E

LEXIS IN CONTEXT

- f Focus on the Understanding synonyms box and go through it with the class. Point out that a good dictionary will have information about the exact meaning and register of synonyms. Focus on the task and give Sts time to find the synonyms for 1–6 in the blog. Check answers and help with any other vocabulary questions or problems Sts might have.

- | | |
|-------------------|------------|
| 1 beg | 4 backpack |
| 2 still, unmoving | 5 left |
| 3 just | 6 silent |

- g Now tell Sts to do the same, but to look in the introduction for the synonyms. Check answers and help with any other vocabulary questions or problems Sts might have.

- | | | |
|---------------|---------------|-------------|
| 1 tasked with | 3 conceivable | 5 done with |
| 2 identical | 4 accurate | |

h Ask the question to the whole class and elicit answers.

Possible answers

think about register, use synonyms, use the right English word (possibly not a word that sounds the same in your language), avoid repetition, think carefully about clarity and meaning a Focus on the task and give Sts time to think of questions they might like to ask Beverly.

7 LISTENING

Get them to compare their questions with a partner and then elicit them onto the board.

b  4.13 Play the audio once the whole way through for Sts to see which of their questions (if any) the translator was asked and answered.

Elicit which of the questions on the board, if any, were answered.

4.13

(script in the Student Book on p.133)

I = Interviewer, B = Beverly Johnson

(Part 1)

I What made you want to be a translator?

B It was something that I'd done when I was in college and when I moved to Spain it was difficult to get a job that wasn't teaching English, so I went back home and I took a postgraduate course in translation. After taking the course I swore that I would never be a translator, I thought it would be too boring, but I kept doing the odd translation, and eventually I, I came round to the idea because I liked the idea of working for myself, and it didn't require too much investment to get started. And, and actually, I enjoy working with words, and it's, it's very satisfying when you feel that you've produced a reasonable translation of the original text.

I What are the pros and cons of being a translator?

B Well, um, it's a lonely job I guess, you know, you're on your own most of the time, it's hard work, you're sitting there and, you know, you're working long hours, and you can't schedule things because you don't know when more work is going to come in, and people always have tight deadlines. You know, it's really rare that somebody'll, call you and say "I want this translation in three months." You know, that, that just doesn't really happen.

I And the pros?

B The pros are that it, it gives you freedom, because you can do it anywhere if you've got an internet connection and electricity, and I guess you can organize your time, 'cause you're freelance, you know, you're your own boss, which is good. I, I like that.

I What advice would you give someone who is thinking of going into translation?

B I'd say that—I'd say, in addition to the language, get a speciality. Take another course in anything that interests you, like economics, law, history, art, because you really need to know about the subjects that you're translating into.

(Part 2)

I What do you think is the most difficult kind of text to translate?
B Literary texts, like novels, poetry, or drama because you have to give a lot of consideration to the author, and to the way it's been written in the original language.

I In order to translate a novel well, do you think you need to be a novelist yourself?

B I think that's true ideally, yes.

I And is that the case? I mean are most of the well-known translators of novels, generally speaking, novelists in their own right?

B Yes, I think in English anyway, people who translate into English tend to be published authors, and they tend to specialize in a particular author in the other language. And of course if it's a living author, then it's so much easier because you can actually communicate with the author and say, you know, like What did you really mean here.

I Another thing I've heard that is very hard to translate is advertising, for example slogans.

B Yeah, well, with advertising, the problem is that it has to be something punchy, and it's very difficult to translate that. For example, one of the Coca-Cola ads, the slogan in English was "the real thing," but you just couldn't translate that literally into Spanish – it, it just wouldn't have had the same power. In fact, it became Sensación de vivir, which is "sensation of living," which sounds, sounds really good in Spanish, but it, it would sound weird in English.

(Part 3)

I What about movie titles?

B Ah, they're horrific, too. People always complain that they've not been translated accurately, but of course it's impossible because sometimes a literal translation just doesn't work.

I For example?

B OK, well, think of, you know, the Julie Andrews film, The Sound of Music. That works in English because it's a phrase that you know, you know like "I can hear the sound of music." But it doesn't work at all in other languages, and in Spanish it was called Sonrisas y Lágrimas, which means "Smiles and tears." Now let me see, in German it was called Meine Lieder – Meine Träume, which means "My songs, my dreams," and in Italian it was Tutti in sieme appassionatamente, which means I think "All together passionately" or, I don't know, something like that. In fact, I think it was translated differently all over the world.

I Do you think there are special problems translating movie scripts, for the subtitles?

B Yes, a lot. There are special constraints, for example the translation has to fit on the screen as the actor is speaking, and so sometimes the translation is a paraphrase rather than a direct translation, and of course, well, going back to untranslatable things, really the big problems are cultural, and humor, because they're, they're just not the same. You can get across the idea, but you might need pages to explain it, and, you know, by that time the movie has moved on. I also sometimes think that the translators are given the movie on DVD, I mean, you know, rather than a written script, and that sometimes they've simply misheard or they didn't understand what the people said. And that's the only explanation I can come up with for some of the mistranslations that I've seen. Although sometimes it might be that some things like humor and jokes, especially ones which depend on wordplay are just, you know, they're simply untranslatable. And often it's very difficult to get the right register, for example with slang and swear words, because if you literally translate taboo words or swear words, even if they exist in the other language they may well be far more offensive.

c Focus on the task and go through the questions in Part 1, helping with any vocabulary questions.

🎧 4.17 The comic book writer

N = Narrator

- N In the very heart of New York City, under the bright neon lights of Times Square, lies Midtown Comics. No comic store in the US is larger. And deep shelves mean room for all sorts of comics, and comic book fans.
- Gerry There's never a normal day at Midtown Comics.
- N It's a place where fiction comes to life. Alongside fans, you'll find the writers, comic book artists, and dedicated collectors who make up the community. They are drawn by the stunning artwork and thrilling adventures, which come together to unleash the imagination. Each and every comic book is the end result of a very long process, which starts with a dream.
- Chris My name is Chris Notarile. Comic books have inspired me to create my own heroes.

- N The streets and skylines of New York have been fictionalized as the backdrop for some of the best known superhero fiction. A New Yorker himself, Chris feels at home in the superhero genre. He's all set to create his own comic book.
- Chris The dream is to bring The Protector to life and go from this comic character into ultimately a feature film. I just want it. I've been going to Midtown Comics on and off for most of my life. Basically, careers begin there. [to Thor] I'm making a comic book, what are some of the steps I'd have to take to get it into Midtown basically?
- Thor I get pitched ideas all the time. [...] I can only put his comic on the shelves if it is good enough. Best thing you could do is work really hard on the book. Chris has got to prove to me that his comic is as good as he says it is.
- N Chris has the character designs, the script, and a couple of pages from the book. But if he wants it on the shelves for the next young writers' event at Midtown, he is going to have to speed things up. Four weeks to go and the countdown begins.
- Chris OK cool, great, thanks. Thanks man.
- Thor Yeah, no problem.
- N The love of comic books runs in Chris's blood.
- Chris My dad is a graphic artist. He's actually a professional illustrator. He is one of the top illustrators in his profession.
- N So getting the book ready in full color by the agreed deadline is now a family effort. His dad has the expertise and is willing to put in the time, but it's up to Chris to put together a successful pitch.
- Chris I need to make this happen, there is no plan B.
- Chris's dad Succeeding against what look like insurmountable odds is a superhero characteristic. They triumph when all else fails and I think that's where Christopher got a lot of his resolve.
- N In order to build up excitement and show off the potential the book has to become a feature film, Chris is shooting a promo. For The Protector, he must cast an actor who can pull off a look that says he's ready to fight crime and overcome evil. No small feat, but Chris thinks Nick has what it takes.
- Chris Today we are going to be doing The Protector promo. I'm very excited. I am one step closer to pitching to Midtown.
- N Chris needs to get the Protector's costume just right. Fans love the cosplay aspect of superhero fiction and they will spot a second rate costume from a mile away. At Midtown comics, costume competitions are a way of getting customers excited about the next big release. But no one is interested in a costume with no character. So what makes the Protector unique?
- Chris The Protector has definitely been a character who, no matter what happens to him, he stays strong he does not give up. He's a character built on endurance. Action!
- N Protecting people from the dangers of the city is just as important as fighting criminal masterminds. And it's in the every-day superhero struggle that he's able to prove his worth. The same goes for Chris, who during the filming is faced with his fair share of unexpected obstacles.
- Chris Good! Get inside, get inside! And that's a wrap. [Clapboard sound]
- N Four long weeks of working around the clock has all come down to this one moment of truth. Is The Protector worthy of the famous Midtown shelves?
- Chris The book's finally finished, as you can see. Thirty six pages of pure awesomeness. This book will be on the shelves by the end of the day.
- Thor This is it?
- Chris This is the book.
- Thor It looks awesome, it really does.
- Chris Not only did I make you a comic book, I made you a film.
- N The promo speaks the universal language of superhero blockbusters.
- Thor That's pretty impressive. It's the first time I've ever seen somebody come in with their own movie and their book.
- N Not only does Chris make the young artist's event at Midtown, the Protector is made the book of the week, kick starting Chris's career.
- Chris's dad The superhero celebrates humanity. It's what we all aspire to be and it gives us hope that we can be that.
- N People might look at the Midtown family and wonder why they spend so much time and effort on comic books or dressing up as superheroes. What is all the fuss about? But to Chris, the answer is crystal clear.

Lesson plan

The topic of this lesson is time: how we try to save time through multitasking and why this may be less efficient than focusing on the present moment and one task at a time, and also how we feel about waiting.

In the first half of the lesson Sts begin by discussing multitasking. They then read two short extracts about time management. One of the extracts is about how multitasking, although possible, can be dangerous, while the other looks at a popular current trend in psychology called mindfulness – being aware of the present and what you are thinking and doing, which is thought to help people focus their attention more efficiently. Sts then listen to a well-known meditation exercise called “The Chocolate Meditation,” which gives them a practical experience of mindfulness. This listening will be even more enjoyable if you are able to bring in some small wrapped bars of chocolate to distribute to Sts before doing the listening, or ask them to bring in their own. This leads into the grammar focus of the lesson which is on distancing, i.e., using certain language (e.g., apparently, it seems, etc.) to “distance” ourselves from information we are giving to others.

In the second half of the lesson, Sts talk about things they hate waiting for and they listen to people complaining about waiting. They then learn expressions related to time and there is a pronunciation focus on short phrases where words are normally linked together. The lesson ends with Sts answering questions in a time questionnaire, which recycles all the vocabulary.

OPTIONAL LEAD-IN – THE QUOTE

- Write the quote at the top of p.46 on the board (books closed) and the name of the person who said it or get Sts to open their books and read it.
- Point out that David Segrove is a British author of horror and science fiction.
- Ask Sts whether they agree with the quote.

3 LISTENING

a This is an authentic piece of audio of a real “meditation.” Your Sts may notice that the speaker uses -ing forms where they might expect imperatives (e.g., At a certain point, bringing it up to your mouth, noticing how the hand knows where to position it, and popping it in the mouth ...). This shouldn’t interfere with your Sts’ understanding, but it is unusual and they may be curious about it – it is part of a deliberate approach to mindfulness and meditation, to focus on the process of experiencing an activity more intensely.

Focus on the instructions and go through them with the class. Ask Sts what they think The Chocolate Meditation might be.

Put Sts in pairs and get them to say what they think the verbs mean.

Check answers.

unwrap: to take off the paper, etc. that covers or protects something inhale: to take in air, smoke, an aroma through your nose pop (something) into: (inf) to put something somewhere quickly, suddenly, or for a short time melt: to become or make something become liquid as a result of heating chew: to bite food into small pieces in your mouth with your teeth to make it easier to swallow swallow: to make food, drink, etc. go down your throat into your stomach

b  5.1 Tell Sts to close their eyes, listen, and imagine they are doing all the stages mentioned on the audio. If you or your Sts have brought in chocolate bars, tell them not to close their eyes, as they will hear instructions to look at the chocolate.

Play the audio once the whole way through.

If the Sts actually ate the chocolate, ask them if it tasted in any way different. If they imagined it, ask them how they felt during the listening.

(script in the Student Book on p.133)

The Chocolate Meditation

Again and again people tell us that mindfulness greatly enhances the joys of daily life. In practice, even the smallest of things can suddenly become captivating again. For this reason one of our favorite practices is the chocolate meditation. In this, you ask yourself to bring all your attention to some chocolate as you’re eating it. So if you want to do this right now, choosing some chocolate, not unwrapping it yet, choosing a type that you’ve never tried before, or one that you’ve not eaten recently. It might be dark and flavorful, organic, or fair-trade, or whatever you choose. Perhaps choosing a type you wouldn’t normally eat, or that you consume only rarely.

Before you unwrap the chocolate, look at the whole bar or package – its color, its shape, what it feels like in your hand – as if you were seeing it for the very first time.

Now very slowly unwrapping the chocolate, noticing how the wrapping feels as you unfold it, seeing the chocolate itself. What colors do you notice? What shapes? Inhaling the aroma of the chocolate, letting it sweep over you.

And now taking or breaking off a piece and looking at it as it rests on your hand, really letting your eyes drink in what it looks like, examining every nook and cranny. At a certain point, bringing it up to your mouth, noticing how the hand knows where to position it, and popping it in the mouth, noticing what the tongue does to receive it. See if it’s possible to hold it on your tongue and let it melt, noticing any tendency to chew it, seeing if you can sense some of the different flavors, really noticing these.

If you notice your mind wandering while you do this, simply noticing where it went, then gently escorting it back to the present moment. And then when the chocolate has completely melted, swallowing it very slowly and deliberately, letting it trickle down your throat.

What did you notice? If the chocolate tasted better than if you’d just eaten it at a normal pace, what do you make of that? Often we taste the first piece and perhaps the last, but the rest goes down unnoticed. We’re so often on autopilot, we can miss much of our day-to-day lives. Mindfulness is about bringing awareness to the usual routine things in life, things that we normally take for granted. Perhaps you could try this with any routine activity, seeing what you notice? It could change your whole day.

c Focus on the six questions and give Sts time to read them. You could point out that fair-trade is a system that supports small-scale farmers and workers, giving them better prices, decent working conditions, and fair terms of trade.

Play the audio again, pausing where you see  in the script to give Sts time to answer the questions. Play again as necessary.

Get Sts to compare with a partner and then check answers.

- 1 Choose a type that you’ve never tried before, or one that you’ve not / you haven’t eaten recently.
- 2 Look at it – its color, shape, what it feels like – as if you were seeing it for the very first time.
- 3 Notice how the wrapping feels, see the chocolate itself. Look at it and smell it.
- 4 Look at it and then put it in your mouth. Try to keep it on your tongue and let it melt.
- 5 Notice how your hand knows where to put the chocolate. Put it on your tongue and let it melt. Notice if you chew and the flavors.
- 6 Swallow it when the chocolate has completely melted.

EXTRA SUPPORT If there’s time, get Sts to listen again with the script on p.133, focusing on any new vocabulary that Sts didn’t understand, e.g., every nook and cranny (= every single part).

d Do the questions as an open-class activity and elicit opinions and ideas.

Suggested answer

The main message of the meditation is that by paying more attention to all the small things we do in our daily lives we can appreciate them more.
Sts’ own answers

4 GRAMMAR distancing

- a Go through the instructions and give Sts time to read the sentences.
Elicit that the highlighted phrases all distance the writer from the information, i.e., they imply that it might not be a definite fact.
- b Tell Sts to go to Grammar Bank 5A on p.150.
Go through each example and its corresponding rule with the class, or give Sts time to read the examples and rules on their own, and answer any questions.

Additional grammar notes

- Distancing expressions are often used, particularly in journalism where a speaker or writer wants to stress that the information is second-hand and comes from a specific source or sources, rather than being their own knowledge or opinion. Expressions like It is said that... are also often used where a writer is not sure of the sources, and by using these expressions they can avoid the possibility of libel.
- Sts should have come across most of these expressions before, but will probably never have focused on their exact function, and may well not be familiar with the two possible ways of using seem and appear. You may want to point out that appear is slightly more formal than seem.

Focus on the exercises and get Sts to do them individually or in pairs. If they do them individually, get them to compare answers with a partner.

Check answers after each exercise, getting Sts to read the full sentences.

EXTRA SUPPORT If you think Sts need more practice, you may want to give them the Grammar photocopiable activity at this point or leave it for later as consolidation or review.

5 WRITING

Focus on the task. Tell Sts that they should write two or three sentences for each headline and invent the details; they should distance themselves from the information they give.

Monitor and help.

EXTRA SUPPORT Sts could do this in pairs or small groups. You could also help to start them off by eliciting the first sentence for one of the headlines.

Finally, get Sts to read each other's stories before collecting them to check for accuracy.

6 SPEAKING & LISTENING

- a Focus on the task and make sure Sts understand what they have to do.
Put Sts in pairs to match the times in the list with the activities. Tell them they don't have to agree with their partner.
Elicit some ideas, e.g., for the shortest time (5 seconds) and the longest (32 minutes).
- b Tell Sts to go to Communication The Timex Survey on p.108.
Sts read the survey to check their answers to a.
Find out if any Sts guessed all the answers correctly and whether they found any answers surprising.
Tell Sts to go back to the main lesson 5A.
In pairs, Sts now say how long they would wait in each situation and what they would do or say in each situation.
Get feedback from various pairs.
- c  5.2 Focus on the task and play the audio once the whole way through for Sts to listen and note the situations people hate waiting for.

| Speaker 6 | waiting in check-in lines at airports |

5.2

(script in the Student Book on p.133)

- 1 One thing I really hate waiting for is waiting at home for a delivery to arrive, because sometimes you get like a two-hour delivery window, and that's fine, but more often they'll say "Could be any time 7 a.m. to 7 p.m." and you're stuck in the house – you don't even dare go and buy a gallon of milk – and of course it always ends up arriving at five to seven in the evening, and you've spent the whole day waiting.
- 2 It annoys me if I have to wait for web pages to load, if there's a really bad internet connection and the pages are really slow to load and you actually sort of see one line loading at a time, pixel by pixel it seems, but, you know, invariably if you need the information you sit and wait as long as it takes.
- 3 Is there anything I really hate having to wait for? Not really, I'm, I'm pretty patient. If I'm in a line, I'm pretty patient, but I will get annoyed if people start to disregard the laws of lines, and try to cut in, or try and get to the front in some other way. As long as there's a system to follow, that usually keeps me calm.
- 4 I really hate waiting for anything where I've been given an appointment time for a specific hour, you know, a specific time, and then having to wait forever before I have it, so, well, you know, for example a hair stylist or a dentist or a doctor. I think particularly things like hair stylists and dentists, because I think they must know how long the previous person is going to take, you know, they don't have to deal with emergencies or anything like that, so why can't they give me a correct time? I mean, I'm very punctual, so I always turn up on time, in fact usually at least five minutes early, and it really, really annoys me if I have to wait for a long time. Anything more than fifteen minutes past the appointment time drives me completely insane.
- 5 Waiting for Jerry my husband is a complete nightmare, because he's never ready on time and I always tell him to be ready minutes before we need to be ready and even so he's so late, it drives me completely bananas. I don't know why it drives me completely bananas because in fact we often don't need to be there on time, or it doesn't need to be that kind of precise, but it does. I hate it. He's preening himself, you know, getting his jacket on and looking at himself in the mirror, I mean he takes much more time than I do.
- 6 I can't abide waiting in check-in lines at airports because I'm standing in the line watching people take for-ev-er to check in, and I know when I get to the front of the line I'll do my check-in in twenty seconds. I don't know why these other people can't do the same.

d Give Sts time to read the six questions.

Play the audio again, pausing after each speaker for Sts to answer the questions.

Get Sts to compare with a partner. Play again as necessary. Check answers.

e Do this as an open-class activity and elicit from the class things that they hate waiting for, and the best way to deal with them.

8 PRONUNCIATION linking in short phrases

Pronunciation notes

- The focus here is on three specific areas where words are commonly linked, i.e., when a word ends with a consonant sound and the next word begins with a vowel sound (e.g., She went out at eleven o'clock.), when one word ends and the next word begins with the same consonant sound (e.g., We should get together.). Other aspects of linking are dealt with in later lessons, e.g., the added /w/ sound when a word ending in a vowel + w is followed by a word beginning with a vowel sound.
- Focusing on linking and getting Sts to practice doing it themselves, apart from making Sts' speech sound more natural, will help them to decipher linked speech when they are listening.

a 5.7 Focus on the instructions and the ten sentences.

Play the audio once the whole way through for Sts just to listen.

Ask the question to the class to see if Sts have worked out why the words are linked.

Focus on the Understanding linking box and go through it with the class.

Now go back to sentences 1–10 and elicit why each pair of words is linked, e.g., 1 need to = rule 2, make up = rule 1, and lost time = rule 2.

Check answers.

- 2 hard time = rule 2
- 3 run out = rule 1, out of = rule 1
- 4 Could I = rule 1, time off = rule 1
- 5 At times = rule 2, times I = rule 1, giving up = rule 1
- 6 Time's up = rule 1, Please stop = rule 2
- 7 waste time = rule 2, time on = rule 1
- 8 It's only = rule 1, matter of = 1, break up = rule 1
- 9 have a = rule 1, good time = rule 2
- 10 It's about = rule 1, about time = rule 2, learned to = rule 2

See the sentences in the Student Book on p.49

b 5.8 Tell Sts that the focus here is on deciphering phrases when the speaker runs two or more words together. Make sure they understand that they only need to write the phrase, not the whole sentence.

Play the audio, pausing after each sentence for Sts to write the phrase. Play again as necessary.

Check answers, getting feedback from Sts as to which phrases they found most difficult to understand and why.

- 1 Not at all.
- 2 First of all...
- 3 Pick it up.
- 4 In an hour
- 5 on our own

5.8

- 1 Not at all. (pause) A Do you mind if I sit here? B Not at all.
- 2 First of all... (pause) First of all we're going to review the vocabulary from yesterday.
- 3 Pick it up. (pause) That's your towel on the floor. Pick it up.
- 4 In an hour (pause) A When'll you be back? B In an hour or so.
- 5 on our own (pause) Don't worry. We'll find it on our own.

c Get Sts to practice saying the sentences in a and b, linking the words. They can do this quietly by themselves or with their partner.

Now get some individual Sts to say the sentences.

EXTRA SUPPORT You could use the audio (5.7 and 5.8) to model the sentences with Sts repeating after each sentence.

9 SPEAKING

Focus on the Giving examples box and go through it with the class.

Now focus on the time questionnaire and give Sts time to read the questions. Make sure Sts know what an app is (it is an abbreviation of application and is a computer program or piece of software designed for a particular purpose that you can download onto a cell phone or other device).

Tell Sts to give examples when they answer the questions, and remind them of the expressions they just looked at for this.

Put Sts in pairs and get them to work through the questionnaire answering the questions together.

Monitor while Sts are doing this, correcting any slips in the time phrases, and noting down any other problems to help with later.

Finally, get feedback from the whole class.

- G unreal uses of past tenses
V money
P US and UK accents

Lesson plan

The topic of this lesson is money and materialism.

In the first half of the lesson Sts read an article called Do women really want to marry for money? where two women answer the question in different ways and then give their own opinion on the subject. This leads into the grammar focus on special uses of the past tense after expressions like I wish, I would rather, etc. and Sts ask and answer some questions on past and present wishes.

The second half of the lesson starts with a lexical focus on words, phrases, and idioms related to money. Sts then listen to an interview with Surita Gupta, the former vice-president of Women's World Banking (WWB), who explains the WWB's initiative to help women in developing countries escape from poverty by providing them with bank loans, allowing them to set up small businesses. Finally, Pronunciation looks at the difference between US and UK accents.

OPTIONAL LEAD-IN – THE QUOTE

- Write the quote at the top of p.50 on the board (books closed) and the name of the person who said it, or get Sts to open their books and read it.
- Point out that Will Rogers (1879–1935) was an American actor and humorist.
- Ask Sts whether they think anything has changed since he was alive.

1 READING & SPEAKING

EXTRA IDEA Before beginning this exercise you may want to focus on the lesson title and elicit that “a material world” is one where money is what matters most.

- a Focus on the task and make sure Sts understand what they have to do. You might want to explain / elicit the meaning of a long-term partner and a healthy bank balance. Stress that 1 = the most important criterion. Put Sts in pairs or small groups to compare their ideas. Get some feedback from the class for men and then women. Finally, elicit any other important criteria.
- b Focus on the instructions and explain / elicit the meaning of the phrasal verb to back something up (= to say that what somebody says, etc. is true). Set a time limit for Sts to read the first part of the article (on p.50). Check the answer to the first question.

Women look for a partner with a good education and a healthy bank balance.

Then ask from the class if they found any of the studies surprising.

EXTRA IDEA Put Sts in pairs and get them to list as many advantages and disadvantages as possible for marrying for money. Elicit ideas from the class.

- c Tell Sts that two women were asked the question Do women really want to marry for money? and they each wrote their answer. Set Sts a time limit to read questions 1–6 and read the two responses. You might want to point out the Glossary. Get Sts to compare with a partner and then check answers.

1 JM	3 JL	5 JL
2 JM	4 JL	6 JM

- d Get Sts to read the article again. Put Sts in pairs and ask them to discuss the meanings of 1–7. Check answers.

- 1 If it is true (that women want to marry for money or status), then it follows that men want to marry beneath themselves – someone less well-educated than them and who earns less than them.
- 2 We think that they are wives that are for show, for men to be proud to be seen with, rather than real companions.
- 3 Adjust your work-life balance so that it is good for you, rather than working all hours to make money, which is what your bank manager would probably like.
- 4 If you marry a rich man, you may be marrying someone who thinks they own you and can control your life.
- 5 the broken dreams of women in their forties or fifties who have been abandoned by their husbands in favor of younger women
- 6 If you earn your own salary, you don't have to explain to anybody what you spend it on.
- 7 I wouldn't be very happy if my daughter married a person who left school or college before finishing his studies.

Check answers.

Help with any other vocabulary problems that arose.

EXTRA SUPPORT Do this as an open-class activity.

f Do this in pairs, small groups, or as an open-class activity.
If Sts did this in pairs or small groups, get some feedback.

2 GRAMMAR unreal uses of past tenses a Focus on the task and the two questions. Make sure Sts understand what they have to do.

Put Sts in pairs and give them time to complete the task.

Check answers.

- 1 and 5 refer to things that really happened in the past.
The others are all hypothetical situations.
2, 3, 4, and 6 refer to the present / future.
7 and 8 refer to the past.

b Tell Sts to go to Grammar Bank 5B on p.151.

Go through each example and its corresponding rule with the class or give Sts time to read the examples and rules on their own and answer any questions.

Additional grammar notes

- Sts at this level should be aware that past tenses are not only used to refer to past time, but also to hypothetical present / future time (the simple past or past continuous) and hypothetical past time (the past perfect) as in 2nd and 3rd conditionals. Here they focus on various structures that involve this use of past tenses, e.g., after wish, if only, would rather, and it's time.

Focus on the exercises and get Sts to do them individually or in pairs. If they do them individually, get them to compare answers with a partner.

Check answers after each exercise, getting Sts to read the full sentences.

1 realized	6 had saved
2 had rented	7 paid
3 had been able	8 knew
4 didn't discuss	9 had gone / had been 5 stopped
b

5 If only he were more positive...
6 Would you rather we came...
7 I wish I had bought the tickets...

Tell Sts to go back to the main lesson 5B.

EXTRA SUPPORT If you think Sts need more practice, you may want to give them the Grammar photocopyable activity at this point or leave it for later as consolidation or review.

c Put Sts in small groups, focus on the question prompts and highlight that Sts have to ask all the questions with Do you ever wish...?

Give Sts time to decide which question stems refer to the past and which refer to the present / future.

Give Sts time to ask and answer the questions, giving as much information as possible.

Elicit some answers from individual Sts.

5 LISTENING

a Focus on the instructions and give Sts time to read the information about Sarita Gupta and Muhammad Yunus. Put Sts in pairs to discuss what the link between the two people is and then check the answer.

They both want to fight poverty and work in microfinance, helping poor or low-income people borrow money.

Make sure Sts understand the exact meaning of the terms related to finance in the biographies such as microfinance (= a system of providing services such as lending money and saving for people who are too poor to use banks), have access to financial services (= are able to borrow money from a bank, etc.) and microcredit (= very small loans).

b 🔊 5.13 Tell Sts they are going to listen to an interview with Sarita about microfinance. Point out that she is Indian, but has spent most of her life in the US and speaks English with an American accent.

Give Sts time to read the nine fill-in-the-blank sentences and the Glossary.

Play the audio once the whole way through for Sts just to listen.

Now play the audio again, pausing after each question has been answered (see  in the script) to give Sts time to write.

I = Interviewer, S = Sarita

I Where did the idea of microfinance come from?
S The idea behind microfinance again goes back to the mid-70s. There had been, by that time, several decades of what we call the Western World giving massive amounts of aid to the developing world and a realization that a lot of it was not working, there were still many people who were left poor. So, you know, Muhammad Yunus is credited as being the father of microfinance, he's an economist living in Bangladesh, a very poor country, and he looked around and he said – What is it that the poor lack? What is that they need? And the answer is obvious, they need money and all of us, in order to get started have had access to credit. So, the poor can't get access to credit, they can't go to relatives to borrow because generally the relatives are as poor as they themselves are and they certainly cannot go into a bank and borrow because they have no collateral.

I How did Dr. Yunus solve these problems?
S There are really three innovations that he came up with that are brilliant in, in hindsight. One was, OK, the poor have no collateral, but let's figure out a way to create collateral which means, collateral is basically if you're not going to pay back the loan that somebody's held responsible. So he came up with a lending methodology where there was a group of peers that were given the loan and they would be lending to each other and the group held each member accountable for paying back. The second innovation that he came up with is that it's very difficult for the poor to gather a lump sum to pay back a loan, but if you can break up that payment into very small regular payments that are coming out of your daily income, then it's feasible to pay back the loan. So what micro-credit did was to break up the, the loan payment into these very sort of regular small payments. And the third was really an incentive system, that the poor were not encouraged to borrow a large amount, they only borrowed what they could use in their business and then pay back, and if they paid back successfully, then they were eligible for a larger loan.

c Focus on the instructions, making sure Sts know what a case study is (= a detailed account of the development of a person, a group of people or a situation over a period of time).

1 The Dominican Republic (DR)

She was making food in her kitchen and selling it to factory workers. With the loan she was able to set up a "cantina" in her living room to sell food and other things, e.g., candy. With a new loan she built an extra room on top of her house and rented it out. Eventually she was able to build a new house and rent out the old one, which will give her security in her old age.

5.14

(script in the Student Book on p.134)

I Do you have any examples of individual success stories?

S Oh, I love talking about, individual success stories, because this is what, sort of gets us up in the morning and, you know, gets us to come to work and stay late, and, and do this, this work, since I've been at Women's World Banking I have been to the Dominican Republic, Jordan, and India, so I am happy to give you a story from each, each, each of the three countries.

The DR is a more established economy, if you will, and so the, the woman I met had already had successive loans that she had taken from our partner in the DR and what she did was to start out, she was basically selling food from her kitchen, making excess food and selling it to the factory workers, took out a loan, sort of increased that business and then set up a little cantina out of her living room. So that along with food she was selling cigarettes, beer, candy, etc. That business did well, took out another loan and built a room on top of her house and started to rent it out and so over seven years what she's been able to do is to completely build a new home for herself and rent out the old one and this is going to ensure income in her old age, because at some point she's going to be too old to work in the kitchen, and to be, you know, standing on her feet behind the cantina counter and she's looking at the, the, these rental rooms that she has been able to put on as her, her old age security.

5.15 Repeat the same process for the second success story.

2 Jordan

She was young and looking after her much older husband who was sick. She could not earn money for herself or her children as it is not considered proper for a woman to go out and work. With the loan she bought cosmetics and sold them from home to her neighbors. This gave her extra money to use herself.

5.15

(script in the Student Book on p.134)

S In Jordan, I'll tell you about a young women that we met, you know, sort of the cultural norm in Jordan is that a fairly old husband can marry again and marry a fairly young woman, so the one that we met, her husband was now too old and sick so while he took care of the...having a roof over her head, she had absolutely no means of earning more money for herself or her kids, and at her socio-economic level it's not considered proper for a woman to go out and work. So the only thing that she was able to do, was she had taken a loan to buy cosmetics, and was selling them from her living room to her neighbors and this was considered to be an OK business for her because primarily she was dealing with other women, but it gave her that sort of extra money to use for herself.

5.16 Finally, repeat the same process for the third success story.

3 India

The woman and her husband were uneducated. The husband and their son worked in the informal economy selling vegetables. With the loan she bought materials and embroidered saris at home and sold them direct to a store. This way she was able to double her income without doubling her work as she did not, as in the past, have to go through a "middleman," who took half the profit.

5.16

(script in the Student Book on p.134)

S And then in India where I was recently in the city of Hyderabad, and Hyderabad is this up-and-coming city, you know, it's gleaming, it's, Indians themselves are thinking of it as the next cyber city. But across town they have slums, where even now, both men and women have not gone to school, they're not educated and their only recourse is to work in the informal economy, so the family that we met, the husband was a vegetable cart – a vegetable seller, so he took his cart and went out into the more affluent neighborhoods, the son had dropped out of school to join his father to push a similar cart, and the mother had taken a loan to embroider saris, and she did this at home, sort of in her spare time and what she really wanted to do was to amass enough income so that she could cut out the middleman, because she basically got half of what the sari was worth, because she was handing it over to a middleman, so that if she could buy the materials herself, embroider it herself, and sell it herself to the store she could in effect double her income without doubling her labor.

EXTRA SUPPORT If there's time, get Sts to listen again with the scripts on p.134, focusing on any new vocabulary that Sts didn't understand.

d Do this in pairs, small groups, or as an open-class activity. If Sts worked in pairs or small groups, get some feedback.

Lesson plan

In this lesson the person interviewed is Jordan Friedman, a specialist in the field of stress and stress reduction. In this three-part interview he talks about what causes stress, the effect it can have on the mind and body, and different ways of managing stress. This is followed by a language focus on compound nouns, which Jordan Friedman frequently uses in the interview.

In the ON THE STREET section people answer questions about how stressed they are, and how they manage their stress, and the lesson ends with Sts talking about stress-related issues.

I = Interviewer, J = Jordan Friedman

Interview with a stress management coach – Part 1

- I In your experience, what are the main causes of stress?
- J My clients and audiences tell me that their big stressors are, uh, too much to do, too little time, uh, money stressors, commuting is a big stressor. I think that the opportunities to be stressed are everywhere.
- I Do you think life is more stressful now than it was, say, 20 years ago?
- J I think that today there are many more opportunities to be stressed, there are many more distractions, especially ones that are technology-driven. And I'm a big fan of technology, we can use technology to help us reduce stress, but when you have emails coming in and text messages left and right, and Twitter feeds and Facebook messages, and, uh, TV, and the kids and a job, and maybe school, it really divides our attention and it produces a stress response that is often ongoing, continuous within us. And all of that stuff can take away the time to just relax, uh, take a walk, not think about who's trying to communicate with us, and not needing to be on all of the time. So, er, so I think there are just more chances to be stressed today, uh, and therefore we need to really pay more attention to reducing stress.
- I Can you tell us something about the effects of stress on the body and mind?
- J Stress impacts the body because it produces wear and tear, and when we are constantly stressed, our organs, our immune system, become the punching bags of our stress response. Stress is really important, and, in fact, it can be a lifesaver, but when it kicks into action all the time, it has a corrosive effect on us. So, for example, our immune systems are weakened when we are under a lot of stress, and especially for a long period of time. When our immune systems are weaker, it opens us up to be more susceptible to illnesses in the environment. Uh, stress contributes to high blood pressure, which contributes to heart problems and stroke. Stress impacts our sleep, so when we get stressed during the day it often makes it more difficult for us to fall asleep at night or to stay asleep or to have a quality night's sleep, and if we don't get a good night's sleep, then we are tired the next day, which makes us more stressed in many cases, so it becomes a stress-poor-sleep cycle that is stressful and tiring. So these are all reasons to really pay attention to our stress levels and to take action to reduce the stress.

④ 5.22

(script in the Student Book on p.134)

Interview with a stress management coach – Part 2

- I How can you help people deal with stress and how long does it take to find a solution?
- J The great thing about stress management is that it's like a salad bar. There are 30 different choices on a salad bar and some of us like most of the things that are offered, but some of us don't like everything, but we get to choose what works for us and what we enjoy. Same thing with stress management, there are more than 30 different ways you can manage stress, there are probably, uh, 30 million and counting, and we should pick the techniques, many of them easy and simple and fun, that we like, and therefore we'll be more likely to use them on an ongoing basis. So stress management can take as little as ten seconds. You can look at a beautiful picture that you took on your last vacation, you can put it on your computer screen, you can put it next to your bed, you can put it on your desk, and just focusing on that photo of the ocean or a mountain or a beach can alleviate stressed feelings immediately. We can do one-minute breathing exercises, we can exercise, we can take a ten minute walk around the block, we can meditate each day. So there are many different ways to prevent and reduce the stress that we're experiencing, the key is to do it on a regular basis.
- I Are the solutions to stress physical, mental, or both?
- J Stress management involves both the mind and the body, they make great partners when we're trying to feel better and to cut down on the stress that we're experiencing. I once worked in a school where a student identified his stressor as riding on the subway. He felt very stressed going to school every day and very stressed when it was time to go home, because the subway made him feel very closed in and like he wanted to escape, he couldn't stand the, the crowds. And then we opened up to the rest of the group and we asked them for different ways that this student might think about this stressor and different ways that he might act to try and reduce it. And the group came up with all sorts of great possibilities, including that he ride in a different car, in the first car or the last car, because it's often less crowded compared to the center car, which is where he always used to ride. And he liked that idea, and I heard from the principal of the school a few weeks later that he in fact had started riding in the first car, and for the first time in his subway-taking life, he didn't feel stressed, he didn't feel anxious, because the car was less crowded and he felt so much better. And you might think, "Well, that's such an easy answer, why didn't he think of that himself?" The truth is, and I think we all identify with this, we get into very fixed ways, habits almost, of thinking and acting, because we, we deal with our stressors and have dealt with them in similar ways for a long, long time, so we lose the perspective, we don't take as much time to think about how we could deal with our stressors in different ways. So this is an example of how the mind and body and actions and thoughts can work together to really make a big difference in the way we feel.

Interview with a stress management coach – Part 3

- I Are some age groups more susceptible to stress than others?
- J Stress is a very democratic occurrence, so older people are stressed, college students are stressed, babies get stressed, 30-somethings get stressed, men are stressed, women are stressed, so, uh, it's hard to say if one group is more stressed than another.
- I What makes students stressed? How does stress affect their lives or their studies, and what are the most stressful times in a typical student's life?
- J College, and being a student can be really fun and exciting and rewarding. There are also a lot of stressors associated with it: there's the studying, there's the pressure to do well on exams so that you can get a better job and perhaps make more money. You are in a different environment that doesn't have the same support that you used to have, especially if you were back home. Uh, there is the social stress of needing to meet new people, and also for a lot of young people, especially those in their teens and twenties, we see a lot of mental, uh, health issues arise and there's a greater need to get help for, uh, them while in school, but if you're not with your usual support network it's even more challenging sometimes to do so. Stress makes it difficult to study, to focus, to concentrate. When you're sitting down to take an exam and you studied really hard for the exam, and then all of a sudden you're having trouble remembering what you studied, stress can play a big role in making it more difficult for us to recall information. If you're doing a presentation, public speaking, that can be very stressful for a lot of students as well as professionals. In fact, still, public speaking is feared more than death by most people. Then there's the financial stress of being in school, not only, uh, not having a lot of money to spend on things that you want to do, fun activities, but what awaits you when you graduate, which for many, uh, students is a lot of financial, uh, stress and loans to repay. So being a student – great fun, and also can provide a lot of – great stress.

- I You set up Stressbusters as an anti-stress program for students. Can you tell us something about it and how it works?
- J We train teams of students to provide five-minute free back rubs at events all over campus, all year long, and people on campus come to the events, and not only do they get an amazing stress-relieving back rub, but they also learn about other stress reduction and wellness resources on campus that we train our students to provide. And we have seen incredible reductions in feelings of stress, tension, anxiety, lowering of feelings of being overwhelmed, from before someone has the Stressbusters experience to after. We also find students telling us that they're better able to cope with their stressors and they're better able to complete the tasks that they have at hand after they have one of our Stressbusters experiences.

(script in the Student Book on p.135)

I = Interviewer, Si = Simon, A = Anne, J = Jim,
B = Billy, Se = Sean

Simon

- I Are you currently more stressed at work or at home?
- Si Am I more stressed– uh, I'm more stressed at home at the moment because my wife, um, has just had, or, I say my wife has had, we have just had twin little girls. Eight months old or eight and half months old now, so it is far more stressful being at home than being at work. I found work easy compared to being at home at the moment.
- I When things are stressful, what do you do to try to de-stress?
- Si I put my earphones on and listen to music, to drown out the sound of the babies.

Anne

- I Are you currently more stressed at work or at home?
- A I'm stressed at both work and home. Um, my mom is really sick right now, work is busy, and, um, we're going through all sorts of changes with the project. Um, and I just got married! So there's been a lot going on.
- I When things are stressful, what do you do to try to de-stress?
- A This is my problem. I try to plan ahead, and, so that I won't be stressed at some point. But, after a while, there's nothing you can do so then you just have to practice letting go and relaxing and being in the moment, being happy with what is.

Jim

- I Are you currently more stressed at work or at home?
- J Uh, well, I work at home, uh, I'm a self-employed writer and, uh, I experience very little stress, except those rare periods when I'm up against a deadline. So, uh, I have no commute, I– my commute is walking from one room to the other, and I have a cozy little office and I'm very happy, uh, and unstressed in work, which I think is very unlike most New Yorkers and I'm very fortunate.

- I When things are stressful, what do you do to try to de-stress?
 J Ah, I de-stress by, uh, sitting er down and breathing calmly and thinking about nothing, or sometimes thinking about the cosmos and thinking about, uh, the illusory nature of time. And, um, that usually works, uh, but as I say, I experience very low levels of stress, uh, because I actually spend a lot of time thinking about cosmological matters and that has a very calming effect, I think, and, uh, I commend it to my fellow New Yorkers.

Billy

- I Are you currently more stressed at work or at home?
 B More at home. I just recently moved from one place to another and, um, getting used to the new neighborhood, um, you know, where to shop, where to eat, um, how to get to work, um, a little stressful trying to navigate whereas, where I lived before I knew exactly what to do.
 I When things are stressful, what do you do to try to de-stress?
 B Work out. Um, I work out, I read, um, I listen to music, I meditate. Um, yeah.

Sean

- I Are you currently more stressed at work or at home?
 S I would say definitely more stressed at work. Um, I think stress is quite contagious. I think I spend a lot of my time around stressed people, um, either in a room with them, or on the phone to them, or, or just having emails from them, so I think that that builds a lot of stress, um, just from the environment, really.
 I When things are stressful, what do you do to try to de-stress?
 S I've realized quite recently that when I am stressed, I build a lot of tension in my shoulders, um, and I think it's not just a metaphor when we say we have things, we carry the weight of things on our shoulders. So I think it really helps just to be conscious of that and every half an hour or so, just if I concentrate on relaxing my shoulders, everything seems to be a little bit more bearable.

EXTRA SUPPORT Tell Sts to go to p.135 and to look at the script for ON THE STREET. Play the video or audio again and tell Sts to read and listen at the same time.

Help with any vocabulary problems and get feedback on what parts Sts found hard to understand and why.

4 SPEAKING

Put Sts in pairs or small groups and get them to ask and answer the six questions, giving as much information as possible.

Monitor and help with vocabulary. Help with any general language problems at the end of the activity.

Get some feedback.

- G verb + object + infinitive or gerund
V compound adjectives
P main and secondary stress

Lesson plan

The topics of this lesson are on how to survive stressful life events and how to change your life for the better.

Sts begin by doing a jigsaw reading. Both texts (one from the Guardian, one from wikiHow) give advice; one for a young adult living with parents and the other about coping with exam stress. Sts tell their partner about the tips suggested in their text and together they assess the usefulness of the tips. This leads to Sts writing some tips on a topic they have some experience of. The grammar focus is on the common pattern of verb + object + infinitive or gerund.

In the second half of the lesson Sts listen to a School of Life presentation about small pleasures. They then choose their own topic for a presentation, study tips on giving a presentation, and present it in small groups. In Vocabulary and Pronunciation Sts extend their knowledge of compound adjectives and look at where to stress compounds as well as words with suffixes and prefixes.

OPTIONAL LEAD-IN – THE QUOTE

- Write the quote at the top of p.56 on the board (books closed) and the name of the person who said it, or get Sts to open their books and read it.
- Point out that John Steinbeck (1902–1968) was one of the greatest American authors of the 20th century. His books include The Grapes of Wrath and East of Eden. He won the Nobel Prize in Literature in 1962.
- Ask Sts whether they agree with him.

1 READING & SPEAKING

- a Focus on the instructions. Then go through problems 1–5 and make sure all the vocabulary is clear.

Put Sts in pairs and get them to discuss where they would get advice for each problem.

Get some feedback from the class.

- b Focus on the instructions and the texts, and elicit that A is from a newspaper and B from a website, but both start with the same title How to survive... and offer advice.

Put Sts in pairs, A and B. Tell the As to read text A and the Bs text B.

EXTRA SUPPORT Since text A is from a newspaper article, it is slightly more challenging than text B, so you could give weaker Sts text B to read.

- c Tell Sts they will now tell their partner about the advice given in their text.

Get Sts to cover their text with a piece of paper, move it down the page gradually, and only look at the sub-headings while telling their partner the information in their own words.

Make sure they switch roles.

LEXIS IN CONTEXT

- d Tell Sts they now need to read their own text again and their partner's text.

They then need to find the eight idioms or phrasal verbs.

Get Sts to compare with their partner and then check answers.

- | | |
|-----------------------|-----------------------|
| 1 go into child mode | 5 stress you out |
| 2 do your share | 6 on an empty stomach |
| 3 squirrel away money | 7 lose your cool |
| 4 beyond belief | 8 handed in |

Help with any other vocabulary problems that arose.

EXTRA IDEA You may want to get Sts to comment on the different style of the two texts. The newspaper one has more humor and is more personal and sophisticated, whereas the internet one is more straightforward.

- e Do this as an open-class activity.

2 WRITING

- a Focus on the instructions and make sure Sts understand that they are not writing a full text – they just need to think of four or more tips and then write some notes under each tip giving the reasons.

Put Sts in pairs and get them to choose one of the topics to write about.

Give Sts time to think of their tips and to make a note of their reasons and / or examples.

EXTRA SUPPORT You could give Sts more ideas for How to survive... topics, such as a driving test, a long flight, moving to a new house, a job interview, a heatwave.

- b Put two pairs together and get them to exchange tips and ideas.
- c Sts now use their notes to write a paragraph for each tip, using the exam stress text as a model. If you don't have enough time, you could assign this writing for homework.

3 GRAMMAR verb + object + infinitive or gerund

- a Focus on the sentences and make sure Sts know the meaning of load the dishwasher and fussy.

Put Sts in pairs and give them time to decide whether 1–8 are right or wrong, and to correct the mistakes. Encourage them to use their instinct because although they may not have studied these structures before, they will have come across them frequently.

Check answers.

- 1 I was always made to load
- 2 ✓
- 3 I don't mind you not cleaning
- 4 I hate my parents talking to me
- 5 ✓
- 6 I want you to stop
- 7 I suggest you study
- 8 ✓

- b Tell Sts to go to Grammar Bank 6A on p.152.

Go through each example and its corresponding rule with the class, or give Sts time to read the examples and rules on their own, and answer any questions.

Additional grammar notes

- Sts will be aware that when one verb follows another the second verb is in either the infinitive or the gerund. Here the focus is on the pattern verb + object + infinitive or gerund. Sts will have been passively exposed to many of these structures, and have also studied verb + object + infinitive in reported requests, e.g., I told him to be here at 7:00. However, for many Sts these structures may be problematic, especially where in their L1 they would tend to follow some verbs with a that clause where in English a gerund or infinitive is used.

Focus on the exercise and get Sts to do it individually or in pairs. If they do it individually, get them to compare answers with a partner.

Check answers, getting Sts to read the full sentences.

- 1 me make
- 2 me feel uncomfortable
- 3 for you to stay
- 4 Jane coming
- 5 you to think
- 6 you to pay for
- 7 you to stay
- 8 your younger sisters having
- 9 Hannah to do
- 10 you being
- 11 us to buy
- 12 us from crossing
- 13 me to call back
- 14 the car breaking down
- 15 answering their smartphones
- 16 was made to do
- 17 that you get / you to get

Tell Sts to go back to the main lesson 6A.

EXTRA SUPPORT If you think Sts need more practice, you may want to give them the Grammar photocopyable activity at this point or leave it for later as consolidation or review.

- c Focus on the questions and make sure Sts understand them.

Put Sts in pairs and get them to ask and answer the questions, giving as much information as possible. Get some feedback from the class.

4 LISTENING

- a Ask the first question to the whole class to find out if any Sts have heard of The School of Life. Now tell Sts to read the extract to find out about The School of Life and discuss why they think it's been successful.

- b  6.1 Focus on the instructions and explain / elicit the meaning of a slide (= a single page of a presentation, for example in PowerPoint).

Give Sts time to look at all the slides.

Play the audio once the whole way through for Sts just to listen.

Now play it again for Sts to listen and number the slides.

Check answers.

Small pleasures: (A) cheese sandwich, (D) eating a fig, (G) scanning through old photos of when you were a child

6.1

(script in the Student Book on p.135)

Nowadays we're surrounded by some powerful ideas about the sort of things that will make us happy. The first of these is that we tend to think that really to deliver satisfaction, the pleasures we should aim for need to be rare. We've become suspicious of the ordinary, which we assume is mediocre, dull, and uninspiring, and likewise we assume that things that are unique, hard to find, exotic, or unfamiliar are naturally going to give us more pleasure.

Then, we want things to be expensive. If something is expensive, we value it more, whereas if something is cheap or free, it's a little harder to appreciate. The pineapple, for instance, dropped off a lot of people's wish list of fruit when its price fell from exorbitant (they used to cost the equivalent of hundreds of dollars) to unremarkable. Caviar continues to sound somehow more interesting than eggs. Then, we want things to be famous. In a fascinating experiment, a well-known violinist once donned scruffy clothes and performed at a street corner and was largely ignored, though people would flock to the world's greatest concert halls to hear just the same man play just the same pieces.

Lastly, we want things to be large scale. We're mostly focused on big schemes that we hope will deliver big kinds of enjoyment: marriage, career, travel, getting a new house.

These approaches aren't entirely wrong, but they unintentionally create an unhelpful bias against the cheap, the easily available, the ordinary, the familiar, and the small-scale. As a result, if someone says they've been on a trip to a Caribbean island by private jet, we automatically assume they had a better time than someone who went to the local park by bike. We imagine that visiting the Uffizi Gallery in Florence is always going to be nicer than reading a paperback novel in the backyard. A restaurant dinner at which Lobster Thermidor is served sounds a good deal more impressive than a supper of a cheese sandwich at home. The highlight of a weekend seems more likely to be a hang-gliding lesson, rather than a few minutes spent looking at the cloudy sky. It feels odd to suggest that a modest vase of lily of the valley (the cheapest flower at many florists) might give us more satisfaction than a Van Gogh original.

And yet the paradoxical and cheering aspect of pleasure is how unpredictable it can prove to be. Fancy vacations are not always 100% pleasurable. Our enjoyment of them is remarkably vulnerable to emotional trouble and casual bad moods. A fight that began with a small disagreement can end up destroying every benefit of a five-star resort. Real pleasures often seem insignificant - eating a fig, taking a bath, whispering in bed in the dark, talking to a grandparent, or scanning through old photos of when you were a child - and yet these small-scale pleasures can be anything but small. If we actually take the opportunity to enjoy them fully, these sort of activities may be among the most moving and satisfying we can have.

Fundamentally, this isn't really about how much small pleasures have to offer us. It's about how many good things there are in life that we unfairly neglect. We can't wait for everything that's lovely and charming to be approved by others before we allow ourselves to be delighted. We need to follow our own instincts about what is really important to us.

EXTRA SUPPORT Before doing c, write the following on the board:

- 1 Have bigger and better experiences.
- 2 Enjoy the small things that life has to offer.
- 3 Do one big challenge.

• Put Sts in pairs and ask them which piece of advice is given in the talk. Elicit the answer (2).

- c Focus on the task and give Sts time to read questions 1–8. Play the audio again.
Get Sts to compare answers with a partner, and then play the audio again as necessary.
Check answers.

- 1 ordinary
- 2 expensive
- 3 scruffy clothes, on a street corner
- 4 big schemes
- 5 went on a trip to a Caribbean island
- 6 hang-gliding
- 7 a fight / small disagreement
- 8 moving / satisfying

EXTRA SUPPORT If there's time, get Sts to listen again with the script on p.135, focusing on any new vocabulary that Sts didn't understand.

- d Focus on the task and ask students to summarize the presentation in one sentence. Set a time limit, e.g., two minutes, for Sts to complete the task. Then ask Sts to compare their summary with another pair's. Elicit feedback from each group.

5 SPEAKING

- a Focus on the task and give Sts time to read the statements, select which topic they would like to talk about, and make notes.

- b Focus on the Presentation tips and go through them with the class.

Put Sts in small groups and tell them to take turns giving their presentation to their group. When each speaker has finished, the others should ask questions.

Get individual Sts to give their presentation to the class.

EXTRA SUPPORT Give your own presentation to the class and answer questions at the end.

6 VOCABULARY & PRONUNCIATION

compound adjectives; main and secondary stress

- a Focus on the Compound adjectives box and go through it with the class. They will already be familiar with compound nouns, but highlight that, unlike compound nouns, compound adjectives are very often hyphenated (compound nouns sometimes are and sometimes aren't or are written as one word). You could point out that the second word in compound adjectives is often a past participle or an -ing form.

Focus on question 1 and elicit the compound adjective formed by a word from each list (e.g., second-hand).

Now get Sts to continue individually or in pairs.

Pronunciation notes

- Sts at this level will all be aware that in multi-syllable words one syllable is stressed more strongly. However, they may not be aware of secondary stress (another syllable less emphatic than the main stressed syllable, but carrying more stress than the other syllables in the word). Secondary stress is common in many words with prefixes, e.g., disobedient /ˌdɪsə'bi:diənt/, and also in compound nouns and adjectives. Sts also learn here that unlike compound nouns, where the main stress is normally on the first word, e.g., can opener /'kæn ɒpənər/, with compound adjectives the main stress is often on the second word, e.g., homemade /ˌhəʊm'meɪd/.

b 6.2 Play the audio for Sts to listen and check.

Check answers.

See script 6.2

6.2

- | | |
|------------------|-------------------|
| 1 secondhand | 6 homemade |
| 2 long-distance | 7 air-conditioned |
| 3 last-minute | 8 high-risk |
| 4 self-conscious | 9 narrow-minded |
| 5 worn-out | 10 well-behaved |

c Focus on the Fine-tuning your pronunciation: main stress and secondary stress box and go through it with the class.

Focus on the question and then play the audio again.

Check the answer.

In compound adjectives both words are stressed although the main stress is usually on the second word, e.g., second-hand.

Air-conditioned has the stress on the first word.

Put Sts in pairs and get them to ask and answer questions 1–10 in a, giving examples.

Monitor and help where necessary.

Get some feedback.

d Focus on the task and set a time limit for Sts to match the adjectives with the nouns.

e 6.3 Play the audio for Sts to listen and check.

Check answers, making sure Sts know the meaning of all the collocations. Elicit that hands-free, feel-good, ground-breaking, labor-saving, and life-changing have the main stress on the first word, and the others on the second word.

See script 6.3

6.3

- 1 a hands-free phone
- 2 a dead-end job
- 3 a feel-good movie
- 4 groundbreaking research
- 5 a high-pitched voice
- 6 a labor-saving device
- 7 high-heeled shoes
- 8 a low-cost airline
- 9 eco-friendly detergent
- 10 a life-changing experience

Now give Sts time to write three questions using a compound adjective from a or d in each.

Monitor and help.

Get Sts to first ask you some of them and then ask each other.

- G conditional sentences
V phones and technology; adjectives + prepositions
P /æ/ and /ʌ/

Lesson plan

The topic of this lesson is behavioral addictions and obsessions, such as being addicted to shopping. Alcohol or substance addiction have not been included as these may be sensitive or even taboo subjects in some teaching situations.

Sts begin by studying vocabulary related to phones and technology. This is followed by a pronunciation focus on the minimal pairs /æ/ and /ʌ/. Sts then read an article by a journalist who found himself without his cell phone for an afternoon, and the effect this had on him. They then discuss the implications of dependence on cell phones. The grammar focus reviews conditional sentences, and introduces mixed conditionals and alternatives to if, such as as long as and provided that, etc.

In the second half of the lesson Sts do some work on dependent prepositions after adjectives, e.g., addicted to, hooked on. They then listen to a doctor talking about addictions and how to deal with them. In Speaking Sts talk about themselves or people they know who have behavioral addictions. The writing section is about presenting a balanced argument in a discursive essay.

OPTIONAL LEAD-IN – THE QUOTE

- Write the quote at the top of p.60 on the board (books closed) and the name of the person who said it, or get Sts to open their books and read it.
- Elicit / explain that Carrie Underwood (1983–) is an American country music singer and actress. She won American Idol, a popular TV talent show, in 2005.
- Get Sts to discuss with a partner what they think the quote says about Carrie's life and whether she's serious or not.

1 VOCABULARY phones and technology

- a Focus on the questions and make sure Sts know the meaning of upgrade.

Put Sts in pairs and get them to ask and answer the questions.

Finally, focus on the Tip and go through it with the class. Encourage your Sts to put it into practice!

Tell Sts to go back to the main lesson 6B.

EXTRA SUPPORT If you think Sts need more practice, you may want to give them the Vocabulary photocopyable activity at this point or leave it for later as consolidation or review.

2 PRONUNCIATION /æ/ and /ʌ/

Pronunciation notes

- This exercise gives Sts the opportunity to fine-tune their pronunciation of two vowel sounds, which may still cause problems even at an advanced level.
- The /æ/ sound can only be spelled by the letter a, usually between consonants, e.g., bag, clap; however, the /ʌ/ sound can be spelled in different ways, most commonly by the letter u between consonants, e.g., bus, but also by o, e.g., son, the letters ou, e.g., touch, or oo, e.g., blood. Many Sts find it hard to hear the difference between these sounds and this can cause communication problems, as there are several common words or verb forms where the only difference is these vowel sounds. Getting Sts to focus on your mouth position (wider for the /æ/ sound) may also help.

- a 6.6 Focus on the Fine-tuning your pronunciation: /æ/ and /ʌ/ box and go through with the class.

Focus on the instructions and give Sts time to look at all the words in the list. You could encourage them to say the words out loud to themselves as they read them.

Play the audio once the whole way through for Sts just to listen.

6.6

See the words in the Student Book on p.60

- b 6.7 Focus on the instructions and make it clear that this time Sts are going to hear one of the words or phrases in a sentence.

Play the audio once the whole way through.

Check answers.

- | | |
|-----------|-----------|
| 1 rung | 5 run out |
| 2 up | 6 match |
| 3 hung up | 7 truck |
| 4 cat | |

6.7

- 1 Her cell phone has rung twice.
- 2 What's up?
- 3 They hung up.
- 4 What a horrible cat!
- 5 The printer's run out of paper.
- 6 She's no match for him.
- 7 There was a truck in the middle of the road.

- c Get Sts to practice saying the sentences with a partner. Encourage them to try to say them quickly, linking words where appropriate and concentrating on the two highlighted vowel sounds.

EXTRA SUPPORT Say each sentence first and get Sts to repeat after you. Then put Sts in pairs and get them to practice saying them.

3 READING & SPEAKING

- a Put Sts in small groups to discuss the questions.
 b Focus on the task and the article. Set a time limit for Sts to read the article once and fill in the blanks with appropriate words.
 Check answers.

1 Delete	5 take	9 leave
2 Take	6 turn	10 Keep
3 Leave	7 check	11 turn
4 Keep	8 Take

- c Focus on the task and get Sts to read the article again and underline and circle the effects.
 Get Sts to compare with a partner and then check answers.

Underline the following sentences:

I substitute Instagram with reading books and finish two by the end of the week, which makes me cringe at how much time I must waste on my phone.

I'm amazed that, without it at hand, I simply go back to sleep.

By day three, I'm feeling left out of my family's WhatsApp group, but I welcome taking work emails off my phone

Circle the following sentences:

I decide there is no way I'm doing it without my phone - I need it in bed with me - and I go back to checking work emails, WhatsApp-ing my family, and watching dog videos on YouTube.

By Saturday lunchtime, I have a meltdown.

I don't see a single person until my neighbor knocks on my door on Sunday morning with some chocolate.

Later, I walk to the supermarket, just so I can speak to someone.

LEXIS IN CONTEXT

- d Focus on the first phrase and get Sts to look at it in context. Then elicit what the author meant (makes me feel embarrassed).
 Then get Sts to continue in pairs using the context to work out the meaning of the other phrases.
 Check answers.

- 2 nearby
- 3 change from bad to worse
- 4 break down
- 5 deal successfully with something difficult
- 6 looking quickly at

Finally, help with any vocabulary problems that arose.

- e Put Sts in pairs and get them to ask and answer the questions, giving as much information as possible.
 Get some feedback for each question.

4 GRAMMAR conditional sentences

- a Focus on the task and give Sts time to match the sentence halves.
 Check answers.

1 C	3 E	5 D
2 F	4 B	6 A

- b Focus on the questions and give Sts time in pairs to answer them.
 Check answers.

Refer to present or future situations:

2 is a mixed conditional (a combination of a second and a third conditional). It refers to a hypothetical situation in the present (If my laptop wasn't so new) and the consequence it had on the past (I wouldn't have bothered to get it repaired). If my laptop wasn't could also be If my laptop weren't with no change of meaning.

3 is a first conditional (if + simple present, will / going to + base form). It is used to talk about a possible present or future situation and its result.

4 and 5 are second conditionals (if + simple past, would + base form). They are used to talk about hypothetical or improbable situations in the present / future, and their consequences.

Refer to past situations:

1 and 6 are third conditionals (if + past perfect, would have + past participle). They are used to talk about hypothetical situations in the past and their consequences.

Elicit that in 2 the if-clause is like a second conditional (because it refers to the present) and the other clause is like a third conditional (because it refers to the past), but that mixed conditionals can also work the other way around, e.g., If I hadn't passed all my exams (3rd conditional, a hypothesis about the past), I wouldn't be feeling so relaxed. (the consequence in the present).

- c Tell Sts to go to Grammar Bank 6B on p.153.

Go through each example and its corresponding rule with the class, or give Sts time to read the examples and rules on their own, and answer any questions. In the section on real and unreal conditionals, you could point out that would have can be contracted as 'd have or would've, e.g., I'd have / I would've told you if I'd known.

Additional grammar notes

- Sts should be familiar by now with the two standard forms of unreal conditions, i.e., 2nd and 3rd conditionals, even though they may still make mistakes with the forms when speaking. It is worth reminding them that continuous forms (past continuous or past perfect continuous) can also be used in the if-clause, e.g., If it was snowing now, I would leave work early.
- Mixed conditionals are much less common than standard conditionals, but Sts still need some practice in this area.
- One area not covered here is other types of inversion in conditionals, e.g., Should you wish to..., Were I to...

Focus on the exercises and get Sts to do them individually or in pairs. If they do them individually, get them to compare answers with a partner.

Check answers after each exercise, getting Sts to read the full sentences.

EXTRA SUPPORT If you think Sts need more practice, you may want to give them the Grammar photocopiable activity at this point or leave it for later as consolidation or review.

d Focus on the task and give Sts time to finish the sentences so they are true for them.

Monitor and correct any errors with conditional sentences.

Put Sts in pairs and get them to compare sentences.

Elicit some sentences from the class and find out if any Sts finished the sentences in a similar way.

5 VOCABULARY

adjectives + prepositions

a Focus on the Adjectives + prepositions box and go through it with the class.

Give Sts time to complete the Prepositions column. Make sure they do not write the prepositions in the sentences.

b  6.8 Play the audio for Sts to listen and check.

Check answers.

2 on	5 of	8 to
3 with	6 on	9 with
4 to	7 of	10 to

- 1 Our country depends on young people to come up with new ideas.
- 2 Many 30-year-olds are still dependent on their parents.
- 3 People are totally fed up with the number of reality shows on TV.
- 4 Older people aren't as open to new ideas as younger people are.
- 5 People are sick of being bombarded with depressing news.
- 6 A lot of people are hooked on superhero movies.
- 7 As a nation we are very proud of our sporting achievements.
- 8 A lot of young people are addicted to social networking.
- 9 A lot of people are obsessed with celebrities and their lifestyles.
- 10 People are usually very kind and helpful to foreign tourists.

c Get Sts to test themselves by covering the Prepositions column and saying the sentences with the prepositions.

d Focus on the first sentence in a and ask Sts if they think it is true for their country, and elicit examples.

Then put Sts in pairs and get them to continue with the other sentences.

Get some feedback from the class.

Tell Sts that they can find a list of dependent prepositions on p.177 of the Student Book. This includes adjectives + prepositions, verbs + prepositions, and nouns + prepositions.

6 LISTENING

a Focus on the task and explain / elicit the meaning of the title, Hooked (= enjoying something very much, so that you want to do it, see it, etc. as much as possible).

Give Sts time to read the website and then help with any vocabulary problems that arose.

Put Sts in pairs and get them to look at each picture and discuss the two questions.

Check answers to question 1 and elicit ideas for question 2.

The people are addicted to the following:

- 1 the internet
- 2 food
- 3 cosmetic surgery (just about improving appearance, not medical need)
- 4 the gym / exercise
- 5 high-risk sports
- 6 video games
- 7 shopping

EXTRA IDEA Before you do a, with books closed, ask Sts what gadgets, apart from cell phones, or activities they think people are addicted to or obsessed with in the 21st century. Then get Sts to open their books and look at the photos – are the addictions they mentioned there?

b Focus on the task. Sts could do this in pairs or as an open-class activity.

If Sts worked in pairs, you could ask if Sts know the meaning of any of the words or expressions and how to pronounce them.

c  6.9 Play the audio, pausing after each sentence for Sts to listen and check.

After each sentence, elicit the pronunciation and meaning of the word or expression.

For the definitions see script 3.36

- 1 "Dopamine" is a chemical in the brain which makes you feel good.
- 2 "To quit a substance or a behavior" means to stop taking it or doing it.
- 3 "Depression" is a medical condition in which a person feels very sad and anxious and often has physical symptoms such as being unable to sleep.

- 8 "To have counseling" means to get professional advice about a problem, for example, marriage guidance counseling.
- 9 "To have a relapse" means to become sick again after having previously improved.

d Focus on statements 1–8 and make sure Sts understand them.

Put Sts in small groups and get them to discuss each statement.

Monitor and help.

Get some feedback from various groups.

e 6.10 Focus on the instructions and make sure Sts understand that they are marking statements 1–8 in d.

Play the audio once the whole way through for Sts to listen and complete the task.

Get Sts to compare with a partner and then play the audio again. You could pause the audio after each question has been answered to give Sts time to think.

Check answers.

6.10

(script in the Student Book on p.135)

I = Interviewer, D = Doctor Stork

- I Can you begin by explaining exactly what an addiction is?
- D I think we often think of addiction as being something like an illegal drug, but the truth is you can be addicted to a lot of things – caffeinated drinks, fatty, sugary foods, it could be drugs but it could be a whole host of other things. What's happening in your brain's pleasure centers, is that whenever you do this thing, it rewards you, you get a flood of dopamine in your brain's pleasure centers. And over time you start having more and more dopamine. Well, the brain responds to that in an interesting way. All this dopamine in your brain, just like with the radio when it's turned up too loud, your brain turns down the volume. So if you've been drinking too much caffeine, eating too much sugar, your brain actually turns down the volume, so you have to drink even more or eat even more just to get back to your normal state.
- I So what does that mean for someone who's addicted to something and wants to give it up?
- D Well, have you ever noticed how people, when they quit a substance, or a behavior, they're angry, they're depressed, they're unhappy. The reason is because their brains rely on the "drug" to make them not only feel good, but to stop them from feeling bad. So this is all a matter of reward centers in the brain, and when you become addicted to a behavior you are just trying to get that pleasurable feeling, to not feel so bad any more. And that's why it's so difficult to give up because once you're addicted it's so hard to stop.
- I If someone wants to give up an addiction, would you recommend that they went cold turkey?
- D Well, it depends on what they're addicted to, and it also depends on the person. If you're truly addicted to video games, to the point where you're not eating or sleeping properly, or you have migraine headaches from intense concentration, or maybe you have a video game addiction coupled with depression; we will give people medicine to change their brain chemistry—to help them decrease their cravings to play video games. They couldn't go cold turkey without it being a serious risk. But food addiction, you know, if you're addicted to fatty and sugary foods, you can't stop eating food, but you can quit that kind of food cold turkey. There's not going to be any problem in your body from doing that. And for some people stopping smoking cold turkey is the best way to do it, but other people may be dependent on nicotine patches or gum for a while, or some other substitute.
- I I see. What other kind of treatment do addicts need?
- D The best treatment options are multi-pronged, so you may need counseling, and sometimes you may need medication, and it's also vital if you can get support from your family, because these addictive personalities, they tend to push the limits, and they need all the help they can get not to have a relapse, fall back into their bad habits.
- I Doctor Stork, thank you very much.

EXTRA SUPPORT If there's time, get Sts to listen again with the script on p.135, focusing on any new vocabulary that Sts didn't understand.

f Do this as an open-class activity and tell the class if you know someone affected by one of the addictions in the photos or to any other kind of behavior.

7 SPEAKING

a Do this as an open-class activity.

Elicit answers.

Being addicted to or hooked on something suggests a physical or psychological dependence, and an inability to stop (e.g., I'm completely addicted to chocolate) whereas being obsessed with something means thinking about it all the time (e.g., Our seven-year-old is obsessed with Spider-Man). Sometimes the difference is small, e.g., She's addicted to / obsessed with her new smartphone are both possible.

b Focus on the task and make sure Sts know what a tweet is (= a message sent using the Twitter social networking service).

Put Sts in pairs and get them to discuss the meaning of the highlighted phrases.

Check answers.

- 1 She goes on and on = She talks continuously
- 2 I've got a little bit of an obsession = I think about it all the time
- 3 she keeps checking it = she looks at it all the time
- 4 I just can't help it = I can't avoid doing it
- 5 absolutely fanatical = extremely enthusiastic
- 6 has a thing about = has an obsession with c Focus on the task and give Sts time to think about themselves or people they know before they start. Stress that it can be a mild obsession.

Demonstrate the activity by talking about a person you know, or about yourself if you have an obsession you don't mind talking about!

Divide Sts into small groups and get them to talk about themselves or people they know. Remind them to try to use some of the phrases from b.

Monitor, looking out especially for any mistakes with prepositions.

Get some feedback by asking the groups about any unusual obsessions that came up.

8 WRITING a discursive essay (1)

In this lesson the focus is on writing a discursive essay. These are generally of two types, either a "balanced argument" essay, where Sts are expected to give both sides of an argument and draw a conclusion, or an "opinion" essay, where Sts decide whether they agree with a statement or not and give their reasons. The "opinion" essay is focused on in 8B. The writing skills focus here is on the content of introductory and concluding paragraphs, and there is a Useful language focus on expressing the main points in an argument, adding supporting information, describing cause and effect, and weighing up arguments.

Tell Sts to go to Writing A discursive essay (1) on p.120.

a Focus on the text type (a discursive essay: a balanced argument). Tell Sts that when they are asked to write an essay it is normally one of two types, either giving a balanced argument, i.e., showing the pros and cons of something, or giving their own opinion clearly in favor of or against a particular statement. Point out that the latter kind of discursive essay will be focused on in File 8.

You should highlight that although some essay titles make it clear which type of essay is required, some titles allow Sts to decide for themselves which type they wish to write.

Focus on the Key success factors and go through them with the class.

Focus on the task and get Sts, in pairs, to discuss arguments for and against smartphones. They should then choose three arguments for smartphones and three against, and put them in order of importance.

Get feedback and write the arguments up on the board in two columns.

b Focus on the task and main sections of the essay.

Get Sts to read it quickly and check the arguments against the ones on the board.

Elicit that the main argument is given at the beginning of the "in favor" section, and at the end of the "against" section.

c Focus on the task and introductions and conclusions.

Get Sts to first read the Introductions and conclusions box, then choose individually which introduction they think is the best, and then to compare with a partner.

Then get them to do the same with the conclusions.

Check answers, getting Sts to explain why.

The best introduction is the first one. It introduces the topic as specified in the title, and engages the reader's attention by posing the relevant question. Introduction 2 is less suitable as all it does is spell out the structure of the essay, and introduction 3 doesn't address the topic as stated in the title, but appears to be more of an introduction to an essay on our lives before the invention of the smartphone.

The third conclusion is the best for the essay as it sums up what has been said and gives the writer's overall opinion. Conclusion 1 is not appropriate because it comes down in favor of smartphones, which does not reflect the aim or content of the essay, and conclusion 2 is the same. It also includes a specific argument not mentioned in the rest of the essay.

USEFUL LANGUAGE

d Focus on the task and give Sts time to complete the phrases individually or in pairs. Stress that not all the phrases are in the model essay.

Check answers.

- | | |
|----------------|---------------|
| 1 benefit | 7 only |
| 2 importantly | 8 favor |
| 3 disadvantage | 9 whole |
| 4 drawback | 10 balance |
| 5 addition | 11 All...all |
| 6 more | 12 considered |

Remind Sts that these phrases are all useful for writing this kind of essay.

PLANNING WHAT TO WRITE

- a Focus on the task. Tell Sts, in pairs, to choose one of the titles and brainstorm the pros and cons.
Get feedback by writing the titles on the board and then eliciting all the points for and against.
Then elicit from the class which they think are the most important arguments on each side (they don't have to agree).
- b Set a time limit of about ten minutes for Sts to write their introductory paragraphs.
- c Tell Sts to compare their introduction with the partner they worked with in a and to write a final version together.

EXTRA IDEA You could get all pairs who have chosen the first essay to read the other Sts' paragraphs and then have the class vote for the best one, while doing the same for the second title.

Finally, go through the Tips with the class.

6.11 Giving presentations

Hi, I'm Louise. I work for a local newspaper here in London. I love writing and I really enjoy interviewing, but there's one thing about my job I really hate – and that's public speaking.

The problem is that no matter what work you do, speaking in public is almost impossible to avoid. These days, most roles require communication skills. From small presentations to big conference speeches, you need to be able to deliver a message clearly and confidently.

But for people like me this isn't easy. I find speaking in public terrifying. I become tense and nervous and find it very difficult to relax. So that's why I've come here – to the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art.

RADA first opened in the Haymarket in London in 1904. It offers training for theater specialists, including actors, stage managers, directors, and designers. It has become one of the most famous acting schools in the world and some of the entertainment industry's biggest names have studied here.

But what am I doing here? Well, it's about time I overcame my fear of public speaking, and to do this I need to become a good actor.

After all, actors and public speakers use a lot of the same skills. Both should tell a story and both should engage an audience. Because of this, RADA runs several public speaking courses into a series of individuals and of course, individuals are never as scary as the mass. Does that make sense?

People come here to develop an actor's approach to speaking effectively and Sandie – an actor for over 30 years – is going to show us the way.

The RADA approach to public speaking can be summarized in three words – think, breathe, speak. First, we're going to focus on the 'think' part.

"Tell me if anything doesn't make sense." "No, it does and I've always wanted a really grown-up ..."

First, we're going to focus on the "think" part.

"First of all, I hope you don't mind me asking, but why are you here?"

"Um, well I tend to do a lot of one-to-one work with people when I'm interviewing them ..."

At this stage, you talk through your concerns and set an objective for the session.

"... there's a big group of people and they're not behind a microphone or TV camera, I get so nervous – even when I'm meeting new people at parties or dinner parties, so it would just be good to learn a few techniques to feel more confident." "OK, so ..."

Then you give a presentation in your usual style and get some interesting feedback from Sandie.

"... So, that's about it." "Very, very well done. Thank you very much indeed. Really well done, Lou. How was that for you? So I think you're absolutely charming, Lou. You come across with a real positive energy. You've got a lovely open face. You very clearly are naturally engaging, which means I, as your audience, am naturally engaged. You're friendly, you're affable and you've got a great smile, which is wonderful. Things, small things, that I think you might be able to do differently: so, you were playing with your feet. You were playing with your feet like a five-year-old. So, if I say that you were doing that on your heels ..." "Right. Oh, yeah." "Do you know what I mean?" "Yeah, yeah, yeah." "And then you crossed your legs." "Right."

"Probably the most significant thing that I noticed that you could do differently is to slow down." "... see yourself and feel yourself confident and sure ..."

If you can get your body language right, it will help your breathing and controlling your breath is central to good public speaking. You learn to relax and find the power behind the voice through warm-up and breathing exercises.

"I trust, Lou, that you are aware of that amazing range you have. Yes?" "Yeah." "So, you're breathing in, sighing in, pushing out. Pushing all the air right out. Waiting ..."

Once you have mastered the thought and the breath you can finally speak. But this isn't as easy as it sounds.

"Good afternoon." "Brilliant, you've done that really, really well. You've got the hang of that. So now we're going to get a bit of oomph into our voice by doing it like an opera singer." "Good afternoon." "Good afternoon."

It isn't always easy to speak naturally, but eventually – after a lot of practice – the words start to flow. Then you can move on to a full paragraph.

"I'll share some very embarrassing stories and I'll explain the impact that our work has on very lonely people."

You have to make an impact from the beginning and Sandie gives you the A, B, C, D of the perfect opening. And it's just as important to end on a positive note.

... body language and anticipate finishing by 4 p.m.

Speaking and communicating are two very different things, and communicating effectively takes skill, perseverance, and lots of hard work. Unfortunately, it isn't as easy as just reading the right words; you need to tell the story, too. But if you can do this you will draw in your audience, and as they relax, you'll relax, too.

"Yeah, I thought your pace was excellent: it was really measured, it was clear. I would have understood exactly what you were about to do, who you were and why you were doing that. So, as far as I'm concerned, that was really effective communication." "Thank you." "Pleasure."

I still feel nervous about speaking in front of people, but at RADA I enjoyed public speaking for the first time, and the more I enjoyed it, the better I became. And that's what the RADA technique is all about. It gives you the skills to grow in confidence so, like an actor, you can face your audience with assurance rather than fear.

- G permission, obligation, and necessity
V word formation: prefixes
P intonation and linking in exclamations

Lesson plan

The topic of this lesson is control.

In the first half, the angle of the topic is about control in education, and Sts find out through a listening about the QI phenomenon, a TV quiz show and series of books based on principles that the authors think should be applied to education, e.g., giving children control over their learning. The pronunciation focus is on intonation and linking in exclamations such as How annoying! The vocabulary focus is on word formation, adding prefixes to change the meaning of a word, e.g., bilingual, anti-social, etc.

The second half of the lesson focuses on the absurdity of some health and safety rules in the UK. Sts read a review of a book, In the Interests of Safety, which discusses rules that we should or shouldn't have to follow these days. Sts then go into the grammar, which is on modal verbs and other expressions used to talk about permission, obligation, and necessity. They put the grammar into practice discussing the advantages or disadvantages of possible laws. The lesson ends with Sts writing a report.

OPTIONAL LEAD-IN – THE QUOTE

- Write the quote at the top of p.66 on the board (books closed) and the name of the person who said it, or get Sts to open their books and read it.
- Point out that Thomas Edison (1847–1931) was an American inventor and businessman. Elicit some of the products he developed (e.g., the telegraph, the electric light bulb, alkaline storage batteries, and the motion picture camera – all of which have had a huge impact on modern life).
- Explain / elicit the use of ain't (short for aren't) and the double negative.
- Get Sts to discuss the quote in pairs or do it as an open-class activity.

1 LISTENING & SPEAKING

- a Put Sts in pairs and get them to discuss the questions.

Get some feedback from the class. You could find out with a show of hands which was the most / least popular subject. Find out if there is a consensus as to why. Also elicit other subjects Sts really didn't enjoy and ask why.

- b Focus on the task and the quiz. Set a time limit for Sts to answer the questions.

! If Sts ask what QI stands for, tell them they will find out later in the listening.

- c When the time limit is up, put Sts in pairs, A and B, and tell them to go to Communication QI quiz, A on pp.108–109, B on p.112. They will each find detailed answers to half of the questions, which they then tell each other.

Get feedback to find out which pairs answered the most questions correctly, and which answers surprised Sts.

- d  7.1 Focus on the task. Some Sts may know about QI as the books have been translated into several languages.

Give Sts time to read questions 1–5.

Play the audio once the whole way through for Sts to try to answer the questions.

Get Sts to compare with a partner and then play the audio again. You could pause the audio at times to give Sts more time.

Check answers.

- Because it stands for Quite Interesting and the writers think all facts are interesting. It is also IQ backwards (IQ = intelligence quotient, the numerical measurement of somebody's intelligence).
- Everything you think you know is probably wrong, and everything is interesting.
- You are more likely to be killed by an asteroid than by lightning; Julius Caesar was not born by Caesarean section.
- That human beings, especially children, are naturally curious and want to learn.
- Schools can make an interesting subject boring by making children memorize facts, and if children are forced to learn something, they will probably be less successful.

7.1

(script in the Student Book on p.135)

Why is it that so many children don't seem to learn anything in school? A TV producer-turned-writer has come up with some very revolutionary ideas.

A few years ago, TV producer John Lloyd thought up a formula for a new quiz show. The show is called QI, which stands for "Quite Interesting," and which is also IQ backwards. It's a comedy quiz show hosted by actor Stephen Fry, where panelists have to answer unusual general knowledge questions, and it is perhaps surprising that it's particularly popular among 15 to 25 year olds. Along with co-author John Mitchinson, Lloyd has since written a number of QI books, for example, The Book of General Ignorance, and these have also been incredibly successful. Lloyd's basic principle is very simple: everything you think you know is probably wrong, and everything is interesting. The QI Book of General Ignorance, for example, poses 240 questions, all of which reveal surprising answers. So we learn, for example, that you are more likely to be killed by an asteroid than by lightning, or that Julius Caesar was not, in fact, born by Caesarian section.

The popularity of these books proves Lloyd's other thesis: that human beings, and children in particular, are naturally curious and have a desire to learn. And this, he believes, has several implications for education. According to Lloyd and Mitchinson, there are two reasons why children, in spite of being curious, tend to do badly at school. First, even the best schools can take a fascinating subject, such as electricity or classical civilization, and make it boring, by turning it into facts which have to be learned by heart and then regurgitated for exams. Second, QI's popularity seems to prove that learning takes place most effectively when it's done voluntarily. The same teenagers who will happily choose to read a QI book will often sit at the back of a geography class and go to sleep, or worse still, disrupt the rest of the class.

e 7.2 Focus on the task and give Sts time to read the fill-in-the-blank suggestions.

Play the audio once the whole way through for Sts to listen and fill in the blanks.

Get Sts to compare with a partner. Play again if necessary. Check answers.

- | | |
|-----------------------|---------------------|
| 1 play...work | 4 theory...practice |
| 2 children themselves | 5 stop dead |
| 3 when...how | |

7.2

(script in the Student Book on pp.135–136)

So how could we change our schools so that children would enjoy learning? What would a "QI school" be like? These are Lloyd and Mitchinson's basic suggestions.

The first principle is that education should be more play than work. The more learning involves things like storytelling and making things, the more interested children will become.

Second, they believe that the best people to control what children learn are the children themselves. Children should be encouraged to follow their curiosity. They will end up learning to read, for example, because they want to, in order to read about something they are interested in.

Third, they argue that children should also be in control of when and how they learn. The QI school would not be mandatory, so students wouldn't have to go if they didn't want to, and there would be no exams. There would only be projects, or goals that children set for themselves with the teacher helping them. So a project could be something like making a movie or building a chair.

Fourth, there should never be theory without practice. You can't learn about vegetables and what kind of plants they are from books and pictures; you need to go and plant them and watch them grow. The fifth, and last point Lloyd and Mitchinson make, is that there's no reason why school has to stop dead at 17 or 18. The QI school would be a place where you would be able to continue learning all your life, a mini-university where the young and old could continue to find out about all the things they are naturally curious about.

f Tell Sts they are going to listen to the audio again and this time they need to make notes of the reasons for each suggestion.

Play the audio again, pausing after each suggestion to give Sts time to write.

Get Sts to compare with a partner and then check answers.

- 1 Because learning should never feel like hard work.
- 2 Because if they follow their curiosity, they will learn things because they are interested in them.
- 3 Because children shouldn't be made to go to school every day if they don't want to. There wouldn't be any exams, only projects chosen by the children.
- 4 Because children would learn all theories through practical activities.
- 5 Because there should be no official school leaving age. Young and old could continue to learn together.

EXTRA SUPPORT If there's time, get Sts to listen again with the scripts on pp.135–136, focusing on any new vocabulary that Sts didn't understand.

g Get Sts to discuss the suggestions in pairs, small groups, or as a whole class.

If Sts worked in pairs or small groups, elicit some opinions.

Finally, ask Sts if they have any suggestions to improve learning in schools.

EXTRA SUPPORT You could write on the board:

Do you think it's a good idea? Why (not)?

Do you think it's practical? Why (not)?

and get Sts to answer the two questions for each suggestion.

- Get feedback by finding out which of the suggestions Sts both agree with and think could be put into practice, eliciting reasons.

2 PRONUNCIATION intonation and linking in exclamations

Pronunciation notes

- When we make an exclamation, e.g., using How + adjective or What + adjective + noun, we usually give the adjective extra emphasis, with a rise-fall intonation. It is important to get the intonation right, because if the adjective is said with a flat or falling tone, it could sound as if you are uninterested or even being sarcastic.
- In many of these exclamations the words are linked together (see Pronunciation notes in 5A). Here Sts also learn that when a word ending in w, such as how, is followed by a word beginning with a vowel sound, a /w/ sound is inserted between the two words.

a 7.3 Focus on the task, making sure Sts know what an exclamation is.

Play the audio, pausing for Sts to write down B's exclamations. Play the audio again as necessary.

Check answers and write the exclamations on the board.

See the exclamations in bold in script 7.3

A Did you know that America was named after a British merchant called Richard Ameryk?
B How interesting! I'd always wondered where the name came from.
 2
A Lloyd and Mitchinson think that school shouldn't be compulsory.
B What a ridiculous idea! If it wasn't mandatory, no one would ever go.

- b Focus on the task and the questions.
 Now play the dialogues again for Sts to listen.
 Get Sts to discuss what they think and then check answers.

1 The adjective has extra stress. The intonation is more exaggerated, with extra stress on the stressed syllable.
 2 The /w/ sound is added because interesting begins with a vowel, and when a word ending in w is followed by a word beginning in a vowel, the words are linked and a /w/ sound is inserted between them.

EXTRA SUPPORT A lot of Sts (and even teachers) find it difficult to identify intonation patterns. If this is the case with your Sts, just focus on getting them to copy the pattern by playing the audio for them to repeat.

- c Give Sts time to practice saying the exclamations with a partner.
 Monitor and encourage them to get the right intonation.
d Sit Sts in pairs, A and B, preferably face to face. Tell them to go to Communication What a ridiculous idea!, A on p.109, B on p.112.
 Go through the instructions. Highlight that they can use How / What + any adjective or noun phrases they like, e.g., How awful! What a pity!, not only the ones they have just practiced.
 Demonstrate the activity. Invent a piece of news, which should elicit one of the exclamations they have just practiced. Tell it to them as convincingly as you can (Did you know that...?) and elicit an exclamation.
 Get Sts to continue in pairs.
 Tell Sts to go back to the main lesson 7A.

EXTRA SUPPORT You may want to write more common examples of exclamations on the board, e.g., How awful!, How fantastic!, How amazing!, How wonderful!, What a pity!, What a shame!, What a pain!, etc.

3 VOCABULARY word formation: prefixes

- a Focus on the task and remind Sts that all QI facts are true.
 Give Sts time to read the ten facts.
 Put Sts in pairs to discuss what they thought of the facts and to tell each other which they find the most surprising.
 Get some feedback.
b Focus on the instructions and give Sts time to go through the sentences with a partner.
 Check answers.

- 1 dis-, il-, un-, in- 2 bi- = two anti- = against re- = again mis- = wrongly sub- = under micro- = very small

Highlight that sometimes there is a hyphen between anti and the next word (e.g., anti-hero, anti-war), but sometimes not (e.g., anticlimax).

- c Tell Sts to go to Vocabulary Bank Prefixes on p.170.
 Focus on 1 Negative prefixes and get Sts to do a individually or in pairs.
7.4 Now focus on b. Play the audio for Sts to listen and check.
 Check answers, eliciting the meaning of any words your Sts may not be familiar with. Then use the audio to model and drill the pronunciation, especially of any words that are tricky for your Sts.

See script 4.5
im- + m or p
il- + l

Focus on 2 Prefixes which add other meanings a and give Sts time to match the highlighted prefixes with their meanings.

- 7.5 Now focus on b. Play the first one and pause the audio so that Sts realize they will hear the number and letter, followed by the meaning of the prefix.
 Now play the rest of the audio for Sts to listen and check, pausing after each one and checking answers.

See script 7.5

7.5

Prefixes which add other meanings

- 1 D "out-" means "further, better, bigger"
- 2 I "mono-" means "one"
- 3 T "re-" means "again"
- 4 L "out-" means "outside, not inside"
- 5 Q "ill-" means "badly"
- 6 C "multi-" means "more than one, many"
- 7 E "mis-" means "wrongly"
- 8 H "anti-" means "against"
- 9 O "up-" means "higher, towards the top"
- 10 N "de-" means "remove or reduce"
- 11 K "post-" means "after"
- 12 M "pre-" means "before"
- 13 B "over-" means "too much"
- 14 G "bi-" means "two, twice"

- 16 F "sub-" means "below"
- 17 R "inter-" means "between"
- 18 A "under-" means "not enough"
- 19 S "super-" means "above average"
- 20 J "auto-" means "by yourself, by itself"

Now focus on the Prefixes with more than one meaning box and go through it with the class.

Finally, focus on Activation and give Sts time to think of their answers. Highlight that cook and place here are verbs, not nouns.

Put Sts in pairs and get them to compare with their partner.

Check answers, by eliciting the words onto the board and checking their meaning.

-cook: pre, over, under
-lingual: mono, multi, bi
-war: anti, post, pre
-national: multi, inter
-place: re, mis

Tell Sts to go back to the main lesson 7A.

EXTRA SUPPORT If you think Sts need more practice, you may want to give them the Vocabulary photocopiable activity at this point or leave it for later as consolidation or review.

d Set the task either for Sts to do individually or in pairs.

If Sts worked individually, get them to compare with a partner.

Check answers.

- | | |

| 1 misjudged | 6 ill-equipped |
| 2 rewrite | 7 uphill |
| 3 illegible | 8 understaffed |
| 4 inconvenient | 9 overcharged |

4 READING

a Focus on the task and make sure Sts understand what the book is about.

Put Sts in pairs and get them to think what the missing words are in each rule.

Elicit some ideas for each rule, but don't tell Sts if they are right.

b Before Sts read the article, go through the Glossary with them.

Tell Sts to read the article and check their answers to a.

Check answers.

- | | |
|-----------------------|-----------------------------|
| 1 metal / aluminium | 5 photos |
| 2 knife | 6 cell phones / smartphones |
| 3 100 ml / 3.4 ounces | 7 16 |
| 4 duty-free | |

c Focus on the task and make sure Sts understand all the vocabulary, e.g., unpasteurized.

Put Sts in pairs to answer the questions for each rule in a.

Check answers.

- 1 Rules 1, 2, and 5: applied too strictly Rules 3 and 6: unnecessary
Rules 4 and 7: dangerous
- 2 butter knives: a pilot with a butter knife is much less potentially dangerous than a pilot in control of a plane jogging in an area where there are hippos: jogging in itself is healthy, but if it is by a river with hippos, it becomes dangerous taking children to the beach: there are more rules about this than for working on an oil rig, which the authors would consider more dangerous large trucks in cities: these are very dangerous and should be banned, although they probably won't be for political reasons unpasteurized cheese: it is illegal in the US, but guns aren't, although they are far more dangerous traffic near schools: people worry less about this than about dangerous dogs, although the traffic causes far more accidents

LEXIS IN CONTEXT

d Focus on the Learning new verbs box and go through it with the class.

Set a time limit for Sts to find all ten regular verbs.

Get Sts to compare with a partner and then check answers.

- | | |
|--------------|--------------------|
| 1 beep | 6 reinforce |
| 2 grimace | 7 impose |
| 3 limp | 8 cite |
| 4 confiscate | 9 interfere (with) |
| 5 ban | 10 calm |

Finally, help with any other vocabulary problems that arose.

e Do this as an open-class activity. You could tell Sts of any laws or regulations you can think of.

5 GRAMMAR

 permission, obligation, and necessity

a Focus on the task and the pairs of sentences.

Give Sts time to discuss each pair with a partner.

If necessary, remind them of the meaning of a difference in register, i.e., in the level of formality or informality.

Check answers.

- 1 The same in meaning, but It is not permitted is more formal.
- 2 The same register, but a slight difference in meaning: you'd better is stronger than you ought to and suggests that something negative may happen if you don't, i.e., You'd better finish your water before we go through security because they will make you throw it away.
- 3 The same register, but a slight difference in meaning: We're not supposed to walk... suggests that we know we must not walk along the river, but we are still doing it.
- 4 The same meaning and register.
- 5 The same register, but completely different meaning: We should have... = it was an obligation but we didn't do it, e.g., looking back, it would have been a good idea to leave early.
We had to... = it was an obligation and we did it.

b Tell Sts to go to Grammar Bank 7A on p.154.

Go through each example and its corresponding rule with the class, or give Sts time to read the examples and rules on their own, and answer any queries. In the section on be able to, be allowed to, etc., you could point out that rule 1 is true particularly when we want to use a form that can does not have.

Additional grammar notes

- There are many different verbs in English, some of which are modal verbs, used to express permission, obligation, and necessity. The use of the most common ones should be review for Sts at this level. However, there are areas where there are small differences in meaning and register, e.g., between should and had better, don't need to and needn't, etc. and this is the main focus of this section.
- Some Sts may also still have ingrained basic errors such as confusing must not and don't have to.

Focus on the exercises and get Sts to do them individually or in pairs. If they do them individually, get them to compare answers with a partner.

Check answers after each exercise, getting Sts to read the full sentences.

| 7 ought to do | |
| 8 allowed / permitted to ride | |
| 9 need to bring | |
| 10 supposed to wear | |

Tell Sts to go back to the main lesson 7A.

EXTRA SUPPORT If you think Sts need more practice, you may want to give them the Grammar photocopiable activity at this point or leave it for later as consolidation or review.

6 SPEAKING

a Tell Sts they will be talking about rules that they must imagine have been proposed for their country. Focus on the Talking about rules box and go through it with the class.

Now focus on the task and give Sts time to read each rule and decide if they agree with it or not.

Put Sts in small groups of three or four and get them to say what they think of each rule and why. Remind Sts to use the expressions they have just seen in Talking about rules as well as Expressions for agreeing and disagreeing in 1A.

Monitor and help while Sts do the activity.

Get some feedback from various groups. If there's time, you could choose one topic and open it to the class.

EXTRA SUPPORT You could discuss the first rule in the section On the road with the whole class to get them going.

b Tell Sts to focus on the four categories and then in their groups, for two categories only, they should agree on one new law they would like to introduce.

When all the groups are ready, get each group in turn to appoint a spokesperson to present one of their new laws to the class. They need to convince the others to vote for this new law.

With a show of hands, get Sts to vote for the law.

If there's time, when each group has presented one of their laws, get them to present the second law with a different spokesperson.

7 WRITING a report

In this lesson the focus is on writing a report. The writing skills focus is on dividing a text into paragraphs with headings and using the right register, and the Useful Language section looks at common expressions for generalizing and making suggestions in a more formal register.

Tell Sts to go to Writing A report on p.122.

ANALYZING A MODEL TEXT

a Focus on the text type (a report). Tell Sts that being able to write a good report is a skill that they may find very useful in an English-speaking work context, as well as being a text type often set in school and international exams. The important thing to bear in mind with reports is that they are usually written for busy people, so making them clear and concise by dividing them into short sections with headings is an important factor.

Focus on the Key success factors and go through them with the class.

Focus on the task, and get Sts to read the report. Meanwhile write the headings on the board.

Then get Sts to close their books and try to remember the school's strengths and weaknesses in each area. You could elicit these from the class and write them on the board.

b Focus on the task. Then get Sts to cover the report, and try to rewrite the phrases from memory in a more formal style.

Check answers, and elicit that this more formal style is appropriate for a report.

- 1 aim of this report
- 2 assess student satisfaction
- 3 rated the teachers very highly
- 4 With regard to class sizes
- 5 In terms of the duration of classes
- 6 purchasing
- 7 The majority of students
- 8 if the suggested changes are implemented

Remind Sts of the other synonymous expressions they learned in Grammar Bank 3B Discourse markers, e.g., Regarding / Regards / As far as... is concerned...

EXTRA SUPPORT If Sts are having trouble remembering the phrases, allow them to quickly look back at the report.

EXTRA IDEA You could test Sts on the phrases by saying the informal phrase and getting them to say the more formal one.

USEFUL LANGUAGE

c Focus on the task. Point out that some, but not all, of these expressions are in the report.

Put Sts in pairs and get them to complete the task.

Check answers.

- | | | |
|------------|--------------|-----------|
| 1 general | 3 considered | 5 Overall |
| 2 speaking | 4 view | |

d Finally, focus on the sentences for Making suggestions, and remind Sts that this is usually a fundamental part of a report. Here they have practice in more formal ways of making suggestions.

Get Sts to do this individually and then compare with a partner.

Check answers.

- 1 purchasing new computers
- 2 to improve the registration process
- 3 reducing class sizes
- 4 changing / you to change the center's hours
- 5 to last an hour

PLANNING WHAT TO WRITE

a Focus on the task. Tell Sts to read it carefully, and then to discuss 1, 2, and 3 with a partner.

Get feedback, writing Sts' proposed headings on the board and getting Sts to decide on the best ones, and eliciting all ideas for suggestions to improve the study trips.

Suggested headings

Accommodation
The school
Weekend activities / Weekend cultural programs

b Focus on the task.

Get feedback from various pairs.

Finally, go through the Tips with the class.

WRITING

Go through the instructions and assign the writing for homework.

- G verbs of the senses
V art; color idioms
P -ure

Lesson plan

In this lesson the topic is art.

In the first half of the lesson the focus is on installations and modern sculptures, things that many people find difficult to accept as art. Sts try to identify which photos show works of art and which ordinary objects, and then listen to an expert explaining which of the pieces are works of art, what they are trying to convey, and the best way to enjoy seeing them in a gallery. Then in the grammar focus Sts work on verbs of the senses and the structures that follow them. The pronunciation focus is on the letters -ure, which can be pronounced /əɪ/ or /ʊə/, e.g., sculpture, allure. The first half ends with Sts learning the words for six different kinds of art, discussing favorite works of art, artists, museums, and art galleries, and images they have in their house or on their computer or phone.

In the second part of the lesson Sts read and listen to an article about a famous forger, Wolfgang Beltracchi, and how he and his wife managed to fool the art world. This leads into a speaking activity on fake items and Sts' attitude towards buying something fake. In Vocabulary Sts look at some idioms with colors, e.g., out of the blue.

OPTIONAL LEAD-IN – THE QUOTE

- Write the quote at the top of p.70 on the board (books closed) and the name of the person who said it, or get Sts to open their books and read it.
- Point out that the name Banksy is a pseudonym – nobody knows his real identity. He is the world's best-known and most successful graffiti artist, and his works change hands for six-figure sums. He is also a political activist and movie director.
- Get Sts to discuss what they think the quote refers to.

1 LISTENING & SPEAKING

- a Focus on the task and the photos, and give Sts time to discuss them.

Get feedback to find out which of the four objects most Sts think are works of art, and why, but don't tell them the answer yet.

- b  7.6 Focus on the task and the definition and go through it with the class. (Ghislaine is pronounced /gɪlən/.)

Then focus on the notes about each piece, and give Sts time to read them. You may want to point out the pronunciation of sculpture /'skʌlptʃər/.

Play the audio once the whole way through for Sts to listen and match descriptions A–D to four of the photos.

Check answers.

7.6

(script in the Student Book on p.136)

I = Interviewer, G = Ghislaine Kenyon

- I So, could you tell us a bit about the four pieces of art, and explain the ideas that they are somehow communicating?
- G OK, let's start with the frog. It's called Kobe Frog and it's by the Dutch artist Florentijn Hofman, and it's an enormous inflatable 10-meter-high object, and it was made in 2011 for a particular place – the roof of the Museum of Art in Kobe, in Japan. And Kobe was the site of a very severe earthquake in 1995. And the frog is wearing a party hat and it sits very close to the edge of the roof. The artist says that it's about enjoying life and having a flexible attitude in times of disaster. I'm not sure whether the people of Kobe would agree with that.
- Next we come to the stones. This is a work called Blaenau Ffestiniog Circle – Blaenau Ffestiniog is the name of a town in Wales and this work is by the artist Richard Long, and it was in an exhibition of his called "Heaven and Earth." And what Richard Long does is that he spends months of the year walking through different landscapes and he creates art out of the things he finds there. His main theme is the relationship between art and landscape, and here he has created a beautiful harmonious arrangement of different local stones that he's chosen, and what he wants to do is to make people stop and look and realize how beautiful the countryside and in this case the stones also can be. Then we come to the cot, and this is a modern sculpture by Mona Hatoum, and it's called Incommunicado, and at first sight you might think it was a baby's cot. It doesn't look like a modern cot, but it looks as if it might be a hospital cot from, say, 50 years ago. But when you look at it a bit more closely you notice that there's something strange about the bottom of the cot, where the support for the mattress should be, and in fact it's a series of very sharp wires. Mona Hatoum is a Palestinian artist who was born in Beirut, but she was stranded in London after civil war broke out in Lebanon, and I think if we ask ourselves what her idea might be, well, it's a cot and a cot is normally a protective bed for a baby, where a baby will be safe, but this cot is the opposite of that, so if you got into this cot instead of being safe, you'd be seriously damaged, or seriously injured. I think this cot is a kind of metaphor for the idea of the state, the country that should look after you, your mother country or your fatherland, but in an extreme political situation, instead of being safe, or being at home, you feel threatened because of political oppression, and I think probably that's the metaphor that she's making here.

Finally, there's Pharmacy. This is an installation by Damien Hirst, and it occupies a whole room. If you were in an art gallery and you suddenly walked into this room, you might almost think you'd walked into a real pharmacy by accident, but if you start looking, you'll start seeing things which look strange, for example, there are four little stools that – the kind of stools you use to reach up to higher shelves and on top of each one is a bowl with honey in it, and if you look up, suspended from the ceiling there is a kind of machine for killing insects. And there are four old-fashioned apothecary bottles, which originally were in pharmacies because they were meant to represent the elements of earth, air, fire, and water, but which you wouldn't often see in a pharmacy today. So what could the idea be about here? Well, most of Hirst's works, like the work of many artists of the past, are about life and death. The honey attracts flies to come in, or other insects, but they end up zapped in the insectocutor, the, the killing machine. Drugs, medicines, to us represent healing, so people might come into a pharmacy to get better, but even if you spend thousands of pounds on drugs, in the end you, like the flies, will die. But we also have the four bottles, which are the four primary colors, the, the tools, the materials of the artist, and I think he's also saying that art, like drugs, can cure, can heal, if not the body, then the spirit.

- c Focus on the task and then play the audio again for Sts to complete the notes.

EXTRA SUPPORT Pause the audio after each work of art is mentioned to give Sts time to write.

Get Sts to compare with a partner and then check answers. Make sure Sts know the meaning of a stool (= a seat with legs, but with nothing to support your back or arms).

Now put Sts in pairs and get them to discuss the idea behind each picture.
Check answers.

Kobe Frog	The idea is to make people think about enjoying life and having a flexible attitude in times of disaster.
Blaenau Ffestiniog Circle	The idea is to make people stop and look and realize how beautiful the countryside is.
Incommunicado	The cot represents the government / the country that should look after you, but in certain situations, instead of being safe, you feel threatened because of political oppression.
Pharmacy	This is about life and death. Also about how art, like drugs, can cure you.

EXTRA SUPPORT If there's time, get Sts to listen again with the script on p.136, focusing on any new vocabulary that Sts didn't understand.

- d 7.7 Focus on the task. You could write the three options for a, b, and c on the board for reference.
Play the audio once the whole way through for Sts to listen and answer the question.
Check the answer.

c about as easy

7.7

(script in the Student Book on p.136)

- I Well, this is all very fascinating, but my problem is that I don't think I could ever have got there by myself. I needed you, an expert, to explain these works of art to me, whereas if I went to a gallery to see normal paintings or sculptures I could probably enjoy them without needing to have them explained to me. What, what do you think...?
- G Well, I disagree there. I don't think you do need an expert to explain them to you, actually. In any case with modern sculpture and installations, there's normally some interpretation on the walls so you can read about it if you want to. But I think if you're going to go to a gallery to see modern sculpture and installations, and perhaps a lot of modern, modern art in general, the best way is to go with someone else, or with a group of people, and to talk about the work, to ask each other questions about the things you see, and very often you find that by asking questions, and coming up with the answers you can get much more out of it. You know, even though it may not look like the kind of art that you're used to, you have to believe that the person who made it is an artist, or was an artist, and that they have things to say, and it's your job to find out what they might be.
- I Don't you think then that they're making you work much harder to enjoy their works than artists did in the past?
- G Actually, no I don't, because plenty of other works are just as elusive, you know, abstract art or sculpture, many Old Master paintings where you don't actually understand the symbolism, there's always more to understand.
- I OK, so then, in that case do you think artists today want to make you think, they don't just want to create something of beauty?
- G I think they always have done. They have ideas, and feelings, and they want to give form to them. And actually I think many people would find Richard Long's stones beautiful. And other people might think that Mona Hatoum's cot is beautiful, maybe not exactly a beautiful object, but a beautiful and rich idea. Beauty can be a beautiful landscape, or a portrait of a beautiful person, but I think it can also be a beautiful idea.
- I Thank you so much, Ghislaine, for coming in and talking to us today, I'm sure our audience will be...

- e Give Sts time to read the four questions.
 Play the audio again for Sts to listen and answer the questions. You could pause the audio after each question has been answered.
 Get Sts to compare with a partner and play again as necessary.
 Check answers.

- 1 On the walls.
- 2 To go with someone else, or with a group of people, and to talk and ask each other questions.
- 3 To find out what the artist is saying.
- 4 They might find that the idea the cot represents is beautiful.

Help with any vocabulary problems that arose.

EXTRA SUPPORT If there's time, get Sts to listen again with the script on p. 136, focusing on any new vocabulary that Sts didn't understand.

- f Do this as an open-class activity and elicit opinions.

2 GRAMMAR verbs of the senses

- a 7.8 Focus on the task and get Sts to do it individually or in pairs.
 Then play the audio for Sts to listen and check.
 Check answers.

See the words in bold in script 7.8

- 7.8
- 1 "It doesn't look like a modern cot..."
 - 2 "...it looks as if it might be a hospital cot from, say, 50 years ago"
 - 3 "But when you look at it a bit more closely you notice..."
 - 4 "...but if you start looking, you'll start seeing things which look strange"

- b Focus on the questions and get Sts to answer them in pairs.
 Check answers.

- 1 look as if is followed by a clause (It looks as if it might be a hospital cot).
looks like is normally followed by a noun (It doesn't look like a modern cot). However, in informal English it can also be followed by a clause (It looks like it might be a modern cot).
look at = to turn your eyes in a particular direction. It is a conscious action. We look at a view, a photo, etc.
see = to become aware of or understand somebody / something by using your eyes. It is not necessarily a conscious action – you can see something without looking at it.
see can also be used like watch, e.g., a game, a TV show.
- 2 The other four senses are smell, hearing, taste, and touch.
- 3 Verbs associated with them are:
 smell: smell, sniff
 hearing: hear, listen, sound (It sounds like thunder).
 taste: taste
 touch: touch, feel

EXTRA SUPPORT You could do this as an open-class activity.

- c Tell Sts to go to Grammar Bank 7B on p.155.
 Go through each example and its corresponding rule with the class, or give Sts time to read the examples and rules on their own, and answer any questions. In the section on look, feel, smell, etc. you could point out that we can use look in the simple or continuous to talk about temporary appearance, e.g., You look tired. / You're looking tired. We can also use feel in the simple or continuous to talk about temporary sensation, e.g., I feel fine. / I'm feeling fine.

Additional grammar notes

- The basic verbs related to the senses, see, hear, smell, feel, and taste do not work in quite the same way in English as in many other languages. They are not usually used in continuous forms and in order to refer to an action at a particular moment they are normally preceded by can (e.g., I can smell garlic NOT I smell garlic or I'm smelling garlic).
- The verbs that are used to describe the impression something or someone gives through the senses are the same for smell, taste, and feel (e.g., It smells awful. They taste nice, etc.) but for sight we use look (You look exhausted, etc.) and for hearing we use sound (It sounds like thunder, etc.).

Focus on the exercises and get Sts to do them individually or in pairs. If they do them individually, get them to compare answers with a partner.
 Check answers, getting Sts to read the full sentences.

Tell Sts to go back to the main lesson 7B.

EXTRA SUPPORT If you think Sts need more practice, you may want to give them the Grammar photocopiable activity at this point or leave it for later as consolidation or review.

- d Focus on the questions and give Sts a few minutes to read them and make sure they know all the animals in the penultimate bullet. You could ask Sts to choose one or two of the questions to ask you.
 Put Sts in pairs and give them time to answer the questions together. Monitor and correct, especially mistakes with the verbs of the senses.
 Get some feedback.

3 PRONUNCIATION -ure

Pronunciation notes

- Sts of many nationalities have problems both with the two different vowel sounds that -ure can produce (/ɜː/ or /ʊr/) and also with the consonant sounds made by the t as in nature and the s as in pleasure. This exercise gives both the rules and practice of words with this combination of letters.

- a Focus on the two sounds and elicit them from the class. Individually or in pairs, Sts put the words in the correct column.
- b  7.9 Play the audio for Sts to listen and check. Check answers and make sure Sts know the meaning of all the words.

See script 4.10

7.9

1 bird /ɜː/

picture, sculpture, architecture, capture, culture, feature, furniture, future, leisure, measure, nature, pleasure, signature, structure, temperature, texture, treasure

2 tourist /ʊr/

allure, endure, immature, impure, obscure, secure, sure

You could play the audio again and get Sts to repeat after it. You may want to point out that when -ure is pronounced /ʊr/, a /j/ sound is usually inserted before it.

- c Do this as an open-class activity.

- 1 In column 1, the stress is on the first syllable in all the words.
- 2 The t makes a /tʃ/ sound before -ure and the s makes a /z/ sound.
- 3 In column 2, the stress is on the last syllable.

- d Put Sts in pairs and get them to practice saying the sentences.

EXTRA SUPPORT You could say each sentence first and get Sts to repeat it after you. Then put Sts in pairs to practice saying them.

4 VOCABULARY & SPEAKING art

- a Focus on the task and put Sts in pairs to discuss what each kind of art is.

Elicit answers. Sts may have noticed the words portrait and landscape as settings on cameras referring to the shape of the photo. You may also want to point out that the word selfie (= a photo somebody takes of him / herself) comes from the word self-portrait.

a portrait = a painting, drawing, or photograph of a person, especially of the head and shoulders a landscape = a painting of a view of the countryside a still life = a painting or drawing of objects such as flowers, fruit a self-portrait = a painting, etc. that someone does of themselves an abstract painting = a painting, etc. that doesn't represent people or things in a realistic way, but expresses the artist's ideas about them a sculpture = a work of art that is a solid figure or object made by carving or shaping wood, stone, clay, metal, etc.

EXTRA SUPPORT Do this as an open-class activity.

- b Focus on the task and give Sts time to think of their answers.
Put Sts in small groups to discuss the questions.
Get some feedback from various groups.

EXTRA IDEA If you have a favorite work of art or a favorite artist, you could tell the class about it / him / her, and if possible show the class some of the art.

5 READING & LISTENING

- a Focus on the task and find out if any Sts know who Max Ernst is (1891–1976; he was a famous German painter, sculptor, and poet).

Get Sts to discuss the questions in pairs or do it as an open-class activity and elicit opinions.

If Sts worked in pairs, get from feedback on when they think Forest and Dove was painted. Then tell them it was painted in 1927.

Finally, with a show of hands you could find out if Sts like it. Then ask a few Sts to explain their opinion.

- b  7.10 Focus on the task and give Sts time to read all the names in the list.

Play the audio once for Sts to listen and read at the same time.

Now put Sts in pairs and give them time to discuss who the people are and what their connection with the painting is.

Check answers, and then help with any other words or phrases that have caused problems.

Werner Spies	an expert on 20th century art and a specialist in the works of Max Ernst. In 2003, he went to authenticate La Forêt , thought to be by Ernst, and said that it was by him.
Helene Beltracchi	a rich German woman, who was selling La Forêt . She had inherited it, with a lot of other paintings, from her grandfather.
Werner Jägers	Helene's grandfather, a rich industrialist, who collected paintings, including La Forêt , which he had to hide during World War II.
Alfred Flechtheim	an important art dealer in Germany in the 1920s and 30s. He sold a lot of artwork to Werner Jägers and they became friends. He moved to London in 1933.
Wolfgang Beltracchi	Helene's husband. He (and his wife) received €1.7 million from a Swiss gallery owner for La Forêt .

7.10

See the text in the Student Book on p.72

- c Focus on the task and make sure Sts know the meaning of all the vocabulary in the questions, e.g., a controversy /'kɒntrəvɜːrsi/.

Give Sts time to read the text again and then, in pairs, get them to discuss the four questions.

Check answers.

- 1 It was undated, but Spies thought it had been painted in 1927; however, some of the paints used in it had only generally been used after 1945.
- 2 Helene had inherited it from her grandfather Werner Jägers, who may have bought it from the dealer Alfred Flechtheim.
- 3 Spies concluded the painting was definitely by Max Ernst. He based it on the fact that Ernst had painted a lot of paintings of forests, the colours were intense, and it was very powerful.
- 4 After Spies authenticated it, a Swiss gallery owner bought it. He then resold it. In 2006, it was shown in the Max Ernst Museum.

- d 7.11 Focus on the questions and elicit some ideas. Accept all suggestions, but don't give away the answer. Now focus on the Glossary and go through it with the class.

Play the audio once the whole way through for Sts to listen and find out what the "little problem" is and where the Beltracchis are.

Get Sts to compare with a partner and then check answers.

The "little problem" was that the painting was a forgery. It had been painted by Wolfgang Beltracchi. Helene and Wolfgang both spent time in prison but have been released.

7.11

(script in the Student Book on p.136)

There was just one little problem. Every single painting that left the Beltracchi's house, including La Forêt, was a forgery. In what is believed to be the most lucrative art forgery scam in history, all these paintings were the work of Wolfgang, Helene Beltracchi's husband.

Wolfgang was quite young when he realized he had a unique gift. His father was a church muralist and sometimes produced copies of seventeenth-century Old Masters to sell for small amounts of money. To his father's amazement, the teenage Wolfgang painted a "Picasso" in a couple of hours. He later went to art school; three of his paintings sold for reasonable amounts in a show in Munich in 1978. But Wolfgang was more interested in his free and easy lifestyle than in the struggle of building a career as an artist. He forged a number of paintings in the 1980s, mainly selling them through dealers in Berlin, but his criminal career really took off after he met Helene Beltracchi in 1992. They fell in love immediately. Within days he told her that he was an art forger. He says he knew she wouldn't go to the police. "The first minute, I saw my future life with her," he says. Helene became his perfect accomplice. They married about a year later, and he took her last name.

Although Wolfgang was a forger, he did not copy paintings. He created totally new works of art, but in the style of the original painters. His greatest gift was the ability to look at a painting and, in just a few minutes, figure out exactly how the painter did it: where he started, when he added the blue, the white, the clouds, the water. He could even tell the time it took to complete the painting. Before tackling a forgery Wolfgang would sometimes go to where the painter lived to get a feeling for the light there. He wanted to make sure of the colors, but also to pick up something more mystical, a sense of the painter's soul.

It was Wolfgang who came up with the idea of creating "old" photographs of Helene's grandmother sitting in front of some of the family's art collection. Wolfgang used a pre-war box camera and paper. The photos actually show Helene Beltracchi herself. The "paintings" on the wall are black and white photocopies. Wolfgang also devised the Sammlung Flechtheim labels, which he fixed to the backs of paintings. To age them he stained them with tea and coffee. The painting that brought about their downfall was a fake Campendonk, called Red Picture with Horses. In 2006, they sent it to an auction house in Cologne, with the usual fake label on the back. But in 2008, the company that bought it commissioned a scientific analysis from a British expert, which showed that the painting contained traces of the pigment Titanium White, which was not in general use until the forties. Another expert then realized that the Sammlung Flechtheim label on the back of the painting was fake. That led to the discovery of numerous other paintings bearing the false labels, including the Max Ernst La Forêt.

Wolfgang and Helene Beltracchi were arrested in Germany on August 27, 2010. Helene was released from prison in February 2013 while Wolfgang was in prison until January 2015. He agreed to paint only in his own name and to move from Germany to France. The Beltracchis say they have no regrets. Wolfgang insists he has no plans to return to forgery, although he admits it's hard. As he says, "If you imagine that after breakfast you can paint a little painting that can earn you €1 million or €2 million, then it's not so easy not to do it."

- e Focus on the task and give Sts time to read the eight questions.

Play the audio again for Sts to listen and answer the questions. You could pause the audio where indicated to give Sts time to write.

Check answers.

- 1 Wolfgang found out when he was a teenager that he was very good at copying paintings – he copied a Picasso in two hours. Later he went to art school where he sold some of his paintings.
- 2 He forged a lot of paintings and sold them to art dealers in Berlin.
- 3 Wolfgang met Helene Beltracchi in 1992 and fell in love. They got married and he took her last name.
- 4 He did not copy paintings but created original works. He would study other works by the painter to find out how they were created, and he sometimes even went to the painter's hometown to study the light there.
- 5 The photo was a forgery. It was really of Helene herself and not her grandmother. Wolfgang had used an old camera and old paper.
- 6 The labels were fakes. He had made them look old by putting tea and coffee on them.
- 7 Wolfgang forged Red Picture with Horses and sent it to an auction. The company that bought it tested the paint on the painting and found some Titanium White, which was used much later than when the painting had, in theory, originally been painted.
- 8 They have no regrets. Wolfgang has no plans but is sometimes tempted to return to forgery.

EXTRA SUPPORT If there's time, get Sts to listen again with the script on p.136, focusing on any new vocabulary that Sts didn't understand.

LEXIS IN CONTEXT

Check answers and make sure Sts know what they all mean.

- 4 His greatest gift was the ability to look at a painting and, in just a few minutes, figure out exactly how the painter did it.
- 5 ...Titanium White, which was not in general use until the forties.

- g Do this in pairs or as an open-class activity.

If Sts worked in pairs, get some feedback from the class. You could tell the class that the Beltracchis were eventually charged with selling 14 fakes (five by Max Ernst) for around €16 million. However, the total over the years must have been more than that.

6 SPEAKING

- a Focus on the task. You may want to contrast the words forgery, fake, and pirate (copy / edition). Fakes and forgeries are similar – they're both made to look as much like the original as possible in order to mislead people. A forgery is usually money, a document, or a work of art, whereas a fake could be almost anything, including watches, handbags, sporting goods, etc. Pirate copies / editions are illegal copies that are sometimes obviously not the original, and are often DVDs, CDs, books, or downloads.

Put Sts in small groups and make it clear that they need to answer questions 1 and 2 for each of the items in the list.

Give Sts time to discuss the two questions.

Monitor and help.

Get some feedback from various groups.

- b Now get Sts to discuss questions 3 and 4 in their groups.

Monitor and help.

Get some feedback from various groups.

7 VOCABULARY color idioms

- a Focus on the task and remind Sts what an idiom is (= a group of words whose meaning is different from the meanings of the individual words).

Give Sts time to complete each idiom with a color in the list. They could do this individually or in pairs.

Check answers.

- | | | | |
|---------|---------|-----------------|--------|
| 1 blue | 3 red | 5 black...white | 7 grey |
| 2 black | 4 white | 6 white | 8 red |

- b Put Sts in pairs and get them to discuss the meaning of each idiom.

Check answers.

- 1 out of the blue = unexpectedly, without warning
- 2 the black market = an illegal form of trade in which foreign money, or goods that are difficult to obtain, are bought and sold
- 3 red tape = official rules that seem more complicated than necessary and prevent things from being done quickly
- 4 a white lie = a harmless or small lie, especially one that you tell to avoid hurting somebody
- 5 (see everything in) black and white = straightforward, very clear
- 6 a white elephant = a thing that is useless and no longer needed, although it may have cost a lot of money
- 7 a grey area = an area of a subject or situation that is not clear or does not fit into a particular group and is therefore difficult to define or deal with
- 8 a red herring = an unimportant fact, idea, event, etc. that takes people's attention away from the important ones

EXTRA SUPPORT You could do this as an open-class activity.

Lesson plan

In this lesson the person interviewed is the artist and illustrator Quentin Blake, who is probably the best-known British illustrator of children's books. In this three-part interview he talks about why he became an illustrator, the relationship between author and illustrator and in particular his relationship with Roald Dahl, and how he goes about producing his illustrations. This is followed by a language focus on how Quentin Blake uses the verb get, which reviews and extends what Sts learned in lesson 3A.

In the ON THE STREET section people answer the questions Is there a book that you particularly liked or like because of the illustrations? and Do you have a favorite painting or poster in your house?, and the lesson ends with Sts talking about illustrations.

OPTIONAL LEAD-IN (BOOKS CLOSED)

- Write the following questions on the board:
 - In children's books which do you think is more important, the story or the illustrations?
 - At what age do you think children start to enjoy books that don't have any illustrations?
- Either get Sts to discuss the questions as a class, or put them in pairs and give them a few minutes to discuss the questions and then get feedback.
- Now tell Sts that they are going to hear an interview with a famous illustrator.
- If you have internet access in your classroom or Sts have it on their phones, give them a few minutes to Google Quentin Blake and find out a bit about him.

1 THE INTERVIEW Part 1

- a Books open. Focus on the photo and the biographical information about Quentin Blake. Give Sts time to read it. Do the questions as an open-class activity.

Sts' own answers

He has written books and produced art for galleries, museums, and hospitals.

EXTRA IDEA You may want to tell Sts to look at the book cover on p.20, which is by Quentin Blake.

- b 7.13 Focus on the task and go through the Glossary with the class.
Play the video or audio (Part 1) once the whole way through for Sts to do the task.
Give Sts time to tell each other what they understood.

Check the answer.

To learn how to draw and do a lot of drawing.

(script in the Student Book on pp.136–137)

I = Interviewer, Q = Quentin Blake

Interview with an illustrator – Part 1

- I Would you describe yourself as an illustrator or as an artist?
Q I think those are two overlapping categories. I'm an artist and an illustrator, in the way that one might be an artist and a ceramic artist, or an artist and a sculptor, or something like that, so it's a department of being an artist.
I When did you decide to become an illustrator?
Q I don't think I ever quite decided to become an illustrator, I knew I wanted to draw, and I think I knew I wanted to draw situations. Um, I think it was– First of all, I knew that I could do pictures in magazines, and it was, I suppose when I was about 20-something, 23, 24, when I was finding my own way of drawing, I also wanted to get a book to myself, so that I could have the– not only do the drawings, but tell the whole story and design the book that in the way, in the way that I wanted to.
I And when did you realize that it was going to work out for you as a career?
Q Um, when I was 20-something, a bit older than that, when I'd left university and art school, I thought – I managed to get a book published in 1960, and written by John Yeoman, who's a friend, and he didn't know how to write a book and I didn't know how to illustrate it, but we got it published. And I thought, "Well, I'll, I'll try, keep– I'll try and keep on with this until I'm 30, and if it's not working out, then I'll go back to teaching." Um, and I got to 30, but I passed 30 and I didn't notice!
I If a young person who was interested in becoming an illustrator, age 18, say, asked you for any advice you could give them, what would you say?
Q They, they do ask me, actually, it's very, it's very, it's very touching they still come and say– Some of them say, "I'm doing it because of you," and but also they, they ask that question. Um, and it's, it's – I mean, I really don't know the answer, but it must be something about drawing and doing a lot of drawing and a lot of different kinds of drawing, because then you become completely familiar with the activity, and in a sense, that's the most important thing.

- c Focus on the task and give Sts time, in pairs, to see if they can complete any of the sentences.
Play the video or audio again the whole way through.
Get Sts to compare with their partner, then check answers.

EXTRA SUPPORT When you play the video or audio the second time, pause after each point has been mentioned and get Sts to compare what they have understood.

- ...both an artist and an illustrator.
- ...he was finding his own way of drawing and he wanted to illustrate his own book.
- ...had their first book published.
- ...young people ask him for advice.
- ...of him.

EXTRA SUPPORT If there's time, you could play the video or audio again while Sts read the script on pp.136–137, so they can see what they understood / didn't understand. Translate / explain any new words or phrases.

Part 2

a 7.14 Focus on the task and the Glossary and go through it with the class.

Give Sts time to read sentences 1–8. Tell them the first time they listen they just need to mark each sentence T or F.

Play the video or audio (Part 2) once the whole way through for Sts to do the task.

Get Sts to compare with a partner.

EXTRA SUPPORT You could check answers now, so when Sts are listening again in b, they only need to correct the F sentences.

7.14

(script in the Student Book on p.137)

Interview with an illustrator – Part 2

I How important is the relationship between author and illustrator?

Q Well, in some respects it has to be terribly important, I think! But it's, it's– um, the thing about it is initially it's, um, collaboration very often isn't what people think it is. You don't spend a lot of time talking much, "Shall we do this? Shall we do that?" and I, I never want to do that. Essentially, the collaboration, the relationship, is with the text to begin with, with the book to begin with, and you have to read that first and you have to keep collaborating with– those, those are the messages from the writer, that is the thing that you're dealing with. You may want to talk to the writer as well, but if, if the– if you can establish the relationship with, with the words, that's the important thing.

I Are there any authors to whom you did talk a lot?

Q With Roald Dahl, I think our view of things, in many respects, is very, very different, and I think we, we did talk a lot and we needed to talk. Um, but it was on the basis of what he'd written, initially, so that I would– the way of going about it, which we established after a while, was that I would draw some pictures of what I thought the characters looked like, and the moments that I thought would be useful to draw and interesting to draw, then I would go and talk to him about it, and he would say, "Could you do this and could you do this? We need to see more tortoises," you know, or something like that! But um, uh we talked quite a lot, again, some of it was about the technicalities of the book, getting it to work better, I think. Um, but I think to get into the mood of the book, which is a terribly important thing, it's something you have to do on your own, really, I think. The author can't tell you that.

I I can imagine that an author might ask an illustrator to redraw something. Does it ever work the other way round, that the illustrator asks the author to change things?

Q Uh, it can do, yes. Actually Roald volunteered to alter things, I didn't ask him to, I mean, in the case of The BFG, which we spent a long time working on, um, the BFG had a different costume to begin with. Uh, he had a long leather apron and long boots and that sort of thing. Of course, if you say an apron, when the character is introduced you say he was wearing an apron and you don't talk about it after that probably. But I had to draw it in every wretched drawing– picture, that there is in the book! So he– after a bit he said, "This apron's getting in the way, isn't it?" because the chap has– you know, the giant has to run and it has to leap in the air, and so on and so on. So we went back and talked about what he would wear, uh, that would keep his character the same, but, um, and that– also what came out of that, we couldn't decide what to put on his feet. And I went home, and a day or two later, arrived this strange brown paper parcel, which is– was one of Roald's own Norwegian sandals, and of course, that's– it solved the problem as far as what he wears is concerned, but in a funny way it also told you how near he was to his creation.

b Tell Sts that they will listen again and that this time they need to correct the false sentences.

Play the video or audio again the whole way through.

Get Sts to compare with a partner and then check answers.

EXTRA SUPPORT When you play the video or audio the second time, pause after each sentence has been answered and get Sts to compare what they have understood.

- 1 F (He says that the illustrator may want to talk to the author.)
- 2 T
- 3 F (He drew what he thought the characters looked like and then he would talk to Roald Dahl about it.)
- 4 F (He got into the mood of the books on his own.)
- 5 T
- 6 T
- 7 F (It got in the way / It was problematic.)
- 8 F (They were based on a pair of Roald Dahl's shoes.)

EXTRA SUPPORT If there's time, you could play the video or audio again while Sts read the script on p.137, so they can see what they understood / didn't understand. Translate / explain any new words or phrases.

(script in the Student Book on p.137)

Interview with an illustrator – Part 3

I Do you like all the characters you create in an illustration, or are some more interesting to you than others?

Q You have a sympathetic feeling for all of them, I think, but of course some are more interesting than others, I think! Um, that's not a question I've ever thought about, I don't think. Um, yes, I think some are more interesting, but I think the, the essence of that question, though I'm not sure I've got this right, is that you have to be able to, whether they're nice or not, or interesting or not, you have to be able to identify with them, um, so that you imagine, in some sense, as you're drawing, that you are them, and that's much more important than whether you're interested in them or like them.

I So you're not thinking of the children who are going to be reading the books?

Q What I'm interested in about children is children and about children in books, but I, I'm not illustrating children's books because I love children or because I have children, which I don't, or because— anything of that kind. What you have to do while you're illustrating that book is to identify with them for that moment, in the same way that that's how I know what they're doing, because I just become them for a moment, you know. In the same way that you become the elderly grandparent or you become the dog, or, or whatever the characters are!

- I Do you draw from life?
- Q I never draw from life, no, I make it all up. Um, and, um, I think I'm fortunate in that respect, I, I can imagine people. I do a rough drawing first to see how, you know, where the gestures are or what the, what the activity is, how the figures relate to each other, what the expressions on their faces are, so I get a rough drawing and then I, I work from that. But, um, I've mostly just invented.
- I Do you ever draw digitally?
- Q Digitally, curiously enough, I was probably one of the first people who did it, did it, because I did, um, like 40 years ago, start— did drawing on a television screen. I mean, in a television studio, so that you could draw on the screen, but I haven't gone on with it. Um, I mean, I wouldn't mind doing it, the disadvantage to it from my point of view is that I like the feeling of the implement on the paper, so that it's— you get— you know, if you have a quill or a nib or a reed pen, you get a different kind of scratch, but if you're inventing what is happening, the reed pen is actually doing it. It's, it's not copying something, it's actually creating it as you're going along, so it's the fact that you can feel it on the paper is enormously helpful.
- I Is there an artist or an illustrator that inspired you?
- Q I mean I was very influenced by a lot of, of, uh, people who were drawing when I started drawing in the 50s, um, I mean, Ronald Searle, for instance, who was, was — who you couldn't avoid being influenced by to a considerable extent, but the person that I think most had an effect on me was a French artist, a contemporary and friend of Searle, André François. When I was a young man I got his address and went to see him. And, um, then I suppose — he died a few years ago, he was nearly 90, but, um, just two or three years before that, I had an exhibition in Paris and it was rather wonderful because he turned up. I mean, I didn't invite him, the gallery owner invited him, um, so it was nice that he hadn't forgotten who I was, exactly.

- b Now tell Sts they will listen again for more details.
Play the video or audio again the whole way through.
Get Sts to compare with a partner, then check answers.

EXTRA SUPPORT When you play the video or audio the second time, pause after each point has been mentioned and get Sts to compare what they have understood.

- 1 Some are more interesting than others. He has to imagine that he is them as he draws them.
- 2 He isn't illustrating children's books because he loves children and he doesn't have children. He just identifies with them.
- 3 He invents everything he draws.
- 4 He wouldn't mind drawing digitally.
- 5 It helps him to feel the scratch the quills, nibs, and reed pens make.
- 6 Ronald Searle influenced him a lot in the 50s. André François is probably the artist who had the biggest effect on Quentin Blake. He died a few years ago.
- 7 The gallery owner invited André François to the exhibition.

EXTRA SUPPORT If there's time, you could play the video or audio again while Sts read the script on p. 137. Translate / explain any new words or phrases.

Laura

- I Is there a book that you particularly like because of the illustrations?
- L Garfield, I love Garfield. They have wonderful illustrations. With the, this stupid human, and the stupid dog, and the clever cat. I love it. That would be it.
- I Do you have a favorite painting or poster in your house?
- L I have a painting I bought in, uh, Buenos Aires once with two tango dancers which I'm very fond of. I dance tango myself and it has a meaning to me.
- I Can you describe it?

I Mmm, not very strong colors. It's sort of black and white and she's wearing a, uh, a red dress, which is also very classical tango-like and he's in black clothes and they're like, like from above, uh, you see her leaning back. It's nice.

Marcus

I Is there a book that you particularly liked or like because of the illustrations?

M Um, uh, it's difficult, but, uh, I guess a book that I would enjoy the most because of the illustrations would be, uh, actually, uh, Tolkien's, uh, Hobbit and The Lord of the Rings. He did a lot of original illustrations himself and they're, they're quite whimsical in their, in their design. I really enjoy that sort of originality.

I Do you have a favorite painting or poster in your house?

M Uh, I have a really nice picture from Canada, by a, uh, a, a local artist and it's, um, it's, it's inspired by the traditional Canadian styles. But it's, it's a black and red painting, very, very, uh, striking, and, um, sort of a tribal style and I really, I really like that one. It's very vibrant and at the same time simple.

Louise

I Can you remember a book you read when you were a child where you liked the illustrations?

Lo Um, probably The Little Prince, because the author illustrated the book himself and he's got watercolor illustrations and they're just, they're so unique and timeless.

I Do you have a favorite painting or poster in your house?

Lo Um, I have a calendar that my friend made. So it's got pictures of all of us, which is really nice.

Maura

I Is there a book that you particularly liked because of the illustrations?

Ma There's probably two books that I can think of that I liked because of the illustrations. One is Alice in Wonderland, um, by Lewis Carroll which had all the very famous line drawings, uh, in the book of Alice going down, uh, into Wonderland, following the White Rabbit, and I guess I really liked those because they kind of show you the characters and they help you to kind of fix the images of, uh, the people within the book, so I really liked that one. And another one that I liked, and I don't know if they were the original illustrations that come with the book, were Oscar Wilde's Short Stories, and I always remember there was a picture of the Selfish Giant crying in the garden and I think I read that as a child so it must have really stuck with me that I can still see this image and again I think it was just a black and white line drawing.

I Do you have a favorite painting or poster in your house? Can you describe it?

Ma OK, I do have a fav- a favorite painting in my house at the moment. I actually got it for Christmas. And it was actually in my friend's bedroom and I saw it and I said, "oh, that's really nice," and she said, "Oh OK well, you can have it for your Christmas present." And I have it hanging up in my house at the moment. And it's two birds, in a garden about to, uh, eat a plant. And, uh, it's very, it's very cute, it's not realistic, and I just really like it, it's kind of a tree and underneath it it says something like "We found love," which is probably sentimental, but anyway, it was quite sweet and I really liked it and it's in my house at the moment.

Ally

I Can you remember a book you read when you were a child where you liked the illustrations?

A When I was younger I had this copy of A Little Princess which had really beautiful illustrations and I really loved it.

I Do you have a favorite painting or poster in your house? Can you describe it?

A At my parents' house, in my room, I have this poster that I got when we went to Pompeii when I was in fifth grade. It's a recreation of this, um, Roman, um, mural and so it's this lady with flowers and it's beautiful.

b Focus on the task and give Sts time to read the sentences.

Play the video or audio once the whole way through.

Check answers.

Louise	it's a collage of photos
Ally	it's from a place that its owner visited as a child
Marcus	it has two predominant colors

c  7.18 This exercise focuses on some colloquial expressions that were used by the speakers. Focus on the phrases and give Sts time to read them.

Play the video or audio, pausing after the first phrase and replaying it as necessary. Elicit the missing words, and then the meaning of the phrase. Repeat for the other four phrases.

- G gerunds and infinitives
V health and medicine; similes
P /ə/

Lesson plan

In this lesson the topic is health and medicine.

The first half starts with a quiz on medical vocabulary, which reviews vocabulary taught in previous levels of American English File. Then Sts read an article about treatments or habits that doctors themselves say they would never have or do, and discuss it. This is followed by a listening on four people's experiences of alternative medicine, and Sts then talk about their own experiences and opinions.

The second half of the lesson starts with a grammar focus on gerunds and infinitives, and Sts look at perfect, continuous, and passive gerunds and infinitives, and some new uses. They then listen to a radio show about common medical advice for everyday issues, for example on the amount of water we should drink, and whether or not it's really true. In Vocabulary Sts learn some common similes and then end the lesson focusing on the /ə/ sound.

OPTIONAL LEAD-IN - THE QUOTE

- Write the quote at the top of p.76 on the board (books closed) and the name of the person who said it, or get Sts to open their books and read it.
- Point out that Mark Twain (1835–1910) is best known as the author of The Adventures of Tom Sawyer and Adventures of Huckleberry Finn, but in his time was also known as a great humorist and was a popular public figure.
- Ask Sts if they agree with the quote.

1 VOCABULARY & SPEAKING health and medicine

EXTRA IDEA Before beginning this exercise you may want to focus on the lesson title and ask Sts what they think "doctor's orders" means (things your doctor says you must / must not do).

Give Sts time to read the quiz and make sure they understand all the vocabulary. Set a time limit (e.g., ten minutes) for Sts to discuss the questions in small groups of three or four.

Check answers, eliciting the meaning of the words and correcting pronunciation where necessary.

- e Finally, focus on the discussion points. With a small class you may want to do this as an open-class activity. With large classes, divide Sts into pairs or groups of three and give them time to discuss the points.
 Get feedback from different groups.

3 LISTENING & SPEAKING

- a Although Sts may have similar-looking words in their own language, they may find the English words tricky to pronounce. Focus on the words for alternative medicine and give Sts, in pairs, a few minutes to say what they think they all are.
 Check answers and model and drill pronunciation of the words.

acupuncture /'ækyərəŋktʃər/ It's a Chinese method of treating pain and illness which uses special thin needles which are pushed into the skin in particular parts of the body.
aromatherapy /əroumə'θerəpi/ It's a technique which uses natural sweet-smelling oils for controlling pain or for rubbing into the body during massage.

 Get Sts to compare with a partner and play the audio again as necessary.
 Check answers.

- Speaker 1 chiropractic; for a slipped disc; successful
Speaker 2 osteopathy and acupuncture; bad back, bad cold, and painful sinuses; successful
Speaker 3 no; she doesn't believe in it
Speaker 4 acupuncture; inflamed tendon in foot; unsuccessful

8.1

(script in the Student Book on pp.137–138)

1
 I'm not sure if I've ever had experience with what you would call alternative medicine, I've used chiropractic, but not everyone considers chiropractic to be alternative. I had been doing some sort of extreme exercises in the gym and I got a slipped disc and the pain was excruciating, and although my boyfriend at the time was an orthopaedic surgeon he told me to see a chiropractor, ha, and I must say it worked really well. The only problem was that although I felt fine after, I think, three or four visits, the chiropractor wanted me to keep coming back, and so I ended up having to make an excuse for not going back, I said that I was leaving the country basically, but it worked!

2
 I'm very skeptical, you know, about alternative medicine, all sorts of alternative medicine, in fact I don't believe in them, except I guess osteopathy, if you can call that "alternative" – but the only time I've had something that you would really call alternative medicine was when I went to an osteopath because I had a bad back, and at the same time as having a bad back, I had this really awful cold, terrible pain in my sinuses, and I could hardly breathe and the osteopath said, "I can give you a sort of acupuncture, but it's with very small needles that they put in your ear," and I was lying face down having the osteopath deal with my back, and I could hardly breathe, so I said "OK," so he put these tiny needles in my ear, and I've got to admit that the next day I was almost completely better – I felt so good, and it convinced me really that – in the sense that it definitely wasn't a placebo effect because I didn't believe in it, but I really felt much, much better.

3
 I don't use alternative medicine, because I think it's a waste of time and it doesn't work. If alternative medicine worked, it wouldn't be alternative, it would be actual conventional medicine. The reason that it is alternative is because we don't have any solid proof that it works. You only ever hear anecdotal evidence that it's worked for individual people, that's not real evidence, and I would say to anyone who's heard stories like that, look up "the placebo effect." There's no evidence that alternative medicine works beyond the placebo effect, and so as far as I'm concerned it's a waste of time and money, and at its worst it could even be dangerous or harmful if people are using it in place of real medicine that might cure their very real illness.

4
 So, having had endless pain as a result of this inflamed tendon in my foot, and after loads of antibiotics which seemed to take a very long time to have any effect, I decided to try acupuncture. It just so happened that the doctor who was doing it was somebody that I'd known from the doctors' group where I used to go to, so I went to him, and it was an extremely pleasant experience, but unfortunately it didn't do any good at all, however if I was very ill or something and had tried like all sorts of normal cures I think I'd give it a try again.

- c Give Sts time to read the questions and make sure they understand all the vocabulary, e.g., as a last resort.
 Play the audio once or twice, pausing after each speaker for Sts to match the speakers and statements.
 Check answers.

1 Speaker 3	5 Speaker 3
2 Speaker 1	6 Speaker 1
3 Speaker 4	7 Speaker 4
4 Speaker 2	8 Speaker 2

EXTRA SUPPORT If there's time, get Sts to listen again with the script on pp.137–138, focusing on any new vocabulary that Sts didn't understand.

- d You may first like to tell Sts about any experiences you have had with alternative medicine and whether they were successful or not. Then put Sts in pairs or small groups to answer the questions.
 Get feedback about any good / bad experiences.

4 GRAMMAR gerunds and infinitives

- a Focus on the task and give Sts time to write the verbs or phrases in the correct column. They could do this individually or with a partner.

EXTRA SUPPORT Tell Sts to do this in their notebooks, so that they end up with a correct list in their SB.

To help Sts you could tell them how many verbs are in each column: column 1 has eight verbs, column 2 has 13, and column 3 has three.

- b 8.2 Play the audio for Sts to listen and check.
 Check answers.

d Tell Sts to go to Grammar Bank 8A on p.156.

Go through each example and its corresponding rule with the class, or give Sts time to read the examples and rules on their own, answering any questions.

Additional grammar notes

- At this level Sts should be fairly confident about whether they need to use a gerund or infinitive after many common verbs. Here Sts look at some more complex gerund and infinitive constructions (e.g., passive gerunds and infinitives) and also some other uses of gerunds and infinitives not previously covered.

Focus on the exercises and get Sts to do them individually or in pairs. If they do them individually, get them to compare answers with a partner.

Check answers after each exercise, getting Sts to read the full sentences.

a

- to have followed / to follow
- to have been
- to be told
- running
- to be working
- to have saved
- committing / having committed
- to eat
- calling
- to walk

b

- don't have enough time to
- hate being woken (up)
- Do you regret not studying / not having studied
- without being asked / having been asked
- 'd love to have gone to / 'd loved to have been able to go to
- The children seem to be having a good time
- plan is not to have an operation

EXTRA SUPPORT If you think Sts need more practice, you may want to give them the Grammar photocopiable activity at this point or leave it for later as consolidation or review.

e Sit Sts in pairs, A and B, preferably face to face. Tell them to go to Communication Guess the sentence. A on p.109, B on p.113.

Since Sts did a similar activity in lesson 3B, this activity should not need much demonstration although you could get a pair of Sts to do the first two sentences to the whole class as a reminder.

If you did not do the activity in 3B, see p.55 for how to demonstrate the activity yourself. Write on the piece of paper:

I would love to have gone to the concert last night, but I couldn't get a ticket.

Then write on the board:

I would love _____ last night, but I couldn't get a ticket. (+)

Go through the instructions. Emphasize that Sts should write their ideas next to the sentence, but not in the blank, and only fill in the blank when they have guessed the sentence correctly.

Sts continue in pairs.

Monitor and help.

Tell Sts to go back to the main lesson 8A.

5 LISTENING & SPEAKING

a Focus on the task and do this in pairs, small groups, or as an open-class activity.

If Sts worked in pairs or small groups, elicit some opinions. Don't tell Sts if they are right or not.

b  8.3 Play the audio for Sts to listen and check their ideas.

Pause after each number and picture has been mentioned and check the answer.

- A You should eat five servings of fruit and vegetables a day.
- B You should drink eight glasses of water a day.
- C You should eat 2,000 calories a day (if you are a woman).
- D You should sleep eight hours a night.
- E You should exercise 30 minutes five times a week.
- F Children shouldn't spend more than two hours a day looking at screens (computers, TV etc.).

8.3

(script in the Student Book on p.138)

Think about your average day as a series of choices. You get up, you choose what to eat, you decide whether to go for a run, whether or not to have a second helping of dessert. You're constantly making decisions based on what you want versus what you think is good for you. But how do you know what's good for you? Nowadays we are bombarded with research and statistics telling us what we should or shouldn't do – but are the numbers really right?

First of all, the classic advice to eat five servings of fruit and vegetables a day. Does it really make a difference? Well, it's a lot more useful than just saying "eat a varied diet," because how do we know what that really means? But five servings may not be enough. A World Health Organization study found that in the countries with the lowest levels of heart disease, the average person was eating around ten servings a day of fruit and veggies. So although five will do you good, more might be better. In the US, by the way, only one in ten adults eat enough fruit and vegetables each day.

From food to water. The claim that we should drink eight glasses of water a day is widely attributed to a report by the American National Academy of Sciences, which estimated that we needed 2.5 liters of fluid a day, which is approximately eight glasses. But, and this is the key thing, the fluid doesn't need to be water. For example, we already take in three-quarters of a liter of fluid from the food we eat each day. The eight glasses of water idea might seem fairly harmless, but it has created a belief that we don't drink enough water. In fact the best advice is, if you're thirsty, have a drink – water, tea, juice, whatever you feel like. If not, you're probably fine.

Now the tricky question of how much we should eat – or, more specifically, how many calories a day we should consume. The standard guidelines are 2,000 calories a day for women and 2,500 for men. But this is a simplification. The actual amount you need depends on your weight and height, the amount of activity you do, and your metabolism – some people can eat like a horse and not put on weight. Every individual is different, and needs to balance their own food intake against their own calorie needs.

What about sleep? Well, for everyone who tells you they can get by on four hours a night, studies show that most people need between seven and nine hours of sleep to function well. If you regularly average less than seven hours, then you have an increased risk of depression, diabetes, and heart problems. But sleeping for more than nine hours a night has also been associated with an increase in health issues. So eight hours a night is probably about right, though a bit more or a bit less shouldn't do you any harm.

On to exercise. You've probably heard that the recommended amount of exercise is a minimum of half an hour's moderate activity five times a week. But even if you're doing the recommended amount, it may not be enough if you then drive to work and sit at a computer all day. A review by the American Journal of Clinical Nutrition said that an average of 30 minutes daily may not prevent unhealthy weight gain in many people. The message? Do the recommended amount of moderate activity, but try to do more if you can, especially if you spend a lot of the day sitting down.

And finally, we all know how addicted our kids are to anything with a screen. But given the amount of panic there is about children watching TV, playing computer games or going online, there is surprisingly little research into the long-term effects of screen time. So, should we limit screen time to protect our children's physical or emotional health? It's a difficult question to answer. Obviously sitting down for too long is as bad for children as it is for adults, but a large-scale UK study of 11,000 children showed no relationship between screen time and emotional or social problems, or an inability to concentrate or make friends. So while the internet may be changing how our brains work, the idea of limiting screen time to two hours a day isn't supported by research. Instead we should make up our own minds about what's best for our children – and for ourselves.

c Focus on the task and make sure Sts understand what they have to do.

Play the audio again, pausing after each piece of advice to give Sts time to make notes.

Check answers.

- A We should really be eating more than five servings a day of fruit and vegetables, and possibly ten.
- B We should really be drinking whatever we want when we feel thirsty.
- C The number of calories we should really be eating depends on our weight, height, the amount of activity we do, and our metabolism. Some people need more than 2,000 calories a day, some less.
- D We should really be sleeping about eight hours a night.
- E Exercise for 30 minutes five times a week and more if you spend most of the day sitting down.
- F We should just decide what is best for our children and for ourselves.

Don't ask Sts their opinion on any of the advice given as they will be doing this later in the lesson.

LEXIS IN CONTEXT

- d 8.4 Focus on the task and then give Sts time to fill in each blank with the correct form of either make or do.
Play the audio for Sts to listen and check.
Check answers.

1 making	4 do	7 make
2 make	5 Do
3 do	6 make

8.4

- 1 You're constantly making decisions based on what you want versus what you think is good for you.
- 2 Does it really make a difference?
- 3 So, although five will do you good, more might be better.
- 4 So, eight hours a night is probably about right, though a bit more or a bit less shouldn't do you any harm.
- 5 Do the recommended amount of moderate activity, but try to do more if you can, especially if you spend a lot of the day sitting down.

- 7 Instead we should make up our own minds about what's best for our children – and for ourselves.

- e Focus on the task and get Sts to discuss the questions in pairs.
Check answers for 1 and get some feedback from various pairs for 2, 3, and 4.

- 1 D was the most accurate and B and F the least. A, C, and E all have some basic truth in them.

6 VOCABULARY similes

- a Elicit the pronunciation of simile /'sɪməli/ and focus on the example from the listening. Then focus on the Similes for comparisons box and go through it with the class.
Give Sts time to complete the similes individually or in pairs.
If Sts worked individually, get them to compare with a partner.

EXTRA CHALLENGE You may want to teach Sts a few more common similes, e.g., as smooth as silk, as cold as ice, as solid as a rock, as good as gold, fit like a glove, sleep like a baby, etc.

- b 8.5 Play the audio for Sts to listen and check.
Check answers, eliciting what each simile means.

- 1 mule (= very stubborn)
- 2 sheet (= very pale)
- 3 angel (= beautifully)
- 4 post (= can't hear at all)
- 5 log (= sleeps very well) (You may also want to teach the alternative simile sleep like a baby.)
- 6 bat (= can't see at all)
- 7 gold (= very well-behaved)
- 8 rail (= very thin)
- 9 flash (= very quickly)
- 10 dream (= works very well)

8.5

- 1 My husband's as stubborn as a mule – he refuses to go to the doctor about his bad back.
- 2 She's as white as a sheet. I think she's going to faint.
- 3 He sings like an angel. He really should be on a singing competition show.
- 4 He's as deaf as a post. You'll have to speak up a little.
- 5 She sleeps like a log. I don't think she's ever had problems with insomnia.
- 6 Your mother's as blind as a bat. She should get her eyes tested.
- 7 She's been as good as gold. She took all her medicine without making any fuss.
- 8 He's lost a lot of weight since his illness. He's as thin as a rail.
- 9 When I pressed the button the nurse came as quick as a flash and changed my IV drip.
- 10 My new medication works like a dream. I feel 100 times better.

EXTRA SUPPORT Go through the words in the list first to make sure Sts know what they all mean. A bat is an animal like a mouse with wings, that flies and feeds at night. A log is a thick piece of wood. A mule is an animal that has a horse and a donkey as parents. A post is a piece of wood set in the ground vertically, e.g., a lamp post or something to support a fence. A rail is one of two long pieces of metal that trains and subways travel on.

7 PRONUNCIATION /ə/

Pronunciation notes

- As Sts should know at this level, /ə/ is the most common sound in English. /ə/ can be spelled by any vowel. It always occurs in unstressed syllables or unstressed words, e.g., articles and prepositions.
- Encouraging advanced Sts to make the /ə/ sound correctly is one way of instantly improving their sentence rhythm and general pronunciation, and making their speech sound more natural.

- a Focus on the Fine-tuning your pronunciation: the most common sound in English box and go through it with the class.

Now focus on the task and tell Sts they might find it easier if they say the sentence out loud to themselves.

- b  8.6 Play the audio for Sts to listen and check.

Get Sts to compare with a partner and then check answers.

Unstressed words with /ə/ sound: as, as, a, to, to, the, about Stressed words with the /ə/ sound: husband

 8.6

See the sentence in the Student Book on p.79

Get Sts to practice saying the sentence.

Put Sts in pairs and get them to practice sentences 2–10 in 6a.

EXTRA SUPPORT You could play audio 4.24 again, pausing after each sentence for Sts to listen and repeat. Then put Sts in pairs and get them to practice saying them.

- c Focus on the task and give Sts time to think of three people or things they could describe using the similes. You could demonstrate the activity first.

Put Sts in pairs and get them to tell each other their three sentences. Remind them to use the /ə/ sound in as...as a in the similes.

Get some feedback.

- G expressing future plans and arrangements
- V travel and tourism
- P homophones

Lesson plan

The topic of this lesson is travel and tourism.

In the first half Sts begin by doing an authentic questionnaire from www.virgin.com, a travel website, to find out what kind of traveler they are (we found it very accurate!). This leads to vocabulary, where Sts learn new travel-related words and phrases. They then read a newspaper article in which the writer attacks travelers and defends the reputation of tourists. The writing focus is on a discursive essay in which the writer argues in favor of or against a statement – in this case the topic is tourism.

In the second half of the lesson the grammar, language for expressing future plans and arrangements, is presented through a series of WhatsApp messages. Sts then move on to a listening about a disastrous flight. The Speaking is about Sts' own bad journeys. The pronunciation focus is on homophones (words pronounced the same, but spelled differently, e.g., site and sight).

OPTIONAL LEAD-IN – THE QUOTE

- Write the quote at the top of p.80 on the board (books closed) and the name of the person who said it, or get Sts to open their books and read it.
- Point out that Paul Theroux (1941–) is an American travel writer and novelist. He is regarded as one of the great contemporary travel writers.
- Ask Sts what they think the quote means and whether they agree with it.

1 VOCABULARY & SPEAKING

- a Focus on the quiz and explain / elicit the meaning of any words you think your Sts might not know, e.g., seaweed, face mask, rambling, meandering.

Get Sts to do the quiz and find out what traveler type they are.

EXTRA SUPPORT Get Sts to look at the pairs of alternatives in each bubble and ask them to explain what kind of person each represents, for example, Flip flops means a person who just wants to relax somewhere warm and Comfy shoes means someone who plans to do a lot of walking.

- b Tell Sts to go to Communication What kind of traveler are you? on p.110.

Sts read about their traveler type.

Put Sts in pairs and get them to tell their partner what kind of traveler they turned out to be and whether they agree. They should then decide whether they would be good travel companions or not.

Get some feedback from various pairs.

- c Tell Sts to go to Vocabulary Bank Travel and tourism on p.171.

Focus on 1 Verbs & verb phrases and get Sts to do a individually or in pairs.

8.7 Now focus on b. Play the audio for Sts to listen and check.

Check answers. Then use the audio to model and drill the pronunciation, especially of any words that are tricky for your Sts. You might want to highlight that the t in postpone /pou'spoun/ is silent.

See script 8.7

The three idioms mean:

hit the stores = go shopping get away from it all = to take a vacation in a place where you can really relax recharge your batteries = to get back your strength and energy by taking a vacation

8.7

Travel and tourism

Verbs & verb phrases

- 1 set off on a journey
- 2 extend a trip
- 3 go camping
- 4 go on vacation
- 5 cancel a trip
- 6 postpone a trip
- 7 wander around the old town
- 8 chill out after a tiring day
- 9 soak up the atmosphere
- 10 sample the local cuisine
- 11 hit the stores
- 12 get away from it all
- 13 recharge your batteries

Focus on 2 Describing places and get Sts to do a individually or in pairs.

8.8 Now focus on b. Play the audio for Sts to listen and check.

Check answers. You may want to model and drill the pronunciation of some of these words, e.g., breathtaking. Highlight that:

- touristy is usually used in a negative sense. Compare: This is a tourist town (factual statement) and This town is very touristy (implied criticism).
- off the beaten track comes from the idea that the beaten (i.e., flattened by thousands of footsteps) track is the road where many people walk. A place that is off the beaten track is away from where most people go and is therefore more remote, unspoiled, etc.
- brehtaking = so beautiful or spectacular it takes your breath away, i.e., it leaves you unable to breathe.
- tacky is informal for cheap, badly made and / or lacking in taste.

2 dull	8 breathtaking
3 touristy	9 picturesque
4 spoiled	10 tacky
5 lively	11 remote
6 off the beaten track	12 unspoiled
7 overcrowded

8.8

Describing places

- 1 I think that restaurant's overrated.
- 2 The museum's pretty dull, but the café's good.
- 3 The stores are very touristy, but we bought some nice things.
- 4 The oceanfront has been spoiled by all the new hotels.
- 5 It's a really lively area at night.
- 6 We found a great coffee shop on a side street in Los Angeles, off the beaten track.
- 7 The hotel pool is always overcrowded.
- 8 The view is absolutely breathtaking.
- 9 We went to a very picturesque little fishing village yesterday.
- 10 The souvenirs were all plastic Eiffel Towers and key rings, really tacky stuff.
- 11 The site of the temple is extremely remote – you can only get there on foot, and it takes four hours.
- 12 It's a lovely city, almost completely unspoiled by tourism.

Focus on Activation and give Sts time to think about their last vacation and places in their country that could be described using the adjectives in 2.

Put Sts in pairs and get them to tell each other about their last vacation and the places they thought of for 2.

Get some feedback.

Tell Sts to go back to the main lesson 8B.

EXTRA SUPPORT If you think Sts need more practice, you may want to give them the Vocabulary photocopyable activity at this point or leave it for later as consolidation or review.

2 READING

- a Do this as an open-class activity. Many Sts will have heard of Las Vegas and Cancún, but if not, you may need to explain that they are mass tourist vacation destinations in the US and Mexico respectively. Outer Mongolia is a remote area of Asia between Russia and China.

- b Focus on the article.

Now focus on the three summaries.

Set a time limit for Sts to read the article once for gist and then give them time to choose the best summary.

Check the answer.

- 1 Travelers think they're superior to tourists, but in fact it's the other way round.

- c Focus on the task and give Sts time to read 1–8. Remind Sts to underline where they found the journalist's answers. Set a time limit and tell Sts to read the article again and then go through the questions and answer them T (true) or F (false).

Check answers.

- 1 T (line 1: Tourists rush around too much.)
- 2 F (line 6: ...just because someone travels differently than you, it doesn't make mean their traveling style is wrong.)
- 3 F (line 12: Now that my travel style is more aligned to luxury ...)
- 4 F (line 19: The traveler vs. tourist debate is not a new one.)
- 5 T (line 32: I don't judge people because they're a "traveler" or because they're a "tourist"; I judge people when they're inappropriate.)
- 6 F (line 38: Take advantage of the opportunities that arise for you.)
- 7 F (line 43: ...don't avoid a place just because you haven't seen it on Instagram.)
- 8 T (line 44: One basic rule: respect the culture of the place you're in ...)

LEXIS IN CONTEXT

- d Focus on the task and make sure Sts try to work out the meaning from the context before matching the highlighted phrasal verbs with their meanings.

Get Sts to compare with a partner and then check answers.

- | | |
|---------------|--------------|
| 1 sell out | 5 be sick of |
| 2 rush around | 6 care about |
| 3 miss out | 7 check off |
| 4 rule out | |

- e Focus on the task and go through it with Sts.

Divide Sts into groups of three or four, and give them time to discuss the questions.

Get feedback and tell Sts what you think.

3 WRITING a discursive essay (2)

In this lesson the focus is on the second type of discursive essay, where Sts decide to either argue in favor or against a statement (the balanced approach was covered in 6B). The writing skills focus is on topic sentences and using synonyms, and the Useful Language section covers common expressions for giving personal opinions, and for expressing opposite arguments and refuting them. Tell Sts to go to Writing A discursive essay (2) on p.124.

ANALYZING A MODEL TEXT

- a Focus on the text type (a discursive essay where you take one side). Remind Sts of the balanced approach, which they covered in 6B. Point out that sometimes an essay title simply asks them if they agree with a statement or not. As an alternative to the balanced approach, they can argue in favor of or against the statement rather than giving both sides of the argument. They can also include a typical counter argument that they then refute (prove that it is wrong), although this may not always be necessary or appropriate.

Focus on the Key success factors and go through them with the class. Then focus on the task, and give Sts time, in pairs, to discuss the essay title and decide whether, generally speaking, they agree or disagree with it. Get feedback to find out what the majority of the class thinks.

- b Focus on the Topic sentences box and go through it with the class.

Now focus on the task and give Sts time to read A–E and, in pairs, discuss how the paragraphs are likely to continue. Check answers.

- A We expect the rest of the paragraph to give examples of this, e.g., better public transportation, better water systems, etc.
- B We expect the paragraph to develop this argument and give more examples, e.g., overcrowding, excess traffic, etc.
- C We expect some information about tourism in general.
- D We expect specific examples of what governments are doing and the results of this, e.g., creating conservation areas.
- E We expect the paragraph to elaborate further, e.g., jobs are created in hotels and restaurants.

Elicit whether the essay will be in favor of or against tourism.

It will be in favor of tourism – topic sentences A, D, and E introduce paragraphs in favor of tourism, only B introduces an argument against.

- c Now focus on the model essay. Tell Sts to read it once and then to read it again, completing each paragraph with the appropriate topic sentence.

Get Sts to compare with a partner and then check answers.

1 C 2 E 3 A 4 D 5 B

- d Focus on the task and give Sts time to discuss the questions in pairs. Check answers.

- 1 In the introduction and the conclusion
- 2 Three
- 3 To give an opposing opinion, and then refute it

- e Focus on the Using synonyms and richer vocabulary box (this was also focused on in 2B) and go through it with the class.

Now focus on the task and tell Sts to look for the synonyms in the topic sentences as well as the paragraphs.

Check answers.

- 1 vacationers, visitors
- 2 influences
- 3 for instance
- 4 generally, on the whole

USEFUL LANGUAGE

- f Finally, focus on the expressions and get Sts to complete them.

Get Sts to compare with a partner and then check answers.

- | | | |
|-----------|--------------|---------------|
| 1 believe | 5 Personally | 9 may have... |
| 2 feel | 6 argue | nowadays |
| 3 view | 7 claimed | 10 flaws |
| 4 opinion | 8 those | 11 case |

PLANNING WHAT TO WRITE

- a Focus on the task. Tell Sts to read the two essay titles and decide which side of the argument they take and why, and make notes of three or four reasons.
- b Now put Sts in pairs and get them to share their ideas, but point out that they don't have to agree. They should also think of typical opposing arguments. Get feedback from individual Sts, finding out if they agree or disagree, what their reasons are, and if they can refute a typical opposing argument.
- c Now get Sts to decide which essay they are going to write and to write topic sentences for the introduction and the main paragraphs. Then get them to compare with a partner and comment on, and improve where possible, each other's sentences.

EXTRA SUPPORT If a pair has chosen the same essay title and agreed with each other when they discussed it, they could write the topic sentences together.

Finally, go through the Tips with the class.

WRITING

Go through the instructions, and assign the writing for homework.

Tell Sts to go back to the main lesson 8B.

4 GRAMMAR

expressing future plans and arrangements

a Focus on the task and get Sts to circle the correct forms of the verbs.

Check answers.

- | | | |
|------------|--------------------|------------|
| 1 ✓ | 3 It's now leaving | 5 to start |
| 2 I'll let | 4 I'll be waiting | 6 to board |

You may want to point out that in 3, although we can often use the simple present for "timetable" future, here the flight is delayed and 6:30 is not its normal departure time, so the present continuous is more appropriate.

b Tell Sts to go to Grammar Bank 8B on p.157.

Go through each example and its corresponding rule with the class, or give Sts time to read the examples and rules on their own, and answer any queries.

Additional grammar notes

- Sts should be very familiar with the different verb forms used to express future plans and arrangements. Here they are pulled together and contrasted. Other ways of expressing this aspect of the future, such as be due to and be about to, may be new for Sts.

Focus on the exercises and get Sts to do them individually or in pairs. If they do them individually, get them to compare answers with a partner.

Check answers after each exercise, getting Sts to read the full sentences.

- a
- | | | |
|------------------|-------------------|-----|
| 1 be having | 4 ✓ | 7 ✓ |
| 2 going to watch | 5 ✓ | 8 ✓ |
| 3 going to ask | 6 I'll be wearing | 9 ✓ |

- b
- no difference
 - is due to arrive* is more formal
 - is to open* is more formal
 - I'll be seeing* implies it's something you know will happen, but that you have probably not planned yourself. I'm going to see John implies you have planned it.
 - no difference

- c
- We're about to leave
 - Our second-line manager is due to be promoted
 - Will you be going to the cafeteria at lunchtime
 - The board of directors are on the point of signing
 - The manager will be responding to your complaint

Tell Sts to go back to the main lesson 8B.

EXTRA SUPPORT If you think Sts need more practice, you may want to give them the Grammar photocopiable activity at this point or leave it for later as consolidation or review.

c Focus on the questions and give Sts time to think about their plans and arrangements.

Put Sts in pairs and get them to discuss their plans for a trip / journey and any arrangements they have already made.

Monitor and help, correcting any errors in grammar.

Get some feedback. If you have any plans yourself, you could tell the class.

5 LISTENING

a Focus on the task and the headline, Christmas getaway crippled by storms. Make sure Sts understand what it means. You may want to tell Sts that Clive is one of the co-authors of American English File, and this is a true story. Elicit some ideas about where Clive was traveling to, why, and the kind of problems he might have had.

b 8.9 to 8.14 Focus on the task and give Sts time to read the questions.

8.9 Play the audio once the whole way through and get Sts to answer the questions and compare them with a partner.

Play the audio again if necessary.

Check answers for 1 and 2, and elicit responses to the question in blue.

- He was traveling to the UK from Spain. He was with his wife and two children. It was December 23rd.
- He got a text message from his brother. It worried him because his brother mentioned that there was a terrible storm in London.

8.9

(script in the Student Book on p.138)

I was traveling back from Spain to the UK, I was with my family, with my wife and two young children, it was two days before Christmas, and we were traveling back to London to visit my family there. It was an evening flight, I think the flight left around 10 o'clock, and it was leaving from Valencia. The weather there was really good, but just before we were going to take off, I was just reading my, you know, the messages at the last minute and I saw there was a message from my brother, so I read it, and he was asking me whether the flight had been canceled, because he said in the message that there was a very, very bad storm in London with gale-force winds. I sent a message back to him saying, well, no, actually we're just taking off, but obviously it made me wonder what the weather was going to be like when we got there.

8.10 Repeat the same process. You might want to tell Sts that Gatwick is the name of one of the London airports.

Check answers 3–5 and elicit responses to the question in blue.

- When they were getting close to Gatwick Airport.
- He told them that the plane was going to circle Gatwick for a while.
- Clive felt terrible. He thought the plane was going to crash.

8.10

(script in the Student Book on p.138)

It was a two-hour flight, everything was normal, until we got to Gatwick. As we were approaching Gatwick the pilot came on and he said, "I'm sorry, we can't land yet because there's really bad weather here, so we're going to circle for a while." "So the plane started circling, and then we started getting the worst turbulence I've ever, ever experienced. The plane just seemed to be going up in the air, then dropping, then rising up again and then dropping." This went on for about 20 minutes. Then the pilot obviously decided he was going to have a go at landing, but as he got nearer and nearer to the ground, the wind just got stronger and stronger, and the plane was being knocked around, and I really thought, "This is it, we're going to crash!"

8.11 Repeat the same process.

Check answers 6–8 and elicit responses to the question in blue.

- 6 The pilot decided not to land and went right up into the air.
- 7 They were frightened and some people gasped.
- 8 The pilot said he couldn't land at Gatwick as it was too windy and the airport had closed.

8.11

(script in the Student Book on p.138)

Just at the very last moment, the pilot obviously realized that it was impossible to land and he changed his mind and the plane suddenly shot back up in the air and this was a really scary moment and a lot of people on the plane they sort of gasped in alarm. The plane started gaining height, the pilot didn't say anything, and when we finally got up, well, really high again then he came on and he said, "I'm very sorry, but I just couldn't land, it was too windy, and I'm afraid we can't land at Gatwick now because the airport's been closed. In fact I have to tell you that we can't land anywhere in the UK because all the airports are closed." Everyone on the plane was sort of looking at each other and I think we were all thinking, "So where are we going to land? Have we got enough petrol to land somewhere else?"

8.12 Repeat the same process.

Check answers 9–11 and elicit responses to the question in blue.

- 9 Amsterdam / Holland
- 10 Because it was less windy and they had been given permission to land.
- 11 They felt very relieved and applauded.

8.12

(script in the Student Book on p.138)

Well then the pilot said, "Fortunately, Amsterdam airport has said we can land there, so we're off to Holland now." Then we had a two-hour journey to Holland, that was OK, fairly calm, fairly normal, and then as we came in to land at Amsterdam, the pilot warned us, he said "It's going to be windy here too, but not as bad as at Gatwick" and it was quite a good landing, little bit bumpy, and everyone was very, very relieved to get down on the ground, in fact, all the passengers applauded. We all started getting up, to be honest we couldn't wait, you know, to get off, to get our feet on firm ground again.

8.13 Repeat the same process.

Check answers for 12 and 13, and elicit responses to the question in blue.

- 12 They were told to stay on the plane because it was going to refuel and fly back to Gatwick.
- 13 They could get off the plane, but they wouldn't get a hotel.

8.13

(script in the Student Book on p.138)

But then, just as we were getting all our things from the overhead locker, one of the crew got on the loudspeaker and he said, "Well no, no, don't get off because what's happening now, is we're going to refuel, and then we're going to fly back to Gatwick. We're going to have another try, because we think that in a couple of hours, the weather should be better at Gatwick." And he said, "If you want to get off, you can get off, but there won't be a hotel for you, because this plane's going back to Gatwick."

8.14 Repeat the same process.

Check answers 14–16.

- 14 They all decided to get off the plane.
- 15 They stayed in a hotel at Amsterdam airport. Then they got a train to Belgium and there they got on the Eurostar to London.
- 16 They got home on Christmas Eve / December 24.

8.14

(script in the Student Book on p.138)

So then everyone had a bit of a dilemma, and in fact what happened was that pretty well everyone who had children, all the parents, there were a lot of children on the plane, because it was Christmas, pretty well everyone who had children got off the plane and the others stayed on. We were really happy to get off that plane and we spent the night in Amsterdam airport, and then in the morning we got a train from Amsterdam to Belgium. In Brussels, we picked up the Eurostar, and that took us through France, under the Channel, and back to London. So, after traveling all day, we finally got home around seven o'clock in the evening, just in time for the children to hang up their stockings for Christmas. Definitely the most frightening experience I've ever had.

LEXIS IN CONTEXT

c Focus on the task and the words and expressions. Get Sts to discuss what they mean with a partner.

Check answers.

- 1 gale-force winds = extremely strong winds
- 2 approaching = getting close to
- 3 circle = to move in a circle; to go a round and a round
- 4 turbulence = a series of sudden and violent changes in the direction that air or water is moving
- 5 shot back up = rose again suddenly
- 6 gaining height = getting higher and higher
- 7 we're off to = we're leaving for
- 8 bumpy = uncomfortable with a lot of sudden unpleasant movements
- 9 relieved = feeling happy because something unpleasant has stopped
- 10 dilemma = a situation in which you have to make a difficult choice between things of equal importance

EXTRA SUPPORT If there's time, get Sts to listen again with scripts 4.28 to 4.33 on p.138, focusing on any new vocabulary that Sts didn't understand.

d Do this in pairs, small groups, or as an open-class activity. If Sts worked in pairs or small groups, get some feedback.

6 SPEAKING

- a Focus on the task and the plan for telling the story. Give Sts time to try to think of a journey and make a few notes.
- b If you have a good story, tell the Sts, using some of the expressions from the plan. Then put them in groups and get them to tell each other their stories. Encourage Sts to listen "actively" and interact with the person telling the story with exclamations and further questions. Get each group to vote on the best story and then get that student to tell the class about their bad journey.

7 PRONUNCIATION homophones

Pronunciation notes

- Homophones are words with different meanings, but the same pronunciation (e.g., wait and weight). Even at this level Sts often doubt whether two words are pronounced exactly the same when their spelling is different. Homophones may also occasionally cause confusion for Sts when they hear one word, but imagine that they have heard the other.

- a Focus on the Homophones box and go through it with the class, stressing that the pronunciation of the words is identical.

Focus on the task and the example. Elicit / explain the meaning of pier (= a platform in a harbor where boats come in to load, etc.).

Get Sts to continue in pairs.

Check answers, getting Sts to spell the words.

2 a wait	b weight
3 a bored	b board
4 a break	b brake
5 a fair	b fare
6 a piece	b peace
7 a cot	b caught
8 a site	b sight
9 a through	b threw
10 a suite	b sweet
11 a serial	b cereal
12 a whether	b weather

- b Focus on the task. Demonstrate by asking a student for two meanings and spellings of /weɪt/.

Then get Sts to continue in pairs.

Make sure they switch roles.

EXTRA CHALLENGE You could ask Sts if they know any more homophones, e.g., sent / cent / scent; flower / flour; waste / waist; new / knew; aloud / allowed, etc.

For instructions on how to use these pages, see p.43.

The history of penicillin

I'm Nigel and this is St. Mary's Hospital in London. Humanity has always fought against disease and infection, but it wasn't until the 19th century that people began to understand the role bacteria and other germs had to play. This led to rapid improvements in hygiene and, for the first time, people could prevent infection. But it wasn't until 1928 that Alexander Fleming found a way to treat infection, when he discovered penicillin here at St. Mary's Hospital.

Alexander Fleming was a Scottish doctor and scientist. He was born in 1881 and began research here in 1906. Fleming was a brilliant researcher, but he was notoriously messy. After a month's vacation he returned to find a mold growing on a bacteria sample he had discarded. As he was throwing it away he noticed the mold was actually killing the bacteria. When he investigated further he found the type of mold was Penicillium. Fleming named the substance it released penicillin.

Fleming realized that penicillin could treat infection, but he couldn't produce enough of the antibiotic agent to be truly effective. It looked like the end of the road for penicillin, until two Oxford scientists took up the challenge.

Howard Florey was an Australian pharmacologist and pathologist working at Oxford University. He led a team researching antibacterial agents produced by microorganisms.

Ernst Boris Chain had fled Nazi Germany to work as a scientist in England. He was one of Florey's most talented colleagues and was studying naturally-occurring chemicals that could kill bacteria.

Together they started looking into Fleming's discovery and decided they had better reinvestigate some of his findings. Based here, at Lincoln College, an entire team of Oxford-based scientists were soon working on penicillin and by late 1940 they had invented a way to mass-produce the drug. They had also trialed the drug here, at Oxford's Radcliffe Infirmary.

By this time another war – World War II – had started. Suddenly there was a great need for a drug which could fight infection and the American War Production board was willing to spend big money. By 1945 they were able to produce enough penicillin to treat the entire Allied forces. That same year Fleming, Florey, and Chain won the Nobel Prize in Medicine and penicillin was being hailed as a wonder drug.

Penicillin was the first antibiotic, a range of drugs used to treat and prevent infections. There are now more than a hundred antibiotics which can treat all kinds of illnesses, from mild conditions like acne to serious infections like meningitis. For over 70 years they have saved countless lives, but scientists warn we are now facing a new threat – antibiotic resistance.

Bacteria are living organisms, and like any living thing they adapt to survive. Many strains of bacteria have evolved to fight off antibiotics and this means some infections are now resistant to treatment.

Although some of this resistance is naturally occurring, much of it is our own fault. Antibiotics have become far too widely used, meaning that many strains of bacteria have been overexposed to these drugs and, as a consequence, have developed resistance.

There are several reasons for this, but one of the most damaging is over-prescription. Some doctors have used antibiotics as a "cure-all" treatment, prescribing them for minor illnesses. As a result, many patients now demand them, regardless of what they are suffering from or how effective the drugs will be. In some countries antibiotics are even available over-the-counter, so there are almost no restrictions on how they're supplied.

This over-use of antibiotics has fueled the rapid growth of resistance, and if it continues, it will have disastrous consequences. Suddenly illnesses we regard as minor could be deadly, and most major surgery – such as heart operations or cancer treatment – will be impossible to carry out because the risk of untreatable infection will be too high. But if we can control our use of antibiotics, we can limit the spread of resistance. Global legislation is required to restrict the over-supply of antibiotics and we all – doctors and patients – need to make sure we use the drugs sparingly and responsibly.

But while we can certainly slow down the development of antibiotic resistance, we will never stop it entirely. That is why scientists are urgently trying to discover new forms of antibiotic that bacteria may not yet be resistant to. The issue is now so serious that if this can be achieved, it will be the most important anti-bacterial breakthrough since Fleming's discovery of penicillin.

Lesson plan

The topic of this lesson is animals in the first part and vegetarianism and various controversial issues relating to animals in the second.

In the first half of the lesson, Sts read a newspaper article about a journalist's attitude toward pets. Sts then expand their knowledge of vocabulary related to animals and the natural world, which they put into practice in a speaking activity, followed by a focus on idioms and sayings with animals.

The second half of the lesson begins with a grammar focus on ellipsis, followed by the pronunciation of weak and strong forms of auxiliary verbs and to. Sts then listen to a radio show where two people debate the pros and cons of being vegetarian. This sets up the discussions in Speaking, where Sts debate various animal issues, such as zoos and hunting.

OPTIONAL LEAD-IN – THE QUOTE

- Write the quote at the top of p.86 on the board (books closed) and the name of the person who said it, or get Sts to open their books and read it. Elicit / explain what a rattlesnake is (= a poisonous American snake that makes a noise like a rattle with its tail when it is angry or afraid).
- Point out that Lance Morrow (1939–) is an American writer. He writes mainly for Time magazine.
- Ask Sts what they think Morrow meant by the quote and whether they agree.

1 READING

- a Focus on the questions and put Sts in pairs. Elicit / explain the meaning of to be attached to something.
 Give Sts a few minutes to answer the questions.
 Get some feedback from various pairs.

EXTRA IDEA Finally, ask Sts if they think Americans are animal lovers or not.

- b Do this as an open-class activity.

It implies that the writer doesn't like animals.

- c Focus on the Glossary and go through it with the class.
 Now focus on the task and set a time limit for Sts to read the article and match each paragraph with one of the topics.
 Get Sts to compare with a partner and then check answers.

- 3 his attitude toward dogs
 1 his current feelings about kittens
 7 future plans about pets in his household
 5 people's preference for animals over children
 2 his general attitude toward cats
 6 his children's attitude toward animals
 4 his childhood experience with pets

- d Focus on the task and give Sts time to read the article again and answer the six multiple choice questions.
 Check answers.

- 1 a 3 a 5 c
 2 c 4 b 6 a

LEXIS IN CONTEXT

- e Focus on the task and give Sts time to work out the meaning of the highlighted verbs and expressions, and then match them to definitions 1–6.
 Get Sts to compare with a partner and then check answers.

- 1 I am content 4 adore
 2 I am positively averse 5 I was skeptical
 3 care very little about 6 I can live with that

Finally, help with any other vocabulary problems that arose from the article.

- f Put Sts in pairs and get them to discuss the questions. Make sure they understand the three options in 1.
 Get some feedback and give your opinion, too.

2 VOCABULARY & SPEAKING animal matters

- a Focus on the task and set a time limit for Sts to do it in pairs.
 Check answers. Model and drill pronunciation where necessary.

- animal charities = organizations which collect money to help animals, e.g., the World Wildlife Fund

EXTRA SUPPORT Ask the questions to the whole class and elicit examples.

Tell Sts to go back to the main lesson 9A.

EXTRA SUPPORT If you think Sts need more practice, you may want to give them the Vocabulary photocopyable activity at this point or leave it for later as consolidation or review.

c Focus on the task and the circles. Give Sts time to read them. Demonstrate the activity by telling Sts about people you know.

Get Sts to do the activity in pairs.

Get some feedback from the class by saying, e.g., Who knows somebody who goes hunting or fishing regularly? Have you gone with them?, etc.

d Focus on the ten idioms, highlighting that many common English idioms involve animals.

Individually or in pairs, Sts choose the correct word to complete the idioms. Encourage them to read each sentence and try to guess the meaning from the context. Check answers.

1 grunt	6 lion
2 duck	7 rat
3 fish	8 birds
4 chickens	9 bark
5 horse	10 tail

Highlight that:

- the origin of the idiom water off a duck's back is because water runs off a duck's back without affecting or bothering it, in the same way that criticism does not affect or worry certain people.
- although the full expression is Don't count your chickens before they are hatched, we usually just say the first part.

e Do this as an open-class activity.

3 GRAMMAR ellipsis

a 9.6 Focus on the task and get Sts to fill in each blank with one word.

Get Sts to compare with a partner.

Then play the audio for Sts to listen and check.

Check answers and then ask Sts what the function of these words is.

2 to	5 should	8 are
3 is	6 have
4 does	7 so

The function of these words is to avoid repetition.

9.6

W Have you ever had a pet?

M Sadly not. I've always wanted to, but I've never been able to because I'm allergic to cats and dogs.

W Are you? I'm not, but my sister is, which is why we never had them either. But my kids really want a puppy and so does my husband.

M I think you probably should then. What's stopping you? You should go to a shelter for abandoned dogs.

W I already have.

M So, you really are going to get one, then?

W I think so. I'm not 100% convinced, but the children are.

b Tell Sts to go to Grammar Bank 9A on p.158.

Go through each example and its corresponding rule with the class, or give Sts time to read the examples and rules on their own, and answer any queries.

Additional grammar notes

- Sts at advanced level will already have an instinctive feel for the aspects of ellipsis covered here, but they probably will not have totally assimilated them into their own English. The emphasis in this lesson is to look overtly at the theory thus making Sts feel more confident when they speak.

Focus on the exercises and get Sts to do them individually or in pairs. If they do them individually, get them to compare answers with a partner.

Check answers after each exercise, getting Sts to read the full sentences.

a (Sts should cross out these words)

1 like it	5 come to dinner, come
2 win	6 go
3 taken it	7 be able to go
4 I	8 we

b

1 is	5 would
2 will	6 must / should
3 am	7 can't
4 didn't	8 does

c

1 hope not	5 guess so
2 used to	6 've always wanted to
3 suppose not	7 told her not to
4 'll try to	8 imagine so

Tell Sts to go back to the main lesson 9A.

EXTRA SUPPORT If you think Sts need more practice, you may want to give them the Grammar photocopiable activity at this point or leave it for later as consolidation or review.

4 PRONUNCIATION auxiliary verbs and to

Pronunciation notes

- Encouraging Sts to distinguish between strong and weak forms of the auxiliary and to in the infinitive form is a clear and motivating way of improving their pronunciation at this level.

a 9.7 Focus on the instructions and the three conversations. Give Sts time to do the task in pairs.

Encourage them to read the conversations out loud to decide when the auxiliary verbs or to are stressed.

Play the audio once the whole way through for Sts just to listen.

9.7

1 A Do you like dogs?

B No, I don't, but my husband does.

A So does mine. We have three rescue dogs.

2 A I went to Alaska last summer.

B Lucky you. I'd love to go there. Did you see any whales?

A No. I wanted to, but I got seasick, and I mostly stayed in my cabin.

3 A Allie doesn't have any pets, does she?

B She does have a pet. She has a hamster.

A Ugh. I don't like hamsters.

B Neither do I. They're too much like mice.

Then play it again, pausing after each conversation for Sts to listen and check.

Check answers.

See the underlined words in script 9.7

You could point out the following:

- auxiliary verbs are stressed in tag questions, short answers, negative sentences, when they are used for emphasis, and when they come as the last word in a sentence.
- auxiliary verbs are unstressed in wh- questions and with so and neither.
- the auxiliary verb in yes / no questions, e.g., Did you see any whales? Do you like it? is usually unstressed.
- unstressed auxiliaries usually have the /ə/ vowel sound. The exceptions are did, which is pronounced /dɪd/ even when it's unstressed, and do in the phrases So do I and Neither do I where it is pronounced /du/.
- to is pronounced /tə/ when it is unstressed and /tu/ when it is stressed.
- to is stressed when it is used in ellipsis (e.g., I wanted to, but I got seasick).

Then get Sts to practice saying the conversations stressing the right words.

EXTRA SUPPORT You could play the audio line by line and get the class to copy the stress and sentence rhythm.

- b Sit Sts in pairs, A and B, preferably face to face. Tell them to go to Communication Match the sentences, A on p.111, B on p.113.

Go through the instructions. You could get a strong pair to demonstrate the activity. Get A to say his / her first sentence Have you seen the latest Avengers movie? for B to find the correct response No, but I'd love to. Correct B's pronunciation if necessary.

Get Sts to continue in pairs. Monitor and correct any pronunciation errors.

- 1 Have you seen the latest Avengers movie?
No, but I'd love to.
- 2 I absolutely hate getting up early.
So do I. Luckily I don't often have to.
- 3 Is Lina coming swimming this afternoon?
She isn't, but her children are. She didn't want to.
- 4 Your brother lives in San Diego, doesn't he?
Yes, and so does my sister.
- 5 Your aunt doesn't drive, does she?
No, she doesn't, but she owns three cars!
- 6 You do like cabbage, don't you?
I love it. It's cauliflower I can't stand.
- 7 Are you going to go skiing during winter break?
We'd like to, but we're not sure if we can afford to.
- 8 Katie doesn't look like her parents, does she?
No, and neither does her brother. Maybe they were adopted.
- 9 Were there many people in class yesterday?
No, there weren't. Where were you, by the way?
- 10 Do you do a lot of gardening?
I don't, but my partner does. I'm too lazy!
- 11 Erica did say she was coming, didn't she?
She said she wanted to, but she wasn't sure if she'd be able to.
- 12 Adam isn't particularly good at tennis, is he?
He is! He made the varsity team this year.

When they have finished, Sts can repeat the exercise concentrating on correct pronunciation of auxiliaries and to.

Tell Sts to go back to the main lesson 9A.

EXTRA SUPPORT You could elicit the matched pairs of sentences before getting Sts to practice the mini-dialogues a final time.

5 LISTENING

- a Focus on the task and make sure Sts know what a vegan is (= a person who does not eat any animal products such as meat, fish, milk, or eggs). You could tell Sts that some vegans do not use animal products such as silk or leather either.

Put Sts in small groups and get them to discuss the questions.

Get some feedback from various groups. With a show of hands you could find out how many vegetarians and vegans there are in the class.

- b Focus on the task and make sure Sts know the meaning of pros and cons.

Put Sts in pairs to think of two arguments that are pro-vegetarianism and two that are against.

Draw two columns on the board and elicit Sts' ideas.

- c  9.8 Focus on the task and then play the audio once the whole way through for Sts to listen to the pro-vegetarian and see if any of their arguments are mentioned.

Get feedback.

EXTRA CHALLENGE You could get Sts to write the three main arguments for stopping eating meat next to 1, 2, and 3 in the chart in d.

9.8

(script in the Student Book on pp.138–139)

J = John, A = Abby

J Good afternoon, and welcome to The Food Program, where each week we debate issues related to food. In this week's debate, and some people may think this is long overdue, the subject is "Being vegetarian." Should we or shouldn't we be giving up meat? With me today in the studio are Abby Fisher, from an online newspaper about vegetarian issues, and Dr. Mark Carol, a nutritionist. Before we start the debate, let me just clarify that we are just debating about not eating meat, not giving up fish and dairy too, or going vegan. Abby, you have the floor, to propose that we should all give up meat.

A Thank you John. People are drawn to vegetarianism by all sorts of motives. Some of us want to live longer, healthier lives, or do our part to reduce pollution. Others of us have made the switch because we want to preserve the Earth's natural resources, or because we've always loved animals and are ethically opposed to eating them. I'm going to focus on three clear reasons for giving up meat.

First, for your health. I think it's pretty generally accepted that vegetarian diets are healthier than the average US diet. It's estimated that 70 percent of all diseases, including one third of all cancers, are related to diet. A vegetarian diet reduces the risk for diseases such as obesity, coronary artery disease, high blood pressure, diabetes, and certain types of cancer. Being a vegetarian also means being slimmer, which as we all know, means being healthier. In a recent study where overweight people followed a low-fat, vegetarian diet they lost an average of 26 pounds in the first year and, by sticking to a vegetarian diet, had kept off that weight five years later. You'll also live longer – according to other studies, vegetarians live on average 13 years longer than meat eaters.

Now, let's move on to pollution. Many people have become vegetarians after they realized the devastation that the meat industry is having on the environment. According to the US Environmental Protection Agency, chemical and animal waste from factory farms – that is farms which keep large numbers of animals, and usually in terrible conditions – this waste is responsible for more than 173,000 miles of polluted rivers and streams and it's one of the greatest threats to water quality today. So, by stopping eating meat, you'll help to reduce pollution, especially water pollution.

My third main argument is cost. If you give up meat, you'll save money. The average American spends about $585 a year on meat. If you have four people in your family, that's over $2,000 a year! If you start eating vegetables, grains, and fruits instead of the 222 pounds of meat, chicken, and pork each non-vegetarian American eats per year, you'll cut individual food bills right down. So, to sum up, stopping eating meat will improve your health, will reduce pollution, and will save you money. So rather than asking yourself, "Why go vegetarian?", the real question is, "Why haven't you gone vegetarian already?"

d Now tell Sts they are going to hear the pro-vegetarian again and this time they need to make notes regarding each main argument. Tell Sts to copy the chart into their notebooks as there isn't enough space in the chart in the Student Book.

Play the audio again, pausing after each argument has been made to give Sts time to write.

Get Sts to compare with a partner and then play the audio again without pausing.

Check answers.

1 Being vegetarian is better for your health

Vegetarian diets are healthier, and 70% of cancers are diet-related. Being vegetarian reduces the risk of e.g., obesity, coronary artery disease, high blood pressure, diabetes, and certain types of cancer.

Being a vegetarian also means being slimmer.

Vegetarians live on average 13 years longer than meat eaters.

2 It reduces pollution

Chemical and animal waste from farms is responsible for a lot of polluted rivers and streams and is one of the greatest threats to water quality today.

3 It's cheaper

If you give up meat, you could save money, up to $585 a year.

e 9.9 Focus on the task and then play the audio once the whole way through for Sts to listen to the anti-vegetarian and see if any of their arguments are mentioned.

Get feedback.

EXTRA CHALLENGE You could get Sts to write the three main arguments against stopping eating meat next to 1, 2, and 3 in the chart in f.

9.9

(script in the Student Book on p.139)

J = John, M = Mark

J Thank you very much, Abby. And now it's Dr. Mark Carol's turn to oppose these arguments. Mark, over to you.

M Well, let me deal with those arguments one by one. I'll start with the area which is obviously my speciality, and that's health. While there is some evidence that eating too much meat can negatively affect your health, the vast majority of research suggests that a well-balanced omnivorous diet, that is, a diet which includes all the main food groups, is a far healthier choice. Studies have repeatedly shown that vegetarians who don't supplement their diets with Vitamin D, B12, and iron are prone to becoming anemic. And I know we're just talking about non-meat eaters, but vegetarians who don't eat fish either also typically miss out on Omega-3 fatty acids that are essential, not just for our physical well-being, but also potentially help with depression and some personality disorders. And I'd also like to mention that researchers at Oxford University recently followed 35,000 individuals aged from 20 to 89 for a period of five years and discovered that vegans are 30% more likely to break a bone than meat eaters.

Now, as for the environmental argument, yes, many vegetarians argue that meat production harms the environment. But what they don't tell you – and of course they must know this – is that fruit and vegetable farming has just as severe environmental implications. The vast majority of non-organic farms still use pesticides and insecticides that kill off just as many beneficial predators as pests, so have a negative effect on our ecosystems. These dangerous chemicals also frequently get into water supplies...and speaking of water, you need vast amounts of it to grow vegetables commercially, and this can cause water shortages and, in extreme cases, drought. And one final point – bear in mind that vegetarians also produce more gas than meat eaters. The problem lies in the human body's inability to fully digest the complex carbohydrates in the vegetarian diet, which results in higher production of gases like hydrogen, carbon dioxide, and methane. People may laugh, but it's no laughing matter, I assure you.

Finally, the argument about cost. Well, I have to say that this argument really doesn't hold water. I'm not sure where Ms... Abby got her statistics from, but it's a well-known fact that one of the reasons why people in the US don't eat enough fruit and vegetables, by which I mean at least five portions a day, is because of the cost of fresh fruit and vegetables in this country. Meat and poultry prices have hardly gone up at all during the last few years, whereas the price of fruit and vegetables has skyrocketed, and many people say they simply can't afford to eat their five portions a day. So the argument that going vegetarian will save you money – well, it's just not an argument at all. I'd like to sum up by saying that of course the main reason why we should all eat meat in moderation is that human beings are omnivores, and that means that we eat everything. Carnivores, like lions and tigers, don't suddenly start eating grass, and herbivores like sheep or goats, don't suddenly start eating meat. Omnivores should continue to have a balanced diet, which, as I said earlier, should cover all the main food groups.

J Thanks very much, Mark. Now, Abby, I'm sure you have more to say and react to what Mark has just said...

f Now tell Sts they are going to hear the anti-vegetarian again and this time they need to make notes regarding each main argument.

Play the audio again, pausing after each argument has been made to give Sts time to write.

Get Sts to compare with a partner and then play the audio again without pausing.

Check answers.

1 A diet which includes all the main food groups is much healthier

Omega-3, found in fish, is good for our physical and mental health.

Meat eaters have stronger bones.

2 Fruit and vegetable farms are also bad for the environment

The majority of fruit and vegetable farms still use pesticides and insecticides.

Chemicals used by these farmers get into water supplies.

Growing fruit and vegetables uses a lot of water. This can lead to shortages or even droughts.

Vegetarians produce more gases like hydrogen, carbon dioxide, and methane.

3 Being vegetarian in the US is very expensive

The prices of fruit and vegetables have gone up a lot in recent years, but meat prices haven't.

EXTRA SUPPORT If there's time, get Sts to listen again with scripts 5.9 and 5.10 on pp. 138–139, focusing on any new vocabulary that Sts didn't understand.

g Do this as an open-class activity.

6 SPEAKING

a 9.10 This exercise focuses on how we frequently collocate certain adverbs with other words when we give our opinion, e.g., I feel very strongly about this or I'm totally / completely against hunting. I'm quite sure that..., etc.

Focus on the task and on the Common adverb collocations and give Sts time to read the phrases.

Play the audio for Sts to listen and fill in the blanks.

Get Sts to compare with a partner and then play the audio again as necessary.

Check answers. Remind Sts that I don't entirely agree is used when you half-agree. Highlight that quite in the phrase I'm quite sure = completely, and is another very common collocation. You might also want to highlight the use of Well... used here by several of the speakers to give themselves time to think.

See the words in bold in script 9.10

9.10

Common adverb collocations

- 1 It's something I feel very strongly about.
- 2 Well, I don't feel particularly strongly about it either way.
- 3 I have to say I am completely against zoos nowadays.
- 4 I don't entirely agree with you.
- 5 Well, I'm absolutely convinced that the animal does not want to be there.
- 6 I'm quite sure that kids could get the same amount of pleasure from seeing animals in the wild.

Play the audio again for Sts to focus on the rhythm and intonation of the phrases. Elicit / point out that the adverbs are stressed more strongly. You could get Sts to practice saying the phrases.

EXTRA SUPPORT Play the audio again for Sts to copy the rhythm and intonation.

b Focus on the instructions and the debate issues. Make sure all the vocabulary is clear, e.g., to object to something, humane.

Divide the class into groups of three or four. Tell Sts in every group to choose one issue each they are going to talk about, and then to agree with the other members of their group so that each student opens the discussion on a different issue.

Give Sts time to make notes, helping with vocabulary where necessary.

c Set a time limit for each discussion. Then tell one student from each group to start.

Monitor and make a note of any mistakes you think it would be useful to talk about when they have finished the discussions.

Get feedback to find out which issues created the most controversy in each group, and which ones everybody generally agreed about.

EXTRA IDEA You could make these discussions into more formal debates, where one person supports and one opposes the statements.

- G nouns: compound and possessive forms
V preparing food; food adjectives with -y
P words with silent syllables

Lesson plan

The topic of this lesson is food.

In the first half of the lesson, the focus is on eating out. Sts begin by expanding their vocabulary related to ways of preparing food, which will help them to understand menus in English. This is followed by Pronunciation where they focus on words with silent syllables, e.g., vegetables, chocolate. They then listen to some tips about eating out from a book written by a well-known British food critic, discuss them, and talk about their own experiences of eating out. This half of the lesson ends with Sts writing an email of complaint.

In the second half of the lesson the focus shifts to eating in. Sts first study the grammar of compound and possessive nouns, e.g., a recipe book, a chef's hat. They then read a magazine article about comfort food, i.e., food that often provides a nostalgic or sentimental feeling to the person eating it, where well-known people talk about their choices, and Sts then talk about theirs. The lesson ends with a vocabulary section on food adjectives ending in -y, e.g., salty, creamy, etc.

OPTIONAL LEAD-IN – THE QUOTE

- Write the quote at the top of p.90 on the board (books closed) and the name of the person who said it, or get Sts to open their books and read it.
- Point out that Abraham Maslow (1908–1970) was an American psychologist, best known for his work on what people need to realize their full potential.
- Ask Sts what they think he means by the quote and whether they agree.

1 VOCABULARY preparing food

- a Focus on the instructions and give Sts time to read the menu and make their choices.

Get Sts to compare their choices with a partner.

Get feedback and elicit / explain any vocabulary Sts ask about or get them to look the words up in their dictionaries.

You may want to explain that:

- crusted means having a hard layer or covering of something, so in this case a layer of herbs.
- jasmine rice is a long grain rice with a nutty flavor used in Thai cooking.
- hollandaise sauce is a French sauce made with butter, egg yolks, and lemon juice or vinegar.
- basmati is a variety of long grain rice grown in India and Pakistan. It has a distinctive fragrance.
- pecorino is a hard Italian cheese made from sheep's milk.
- the difference between a pie and a tart is that a pie can have pastry on the top, bottom, and sides, and a tart has pastry only on the bottom.
- Amarretto is an almond-flavoured Italian liqueur often used in cooking.

- b Focus on the instructions and get Sts to complete the chart individually or with a partner.

Check answers by writing the chart headings on the board and completing with Sts' suggestions. Tell Sts that all the ways of preparing food will be explained in the Vocabulary Bank. Model and drill pronunciation as necessary.

Ways of preparing food	grilled, steamed, stir-fried, mashed, purée, herb-crusted, smoked, poached, baked, stuffed
Vegetables	avocado, arugula, chilli peppers, parsley, garlic, peppers, onions, potatoes, green beans, eggplant
Fruit and nuts	raspberry, coconut, lemon, cashew nuts, pistachios, plum, almond, apple, blackberry
Sauces and dressings	(raspberry) vinaigrette, coconut milk, balsamic (sauce), hollandaise, whipped cream
Fish and seafood	mussels, sardines, salmon

- c In a monolingual class, do this as an open-class question, and teach Sts any words they didn't know. In a multilingual class, get Sts to talk in small groups.

! Names for fish and some more unusual types of seafood are notoriously difficult to translate. Get Sts to do some research on the internet or with dictionaries.

If Sts worked in groups, get some feedback from various groups.

d Tell Sts to go to Vocabulary Bank Preparing food on p.173.

Focus on 1 How food is prepared and get Sts to do a individually or in pairs.

🔊 9.11 Now focus on b. Play the audio for Sts to listen and check.

Check answers. Then use the audio to model and drill the pronunciation, especially of any words that are tricky for your Sts.

See script 9.11

🔊 9.11

Preparing food

How food is prepared

6 baked figs	5 peeled shrimp
13 barbecued ribs	4 poached egg
12 boiled rice	19 roasted lamb
1 chopped parsley	17 scrambled eggs
8 deep-fried onion rings	7 sliced bread
14 grated cheese	18 steamed mussels
3 grilled fillet of fish	16 stewed plums
2 ground beef	9 stuffed chicken breast
11 mashed potatoes	15 toasted bagel
20 melted chocolate	10 whipped cream

You may want to highlight some of the following information:

- common herbs include parsley, rosemary, thyme, basil
- beat and whip describe similar movements, but whip is used mainly with cream and egg whites, and means beat until stiff
- with meat and potatoes we usually say roasted, not roast.
- baked and roasted are similar (both mean cooked in the oven) but roasted = already solid foods, e.g., meat, vegetables, often at higher temperatures with fat, e.g., oil or butter.

Focus on 2 Utensils and go through the pots and pans box with the class.

Get Sts to do a individually or in pairs.

🔊 9.12 Now focus on b. Play the audio for Sts to listen and check.

Check answers. Then use the audio to model and drill the pronunciation, especially of any words that are tricky for your Sts.

See script 5.13

🔊 9.12

Utensils

6 a baking tray	9 a kettle
1 a colander	7 a mixing bowl
5 a cutting board	10 a saucepan
2 a frying pan	4 a sieve
8 a food processor	3 a whisk

Finally, focus on Activation and give Sts time to think of their answers.

Put Sts in pairs and get them to compare with their partner.

Elicit answers to both questions.

Utensils needed for an omelette: a bowl, whisk, frying pan spaghetti: a saucepan, a colander cookies: a baking tray, a bowl, a sieve

Tell Sts to go back to the main lesson 9B.

EXTRA SUPPORT If you think Sts need more practice, you may want to give them the Vocabulary photocopiable activity at this point or leave it for later as consolidation or review.

2 PRONUNCIATION words with silent syllables

Pronunciation notes

- As well as words having silent consonants there are also words in English that have silent vowels, which result in the words having a silent syllable such as interesting /'ɪntərəstɪŋ/ and comfortable /'kʌmfɪtəbl/. Sts will sound a little strange if they pronounce these silent syllables, and should be advised to cross them out if they occur in new vocabulary. Sts should be encouraged to fine-tune their pronunciation of common words with silent syllables (like the ones in the exercise), which some Sts may have been mispronouncing for years.

a 🔊 9.13 Focus on the task and emphasize that Sts don't have to write down the whole sentence, just the last word.

Play the audio for Sts to listen and write down the last words. Play the recording again as necessary.

Check answers, writing the words on the board.

Don't worry about pronunciation at this stage.

1 vegetables	5 temperature
2 chocolate	6 different
3 comfortable	7 dictionary
4 interesting	8 medicine

🔊 9.13

- 1 Would you like some extra vegetables?
- 2 I try not to eat too many sweet things, but I have a weakness for dark chocolate.
- 3 The table over there in the corner might be more comfortable.
- 4 I think I'm going to order the dish of the day; it sounds really interesting.
- 5 When you're baking a cake, it's really important to preheat the oven to the right temperature.
- 6 Are you going to have the steak again or do you want to try something different?
- 7 If you don't know what zucchini means, look it up in the dictionary.
- 8 My sister and I just started a new food preparation business.

b Focus on the Fine-tuning your pronunciation: silent syllables box and go through it with the class.

Give Sts time to cross out the vowels that they think are not pronounced in the words they wrote down in a.

Get them to compare with a partner.

c 9.14 Tell Sts that this time they will hear just the words not the whole sentence and check their answers to b.

Check answers by getting Sts to strikethrough the silent syllables in the words on the board.

1 veg[e]tables	5 temp[e]rature
2 choc[o]late	6 diff[e]rent
3 comf[or]table	7 diction[a]ry
4 int[e]resting	8 bus[i]ness

9.14

- | | |
|---------------|---------------|
| 1 vegetables | 5 temperature |
| 2 chocolate | 6 different |
| 3 comfortable | 7 dictionary* |
| 4 interesting | 8 business |

Get Sts to practice saying the words to themselves quietly. Finally, elicit them from individual Sts. *Note - Sts may hear a British speaker pronouncing dictionary this way.

3 LISTENING & SPEAKING

a Focus on the task and make sure the subject of the book is clear to Sts. You might want to tell Sts that Giles Coren, apart from being The Times newspaper's restaurant critic, has also made several TV shows related to food and cooking, excerpts from which they might watch on YouTube.

Put Sts in pairs to decide what the missing words in the seven tips might be. Tell them not to write in the blanks.

b 9.15 Play the audio once the whole way through and get Sts to fill in the blanks.

Check answers. Find out how many Sts had guessed some correctly.

1 fish	4 outside	7 staff
2 bread	5 tap
3 vegetarian	6 complain

9.15

(script in the Student Book on p.139)

How to eat out

Tip 1 Always order the fish.

Really good fresh fish is very hard to find, very hard to store and keep fresh – you've got to really cook it as soon as you buy it or there's no point. It's often fiddly to prepare and very smelly to cook. It's what restaurants are FOR! It just amazes me that people will go into a restaurant and order the steak. A thing you can buy almost anywhere, keep for weeks, and cook however you like without doing anything to it and it'll always basically be OK.

Tip 2 Never eat the bread.

An ex-girlfriend of mine eats nothing all day. She claims she doesn't get hungry. So, whenever we meet for dinner, she is utterly starving and gobbles up the entire bread basket and three pats of butter without pausing for breath. Then halfway through her main course she starts poking about and saying, "I don't know why they give you such large portions, I'll never eat all this!" I just don't know why people eat the bread. You shouldn't be that hungry. Ever. Bread is not a first course. It's a breakfast food, an accompaniment to certain terrines. But in an expensive place with a TV chef and a whole range of exciting things to chew on for the next couple of hours, why would anyone want to fill up with bread? I always tell them, as soon as I arrive, to bring no bread. But sometimes they do and you must tell them to take it away.

Tip 3 Have the vegetarian option – but not in a vegetarian restaurant.

As a rule the best vegetarian food is cooked by meat-eating chefs who know how to cook, rather than by bearded hippies. For this reason, if you want good vegetarian food, go to a normal, that is, omnivorous, restaurant. There may not be much choice, but personally I would much rather restaurants focused on doing one or two things brilliantly than offered a whole load of stuff that was just about OK.

Tip 4 Never sit at a table outside.

Why on earth would you want to eat outside? I suppose in a hot country where there's no air conditioning, it might be nice to sit outside in the shade overlooking the sea. But on a busy London street? Crazy. Go indoors. Also, in most restaurants the outside tables are ruined by smokers. If you want to eat outside in London, take sandwiches and eat them in one of the wonderful parks.

Tip 5 Insist on tap water.

We have invested years and years and vast amounts of money into an ingenious system which cleans water and delivers it very cheaply to our homes and workplaces through a tap. And yet last year we bought three billion liters of bottled water. That's just free money for the restaurant, so don't order mineral water! Ask for a jug of tap.

Tip 6 How to complain – and get a result.

Complain nicely, politely, apologetically. But firmly, and at the very moment of disappointment. "I'm awfully sorry to make a fuss," you might say, "but this fish really isn't as fresh as I'd hoped. I really can't eat this. What else might I have as a replacement that can come quickly?" There's simply no way you can lose with that. The end result is likely to be free main courses, a jolly time, and an amicable departure.

Tip 7 Be nice to the staff.

Just be nice to them, that's all. You should always be nice to everybody, obviously, but if you're not, make being nice to staff in restaurants your only exception. Don't flirt with waitresses, and don't ask foreign staff where they're from. Just smile, and say please and thank you, and look at them when you're ordering. And then shut up and eat.

c Before Sts listen again, give them time to read the topics and discuss with a partner why the critic mentioned them.

Play the audio again, pausing after each tip has been mentioned to give Sts time to write.

Check answers.

ordering steak in a restaurant

It is a waste as you can easily buy one, cook it yourself, and it will be good.

an ex-girlfriend of his

She always eats all the bread on the table and then is too full to finish her main course.

meat-eating chefs

They cook the best vegetarian food.

smokers

They ruin your meal if you sit outside.

bottled water

It is free money for a restaurant.

free main courses

If you complain nicely and politely, about e.g., fish that isn't fresh, you will probably get another main course for free.

waitresses and foreign staff

Don't flirt with waitresses and don't ask foreign staff where they're from.

LEXIS IN CONTEXT

d 9.16 Focus on the task and give Sts time to read the five extracts.

Play the audio once the whole way through for Sts to listen and fill in the blanks.

Get Sts to compare with a partner and then play again as necessary.

Check answers, eliciting the words onto the board.

1 fiddly	3 chew	5 fuss
2 gobbles	4 stuff

9.16

- 1 It's often fiddly to prepare and very smelly to cook.
- 2 So, whenever we meet for dinner, she is utterly starving and gobbles up the entire bread basket and three pats of butter without pausing for breath.
- 3 But in an expensive place with a TV chef and a whole range of exciting things to chew on for the next couple of hours...
- 4 ...personally I would much rather restaurants focused on doing one or two things brilliantly than offered a whole load of stuff that was just about OK.
- 5 "I'm awfully sorry to make a fuss," you might say, "but this fish really isn't as fresh as I'd hoped."

Now put Sts in pairs and get them to discuss what they think they mean.

Check answers.

- 1 fiddly (adj) = difficult to do (here because of the bones, etc.)
- 2 gobble = to eat something very fast, in a way that people consider rude or greedy
- 3 chew = to bite food into small pieces in your mouth with your teeth to make it easier to swallow
- 4 stuff = used to refer to a substance or things when you don't know the name, the name is not important or when it's obvious what you are talking about (here it refers to food)
- 5 fuss = unnecessary excitement, worry, or activity

EXTRA SUPPORT Elicit the meaning of each word as a class.

EXTRA SUPPORT If there's time, get Sts to listen again with script 5.16 on p.139, focusing on any new vocabulary that Sts didn't understand.

e Focus on the questions and give Sts time to think of their answers. For question 2, encourage them to talk about specific restaurants, cafés, etc. that they know and would recommend.

Put Sts in small groups and get them to discuss the questions.

Get some feedback from various groups.

4 WRITING a complaint

In this section Sts write an email complaining about a hotel. Sts have already written a formal email of application in File 1, so here the focus is on the specific language relating to a complaint. Although this is something Sts may have looked at in previous years, this text type often comes up in advanced exams, and the language Sts would be expected to use is more sophisticated. The writing skills focus is on getting the right style and register, and the writing task involves expressing information in a more formal way.

Tell Sts to go to Writing A complaint on p.126.

ANALYZING A MODEL TEXT

a Focus on the text type (a complaint). Remind Sts of the importance of being able to write a formal letter or email in English, and point out to them that one context in which they may need to write one in English is if they have had a problem, e.g., with an airline or a hotel, while traveling. A letter of complaint is also a common exam question.

Focus on the Key success factors and go through them with the class.

Focus on the questions, and either get Sts to discuss them in pairs or do it as open-class activity.

If Sts worked in pairs, get some feedback from various Sts.

b Now focus on the email, and set a time limit for Sts to read it. Tell them to ignore the blanks.

Check the answer.

It is a complaint about a meal in a restaurant. The exact problems were the slow service, the fact that they were asked to leave just after they had been brought the dessert, and the cost of the dishes the waiter recommended, which were not on the menu.

c Set a time limit for Sts, in pairs, to read the email again and choose the best phrase for each blank.

Check answers, eliciting why one phrase is better than the other.

- 1 b (more formal and avoid using contractions)
- 2 a (avoid emotional language)
- 3 a (more formal verb)
- 4 b (formal fixed phrase)
- 5 b (more formal adjective, more precise, less vague)
- 6 a (formal phrase)
- 7 a (use of passive is less confrontational)
- 8 b (passive is less personal and confrontational)
- 9 a (more formal verb)
- 10 a (less aggressive and demanding)

Highlight the use of the passive rather than the active in 7 and 8, which is often used in a letter of complaint as it is less accusatory and distances the complaint from any individual.

EXTRA IDEA Test Sts on the phrases by saying the informal phrase and getting them to say the more formal one.

USEFUL LANGUAGE

- d Focus on the task. Get Sts to read the email again and then cover it, and with a partner try to remember the five phrases that were used.
Check answers.

- 1 I am writing to complain...
- 2 ...according to our online reservation...
- 3 ...the waiter not only brought us the check, but also asked us to hurry...
- 4 I feel strongly that if customers are given a table...
- 5 I look forward to hearing your views on this matter.

PLANNING WHAT TO WRITE

- a Focus on the website post. Tell Sts to read it carefully and then to discuss the question with a partner.
Check the answer.

The hotel Hannah had booked was doing construction on the kitchen and restaurant, so there were noisy construction workers, a cold breakfast because the kitchen wasn't open, no room service or evening meal, and the manager wasn't available.

- b Focus on the task and give Sts time to discuss it with a partner.
Get feedback. Accept all reasonable suggestions for compensation, e.g., free night at the hotel for next time or a refund of the amount it cost. Regarding the threat to put the experience on Twitter, in real life many people would threaten to write a bad review online, e.g., on a travel website like TripAdvisor, or to tweet about it, because it is often the only way to elicit a response. Tell Sts that if they do decide to include it, it should not be expressed in an aggressive way, but simply in a firm, matter-of-fact way, e.g., If I do not hear from you in the very near future, I will write about my experience on Twitter.

Details that Sts should include in their email would be:

- the date of their stay
- the information on the website at the time of booking
- the number of people traveling together, and the children's ages
- the time at which the construction workers started
- the lack of a cooked breakfast
- the unavailability of dinner
- the unavailability of the manager

Finally, go through the Tips with the class.

WRITING

Go through the instructions and assign the writing for homework.

Tell Sts to go back to the main lesson 9B.

5 GRAMMAR

 nouns: compound and possessive forms

- a Focus on the task and give Sts time to go through the phrases with a partner.
Check answers.

- 1 a recipe book
- 2 a tuna salad
- 3 children's servings
- 4 Both are possible, but with a different meaning:
a coffee cup = a cup used for coffee, probably empty;
a cup of coffee = a cup with coffee in it
- 5 a chef's hat
- 6 a can opener
- 7 Both are possible and mean the same, but the second is more common.
- 8 a friend of John's

- b Tell Sts to go to Grammar Bank 9B on p.159.

Go through each example and its corresponding rule with the class, or give Sts time to read the examples and rules on their own, and answer any questions.

Additional grammar notes

- This is a complicated area of grammar where Sts will still have doubts as to when they should use a compound noun, a possessive 's or an of structure (the car door, the car's door, or the door of the car) and when they are all possible.
- Your Sts' own language might use an of or for structure where English uses a compound noun, e.g., a recipe book, or a possessive noun like children's servings.

Focus on the exercises and get Sts to do them individually or in pairs. If Sts do them individually, get them to compare with a partner.

Check answers, getting Sts to read the full sentences.

- 1 ✓
 - 2 ✓
 - 3 the end of the movie
 - 4 the wife of my friend who lives in Australia
 - 5 a colleague of my sister's
 - 6 a carton of milk
 - 7 photo of the house
 - 8 story book
 - 9 a box of old photographs
 - 10 ✓
 - 11 ✓

b

In 1, my friend's children = the children of a friend of mine;
my friends' children = the children of several friends of mine
In 2 and 10 there is no difference in meaning.
In 11 a soda can = a can for soda, empty; a can of soda = a can with soda in it

- c
- 1 bottle opener

 - 3 dessert list
 - 4 today's menu
 - 5 marketing manager
 - 6 garage door
 - 7 ocean view
 - 8 government's proposal
 - 9 cats' bowls

Tell Sts to go back to the main lesson 9B.

EXTRA SUPPORT If you think Sts need more practice, you may want to give them the Grammar photocopiable activity at this point or leave it for later as consolidation or review.

6 READING

- a Focus on the task and the introduction to the article. Set a time limit for Sts to read the introduction once and answer the question with a partner.

Check the answer and elicit whether Sts have an equivalent expression in their L1.

food that makes you feel good, often because it reminds you of a person or place that you love

- b Focus on the task and the article. Ask Sts if they know any of the people in the photos. Point out the Glossary to Sts and remind them that there is one sentence they don't need to use.

Set a time limit for Sts to read the article once and fill in the blanks.

Check answers.

1 B 2 E 3 F 4 C 5 A

LEXIS IN CONTEXT

- c Focus on the task and the photos with the people. Get Sts to read the article again and find the words. Get Sts to compare with a partner and then check answers.

- 1 Scotch bonnet chillies
- 2 biscuits and gravy
- 3 monkfish
- 4 oysters
- 5 Haribo gummy bears

- d Now get Sts to underline all the other words for food in the article and, in pairs, see if they know what they mean. Check answers.

Goldie	sausage and mash; bacon and eggs, patty (= small pastry crescents filled with meat)
Beth Ditto	chocolate gravy
Cornelia Parker	fish soup; bouillabaisse (= a French fish soup); monkfish stew
Yotam Ottolenghi	pasta; brown rice; miso vegetables
Azealia Banks	candy; steak

- e Put Sts in pairs and get them to answer the first question. Get some feedback from various pairs. You could tell Sts if you find any of the food mentioned comforting. Now focus on the other questions and give Sts time to think of their answers. Put Sts in small groups to talk about their comfort foods. Get some feedback from various groups. Did anyone have the same comfort food?

7 VOCABULARY

 food adjectives with -y

- a Focus on the Making food words into adjectives box and go through it with the class.

Put Sts in pairs and get them to discuss which adjectives they might use to describe each item. Tell them they don't have to agree.

Elicit some ideas.

Possible answers

a cake: buttery, chocolatey, creamy, fruity, lemony, sugary coffee: creamy, watery

Indian food: spicy, creamy, peppery, salty pizza: cheesy, meaty, spicy

a sauce: (all the adjectives) soup: creamy, meaty, peppery, salty, spicy, watery a stew: meaty, salty, watery toothpaste: minty

- b Focus on the task and give Sts time to think of their answers.

Put Sts in pairs and get them to tell their partner about their five food items or drinks.

Get some feedback from various pairs.

EXTRA SUPPORT Do this as an open-class activity.

Lesson plan

In this lesson the person interviewed is George McGavin, a well-known entomologist. In this three-part interview he talks about why he became interested in arthropods (insects, spiders, and crustacea), why he thinks people have phobias of insects, and how he feels about killing and eating insects. This is followed by a language focus on the informal and vague language that he uses.

In the ON THE STREET section people answer the questions What's the most interesting wild animal that you've ever seen in the wild? and Is there anywhere you would particularly like to go to see animals or the natural world?, and the lesson ends with Sts talking about insects and the natural world.

OPTIONAL LEAD-IN (BOOKS CLOSED)

- Put Sts in pairs and set a time limit for them to write down as many names of insects as they can come up with.
- When the time is up elicit the names and write them on the board (if someone suggests spider, write it up but elicit that it isn't an insect, since it has eight legs).
- Then tell Sts they are going to hear an interview with a well-known naturalist whose particular area of interest is insects and arthropods (including spiders).
- If you have internet access in your classroom or Sts have it on their phones, give them a few minutes to Google George McGavin and find out a bit about him.

1 THE INTERVIEW Part 1

- a Books open. Focus on the biographical information about George McGavin. Give Sts time to read it.
Now focus on the photos. Drill the pronunciation of the insects where necessary, and then do the question as an open-class activity.

Sts' own answers

- b 9.17 Focus on the task and go through the Glossary with the class.

Play the video or audio (Part 1) once the whole way through for Sts to do the task.

Get Sts to compare with a partner and then check answers.

Arthropods are animals with lots of hinged legs (legs with joints in them) and hard outsides, e.g., crustacea, spiders, and insects.

They are important because they make up three quarters of all animals in the world. / They are the biggest animal group in the world.

9.17

(script in the Student Book on p.139)

I = Interviewer, G = George McGavin

Interview with an entomologist – Part 1

- I Professor McGavin, you're an expert in arthropods. Could you start by telling us what arthropods are?
- G Well, arthropods are, are this really enormous group of animals; I mean, they're, they're much bigger than any other animal group on Earth. They comprise about, you know, three quarters of, of all animals and they're the, they're the animals that have lots of hinged legs: so crustacea, spiders, insects, that sort of thing. Hard outsides, lots of hinged legs.
- I And what is it about them that interests you?
- G Arthropods have got to interest everybody because they are, to all intents and purposes, the, the major animal group on Earth. So if you call yourself a zoologist and you don't know anything about arthropods, you really don't know anything about anything, because they are the majority! Everybody gets very excited about, uh, backboneed animals, things with a spine: uh, bats, cats, rats, mammals, amphibians, fish, birds, they only comprise 2.9% of all species, whereas arthropods comprise about 66% of all species. So, you know, in terms of of species, they are immensely important. In terms of what they do, they are immensely important.
- I Were you interested in them right from the start, from when you were a child?
- G When I was very young, I, I knew that the natural world was the most interesting thing around. So I wanted to be outside, and you don't have to be outside very long before you find, you know, insects and spiders and things, you know, doing interesting things. But I was interested more generally as a kid, and it was only when I got to Edinburgh for my first degree that I realized that actually insects were the major player in any habitat. And we were on a field trip to the west coast of Scotland, when all my classmates were looking for badgers and owls and eagles, and failing to find them, but at our feet were hundreds of thousands of ants doing very interesting things, and I thought, "Well, the—surely this is easier to work on?"
- I I understand that there are several species that are named after you. Could you tell us a bit about them?
- G One of the great things about being in a field for long enough is that people will eventually describe a new species and think, "Oh, what on earth am I going to call this?" you know, and normally they're named after the country or how they look or something like that. But five people around the world have named, uh, an insect in my honor, and a spider, I think, so I have a plant hopper in Africa, I've got a shield bug from Borneo, uh, I think an ant from Africa as well, a cockroach from south-east Asia, which is, is great, and they have my name, uh, attached to them! What's making me slightly depressed is the fact that, uh, these things may not survive. Uh, even though they've been named in my, my honor, we're losing species at a quite alarming rate now, because of habitat loss. And the sad truth is that although we are pretty sure there are eight million species of arthropods out there unknown, our chances of ever finding them and naming them are probably pretty slim, because they will come and they will go without us ever knowing they were there.

- c Focus on the task and give Sts time, in pairs, to see if they can answer any of the questions.
Play the video or audio again the whole way through.
Get Sts to compare with their partner and then check answers.

EXTRA SUPPORT When you play the video or audio the second time, pause after each question has been answered and get Sts to compare what they have understood.

- 1 Examples of animals with a spine: bats, cats, rats, mammals, amphibians, fish, birds.
He thinks they are less important because they make up only 2.9% of all species.
- 2 When he was on a field trip in his first year at university.
Ants caught his attention.
- 3 Normally new species are named after the country they are found in or how they look.
He has five named after him.
- 4 Their habitat is being destroyed and they are disappearing very quickly and we may never even discover some of them.

EXTRA SUPPORT If there's time, you could play the video or audio again while Sts read the script on p.139, so they can see what they understood / didn't understand. Translate / explain any new words or phrases.

▶ Part 2

- a ⑩ 9.18 Focus on the task and the Glossary and go through it with the class.
Play the video or audio (Part 2) once the whole way through for Sts to do the task.
Give Sts time to tell each other what they understood.

He isn't particularly sympathetic.
Yes, once. He was afraid of a fer-de-lance snake in the Amazon.

Interview with an entomologist – Part 2

- I Quite a lot of people have phobias of insects and spiders. Why do you think that is?
G I sometimes wonder why people have a phobia. I mean, they, they say it's because they're unpredictable, they, they move in a strange way, they've got lots of legs, well, you know, I don't know. It, it– I think it's passed on. I think if you're a kid growing up, you have a fascination with the thing arou– all the animals around you, and I think adults sometimes pass their fears on by, by going, "Oh, what's that? Oh, it's a spider," you know. In some parts of the world it, it's perfectly justifiable to, to have a fear of spiders, because there are many places in the world where, you know, spiders can injure you severely. In the UK, however, there are no spiders which can injure you at all. You might get a slight irritation or, you know, a swelling, but, but still there are something like seven million people in the United Kingdom who are terrified of spiders, and, and moths.
I Do you think it's possible for them to be cured of their phobia?
G It is possible to to train people out of fears, uh, by, by simply exposing them to something, you know, on a regular basis, and perhaps if they have a spider phobia, you start with a very small spider and you say, well "Have it on your hand, examine it, you know, it's fine." And I've, I've actually cured a girl who had a spider phobia in a, in a day and by the end of the day she was able to hold a tarantula. Um, and I, I think it's– you know, if people look at the natural world, if they look at insects or spiders, and they understand them, then you begin to, to really enjoy them. But, but if you just cut yourself off, which is what most people do, they say, you know, "I'm going to have an insect-free zone around me," it, it's not possible.

- I I'm assuming you're not afraid of any insects or spiders, but have you ever been in a situation where you were genuinely frightened of an animal?
G We were filming in the Amazon after dark, because it was a program about animals after dark, and I saw a, a head of a snake poking out from under a leaf, and of course I thought, well "This is great, you know, quick, the camera! Come on, let's get down and have a look at this thing." You know, I'm not stupid, so I, I got a stick and I, I lifted this leaf up gingerly, and of course it was a fer-de-lance, which is one of the most dangerous snakes in the whole of South America, responsible for more human deaths than probably any other snake. And as I lifted it up it sort of looked at me, you know, and they don't like head torches, so I'm wearing a head torch shining right in its face! It does this, you know! And then I realize that it's four feet long, it's twice as long as my stick, which means that it could get me very easily indeed. So I, I just sort of froze, I could feel my heart pounding, and I just gingerly put the leaf down and said, "We'll just leave this one I think!" That could have been very nasty.

9.19

(script in the Student Book on p.140)

Interview with an entomologist – Part 3

- I Would you ever just kill an insect that was in your house?
- G Well, in my career I have killed millions of insects. As part of my work is, you, you have to collect them, uh, because you can't name them or describe them or work on them unless you kill them. In my home, that's a different thing. If it's a, if it's a bee that has come in by accident, or a wasp or something like that, I will catch it and outside it goes. Fleas, however, if you have a cat and you don't control the fleas, are a bit of a pest and I will definitely get rid of the fleas.
- I Eating insects has recently become quite fashionable. Is it a realistic solution to the problem of world nutrition, or is it just a flash in the pan, for want of a better phrase?
- G I don't think it's a flash in the pan because you can farm them in, in, in a very easy way. And as long as you can make the food available in a palatable form, uh, I mean, I've, I've eaten insects for, for years and years, I fry them up and grind them into flour and make, you know, bread out of it. No, it, it isn't a flash in the pan, um, we will have to address this quite seriously in the next, you know, hundred or so years.
- I Why do we not eat insects in Europe?
- G In the West we, we tend to not eat insects and, and lots of people say it's because insects are dirty or they look funny or whatever. It's actually not anything to do with those things, it's, it's about ecology, it's about a thing called "optimal foraging theory," which simply says if you use up more energy collecting food to feed yourself and your family than you get back from eating it, it won't happen, it's, it's not a thing that will, will occur in that area of the world. So in the West, where it's cold and insects are relatively small, it's, it's not a very sensible idea. However, in hot countries where insects are larger and swarm and can be collected very, very easily, and that's anywhere from Mexico, Japan, South America, you know, any of these countries, it makes sense. It's very easy to harvest enough food, uh, in a relatively short time, half an hour, an hour, which will provide a, a sizeable meal. And it's, it's a thing that, that we've been doing as a species for a million years.
- I If you were trying to convert someone to insect-eating, what would be the first thing you would cook them?
- G Well, you, you would have to make the food appealing and interesting and, er, you know, attractive, so I would start with a, with a mealworm, er, in a snack! Roasted mealworms are awfully good!
- I How often do you cook insects?
- G As often as I can! I cook insects as often as I can! I, I like to open audiences' eyes to the possibility of eating insects. We eat prawns, we eat lots of things, you know, snails, but I mean, insects are essentially flying prawns. OK, they, they tend to be smaller. But I, I had an audience once in, in Oxford of 200 eight-, eight- to twelve-year-olds and at, at the end of my lecture I cooked up a big wok of, of crickets, fried them up with some garlic and a bit of salt and pepper, handed them round, and the kids went wild! They, they ate the whole lot. From the back of the audience came a mum with a face like thunder, and she came down to the front of the, of the auditorium and said, "My son's just eaten six crickets!" I went, "Yeah, and your point is?" She was like, "At home he doesn't even eat broccoli." And I just went... I said, "Well, clearly it's the way you cook your broccoli!"

b Get Sts to compare with a partner.

EXTRA SUPPORT You could elicit answers now before playing the audio again for more details.

- 1 He has killed millions.
- 2 He doesn't do it unless they are fleas.
- 3 It is an ecological theory.
- 4 We don't do it in cold countries. In hot countries it makes sense.
- 5 He says it's delicious.
- 6 He did it at the end of a lecture.
- 7 One boy's mother came to talk to him after her child had eaten crickets.

Now tell Sts they will listen again for more details. Play the video or audio again the whole way through. Get Sts to compare with a partner and then check answers.

EXTRA SUPPORT When you play the video or audio the second time, pause after each point has been mentioned and get Sts to compare what they have understood.

- 1 He has killed millions because he has to so that he can work on them and describe them.
- 2 He will catch the insect and let it go outside the house. He kills fleas because they are a pest.
- 3 It is an ecological theory meaning if you use more energy collecting food to feed yourself and your family than you get back from eating it, it isn't worth it.
- 4 People don't eat insects in cold countries because they say they are dirty and look strange. Also insects in the West are small so they aren't worth eating. Insects in hot countries are large and swarm, so can be collected very easily. People have been doing this for millions of years.
- 5 He thinks a mealworm in a snack is a good way to start eating insects.
- 6 He cooked the crickets with some garlic, salt and pepper. He then gave them to the children who ate all of them.
- 7 The mother couldn't believe her son had eaten crickets because he refuses to eat broccoli at home.

EXTRA SUPPORT If there's time, you could play the video or audio again while Sts read the script on p.140, so they can see what they understood / didn't understand. Translate / explain any new words or phrases.

- 5 approximately / about
- 6 something like that
- 7 all of it / everything

EXTRA IDEA You may want to point out that the past of to be + like is often used by native speakers to report speech, especially when telling a story, but that it is very informal, for example:

She was like "I never want to see you again!" (= She said that she never wanted to see me again.)

We were like "Where's your car?" (= We asked (them) where their car was.)

3 ON THE STREET

a 9.21 Focus on the task and give Sts time to read the sentences.

Play the video or audio once the whole way through.

Then play it again, pausing after each speaker to check answers.

Karen saw an animal which really impressed her by the elegant way it moved.
Sarah saw a group of animals that were much larger than expected.
Jenny saw a group of animals that were recovering from injuries.
James saw an animal completely unexpectedly, while they were traveling across the country.
Alex saw an animal despite having been warned that they probably wouldn't see any.

I = Interviewer, Je = Jenny, A = Alex, S = Sarah, Ja = James, K = Karen

Jenny

- I What's the most interesting animal that you've ever seen in the wild?
J I think the most interesting animal I've ever seen in the wild is an elephant. It was in Thailand, actually, at an elephant sanctuary where we got to bathe them and pet them.
I Why did it make such an impression on you?
J Uh, the sanctuary, uh, was for rehabilitating elephants that were injured in the wild, um, but they actually allowed them to just roam around free, uh, so it was really impressive.
I Is there anywhere you would particularly like to go to see animals or the natural world?
J Yes. I would love to go to Japan to see the snow monkeys.

Alex

- I What's the most interesting wild animal that you've ever seen in the wild?
A Um, an orangutan. Yeah, an orangutan. Certainly.
I Where was that?
A In Borneo. In the Malaysian part of Borneo.
I Why did it make such an impression on you?
A Uh, simply because we'd gone there specially to see them. It was one of my favorite animals. But, we'd been told the chances of seeing them in the wild were very slim, uh, and so I'd kind of lowered my expectations and when we did actually get to see one, it was very, very exciting and unexpected.
I Is there anywhere you would particularly like to go to see animals or the natural world?
A Oh, um, yes. Uh, I'd, I'd really like to go to, uh, East Africa. Uh, to see the kind of, the mountains, around there. Uh, it's a part of the world I've not been to and I'd really like to go and explore that.

Sarah

- I What's the most interesting wild animal that you've ever seen in the wild?
S Uh, the most interesting animals I've seen are giant sea turtles. It was in Hawaii.
I Why did it make such an impression on you?
S They're just so big! They're huge! You see them on TV but never in real life.
I Is there anywhere you'd particularly like to go to see animals or the natural world?
S Hmm, I think I'd like to go to South Africa and go on a safari.

James

- I What's the most interesting animal that you've ever seen in the wild?
J Um, I saw a giraffe once. I mean, it's not that interesting I suppose, but I did see it in the wild.
I Where was that?
J That was in Ethiopia, in northern Ethiopia.
I Why did it make such an impression on you?
J I think because I wasn't expecting to see it. I was, uh, hitchhiking on the back of a, a truck, uh, and we were driving just through, um, the countryside, and suddenly we saw a giraffe running along the side of the truck and it was, it was kind of amazing, um, so I suppose that's why it was, you know, pretty good to see.
I Is there anywhere you would particularly like to go to see animals or the natural world?
J Um, I've always wanted to see whales in the wild. Um, I've never, I've never had the chance to do it, but it looks just so amazing, the, the size of them. Um, so I'd like to do that, yeah

Karen

- I What's the most interesting wild animal that you've ever seen in the wild?
K The most interesting animal I've seen in the wild? Um, that would be a tiger in a national park in India, so, um, it's very rare that you can actually, um, spot them, so I was very fortunate enough to, um, just to see one and just the grace of the movement and the awareness of, you know, everything around him or her, um, was extraordinary.

I Is there anywhere you would particularly like to go to see animals or the natural world?

K Madagascar. I'd love to see, um, animals in the natural world there. I've seen, um, a few David Attenborough documentaries, um, it's like, "I want to go there now."

10A Where do I belong?

- G adding emphasis (2): cleft sentences
- V words that are often confused
- P intonation in cleft sentences

Lesson plan

The topic of this lesson is emigrating to another country. The lesson begins with listening and speaking, where Sts hear a British couple who emigrated to Spain in 1997 talking about their experiences, and then talk about people they know who have gone to live in another country, and the pros and cons. This is followed by the grammar section where Sts work on adding emphasis by using clauses or phrases that emphasize one part of a sentence, sometimes called cleft sentences. In Pronunciation, they work on the intonation patterns in this kind of sentence. The first half ends with a speaking activity in which Sts complete some cleft sentence stems with their own ideas and then compare them with a partner.

In the second half of the lesson, Sts read and discuss an article by Angela Masajo, a college student, who was born in the Philippines and recently got American citizenship. The vocabulary focus is on words that are often confused, e.g., foreigner and stranger.

Immigration is very much part of the modern world, but can be a sensitive topic. Although the lesson does not ask Sts to talk about immigration in their country directly, you may need to be alert to the background of Sts in your class, and to be aware that discussions may go in unpredictable directions.

- Remind Sts that Theodore Roosevelt (also quoted in 1B) was president of the US from 1901 to 1909, a period when there was a great deal of emigration to the US, especially from Europe. He believed that all immigrants should become fully American in terms of language, politics, and way of life.

10.1

(script in the Student Book on pp.140–141)

I = interviewer, E = Emma, D = David

- I Why did you decide to leave the UK and live abroad?
- E Well, actually it was David who convinced me it was a good idea. A long time ago, going back, I was studying at the, my final year at the University of Warwick and David was working at that time in Majorca and we met in England and then he returned to work in Majorca. And then it was, it was very– we kept in touch by letters and it was very easy to be seduced by the, the lifestyle he had there, the lovely swimming, the barbecues in the mountains, the, the fishing for octopus, so I was sitting finishing my le–, my essays in the– the library windows covered with rain and, yes, so when I graduated I, I went very happily out to, to Spain to be with him and we both got jobs in Vigo in, in Spain working as language teachers in a private school and we had a lovely time, we just – we worked, and when we weren't working we spent the time discovering the area, going out on our bikes and learned to windsurf, yes, that was a great year.
- I So a very happy introduction to Spain for you, and, and how did you both end up in Mairena?
- D Well, it was by chance, really, we'd, we'd been working as English teachers for, for several years, ten years perhaps in my case and we realized that we had the opportunity to, to take a year off, a sabbatical year as it were, with a view to then going back to, to teaching again and we had a friend who had a, a small house in the, in, in a village in the mountains south of Granada and he'd agreed to, to let us rent this house for, for next to nothing, for a year, so that's what we did, but whilst we were there we wandered around and cycled around and finally stumbled on this little village of Mairena where we live now and fell in love with the village, fell in love with the house that we, we lived in for a while at first and realized at the end of the year that we were, we were having a ball and enjoying it too much, really to, to want to go back, so at that point we realized that we had to, to find a way of earning a living because we didn't have any money and so we, I, I got a job in Granada in fact just teaching for a year or so and then we opened what's now Las Chimeneas, our little hotel and restaurant.
- I How integrated do you feel in the local community?
- D Well, one of the things that made me feel very integrated and indeed very, very proud in fact was, was being invited to, to join the local council and I worked for six years as the, the deputy mayor and not necessarily a very good deputy mayor, but I kind of enjoyed it, and it was, you know, I consider it as an honor to be, to be involved and asked to get involved in, in local politics and it's, it's a useful thing as well, rather than just being on the outside protesting at decisions taken after the event it's quite useful to be part of the decision-making process as well. And...

- E I think for me the, the thing that really made a difference was when we had children, because especially, as being, being, you know a mother in the village, it meant that you met other mothers and people felt it was a reason to talk, and our children are friends with the other kids, they come round to play now, so yeah, that was a big difference for me.
- D And having a business as well because we, you know people can see that we're, we're actually working, and we're working alongside our neighbors, because, you know, we're lucky, we're – enough to be in a position where we've been able to employ quite a lot of the local villagers as, you know, as cooks, and chefs, and taxi drivers, and so on.
- I What do you like most about living in Mairena?
- E The obvious thing and almost a cliché is the weather, you can't underestimate that, I mean, the weather does affect your everyday life and also simple things like the incredible clear skies and the light. But I think it's something more than that, as long as I can remember I always had a hankering, I really wanted to live in a very small community, I remember even as a child it was something that I always had an ambition to do. And I think something about living in a very small village, everything seems very kind of human, very manageable, you, you know everybody, you literally know everybody in the village, and what's also been great the last few years is that we bought some land which is filled with almonds, and olive and fruit trees, so we spend a lot of tr– time down there and learning how to farm like the locals do, because they have very complicated watering techniques, so we've had to speak to locals and learn how to farm the land.
- I Are there any downsides to living there?
- E It's the traveling, isn't it, we have to spend probably more time than we would like in a car to, to buy something simple. On, on the one hand it's great being away from shops, it's like a kind of a, real kind of consumer detox, but on the other hand when you actually have to buy something it means you have a long journey, which I could do without.
- D And there's lots of paperwork as well, Spain is a very heavily bureaucratic country as well, and so there is lots of certification and permits and so on that we've got to, we've got to get together and that always means a drive of a couple of hours to, to get to, to Granada, the local center to, to get paperwork sorted out.
- I Is there anything you miss about the UK?
- D Well, obviously we miss friends and family, I mean that's the, the big thing, but we're lucky we live in a nice part of the world and so we, we get lots of visitors, who come out and, and stay with us which is nice and then, you know, often it's very trite, silly little things that you miss, I mean I miss pubs with carpets and soft lighting and you know, polite dog walkers, that kind of thing.
- E The fact that actually when we come back we often come back to London so, what I really like about the UK is, is that sense of cultural diversity, just traveling on public transport in London, you're very aware of the, the, the very wide range of people living here which obviously you wouldn't get in a, a small rural community. And, of course, the, the great thing about that is being in London is, yeah, you can choose, the, the– you know, rest– any kind of restaurant, that's a big treat to come back and be able to choose what kind of food you want to eat.
- I Do you think you'll come back to the UK one day?
- D Well, you never know, I mean, we, we, we never took a, a decision that we would stay in Spain forever, so it was kind of by chance, by accident that we've been in Spain so long, so we, we've never really ruled it out, it would be tricky I think to come back, largely for economic or financial reasons, Britain is a very expensive place to buy a house at the moment and then of course there's the boys, the boys, our two sons are now aged 7 and 13, so they were born and brought up in Spain, so it would be, they would be really uprooted for them to take them back to the UK, I think now, that would be perhaps a, a bigger hurdle.
- E Yeah, for sure, that's the main reason why, why I can't see us going back is definitely Dan and Tom, but of course, I think once you've spent 15 years building up a business then also that's something you don't want to, to easily turn your back on.

- 5 ...on the one hand it's great being away from shops, it's like a kind of a, real kind of consumer detox...
- 6 ...so we, we've never really ruled it out, it would be tricky I think to come back, largely for economic or financial reasons...
- 7 ...to take them back to the UK, I think now, that would be perhaps a, a bigger hurdle.
- 8 ...I think once you've spent 15 years building up a business then also that's something you don't want to, to easily turn your back on.

f Focus on the task and point out the Yes and No sections under the question.

Put Sts in pairs and get them to tell their partner their answers.

Get some feedback from each section if possible.

2 GRAMMAR adding emphasis (2): cleft sentences a Focus on sentences 1–4 and give Sts time to try to complete them with a partner, preferably in pencil or on another piece of paper.

b 10.5 Play the audio for Sts to listen and check, pausing and playing again as necessary.

Get Sts to compare with their partner and then check answers.

See script 10.5

Elicit that the second versions give more emphasis to a particular part of the sentence, e.g., In the first sentence It was David who convinced me... gives more emphasis to her husband than David convinced me... In the second sentence, putting The thing that... at the beginning gives more emphasis to this.

10.5

- 1 It was David who convinced me it was a good idea.
- 2 The thing that really made a difference was when we had children.
- 3 What I really like about the UK is, is that sense of cultural diversity.
- 4 The main reason why, why I can't see us going back is definitely Dan and Tom.

c Tell Sts to go to Grammar Bank 10A on p.160.

Go through each example and its corresponding rule with the class, or give Sts time to read the examples and rules on their own, and answer any queries.

Additional grammar notes

- When we want to focus attention on or emphasize one part of a sentence, we can do this by adding certain words or phrases to the beginning of the sentence as a kind of introduction or build-up. For example, What I enjoyed most about the movie was... or The reason I was late was... These kinds of sentences are often referred to in grammar books as "cleft sentences" (from the old-fashioned verb "to cleave" = to cut), because the sentence is divided into two parts.

Focus on the exercises and get Sts to do them individually or in pairs. If they do them individually, get them to compare answers with a partner.

Check answers after each exercise, getting Sts to read the full sentences.

- | | | |
|---|---------|---------|
| a | | |

| 2 | What | 6 place |

| b | |
| 1 | The reason (why) she left her husband was... |
| 2 | The place (where) we stopped for lunch... |

| 7 | The person I like best of all my relatives... |
| 8 | What happens is (that)... |
| 9 | What you need (to do) right now is... |
| 10 | The first time I met Serena was... |

Tell Sts to go back to the main lesson 10A.

EXTRA SUPPORT If you think Sts need more practice, you may want to give them the Grammar photocopiable activity at this point or leave it for later as consolidation or review.

3 PRONUNCIATION intonation in cleft sentences

Pronunciation notes

- Cleft sentences have a specific intonation pattern, which Sts should be made aware of. Encourage them to imitate it, as this will make their English sound more natural. If they find the technical expressions (fall-rising tone, etc.) difficult to understand, tell them not to worry and to simply try to copy the intonation on the audio.

a 10.6 Focus on the Fine-tuning your pronunciation: intonation in cleft sentences box and go through it with the class.

Play the audio for Sts to listen to the example sentences in the box and try to grasp the two different intonation patterns.

10.6

See the sentences in the Student Book on p.97

- b 10.7 Focus on sentences 1–6. Play the audio, pausing after each sentence for Sts to listen and repeat. Play the recording again as necessary.

10.7

See the sentences in the Student Book on p.97

4 SPEAKING

Focus on the task and give Sts time to complete the sentences.

Monitor and help.

Put Sts in pairs and get them to take turns reading their sentences to each other and explaining why or giving more details. Monitor and check their intonation, correcting it where necessary.

Get some Sts to read their sentences and explain them to the class. You could find out if any pairs wrote similar endings to some of the sentences.

5 READING & SPEAKING

- a Focus on the task and explain that there are many requirements for becoming an American citizen. Elicit some opinions and tell Sts what you think.
- b Focus on the article and the photos. Read the first caption as a class to make sure Sts understand who Angela Masajo is. Now focus on the Glossary and go through it with the class. Focus on the task. Give Sts time to read the article and number Angela's emotions in the order she experienced them. Check answers.

- 1 She felt nervous.
- 2 She felt relieved.
- 3 She felt nervous again.
- 4 She felt confident.
- 5 She felt worthy of respect.

- c Focus on the six questions and make sure Sts understand all the vocabulary. Get Sts to read the article again and then, in pairs, to answer the questions.

Check answers.

- 1 Because she had to do several things including send in her paperwork, have her fingerprints taken, go to an interview, take tests, and wait a long time in between each step.
- 2 She felt relieved (like a weight had been lifted from her shoulders).
- 3 She didn't want to jinx it.
- 4 On a citizenship level, her whole life has changed, but on a personal level, nothing has changed.
- 5 Because her mother yelled on the phone "I was praying for you every day!"
- 6 That what matters is we treat each other with mutual respect regardless of our backgrounds.

LEXIS IN CONTEXT

- d Focus on the task and put Sts in pairs.

Get Sts to first look at the highlighted words and phrases in the article and work out their meaning. Then tell them to match them to synonyms 1–10.

Check answers.

- | | |
|-------------------|--------------|
| 1 creative outlet | 6 notify |
| 2 prior | 7 reciting |
| 3 jinx | 8 consistent |
| 4 apparent | 9 reflect on |
| 5 took | 10 file in |

- e Do this as an open-class question and elicit opinions. You could tell the class how you feel.

6 VOCABULARY words that are often confused

- a Focus on the task and give Sts time to think about the answer. Get Sts to compare with a partner and then check answers, eliciting the exact meaning of each word. Stranger may be a false friend for some nationalities.

a foreigner is somebody from another country an outsider is somebody who is not accepted as a member of a society or a group a stranger is somebody you don't know; somebody who is in a place they haven't been to before

- b Focus on the pairs of sentences and give Sts time to complete them, and then compare with a partner. Check answers, eliciting the pronunciation of both words. Emphasize in each case that the word that is right in one sentence cannot be used in the other.

- 1 a suite = a set of rooms, especially in a hotel, usually with a bedroom, a living area, and a bathroom
b suit = a jacket with matching pants or skirt
- 2 a besides = in addition to, apart from, e.g., What sports do you like besides basketball?
b beside = next to or at the side of somebody / something, e.g., Come and sit beside me.
- 3 a lie = put yourself in a horizontal position (past lay, past participle lain)
b lay = put something or somebody in a particular position or put something down on something (past laid, past participle laid), e.g., He laid his hand on my arm.
! lie (down) does not have an object; lay something / somebody (down) needs an object.
- 4 a currently = right now
b actually = in fact, to tell the truth
- 5 a announce = tell people something officially, e.g., The government has announced that it is going to increase funding for climate change research.
b advertise = tell people about a product or service to encourage them to buy or use it
- 6 a affect = verb meaning to produce a change in somebody or something b effect = noun meaning the consequences of an action
- 7 a embarrassed = shy or awkward, especially in a social situation
b ashamed = feeling bad about something you have done
- 8 a deny = say you have not done something b refuse = say you will not do something
- 9 a compromise = an agreement between two parties or groups in which each side gives up some of the things they want so that both sides are happy at the end. It can also be a verb, e.g., We had to compromise.
b commitment = a promise to do something or to behave in a particular way. It is also a verb, e.g., The company is committed to providing quality at a reasonable price.
- 10 a economical = money-saving b economic = related to the economy, e.g., There is a serious economic crisis.

c Focus on the task and give Sts time to complete the sentences. Tell Sts they may need to change the form of the word.

Check answers.

- | | |
|---------------|--------------|
| 1 affect | 4 advertised |
| 2 embarrassed | 5 actually |
| 3 commitment | 6 refuse |

Put Sts in pairs and get them to discuss whether they think the sentences are more true of men, women, or equally true of both.

Get feedback.

10B A good sport

- G relative clauses
- V word building: adjectives, nouns, and verbs
- P homographs

Lesson plan

This lesson focuses on two different angles on sports.

In the first half of the lesson, Sts read a newspaper article, Battle of the workouts, which compares similar activities (tennis and squash, yoga and Pilates, etc.) that people might decide to take up if they want to get in shape, and looks at the pros and cons of each. Then there is a focus on word building, forming nouns and verbs from common adjectives, e.g., strong, long, deep, etc.

In the second half of the lesson there is a pronunciation focus on homographs, words that are spelled the same but pronounced differently according to the meaning, e.g., row. Sts then work on relative clauses, both defining and non-defining. Finally, Sts then look at some statements from a controversial new book criticizing sports, called Foul Play, and listen to an interview with a well-known American sports journalist, Ron Kantowski, in which he gives his opinion on these issues.

OPTIONAL LEAD-IN – THE QUOTE

- Write the quote at the top of p.100 on the board (books closed) and the name of the person who said it, or get Sts to open their books and read it.
- Point out that Stuart Heritage is a British journalist and writer.
- Ask Sts what they think the quote means and if they agree with it.

1 READING & SPEAKING

EXTRA IDEA Before beginning this exercise you may want to focus on the lesson title and ask Sts what they think “a good sport” means (a person who is cheerful and pleasant, especially in a difficult situation).

- a Focus on the task and do this in pairs or as an open-class activity. Highlight the pronunciation of circuits /'sɜːrkɪts/, Pilates /pɪ'laɪtɪz/ and Spinning™ /'spɪnɪŋ/. Some Sts may not be familiar with all the activities. You could elicit / explain the following:
- circuits (or circuit training) is a type of gym training in which different exercises are each done for a short time.
 - Pilates is a physical fitness system (developed by Joseph Pilates in the early 20th century), which focuses on the core postural muscles that help keep the body balanced and that are essential to providing support for the spine. Point out that it always has a capital P as it is named after someone.
 - Spinning is a type of indoor exercise performed in a class on a stationary bicycle, usually with music.
- If Sts worked in pairs, elicit some feedback. You could tell the class about your own experiences.

- b Now focus on the article and the eight questions. Set a time limit and tell Sts to read the article to find the answers. If they can't find the answer to one of the questions, tell them to go on to the next one, and return to the one they couldn't answer at the end.
- Get Sts to compare with a partner and then check answers.

1 Pilates	3 yoga	5 weights	7 Spinning
2 step	4 circuits	6 tennis	8 squash

- c Focus on the task. Explain that in the original article for each pair of activities, one was declared the winner by a sports expert.
- Get Sts to read each pair of activities carefully and guess which was judged the winner.
- Get Sts to compare with a partner.
- Elicit opinions before giving the answer.

The winners were squash, circuits, Pilates, and Spinning.

LEXIS IN CONTEXT

- d Focus on the definitions and tell Sts, in pairs, to see if they can remember any of the words.
- Set a time limit for them to find the words in the article. Tell Sts that the words are in the order that they appear in the article.
- Check answers.

1 thigh	4 flexibility	7 sit-ups	10 spine
2 vigorous	5 stretch	8 trunk
3 training	6 press-ups / push-ups	9 lungs

Help with any other vocabulary problems that arose.

- e Focus on the task and give Sts time to prepare their answers.
- Put Sts in small groups to describe their chosen activity. Get feedback by asking some groups to talk about their chosen sports.

2 VOCABULARY

word building: adjectives, nouns, and verbs

- a Focus on the task. You could elicit that in the first sentence a verb is needed, and in the second a noun.
Get Sts to complete the sentences.
Check answers.

1 strengthen	2 strength
--------------	------------

- b Focus on the task. Elicit / explain that with strong, the verb is formed by adding -en to the noun. Point out that with the other words in the chart sometimes the verb is formed from the adjective + -en, and sometimes from the noun, and Sts should try out both ways to see which sounds right.
Give Sts time to complete the chart in pairs.
Check answers. Model and drill pronunciation of any tricky words.

adjective	noun	verb
strong	strength	strengthen long	length	lengthen
deep	depth	deepen
short	shortness	shorten
wide	width	widen
high	height	heighten
weak	weakness	weaken
thick	thickness	thicken
flat	flatness	flatten

- c Focus on the sentences and get Sts to complete them with words from the chart in b. They can do this in pairs or individually and compare answers with a partner.
Check answers, eliciting pronunciation.

1 shorten	6 thicken
2 length, width	7 flattened
3 height	8 weaknesses
4 weaken	9 widened
5 depth	10 shortness

homographs

Pronunciation notes

- Homographs (words with different meanings that have the same spelling but different pronunciation) cause problems, as in many cases Sts are not even aware that a word like row has more than one possible pronunciation.
- This exercise focuses on some common homographs and you should encourage Sts to note down any others they come across.
! Sts should already be aware of one kind of homograph, i.e., two-syllable words that can be verbs or nouns, and where the stress shifts, e.g., contract (verb) and contract (noun).

- a Focus on the Homographs box and go through it with the class.
Focus on the task and get Sts, in pairs, to try saying the two pronunciations first and then match them to the correct sentence.

- b  10.8 Play the audio for Sts to listen and check answers.
Pause after each pair of sentences and elicit the answer.
Then move on to the next sentence.

1 b	6 a	11 b
2 a	7 a	12 a
3 a	8 b	13 a
4 b	9 b	14 b
5 b	10 b

10.8

See the sentences in the Student Book on p.102

Finally, get Sts in pairs to practice saying the sentences.

EXTRA SUPPORT If your Sts seem to have particular problems with some of the pairs of words, you could use the audio to model and drill the different pronunciations and get Sts to say the sentences.

4 GRAMMAR

relative clauses

- a Focus on the sentences and get Sts to complete them individually, and then compare with a partner.
Check answers. You could elicit that who and which are possible in 4 and 7, but are usually omitted.

1 which	5 who
2 who / that	6 what
3 whose	7 -

- b Tell Sts to go to Grammar Bank 10B on p.161.

Go through each example and its corresponding rule with the class, or give Sts time to read the examples and rules on their own, and answer any queries.

Additional grammar notes

defining relative clauses

- Sts at this level should be confident with basic defining relative clauses, i.e., with who / which / that (rule 1). They have also been introduced to the use of whose, and relative clauses where the relative pronoun is left out (rules 2 and 3), but will still need practice of these kinds of sentences.
- rule 4: Here Sts learn two ways to say the same thing. Preposition + whom is much more formal than using who / which and a verb + preposition. Whom is still sometimes used when the person it refers to is the object of the relative clause, e.g., The person whom I saw yesterday, but this is very formal and normally we would either use who / that or leave the relative pronoun out altogether.
- rule 5: Sts may still confuse what (= the thing / things that) and that as relative pronouns, often because of L1 interference.

non-defining relative clauses

- Sts have already been introduced to non-defining relative clauses, but will probably need reminding of what they are and how to use them (rule 1).
- rule 2: This use of which is probably new for Sts, who may try to use what in these kinds of sentences.
- rule 3: This use of of which / of whom / of whose may be new for Sts. The structure is easy to understand, but quite hard to use accurately.

Focus on the exercises and get Sts to do them individually or in pairs. If Sts do them individually, get them to compare with a partner.

Check answers, getting Sts to read the full sentences.

- a
- 1 ✓
 - 2 ✗ that goes to Beacon
 - 3 ✗ which was absolutely true
 - 4 ✗ who is very bright
 - 5 ✗ The employee to whom I spoke / (who / that) I spoke to
 - 6 ✓
 - 7 ✓
 - 8 ✗ eats what I cook
 - 9 ✓
 - 10 ✗ whose fans yell the loudest
 - 11 ✗ What we love about living in Paris
 - 12 ✗ none of which I enjoy
- b
- 1 They gave us a present, which was a complete surprise.
 - 2 My girlfriend, who is an architect, is very intelligent. (My girlfriend, who is very intelligent, is an architect.)
 - 3 It's too hot in my apartment, which makes it impossible to sleep.
 - 4 The car which / that crashed into mine was a Honda.
 - 5 The police officer (who / that) I spoke to was driving a police car. / The police officer to whom I spoke...
 - 6 Our computer, which we only bought two months ago, keeps on crashing.
 - 7 The things (which / that) I left on the table aren't there any more.
 - 8 That's the electrician who did some work for my mother.
 - 9 I've got two brothers, neither of whom can swim.
 - 10 The houses, which were built in 1870, are still in very good condition. (The houses, which are still in very good condition, were built in 1870.)

Tell Sts to go back to the main lesson 10B.

EXTRA SUPPORT If you think Sts need more practice, you may want to give them the Grammar photocopiable activity at this point or leave it for later as consolidation or review.

c Focus on the Defining relative clauses in spoken English box and go through it with the class.

Now focus on the task and make sure Sts understand what they have to do.

Give Sts time to write their five definitions. Make sure they don't write the headword.

Put Sts in pairs and get them to exchange definitions and guess the headwords.

Get some Sts to read their definitions for the class to guess.

EXTRA SUPPORT Sts can choose the five words and write the definitions in pairs. Then put two pairs together and get them to exchange pieces of paper.

5 SPEAKING & LISTENING

- a Focus on the task and the six points. Explain that the noun foul play is used mainly to refer to actions in sports that are against the rules, and the word foul can be used as a noun and verb, e.g., The defender committed a foul. The forward fouled the point guard. You might also want to explain / elicit the meaning of fair play (= the fact of playing a game or acting honestly, fairly and according to the rules). Make sure Sts know the meaning of doping (= taking drugs to improve athletic performance).

Focus on points 1–6 and the photos. Give Sts time to read the points, and then elicit what each photo illustrates.

Then get Sts to put A, HA or D after each point.

- b Now put Sts in groups of three or four to discuss each point.

Monitor and help where necessary, making notes of any recurring problems or errors to talk about afterwards.

Get feedback, asking Sts whether as a whole they agreed, half-agreed, or disagreed with the statements.

EXTRA SUPPORT Give Sts a moment to review the expressions for agreeing and disagreeing on p.7.

- c 10.9 Focus on the photo of Ron Kantowski and the task.

Then focus on the Glossary and go through it with the class. You could find out before playing the audio if your Sts are familiar with American football.

Play the audio, pausing after each answer, for Sts to mark the statements A if they think he agrees with the statement, D if they think he disagrees, or HA if they think he half-agrees.

Get Sts to compare with a partner and then play again as necessary.

Check answers and find out if Ron Kantowski's opinions (i.e., agreeing or disagreeing with the statements) coincide with what Sts decided in b.

1 D	3 A	5 A
2 HA	4 A	6 A

10.9

(script in the Student Book on p.141)

I = Interviewer, R = Ron Kantowski

- I There's a deeply held belief that sports teach us valuable lessons about life and ultimately make us better people. In your opinion, is that true?
- R Call me old-fashioned, but I actually do believe that, having played sports myself when I was younger. There are some things that sports can teach you. Just in general terms, it teaches you to respect authority – for example, when there's a referee in the game, there's an authority figure. And it teaches you how to get along with others and cooperate. When I was a kid, we would play ball sometimes without supervision, and we'd have to get along by choosing up sides for the teams. When there was an issue with rules, we'd have to get together and come up with a compromise. So, yes, I think there's a lot of lessons to be learned, especially when you're young, that help you later on in life. Now, when it comes to individual sports, the effect is even more evident than in team sports. It takes an incredible amount of discipline, for example with tennis and golf and track, which aren't team sports. It's a matter of getting up early, training on your own, with all the repetition that you need to do, sometimes without supervision. A lot of people who aspire to be professional athletes can't afford a trainer or a coach, especially when they're young. So the discipline involved in individual sports is a valuable lesson in life as well.

- I OK. On the whole, would you say that sports bring about more happiness or unhappiness in the world?
- R Well, as long as there's some perspective there, and you look at sports as a sort of a temporary escape from real life, as entertainment – like going to a movie – if you have that kind of perspective, then I think sports can enhance your life. And life is better with diversions. With sports, a lot of people look forward to following their teams: it gives them a sense of family, a sense of community, and some wonderful memories. And as entertainment, sports have tremendous value. But again, there has to be some perspective. When you go past the level of sports as entertainment, as diversion, as a pastime, when it gets into the obsession area, then it's probably not a good thing. People who get too carried away by whether their team wins or loses are not in a healthy situation. As long as you can look at sports as a diversion, it's fine. Part of the secret of life, and this certainly applies to sports, is to do it in moderation, and being a sports fan is no different. But overall, I would say sports create a great deal of happiness.
- I So, do you think there's a sense that sports have replaced religion in modern society?
- R That's a great question. Probably for a lot of people, it has. I'm thinking of some of these major sporting events that draw worldwide interest, like the World Cup, for instance. You see the passion of the fans, and I think that passion is wonderful, as long as it doesn't carry over into fanatical levels. Again, we get back to that obsession thing, and once you've crossed that line where sports are no longer just entertainment, diversion, and pastime – when it crosses the line, then yes, it can border on religion for a lot of people.
- I OK. Do you think there's any difference between using technology to gain an advantage, I don't know, for example high-tech swimsuits, and doping, I mean taking performance-enhancing drugs?
- R That's a profound question. I think if you're really honest about it, it's hard to see the difference. I mean, if you think about a sport like tennis or maybe golf, and you consider the advances in technology in the equipment, and if you go back to the 1930s and 1940s and think about the small wooden tennis racquets and the wooden golf clubs. If those players had had today's equipment in their hands, it would have made a huge difference in their game, a bigger impact on their game than performance-enhancing drugs! The advances in technology have really done more to increase performance than drugs have. We're all quick to criticize, and there's a stigma attached to using drugs that doesn't exist with the equipment, but in a lot of ways they're similar. I think equipment, technology, diet, and education – all those things have done more to enhance athletic prowess and performance than drugs.
- I We expect athletes to be positive role models. Is there any reason why we should?
- R Years ago, people looked up to athletes, and they were our heroes. But there's no reason why they should be role models – they're in the public eye more than others, but they're human, like everyone else. All the money and adulation is difficult for these athletes to handle, paradoxically. Money and fame tend to bring down a lot of celebrities, like actors and rock stars, not just athletes. There's a lot of temptation and money involved that you don't see in other professions. Also, there's more pressure nowadays, with the way the media has changed, and with social media. Everyone is looking for a sensational story, and athletes are more prone to being caught up in scandals than ever before. If it were up to me, parents and teachers, people like that, they would be the real role models.
- I Right. Do sports occupy a disproportionately high place in the media and have we lost all sense of proportion when it comes to sports?
- R There is a disproportionate amount of interest in sports. There's an insane amount of hype around some of these big events, like the Super Bowl and the World Cup. The media knows that there's a captive audience, and more is better! You know, the first Super Bowl didn't even sell out, yet in today's world it's considered the most important event you can imagine, so it just shows how perspectives have shifted. But the media reflects interest more than they create it – they're giving the public what they want. I'm not sure the media is totally to blame, either; it's just a form of economics.

d Focus on the task and point out that Sts don't need to use Ron Kantowski's exact words.

Play the audio again, pausing after Ron Kantowski talks about each statement to give Sts time to make notes (see spaces in the script).

Get Sts to compare with a partner, then check answers.

Suggested answers

- 1 Sports teach you to respect authority.
People who do individual sports have to be very disciplined.
- 2 Sports can enhance your life because it can give you temporary escape / it gives a sense of family, of community / it gives wonderful memories / it entertains you.
On the other hand, people can become obsessed.
- 3 The World Cup is an example of an event where fans become passionate, almost religious about sport.
Sports should be entertainment, not an obsession.
- 4 It's hard to see a difference between using high-tech equipment and taking drugs to help your performance.
Drugs have improved performance less than many things, including advances in technology, equipment, diet, and education.
- 5 Athletes are only human, and money and fame affect them.
They're under a lot of pressure from the media.
- 6 There's too much media coverage of big events in sports.
But the media are just giving the public what they want.

e Do this in pairs, small groups, or as an open-class activity.
If Sts worked in pairs or small groups, elicit some opinions.

EXTRA IDEA After doing the Review and Check lesson you could give Sts one or all of the three Vocabulary Review photocopiable activities (Review 1: Describing game, Review 2: Phrasal verbs, Review 3: Idioms), which include questions to review all the vocabulary they studied in this level.

Ellis Island

Hi, I'm Amy Burser. Like most Americans, my family background is quite diverse. My surname was originally Bursorsky, which is Russian, but my ancestors came here from all over the world, including Austria and Puerto Rico. And many of them came through the Immigration Station here at Ellis Island.

The island's first immigration point opened on New Year's Day 1892, when a young Irish woman called Annie Moore became the first immigrant to be processed here. From 1892 to 1954, 12 million people passed through here and today an estimated 40 percent of America's population can trace their ancestry to this tiny island in New York Harbor.

1907 was the busiest year with over 1 million immigrants processed here. The largest number came from Italy, but there were many from Poland, Germany, Hungary, and Scandinavia too. As they sailed past the Statue of Liberty many of them must have been filled with hope and joy. After all, they had just spent weeks – if not months – in cramped conditions aboard overcrowded ships. Finally, they had arrived. But for most of them their ordeal wasn't quite over. The ships moored in Manhattan. The first- and second-class passengers could disembark here, along with any American citizens. But passengers in steerage – the poorest on the ship, all of whom were immigrants – were ferried over to this building for further inspection. The building – built in 1900 after the first station burned down in 1897 – was very impressive. It had a large dining hall and kitchen, dormitories with 600 beds, a hospital, and a roof garden with a play area for children.

But the jewel in the crown was this – the Great Hall. With its 60-foot vaulted ceiling it resembles an old-fashioned ballroom, but from 1900 to 1924 this was the Registry Room. Each day it was filled with new arrivals. On some days 5,000 people waited here. The noise was deafening and the atmosphere chaotic. Dozens of languages filled the air as each person fearfully awaited a series of citizenship tests.

In fact, each person had undergone a "six-second medical exam," before they had even entered the hall. Here doctors checked for signs of physical weaknesses or illnesses, especially tuberculosis or trachoma, an infectious disease of the eye. If they failed, they were marked with a chalk letter and were sent to the hospital for a full examination. If they passed, they shuffled into the Great Hall and waited on benches like these. On average this wait lasted three and four hours, but could take much longer. Those still here in the evening had to sleep in the dormitory and start the process again the next morning.

Eventually they were called by the clerks, who stood at desks like these with a full list of each ship's passengers. They found each person's name and then asked 28 further questions. It was their job to find out if a person could work and had money to support themselves. They also had to weed out any "undesirables," including criminals, and political radicals. If someone failed these tests they were sent back home. This only happened to around two percent of the passengers, but for the unlucky ones and their families it was a traumatic experience – a dispiriting end to a long and arduous journey. But for those who were approved could walk through the doors out into their new lives. Some were met by relatives here at the "kissing post," others emerged alone into a completely new world. Around a third stayed in the New York area while the rest scattered across the country.

The Immigration Act of 1924 effectively ended the era of mass immigration. But for just over three decades Ellis Island was America's gateway for millions of people. Some became authors, like science fiction writer Isaac Asimov, who came here from Russia. Others became successful businessmen like cosmetics giant Max Factor, whose real name was Maksymilian Faktorowicz and who moved to America in 1904. And some worked in film, like Elia Kazan, a Greek-American who directed classic films such as On the Waterfront and A Streetcar Named Desire. Others became doctors, shopkeepers, and builders. They all settled down and started families. And they all created the country we know today.

Photocopiable activities

Overview

- There is a Grammar activity for each main (A and B) lesson of the Student Book.
- There is a Communicative activity for each main (A and B) lesson of the Student Book.
- There is a Vocabulary activity for each section of the Vocabulary Bank in the Student Book.

All the photocopiable material is also available on the Teacher Resource Center (TRC). It is available on the Classroom Presentation Tool (CPT) as well, allowing you to display the worksheets on an interactive whiteboard or projector. This will make it easier to set up and demonstrate the activities, and show answers.

Using extra activities in mixed ability classes

Some teachers have classes with a very wide range of levels, where some Sts finish Student Book activities much more quickly than others. You could give these students a photocopiable activity (Grammar, Vocabulary, or Communicative) while you help the slower Sts. Alternatively, some teachers might want to give faster Sts extra oral practice with a communicative activity while slower Sts reinforce their knowledge with an extra grammar activity.

Tips for using Grammar activities

- The grammar activities are designed to give Sts extra practice in the main grammar points from each lesson. How you use these activities depends on the needs of your Sts and the time available. They can be used in the lesson if you think all of your class would benefit from the extra practice or you could assign them as homework for some or all of your Sts.
- Before using the worksheets in class, check for any vocabulary that may be either new or difficult for your Sts.
- All of the activities start with a writing stage. If you use the activities in class, get Sts to work individually or in pairs. Allow Sts to compare before checking answers.
- If Sts are having trouble with any of the activities, make sure they refer to the relevant Grammar Bank in the Student Book.
- All of the activities have an Activation section. Some of them have a task that gets Sts to cover the sentences and test their memory. If you are using the activities in class, Sts can work in pairs and test their partner. If you assign them for homework, encourage Sts to use this stage to test themselves. Alternatively, you could assign the main activity for homework and then get Sts to do the Activation at the start of the next class.

- Make sure that Sts keep their worksheets and that they review any difficult areas regularly. Encourage them to go back to activities and cover and test themselves.

Tips for using Communicative activities

- Before using the worksheets in class, check for any vocabulary that may be either new or difficult for your Sts.
- We have suggested the ideal number of copies for each activity. However, you can often manage with fewer, e.g., one worksheet per pair instead of one per student.
- When Sts are working in pairs, if possible get them to sit face-to-face. This will encourage them to really talk to each other and also means they can't see each other's worksheet.
- If your class doesn't divide into pairs or groups, take part yourself, get two Sts to share one role, or get one student to monitor, help, and correct.
- If some Sts finish early, they can switch roles and do the activity again, or you could get them to write some of the sentences from the activity.

Tips for using Vocabulary activities

- These worksheets are intended to recycle and reinforce Sts' understanding of the vocabulary in the Student Book Vocabulary Banks. As such, we suggest not using them directly after doing these exercises. Instead, get Sts to do them in a subsequent lesson.
- If Sts are having trouble with any of the activities, make sure they refer to the relevant Vocabulary Bank page.
- You could ask Sts to check their answers by referring to the relevant Student Book Vocabulary Bank.
- All the activities are suitable for use in class. However, you may wish to assign some of the tasks for homework.
- Most of the Vocabulary worksheets have an Activation task and this can be treated in a similar way to the Grammar ones.
- Make sure that Sts keep their worksheets and that they review any difficult areas regularly. Encourage them to go back to activities and cover and test themselves.

Customizable worksheets

There are Customizable versions of some of the Grammar, Communicative, and Vocabulary activities on the Teacher Resource Center. These allow you to adapt the material to make it more applicable and/or relevant to your Sts. For instance, you could:

- change some of the names to the names of Sts in your class.
- change place names to ones that are more relevant and/or familiar to your Sts.
- change items of grammar or vocabulary to focus on the needs and interests of your Sts and/or adapt the level of challenge.
- reduce the number of items if you are short on time.

Communicative activity instructions

Tips for using Communicative activities

We have suggested the ideal number of copies for each activity. However, you can often manage with fewer, e.g., one copy per pair instead of one per student.

When Sts are working in pairs, if possible, get them to sit face-to-face. This will encourage them to really talk to each other, and also means they can't see each other's sheet.

If your class doesn't divide evenly into pairs or groups, get two Sts to share one role, or one student to monitor, help, and correct.

Extra idea

- If some Sts finish early, they can switch roles and do the activity again, or you could get them to write some of the sentences from the activity.

1A Families

A pairwork discussion activity

Sts describe and compare photos, and then discuss family-related issues. Copy one sheet per pair and cut into A and B.

LANGUAGE

agreeing, half-agreeing, and disagreeing: I see what you mean, but... etc.

- Put Sts in pairs, A and B, ideally face-to-face, and give out the sheets. Tell them not to look at their partner's photo. Focus on a. Tell Sts when they describe their photo they should not just comment on what they can see, but say what they think of the photo, and what the image communicates.
- Set a time limit (e.g., two minutes) for A to describe his / her photo. Then give B two minutes to describe his / hers, and then tell them to discuss how the photos illustrate ways in which family life has changed over the past 50 years. When Sts have done this, they can show each other their photo.
- Now focus on b. Give Sts five minutes to read through their statements, choose the three they would like to talk about, and to think of some ideas. They can take notes if they wish. Help with any vocabulary as necessary.
- Finally, focus on c, and set a time limit (e.g., a few minutes). When the time is up, get feedback from the class by asking some of the pairs what statements they both agreed with and why.

EXTRA SUPPORT Get Sts to look at the phrases for agreeing, half-agreeing, and disagreeing on p. 7 in the Student Book and encourage them to use these phrases.

A job interview role-play

Sts take the roles of interviewers or candidates in a series of quick job interviews. Copy one sheet per 12 Sts. Cut off the candidate's role card and make five more copies of this. Then cut up all the cards.

LANGUAGE

question formation, work vocabulary

- Divide the class in half. One group will be interviewers and the others candidates. If you have an uneven number, double up on one of the interviewers. With a very large class you may want to have interviewers work in pairs, interviewing individual candidates together.
- Give each interviewer (or pair of interviewers) and each candidate a role card. Give them five minutes to prepare their questions and answers. Interviewers should think of questions to elicit whether candidates fit the profile of the ideal candidate.
- Arrange the class so that the interviewers for the different jobs aren't sitting too close together. They should have an empty chair across from or next to them for the candidates.
- Send one candidate to each interviewer or pair of interviewers, and tell them to start. Remind interviewers to take notes to help them to remember the strengths / weaknesses of each candidate. After exactly three minutes, stop the interviews and get the candidates to move on for another interview. Continue until each candidate has been interviewed for all the jobs, or until you run out of time.
- Give the interviewers time to decide who they thought was the best candidate, and get the candidates to discuss which job they think they would prefer.
- Finally, get the interviewers to say who they would like to offer the job to. The chosen candidate must say if he / she will accept the job or not. If a candidate is offered more than one job, he / she must choose between them, and the interviewer should select another candidate for the job.

b Role card for candidates

- care assistant at a retirement home
- bike messenger
- parking lot attendant
- assistant librarian

- What previous work experience do you have?
- How physically fit are you?
- What kind of work situation would you prefer (part-time / full-time / temporary / permanent)?
- Are you prepared to work overtime and on weekends?

2A COMMUNICATIVE All about English

- a Read the comments from around the world about learning or using English. Is the situation the same or different in your country? How do you feel about it?

“If you ask me, the one thing that would really improve the level of English here would be if they stopped dubbing all the American movies and TV shows, and had them in English with subtitles. But I don’t think they’ll ever do it. The politicians wouldn’t dare.”

Carla, Venice, Italy

“At a lot of secondary schools in my country, the main aim is to get the children to pass written exams in English—spoken English isn’t evaluated. I feel that’s a mistake because later on in life it’s more important to speak the language rather than write it.”

Raquel, Santiago, Chile

“Some of my friends have studied English abroad during summer vacation. The ones who did courses in the US when they were younger are the ones whose level of English is really good. Personally, I feel that if you haven’t studied English in an English-speaking country, you’re at a bit of a disadvantage.”

Ahmad, Riyadh, Saudi Arabia

“Some people don’t have the time or money to go to a language school to study English—I’m one of those. So, a few weeks ago I downloaded an app to help me learn English. I really like it—it lets me study whenever and wherever I want. And the downside? Perhaps that the app doesn’t really explain the grammar, but since I’ve never really liked grammar, that’s not a problem.”

Paolo, Rio de Janeiro, Brazil

“In my opinion, nowadays people in public life really ought to be able to speak good English. I feel really embarrassed when I hear how some of our politicians or public figures speak.”

Akiko, Osaka, Japan

“Personally, I think that pop groups in my country shouldn’t sing in English. I mean, I know it’s more universal, but they aren’t English, and not everybody in Hungary understands English. I think they should sing in Hungarian.”

András, Debrecen, Hungary

“In some secondary schools in my country they are now teaching other subjects like math and science in English, apart from the normal English language classes. In general, I think it’s a really good idea—as long as the teachers’ English is good, of course.”

Peng, Shanghai, China

“In French we use a lot of English words like weekend, news, leader, cool, OK—words like that. I personally hate it. I think we ought to use our own words for these things, not just borrow from English.”

Marc, Grenoble, France

3A COMMUNICATIVE Reconciliation?

Student A

You're Nicole and you went out with Steve for two years. About six months ago you mutually agreed to split up, but you have kept in touch. Recently, you've discussed the possibility of getting back together again. You've agreed to meet to talk through the reasons why you split up, and to see whether solutions can be found to make a reconciliation possible.

1 His appearance

When you first started going out, Steve always looked fantastic. Over the two years you were together, you felt he'd started to let himself go, e.g., he stopped going to the gym with you, gained a lot of weight, and started to wear any old thing—this wasn't the man you first fell in love with!

2 Helping in the house

You know that your way of doing things is the best way. It used to drive you crazy when Steve did things his way (the wrong way), e.g., when he was preparing a meal or doing the dishes. So, when you saw him doing things incorrectly, you'd try and put him right. Steve used to get very annoyed by this, but you can't see why. It's your area of expertise, after all.

3 Your friend Max

One of the main reasons why you split up was because Steve was jealous of your friendship with Max—your ex-partner. Although you get along really well with Max and he's one of your closest friends, you certainly don't have any romantic feelings for him any more. You meet Max about once a month for coffee, or to go to the movies (you and Max have the same taste in movies, unlike you and Steve).

4 The spoiled child

Steve has a nine-year-old daughter (Nina) from his previous marriage. He has Nina for a weekend every other weekend. You think she is immensely spoiled, manipulative, and badly behaved. Initially, you spent time as a threesome, but you felt this wasn't working so you used to go away with friends for the weekends when Steve had Nina.

Talk to Steve about these problems and try to find a way forward. Remember you want to get back together with him, so try to keep calm and don't lose your temper!

Student B

You're Steve and you went out with Nicole for two years. About six months ago you mutually agreed to split up, but you have kept in touch. Recently, you've discussed the possibility of getting back together again. You've agreed to meet to talk through the reasons why you split up, and to see whether solutions can be found to make a reconciliation possible.

1 Appearance

You think that when you're in a relationship, you need to be able to be yourself, and that includes your appearance, but Nicole was always going on about the clothes you wore and the fact that you weren't in such good shape as you used to be. Nicole still looks great, but you think she was rather obsessed with the gym, and that she spent a fortune on clothes.

2 Unwanted advice

You've managed to survive perfectly well all these years cooking and cleaning in your own way. One of the reasons you broke up with Nicole was because she was always telling you a "better" way of doing things (in other words, her way) when you hadn't asked her for advice, and it used to really get on your nerves.

3 Her ex

Nicole's ex-partner is called Max. They often go out to the movies, talk on the phone, and have coffee together. You don't understand why she still needs him in her life. You're not jealous of Max, it's just that you don't like him and you really don't think it's healthy for Nicole to stay in touch with him.

4 Your daughter

You have a nine-year-old daughter (Nina) from your previous marriage who you have every other weekend. Nina can be a bit difficult at times, and you know that you do tend to spoil her and need to be stricter—but that's only because you see her so little. You're aware that Nicole didn't get along with Nina, but you don't think she is very good with children and she didn't really give Nina a chance. She just started going off with friends when Nina was around. It is really important for you that Nina and Nicole get along.

Talk to Nicole about these problems and try to find a way forward. Remember you want to get back together with her, so try to keep calm and don't lose your temper!

0–17 You're a terrible time manager and really need to organize your time more effectively. How about setting yourself some goals and planning what to do each week? If you do this, you'll be able to see what you're doing with your time and you'll know what exactly needs to be done. You'll make more efficient use of your time. Honestly!

18–30 You sometimes have trouble finding time to relax and switch off from the stress of everyday life. How about developing some new strategies to help you with this? You could start by programming times during the day which are dedicated to checking / answering emails and messages (stick to those times!), or take up yoga or meditation. You'll soon notice the difference and find that you're more relaxed and making more efficient use of your time.

31–40 Congratulations! You're an excellent time manager and you really do know how to organize yourself and your time effectively. You know exactly where you're going and what needs to be done on a daily, weekly, and yearly basis. Keep on doing what you're doing!

6B COMMUNICATIVE Case studies

- a Read the case studies. Rate each one from 1–5 (1 = not very serious, 5 = very serious) according to the impact you think the obsession might have on their life.
- b Compare your score with a partner and try to justify it.

Case study 1

Mark, 23, is obsessed with his girlfriend Alison, who he's been going out with for over three years. Alison is very attractive and since the start of their relationship he's always been worried that she'll leave him for someone more interesting and better-looking. He sends her about 30 text messages a day and calls her incessantly on her cell phone. He admits to having hired a private detective a couple of months ago to make sure she wasn't cheating on him. Mark says, "I really love her."

Case study 2

Maggie, 20, is obsessed with the singer Taylor Swift. Swift has been her favorite performer ever since she saw her in New York in 2009. Since then she's been to see her more than 40 times, including a two-week vacation to Europe where she went to nine concerts in different cities. She spends all her money on Swift merchandise and music, and says she "just couldn't live without her—she knows how I feel about everything."

Case study 3

Phil, 25, has an "order" obsession. He puts all the books on his bookshelves in strict order according to their publication date. Similarly, all the magazines in the rack at his home have to be chronologically ordered. He admits to feeling "seriously stressed" if someone takes out a book or magazine and then puts it back in the wrong place.

Case study 4

Karen, 19, has been obsessed with "single food eating" for the last three years. Basically, this means she can only eat one certain food type at a time – that's to say she can't mix textures or flavors, and she has to brush her teeth after each different food she eats. So, for example, if she has chicken, potatoes, and peas, she will eat all the peas first, then all the potatoes, and finally the chicken.

Case study 5

Amanda, 29, has an obsession with germs. She is unable to shake hands with anyone because she knows that is how germs are transmitted from person to person. She can't even cope with holding her child's hand, or her partner's. She cleans the bathroom and kitchen twice a day from top to bottom, and won't have carpets or rugs in her house because she believes that this is where germs breed. She also disinfects all her daughter's toys every evening to prevent her catching anything.

Case study 6

Simon, 36, is obsessed with the Arizona Cardinals, the football team he supports. He goes to all their home games and travels all over the country to see them when they play away. All the rooms in his house are painted in red or white, the Cardinals colors, and there are pictures of the players, past and present, on all the walls. His two young boys are named after famous Cardinals players. His wife likes football and is a Cardinals fan but only goes to some of their home games. "The Cardinals are my life," says Simon.

Case study 7

Sean, 18, has had an obsession with car number plates since he was five or six years old. Whenever he sees a car, he automatically looks at the license plate and starts adding up the digits. "I find it impossible to watch a car go by without trying to see the license plate and adding up the numbers," he says.

Case study 8

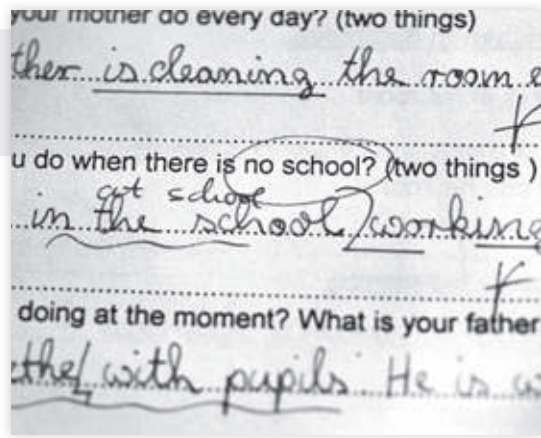

Maria, 28, is obsessed with going to the gym and healthy eating. She works the night shift at a call center. She sleeps during the morning and then spends every afternoon at the gym, six days a week. She works out in the weight room and also does aerobics or Spinning. She weighs herself three times a day. "If I've gained any weight, I have to spend another hour at the gym," says Maria.

7A COMMUNICATIVE Let's change the rules

a Read the following proposals and suggestions related to education. For each one decide whether you agree, disagree, or half-agree and why.

- 1 Teachers should not be allowed to use red pens to correct exercises because this is psychologically harmful to students.
- 2 Schoolchildren should not be given grades on tests, only general comments, so that they can't compare themselves with other children.
- 3 Secondary school teachers should never be made to teach more than four hours a day.
- 4 Children don't need to be "streamed" at school. Stronger pupils can learn as much in a class with weaker pupils as they would with those of their own level.
- 5 Handwriting should no longer be taught at school because it is irrelevant for children in the 21st century.
- 6 Competitive sports should be banned in schools, so that children's self-esteem is not affected by losing.
- 7 Science teachers should be paid more than arts teachers because it is much harder to recruit them.
- 8 Online learning and coursework can never totally replace traditional learning methods.
- 9 The people who decide on new education laws should be teachers, not politicians.
- 10 Parents ought to reward their children for passing exams, for example with a cash payment.
- 11 Children shouldn't have to memorize facts like multiplication tables and important historical dates because the information is now instantly available on the internet.
- 12 A university course is supposed to be enjoyable, not just a route to a better job.

b Compare your answers with your partner. Discuss the pros and cons of each statement.

7B COMMUNICATIVE Public art?

The Fourth Plinth is a block of stone in Trafalgar Square in central London. It was originally intended to hold an equestrian statue of King William IV (1765–1837), but remained bare due to insufficient funds. For over 150 years the fate of the plinth was debated. In 1999, a sequence of three contemporary artworks to be displayed on the plinth was announced. The success of this initiative led to a commission being formed to decide on a use for the plinth. Eventually that commission unanimously decided to continue using it for the temporary display of artworks. One of the most popular modern sculptures displayed there recently has been Gift Horse by Hans Haacke.

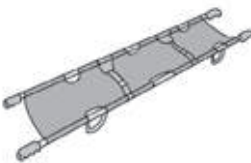

b Read about the Fourth Plinth and look at one of the modern sculptures exhibited there. Then answer the questions in small groups.

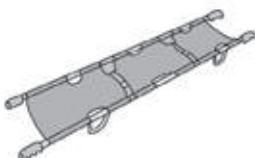

- 1 What do you think the sculpture on the Fourth Plinth represents? What do you understand the title to mean? Do you like the sculpture? Why (not)?
- 2 Are there any famous statues, sculptures, or monuments in the town where you live? Which ones do you particularly like or dislike? Why?
- 3 Imagine you were going to commission a new statue, monument, or piece of public art for your town / city. Answer these questions:
 - What should it represent? (e.g., a historical figure or event, something your town / city is famous for, a concept that represents your town / city)
 - How big would it be? What would it be made of?
 - Where would it be? Why?
 - Would it be temporary or permanent?

You're a travel agency representative at a popular tourist resort on the coast. The resort has several hotels, all of which are full because it's peak season. All hotels have swimming pools and cater to families. It's your first week in this job. You want to make sure you don't get anything wrong, and that you are very clear about any problems clients may have, so that there aren't any misunderstandings later on. You've been trained to use the customer's first name wherever possible in a conversation to personalize things more. You don't have much authority as yet—especially not when it comes to promising refunds.

B is a client who arrived at one of the resort's hotels last night and has asked to speak to you.

- You begin. Introduce yourself by your first name (Mark / Sandra) and ask what B's first name is.
- Remember to use it throughout the conversation! Ask how you can help B.
- Listen to B's complaints and ask for more specific details. Then rephrase and repeat the information back to B (to show you fully understand).
- Try to think of solutions, but under no circumstances promise any kind of discount or refund.

Role-play 2

You're a tourist on a one-week city break. Your trip was expensive and included transportation, a four-star hotel, and various excursions. You were not satisfied with the hotel and asked to be moved on the first day, which eventually you were. However, you are still unsatisfied for the following reasons:

- The restaurant at the new hotel is not very good (why?).
- There is no Wi-fi in your room, only in the lobby.
- The excursion to the museum was very unsatisfactory (why?).

B is the local travel agency representative. You don't feel that he / she was particularly sympathetic with your original problem with the first hotel, and today you're determined to make him / her take you seriously. You're not going to be satisfied with vague promises. You arranged to speak to him / her a few minutes ago and you want to have a long conversation.

- You begin. Inform B of your three new complaints, giving as many details as possible.
- Insist on B providing concrete solutions.
- Try to prolong the conversation as much as possible, and only accept the solutions you think are convincing.

Student B

Role-play 1

You're a tourist (Barry / Sophie Appleton). You arrived last night with your family at a popular tourist resort, and there are already three complaints you need to make:

- Your room is unsatisfactory (why?).
- The swimming pool is much smaller than the brochure showed, and is always crowded.
- Your children aren't happy with the Kids Club (why?).

A is the travel agency representative at the resort. He / She looks very young and inexperienced, so you're sure you are going to have the upper hand. You just hope he / she's not one of those over-friendly people who use your first name all the time (you hate that), and pretend they're listening to your complaints and then do absolutely nothing!

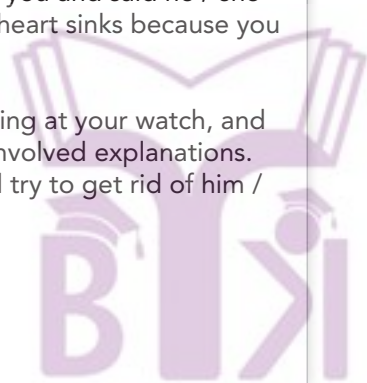

- A will start.
- Explain your three complaints. Be more specific if asked to be.
- Be firm, but without losing your temper. Demand some kind of financial compensation.
- Be prepared to accept other solutions as a last resort, however.

Role-play 2

You're a travel agency representative in a popular tourist city. You've just had the worst day of your life at work and you're about to finish an 18-hour shift. You are used to dealing with complaints, and know that the best way is to use a lot of vague expressions like "I'll get back to you on that one" or "I'll see what I can do."

A is a client of the travel agency and is in the city. He / She is a difficult client and complained on the first day about the hotel. You managed, with great difficulty, to get him / her moved to another hotel. A few minutes ago, A called you and said he / she needed to talk to you. Your heart sinks because you really want to go home.

- A will start.
- Listen to A, but keep looking at your watch, and try to cut short long and involved explanations.
- Make vague promises and try to get rid of him / her as quickly as possible.
